Awful Calamity.

A most destructive fire has laid a con siderable portion of our town in ruins. The desolation commenced on Wednes day night last, a little before 10 o'clock, in a wooden kitchen attached to Dr. Mar-tin's medicine store and dwelling, on Main street, and is supposed to have originated in the carelessness of some of the servants in leaving a lighted torch sticking in the weather boarding; it was not disco-vered until the flames had made such progress as to baffle every effort to check them and in a little time they communicated to. the dwelling, and also to the rear of the two adjoining buildings on each side of it. The building adjoining Dr. Martin's on the east side was the one so long known by the appellation of Rourk's Hotel, which was then untenanted, and the next beyond that being an elevated fire proof house, (owned and occupied by Mr. Geo. White) formed a barrier to the fiery element; while it met with no interruption on the west side until it reached the corner of Talbot street, when it was providentially pre vented from extending in that direction-Livery house, however, on east side of Talbut street, with the exception of Mr. Joseph Vanholt's dwelling, (which owed its preservation to a slated roof) was either consumed or blown up, and all those on Mirchell's and Willlock's lanes with one exception in the former) shared the same

There were, as well as we could ascer tain, 41 tenements, or probably about 100 buildings of different descriptions destroyed; be should estimate the amount at about 200,000. The principal proprietors were Mr. Andrew Martin, Miles King, esq. Mr. Brancis Smith, capt. Ott, Wm T. Nivison esq. Mr. Thomas. Willook, Mrs. Cowan, Mr. Boush; Mrs. Coleman, and Mrs. Elbeck. We understand that not one-fourth of the value of houses destroyed was insured. The number of families who were thus dispossessed of their dwelllings and left without a home, was 34. The distress and embarrassment of their situation will be as readily commisserated by every feeling heart.

port has been made to the legislature of New York, (through the comptroller) by the commissioners appointed to settle with Mr. Tompkins, as late governor of that state. The Albany Argus very properly observes - It is difficult to give an analysis to the report.—The commissioners did not conceive that they had the power or time to make a settlement within the periad allowed in the resolution by which they were appointed. The report reflects credit upon the gentlemen who made it. It bestows merited eulogium upon the lafe governor's services during the war, and, in our mind, exculpates the excellent and worthy officer, who is the subject of it, from the suspicion and blame with which eavy and ignorance have attempted to slur the brilliancy and usefulness of his official acts. 29

The Chevalier DE ONIS, the Minister of Spain, and his family, have departed from the seat of government, for one of the Northern ports, to take their passage turn home. In noticing his departure, it is no more than just to say, that in the midst of trying scenes; in maintaining a correspundence with our government, in which he had large pretensions to assert, and strong popular prejudice to encounter, his personal deportment, in official as well as in private circles, has been such as to entitle him to the entire respect of those who had an opportunity of observing it. While he has stedfastly maintained the ground prescribed to him by the governinent, he has never, to our knowledge, in his intercourse with our government, or our fellow-citizens, forgotten for a moment, the character and obligations of a gentleman, but has invariably maintained the one and performed the other. Thus much, which we have refrained from saving whilst he was present, is no more than is due to him on his departure from amongst us. Nat. Int.

On the 19th March was executed at Schoha ie' pursuant to his sentence, John Van Alstyne, for the murder of sheriff Huddleston. At the place of execution, his conduct was decent and composed— He joined in all the religious exercises on the occasion; and in his address to the spectators, (the number of whom cas from 10 to 12,000.) he said he was brought to his present wretched situation by an unrestrained indulgence of his passions; and that he was satisfied with the justice of his sentence. He admonished them to resect on his awful situation, and to remem-ber his last dying words. His body was delivered to his friends, and a funeral sermon preached at his interment, by the Rev. Mr. Linter. Albany Argus.

