A young man on the point of marriage was drawn for the militia in Loraine - In despair he applied to the count de Mirry, captain of the regiment who, in compassion gave his word that the service should not exceed one year. The term expired, the captain explained to the colonel, and requested the man's discharge, which the colonel flatly refused; as he said the subject was an excellent soldier, and did credit to the corps. Next day he was surprised when the captain waited on him in the soldier's attire knapsack and musket, with this address: " My colonel, as the word of a gentleman is sacred and I have pled ged mine that this man shall only serve for a year, here is my commission of captain, which I resign, and am ready to serve in his place." The colonel with shame and amazement signed the discharge.

The Commodore's wound is in time way, and he will, it is expected, be able walk as well as ever in two or three weeks. His wound was much nearer being mortal than eport had made it; a hair's breadth would have pren sufficient to have given the ball a fatal di ection; and nerhaps it was owing to the circum-stance of his standing square to the front (in the military phrase) that his life was saved. If his sile had been presented, even in a small degree. the probability is that the ball, after striking the his bone, would have glanced a contrary way and perforated the abdomen, or if the ball had struck the eighth of an inch further to the left, the wound must have been mortal.

We understand the Governor has lately re ceived an application to release from the Penitentiary, a convict by the name of Peter Louis. This application comes from Messrs. Barker, Girard, and a number of the most respectable merchants in the city of Philadelphia, and states that the family of this unfortunate man is one of the most respectable in France—that his own character is known to them, and has been irreproachable-and that a large estate has been left him by deceased relatives. These circumstances have led to an enquiry into his history; and it is marked by events so novel, as to excite no small degree of interest in his unhappy fate. It appears that he was born in Orleans, in France—that he Of South American affairs we learn, from a served seven years as a grenadier in the armies highly intelligent source, that a corps of Arti, of Napoleon, in Egypt, Italy, and elsewhere. DEAR EDWARD, Industry will be in vain, great care to do every thing at the proper time, and in the best gess prudence presides over your disbursements, and all your expenditures are regulated by the suggestions of an enlightened economy. This therefore, will be the subject of the present let ter. There are some persons, I might say many who seem to have no talent for taking care of, and preserving the fruits of their labor; they will toil incessantly and faithfully till they nearly accomplish their object, and then by a fiftle negligence, for the want perhaps of a few minutes additional exertion, lose the whole, or agreat part of what they supposed was effected.

agreat part of what they supposed was effected. Your recollection will supply you, I have no doubt, with many cases in point, I will not therefore particularize. I need not, I presume, remark upon such extreme folly; it must necessably present itself as such to your mind, and I hope produce its proper effect.—If however losters are not sustained in this way, but the fruit of your industry by good management converted into cash, the next consideration and an iminto cash, the next consideration and an important: one is, how shall it be appropriated;—at this point perhaps a majority of young men err, many of them most egregiously, their funds are expended for that which profiteth little or mought. Your means with the best improvement must for a while at least be limited, and it will heliove you to turn them all to the best account.

There are three classes of objects on which wo-fier may be expended—those of necessity, those of convenience, and those of luxury. You certainly ought not to desitate for a moment which first to secure, and if you will allow a little time for reasonable reflection you cannot be much at allows to which class to refer objects presented to your consideration. You must have food and ament, the implements of your profession stock to operate, &c. You must pay taxes, con fribute your share to the support of the Gospel Sunday Schools, and little commendable charitable institutions in the neighborhood, you must equip yourself as a militia man, for I am by no means disposed to excuse these latter contribu-tions in a young man in good health.—I consi-der them what the community have a moral, if not a legal right, to require at their hands, a fufficient portion of the avails of your business hust therefore be set aside for these indispensi-She is of low at the purposes, before you look with too much dentirely gone, an free even upon what may properly enough be stimony, by while free before you purchase any of the sure that all of the first class are in hand or the stimony.

Extracts of letters to the Editor, datel Washington, April 22, 189.

"The bill changing the mode of disposing of he Public lands, has passed the House by a ote of 133 to 23 and may be considered as a law.

A bill has passed the House granting a longer time for the redemption of land sold for diect taxes, where the United States was the purcuser, and no doubt will receive the sanctiol of the Senate.

The Senate have passed a bill appropriaing under the direction of the President $60,000 for the purpose of building a number of shall vessels of war (not exceeding seven) to carry twelve guns each.

The bill to provide for cloathing the army of the United States in domestic manufactures, which came from the Senate, has passed the House with amendments. The principal amend ment is the introduction of a proviso stipulating that the cost of the domestic article shall not exceed by more than 5 per cent. that of the foreign.

committee of the whole; whereupon the House resolved itself into a committee of the whole up on them, Mr. Taylor in the chair,

The hill having been read through, Mr. Baldwin delivered a speech of between two and three hours, in which he took an able view of the pro visions of the bill, dilating in a clear and intel-inible manner the present distresses of the country, the causes which have led to it, and the necessity of such a change in our policy as will encourage aild protect the industry of the country. He occupied ground from which it appears to me it is impossible to drive him.

gone through-many amendments bill have been but almost all of them rejected; among the numher were motions to reduce the proposed duty on har iron, salt, molasses, coffee, glass, and a valiety of other articles. A proposition to reduce the contemplated charge of 55 to 20 per cent. ad valorem on printed books succeeded by a small najority. As it is probable that these unsuccessful motions will be renewed in the house, and the eyes and noes taken; I reserve a more particular notice of them till that time.

