AN ACT

To reduce and fix the military peace establishment of the United States.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the first day of June next, the military peace establishment of the United States shall be composed of four regiments of artillery, and seven regiments of infantry, with such officers of engineers, of ordnance, and of the staff, as are hereinafter provided for.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That each regiment of artillery shall consist of one colonel, one lieutenant colonel, one major, one sergeant major, one quartermaster sergeant, and nine companies, one of which shall be designated equipped as light artillery; and that there shall be attached to each regiment of artillery one supernumerary captain to perform ordnance duty, and that each company shall consist of one captain, two first lieutenants, two second lieutenants, four sergeants, four corporals, three artificers, two musicians, and forty-two privates. That each regiment of infantry shall consist of one colonel, one lieutenant colonel, one major, one sergeant major, one quartermaster sergeant, two principal musicians, and ten companies; each of which shall consist of one captain, one first lieutenant, one second lieutenant, three sergeants, four corporals, two musicians, and forty-two privates; and that to each regiment of artillery and infantry there shall be one adjutant, who shall be taken from the subalterns of the line.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the corps of engineers (bombardiers excepted) and the topographical engineers and their assistants, shall be retained in service as at present organized.

Sec. 4. And be it further enacted, That the ordnance department shall be merged in the artillery; and that the President of the United States be, and he is hereby authorized to select from the regiments of artillery such officers as may be necessary to perform ordnance duties, who, while so detached, shall receive the pay and emoluments now received by ordnance officers, and shall be subject only to the orders of the War Department; and that the number of enlisted men in the ordnance department be reduced to fifty-six.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That there shall be one major general, with two aids de camp, two brigadier generals, each with one aid de camp; and that the aids de camp be taken from the subalterns of the line, and, in addition to their other duties, shall perform the duties of assistant adjutant general.

Sec. 6. And be it further enacted, That there shall be one adjutant general, and two inspectors general, with the rank, pay, and emoluments, of colonels of cavalry.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, that there shall be one quartermaster general; that there shall be two quartermasters, with the rank, pay, and emoluments of majors of cavalry; and ten assistant quartermasters, who shall, in addition to their pay in the line, receive a sum not less than ten dollars, nor more than twenty dollars per month, to be regulated by the Secretary of War.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That there shall be one commissary general of subsistence, and that there shall be as many assistant commissaries as the service may require, not exceeding fifty, who shall be taken from the subalterns of the line, and shall, in addition to their pay in the line, receive a sum not less than ten, nor more than twenty dollars per month; and that the assistant quartermasters, and assistant commissaries of subsistence, shall be subject to duties in both departments, under the orders of the Secretary of War.

Sec. 9. And be it further enacted, That there shall be one paymaster general, with the present compensation, and fourteen paymasters, with the pay and emoluments of regimental paymasters; and that there shall be one commissary of purchases, and two military storekeepers, to be attached to the purchasing department.

Sec. 10. And be it further enacted, That the medical department shall consist of one surgeon general, eight surgeons, with the compensation of regimental surgeons, and forty-five assistant surgeons, with the compensation of post surgeons.

Sec. 11. And be it further enacted, That the officers, non-commissioned officers, artificers, musicians, and privates, retained by this act, except those specially provided for, shall have the same rank, pay, and emoluments, as are provided in like cases, by existing laws; and that the force authorized and continued in service under this act shall be subject to the rules and articles of war.

Sec. 12. And be it further enacted, That the President of the United States cause to be arranged the officers, non-commissioned officers, artificers, musicians, and privates, of the several corps now in the service of the United States, in such manner as to form and complete out of the same the force authorized by this act, and cause the supernumerary officers, non-commissioned officers, artificers, musicians, and privates, to be discharged from the service of the United States.

Sec. 13. And be it further enacted, That there shall be allowed and paid to each commissioned officer who shall be discharged from the service of the United States in pursuance of this act, three months pay in addition to the pay and emoluments to which he may be entitled by law at the time of his discharge.

Sec. 14. And be it further enacted, That the system of "General Regulations for the Army," compiled by Major General Scott, shall be, and the same is hereby approved and adopted for the government of the army of the United States, and of the militia, when in the service of the United States.

JAMES MONROE.