Curious Roguery .- On Wednesday rusband, who posted off to the Newark. Bridge to enquire if any person had passed with a bundle. Being answered in the ne-gative, the landlord hasted home, and with a lighted lantern went to his stables to examine there. Here he discovered a person richly clad in woman's apparel, with a silk coat on as an outer garment-and a little way off a bundle nicely tied up with a lady's bonnet and lace veil, ready for a journey. Her ladyship soon moved from her couch of hay; and though ordered to stop mounted the fence like a deer. The landlord thinking this Adonis, was not without her beat, secured the bundle as well as the lace vail and bonnet, and gave the alarm to those in the house. For a time no one was seen or further discovery made. On opening the bundle, it was found to contain the clothes of a man who some weeks previous had been Ostler to the tavern keeper. The streets were patroled for some time in vain, till the crash of a rear garden fence proclaimed that some one was passing; thither the landlord hasted, and had again the sight of a person dressed in silk apparel, whom he saw enter a back door of a certain dwelling house. En-trance was demanded, but for some time refused. At last the door was opened, and in conjunction with several neighbours, search was made but in vain, except find. ing a silk coat in the cellar. An escope seemed impossible as the house was literally surrounded. On the point of giving up all further search, a goose pen was discovered aside the dwelling house. One of the company suggested examining that place doubted—there had been no fire made. The family protested against disturbing nor workmen employed in the building the pen, as there were two geese setting there. The goose house was examined—and who was here? The feathered race made no cry against their nocturnal visitors. But here was the Dandy himself, who entreated for mercy. Whilst in the tance in the country, and returned but a cellar he had put on a coat and pantaloons few hours after the establishment was in over his silks; and by removing a stone in a cellar wall got into the goose pen, and by replacing the stone excited no suspicion The parties went off to a Magistrate's and on unstripping our modern Bandy, there were found on him a lady's linnen, two flannel petticoats, one cambric and two silk gowns. The hero of the story is named James Mitchel, a Scotchman. He confessed the theft, and was sent to prison for trial. The person who harboured Mitchel, has given bail for his appearance at the next sitting of the court.

One of the Pavilions in the north wing of Monticello House, lately caught fire but happily Monticello House, lately caught fire but happily, its ravages were soon checked by the neighbors, who rushed to the spot, and assisted in putting out the fire by throwing in ice from the ice house. The main dwelling itself was saved by great exertion from impending destruction. Mr. Jefferson received a slight personal injury during the scene. The Fredericksburg Herald, in noticing this event adds, that the "dwelling house of Mr. Jess Lewis, about two miles he house of Mr. Jesse Lewis, about two miles be yond Charlottesville; and Carr's Brook, the seat of Dabney Minor, Esq. of the same county, were both burnt about the same time."-Balt. ## Swindler Taken!

A man by the name of captain Smith alias Mr. Yates, alias Mr. Danver, alias Mr. Dade, who was lately advertised as a swindler in the Richmond Enquirer, was examined and committed to prison, in Norfolk, on the 51st ult.

Philadelphia, Aprll 12.

The Furnace of Oliver Evans, situate at the confluence of Vine-street and the Ridge Road, was destroyed by FIRE about two o'clock yesterday afternoon. The loss of Mr. Evans in Moulds alone, is estimated at 15,000 dollars. An adjoining brick building was also consumed.

That this great destruction of property was caused by an evil hand cannot be since Tuesday last, which had been al ways carefully guarded, with the excep-tion of Saturday night and Sunday morning, when the man who usually performed this duty, had occasion to go a short disruins.

During the fire a wooden shed in a board yard opposite, which had become covered with spectators, sunk under the weight and fell to the ground with an alarming crash; but we did not learn that any person was materially injured.

About 3 o'clock yesterday morning the stable attached to the summer manson of Mr. W. W. Smith, in Market near Schuylkill Third street, was discovered to be on fire; an alarm being given it was soon got under. This is the fourth stable that has been fired within as many days in this city, and strong reasons exists to suppose by design.

The person who kindled the fire, which lately destroyed the foundery of Oliver Evan's, Esq. was arrested and committed to prison on Friday last. It turns out that was an apprentice, in the last year of his time, belonging to the establishment. Bur. Mirror.

Nature's care of animals .- The horse the deer, and pirds, double their covering in the beginning of the cold season, and shed it in the spring when a warm garment is no longer serviceable. The beaver removed to the lower latitudes, changes its fur, and the sheep its wool, for a coarse hair, to allow the escape of heat. The coarse and black shag of the hear, on the contray, is converted in arctic regions into the finest and whitest fur, to retain the vital flame-In short, the softness and density hair in animals, seems always in propor-tion to the coldness of the country. The Canadian and Russian furs are therfore, better than the furs of climates farther removed from the north. During Mr. Sydney's stay in France, ne day hunting with the French king, and being mounted on a fine English horse whose form and spirit caught the king's eye, he received a message that he would please to oblige the king with his horse, at his own price. He answered, that he did not chuse to part with him. The king determined to have no denial; and gave orlers to tender him money, or to seize the horse: which being made known to Sydney, he instantly took a pistol and shot him, saying, "That his horse was born a free creature, had served a free man, and should not be mastered by a king of slaves.