AN ACT

To establish the district of Pearl river.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, from and after the first day of July next, all the bays, waters, and shores, on Lake Borgne and the Gulf of Mexico, and all the rivers emptying into the same, within the limits of the state of Mississippi, shall be a collection district, to be called the district of Pearl river; of which a port near the mouth of Pearl river, at such place as the President of the United States shall designate, shall be the port of entry; and a collector for the district shall be appointed, to reside at such place as the President shall direct, at or near the said port, who shall be entitled to receive, in addition to the fees and other emoluments established by law the annual salary of two hundred and fifty dollars.

March 2, 1821—Approved,
JAMES MONROE.

AN ACT

Confirming the location of the seat of government of the state of Illinois, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the four sections of land, including the section number sixteen, in township number six north, range number one east, of the third principal meridian, heretofore selected by commissioners appointed for that purpose, for the seat of government of the state of Illinois, be, and the same are hereby declared to be, confirmed to, and vested in the said state, for the purpose aforesaid.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the governor of said state be, and he is hereby authorized to select any unappropriated section in said township, for the use of the inhabitants thereof, which shall be in lieu of the said sixteenth section.

March 2, 1821—Approved,
JAMES MONROE.

AN ACT

Establishing the salaries of the Commissioners and Agents appointed under the treaty of Ghent.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That from and after the first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-one, each Commissioner now appointed, or who may be appointed agreeably to the provisions of the treaty of Ghent, shall be entitled to receive at the rate of twenty-five hundred dollars per annum; and each agent appointed, or who may be appointed, as aforesaid, shall be entitled to receive at the rate of twenty-five hundred dollars per annum; which said sums so allowed to said officers, respectively, shall be a full compensation for services and all personal expenses incurred while in the performance of the duties of their respective offices: Provided, That the compensation by this section allowed shall not be continued longer than two years from the said first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-one.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That each commissioner and agent shall not be entitled to receive for services performed in their respective offices, before the said first day of January, one thousand eight hundred and twenty-one, any greater sum than the rate of four thousand four hundred and forty-four dollars per annum, which shall be considered a full compensation for services and all personal expenses incurred while in the discharge of their respective duties.

Sec. 3. And be it further enacted, That the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars be, and the same is hereby, appropriated for the payment of the salaries of the said commissioners and agents, and for the expenses under the several commissions under the treaty of Ghent, for the present year.

March 3, 1821—Approved,
JAMES MONROE.

AN ACT

To authorize the collectors of customs to pay debentures issued on the exportation of loaf sugar and spirits distilled from molasses.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all debentures which have been, or may hereafter be, issued upon the exportation of spirits distilled from molasses, or sugar refined within the United States, shall be payable within thirty days after the passing of this act, or thirty days after the date of their issue, as the case may be, and shall be discharged by the collector of the customs, by whom they may have been, or shall be, issued, out of the product of the duties upon imports and tonnage; any thing in any act or acts of Congress, to the contrary notwithstanding.

March 3, 1821—Approved,
JAMES MONROE.

AN ACT

For contingent expenses of the same, fourteen thousand dollars.

For completing the equipment of the vessels constructed in pursuance of the act authorizing the building of a certain number of small vessels of war, ten thousand dollars.

For the purpose of enabling the Secretary of the Navy to remove obstructions placed in the river Thames, in Connecticut, by the commander of the American ships during the late war, one hundred and fifty dollars.

Sec. 2. And be it further enacted, That the several appropriations herein before made shall be paid out any money in the Treasury, not otherwise appropriated.

March 3, 1821—Approved,
JAMES MONROE.

Ceremony of a Russian Marriage.