A man of rank, remarkably unpleasing in his countenance and figure, was married (according to custom, without having first seen her unveiled) to a lady whose pretensions to personal attractions did not exceed his own. On the morning after their marriage, she demanded of him to whom of her friends she might show her face with freedom? "Show it;" said he, "to all the world, but hide it from me." "Patience," rejoined the lady. "I have none," returned the bridegroom. "Ah!" said she, "I think you must have a good share, since you have carried that abominable great nose about with you all your life time."

Official accounts, received at Havana from Caraccas, state, that Gew. Morillo reviewed, on the 50th of January, a great part of the army, which was assembled on the plains of San Fernando de Apure, with intent to commence the operations of the campaign. The general was highly pleas-ed with the fine appearance, strict discipline and elegant evolutions of the army then assembled, and considered it the most formidable that had ever trod the soil of Venezuela. On the 1st of February, the army moved from San Fernando de Apure and on the 2d and 3d forced the passages of the Rivers Auraca and Canjaral, which son, New Orleans, and Doct. Captain Briggs, of the transcriber telsev. arrived at Norfolk ou Pagedby last, in 9 days from Bermuda, states, that the mitmerous depredations committed recently. by Carthagenian privateers couising off that Island, on British and American vessels, had induced the Governor to send or a two eighteen gun brigs, to cruise for the protection of shipping, bound in and out, with first actions to capture every vessel this description that they fell in with. The brigs came out in company with the Betsey. Several American vessels were boarded and robbed by these picaroons, a short time before the B. sailed, and one of the crew had actually been flogged to death for remonstrating with some severity against their enormities. No papers were brought by the Betsey.

By a gentleman from St. Thomas, we are lavored with tire following state of alfairs on the Spanish Maine.

Margaretta, March 17, 1819.

We learn that affairs art: going on very prosperously in that quarter. On the 6th of March, near Casaugua, the army of Morillo was attacked by Gen. Pias, who cornpletely defeated the Royalists wit!, tile loss of 600 killed on the field-no pi-isoners. Loss of the Patriots 64 killed. Morilo and his army were so situated that a retreat was impossible; and that Gen. Bolivar was only waiting for a division of 2500 English troops, which was ascending the Oronoco to join him, when the destruction of Morillo and his army would be merita-

Oudinette; will be 600 strong, 300 English and 300 natives, assisted by the squadron, consisting of 15 sail well inanned and equipped, under the command of admiral Brion. Generals Ordinettte and Valdes with colonel Needham and several other officers of distinction, had arrived at Juan Griego, from Augustura, to join the expedition. Admiral Brion had sailed on the 14th in pursuit of the royal squadron, and on the 16th chased them into Cuniana Bay, when a cannonading took place aild continued the whole day; the result of tile, attack was not known. The independence of Venezuela will be completed tu a certainty the ensuing compaign—the resources of the patriots in men, money and every thing, are great.

ANECDOTE-FACT.

A very genteel, impudent-looking young man was seen to enter a church in time of service—he paused at the entrance—the congregation ne pansed at the entrance—he congregator stared—he advanced a few steps, and deliberately surveying the whole assembly, commenced a slow march up the broad aisle, not a pew was opened—the audience were too busy for civility—he wheeled, and in the same manner, performed a march, stepping, as if to Roslin Castle, or 'the dead march in Saul, and disappeared. A few moments after, he re-entered with a huge block upon his shoulders, as heavy as he could well stagger under, his countenance was immovable—again the good people stared, and half rose from their seats, with their books. At length he placed the block in the very centre of the principal passage, and seated himself upon it. Then for the first time, the reproach was felt! Every pew door in the house was instantly, flung open but there for disturbance—he moved not; smiled not there for disturbance—he moved not; smiled not the preserved the utmost decorum, until the stared-he advanced a few steps, and deliber not but preserved the utmost decorum, until the service was concluded, when he deliberately shouldered his block, and to the same alow step bore it off, and replaced it where he had found fore it off, and replaced it. The congregation is now the most politicand attentive to strangers of any in America.