Of all nations, the Russians behave the most wisely in the circumstance of jealousy. The wife promises her husband never to let him see her transgressions; and he as punctually promises, whenever she is detected, without the least anger, to beat her without mercy; so they both know what they have to expect. The lady transgresses, is beaten, taken again into favor, and all goes on as before. When a Russian young lady therefore is to be married, her father, with a cudgel in his hand, asks the bridegroom whether he chooses this virgin for his bride? to which the other replies in the affirmative. Upon which the father, turning the lady three times round, and giving her three strokes with the cudgel on the back, "My dear," cries he, "these are the last blows you are ever to receive from your tender father. I resign my authority and my cudgel to your husband; he knows better than me the use of either." The bridegroom knows decorum too well to accept of the cudgel abruptly; he therefore assures the father that the lady will never want it, and that he would not for the world make any use of it. But the father who knows what the lady might want better than he did, insists upon his acceptance. Upon this there follows a scene of Russian politeness, while one offers and the other refuses the cudgel. The whole, however ends with the bridegroom's taking it, upon which the lady craves a courtesy in token of obedience, and the ceremony proceeds as usual.

day of the Speech, was filled with Ladies, Perfumes, their daughters, &c.
"At an early hour the centre of the streets leading from Carlton-house to Westminster, was strewn with gravel, and soon after one, the same avenues were lined with files of the Royal Horse Guards. The crowd assembled on this occasion was immense, and of course, consisted of persons of all descriptions.
"The windows of the houses in Pall-mall, Docks-pur-street, and Charing-cross, were filled with Ladies and Gentlemen of respectable appearance, who waited with great patience for a considerable space of time, to witness the splendid spectacle. The larger portion of the multitude, however, was collected in Waterloo-place, immediately opposite the Carlton-house, in order to have a view of His Majesty as he came forth.
"Precisely at half-past one, the western windows of the Palace were thrown open and the head of the cavalcade advanced. It consisted as usual of a detachment of the Royal Horse Guards. This was immediately followed by four carriages, drawn by six horses each, in which were the principal officers of His Majesty's household. Next came His Majesty, preceded by a guard of honour, and the usual number of running footmen and page attendants, and followed by a strong body guard. His Majesty looked in excellent health and spirits, and was dressed in the full dress uniform of a Field-Marshal.
"The moment His Majesty's carriage was recognised, the great majority of the individuals assembled, took off their hats in the most respectful manner, and the Ladies in the windows and balconies waved their hands, and looked with a marked enthusiasm. At the number of the Haymarket there was a spontaneous cheer, which was loudly re-echoed from the crowd in Pall-mall. This seemed to irritate a few ladies and gentlemen whose appearance did not seem to give value to their opinions, and they set up a faint cry of "The Queen, the Queen." This met with very little support, and although frequently repeated, was productive of no other effect than to increase the manifestations of loyalty among the respectable part of the population.
"From the Horse Guards the manifestations of loyalty continued to accompany His Majesty until he reached the entrance of the House of Lords, where the acclamations of the crowd were unbounded. One or two individuals only had the audacity to hiss. At the moment His Majesty alighted, the guns of the Westminster Bridge battery fired a royal salute, the band of the Guards playing the great national anthem.

At the request of Mr. James Henry, of Richmond, we publish verbatim et literatim a document, which he has just furnished us. He omits to state his political tenets and his prominent qualities. But we think it can be sufficiently gathered from the notice, that any deviation from rectitude, might as fairly be ascribed to the Unders of his head, as the Unders of his heart.

POETRY.

BY THE MASSACHUSETTS SPT.

No, I will weep no more—
Pour on; I will endure.

Bring forth its flowers—its hour of bloom,
Its balmy airs of odoriferous sigh;
While they shed their sweet perfume;
And while—white, and fade, and die
And wintry storms the sky obscure,
When rag'd the tempest, still I've said,
"Pour on; I will endure."

With all its pleasures—brightly beam,
On fancy's eye, life's flowery ways;
And love at hand, with fairy gleam,
Which tempt throw off distant days,
When I've seen those prospects fade,
Though youth had deem'd the promise
sure;
"Midst the wreck of feeling said,
"Pour on; I will endure."

What may be happy—I have known,
When pleasure's cup I freely quaff'd,
When joy's bright sunshine round me shone,
Unbasted sorrow's bitter draught,
And deadly persecution sped—
Her poisonous shafts, with aim too sure,
Had withered—yet I said,
"Pour on; I will endure."

What is a shadow—soon the sun
Shall cast it to the earth shall set;
And man, a few brief glasses run,
His joys and sorrows shall forget.
There is hope when life is fled,
Of blissful realms and pleasures pure;
And in that hope, through life, I've said,
"Pour on; I will endure."