Upon the question bring stated that the conimittee rise and report the bill, Mr. Tyler moved to strike ou the first section with a view of ying its principle. The proposition being stated the committee rose reported progressing the main debate on again. On Monday therefore, the main debate on the merits of the system will commence, and probably continue two or three days. Owing to the lateness of the session and the general anxiety to close it-I do not believe that a protracted one will be countenanced. Present appearances justify in my mind an opinion that the bill will pass the house, and the friends of it in the senate speak very sanguinely of its success

For three days past we have had an unusual degree of heat for the season. The thermometer has ranged between 80 and 90 and has been as high as 88 degrees in the shade.

April 25. THE NEW TARIFF-MANUFACTURES, &c. "Congress are now employed on au impor tant topic.-In the House the three bills report ed by the committee on manufactures are under consideration. The bills you will recollect are 1st, a revision of the tariff-2d, cash and diminished length of credits for duties on merchan-dize imported; and a third, the imposition of du-ties on safes at auction—As these bills belong to the same family of measures, are! considered constituent parts of the same system, they are all in view in the discussion, Ict the immediate question be what it may.

There seems to be a disposition to give the debate a wide range, the welfare of all the great interests of the nation, the revenue, arid the folicy of ttie government, are passed in review before the audience. The great questions at is. sue are, shall we continue to foster commerce by legislative facilities, with a view of drawing near-ly all our revenue from duties on imports, under the idea that the prosperity of the agriculturists depend on it? or shall we so far change our system, as to hold out the requisite inducements to our manufacturing and mechanical industry, to enable the most essential branches of it successfully to compete 'with rival articles from abroad, even though such an arrangement might effects of such a system will be on the agriculture of the country?

The following have been the proceedings, and course of debate since my last. Yesterday Mr. Tyler's motion to strike out the first section of the tariff bill, (to destroy it) being under consideration, the mover delivered a speech of about an hour in favor of his proposition. It was pretty much an argumentum ad hominem (the manufacturers.) He did not, in my judgment, meet fairly Mr. Baldwin on the ground which he assumed, that of national policy. Mr. T. is a sensible nan and a pleasant speaker, but in this instancedid not equal the expectation of his friends. Mr. Storrs followed on the opposite side, maintaining with his usual ability the indispensible necessi ty of a change of policy; in the course of which he predicted with a great deal of confidence, that this congress would not dissolve before system of internal revenue would be adopted. that the idea of being able hereafter to derive sufficient revenue to meet the exigencies of the government from imports was utterly chimerical, and that the necessity of looking inwards for the deficiency would ere long be apparent to ment of duties on merchandize imported," taken up. Mr. Baldwin explained the views of the com-mittee in bringing in this bill. Mr. Silsbee after a speech of considerable length, in which he manifested an intimate acquaintance with com-mercial transactions, moved to strike out the first section of this bill likewise, being atterly repugnant to the principle of it.—Mr. Lowndes spoke very earnestly, and with rather less equanimity than usual for him, in favor of Mr. Silshee's proposition. Mr. Clay (speaker) replied to Silshee and Lowndes, in an earnest and animated manner. Mr. Lowndes rejoined. Mr. Baldwin next rose, and after speaking some time, an alarm of fire produced confusion, the committee rose, and the House adjourned.

To-day Mr. Baldwin concluded his argument in favor of the bill. Mr Johnson and Mr. Whitman next spoke in succession on the posite-side; the latter gentleman at length. Mr. Trim-ble replied also at length, in which he stated, among other things, that the present system of measures unnaturally pushed forward commerce beyond the importance which it would have, if, according to the principles of his opponents, things were left to regulate themselves and that this hot-bed nurture of commerce had the direct The House yesterday reached in due course effect of depressing the manufacturing interest the bills reported by the committee on Manufactures, all of which were referred to the same cording to this "let alone" doctrine occupy, &c. THE TARIFF.

The House were early in committee this morning, when upon a motion to rise and report the Tariff bill, a when upon debate ensued which consumed tile remainder of the day without deciding the question. The debate involved the whole subject: Messrs. Alexander antl Archei; two young gentlemen and new members from Virginia, spoke successively against the bill, the latter at length Mr. Clay followed in a speech of upwards two hours on the opposite side. He was truly great on the subject, and I have no doubt but that this speech will pass for one of his best. After a few observations from Mr. Smith of Maajland, a d Mr. Clay in reply, on motion of Mr Barbour who is entitled to the floor to morrow— the committee rose and obtained leave to sit again. There is as much difficulty in calculating when the ses-sion will terminate as there was two weeks 2000.

Spanish Constitution.

The leading features of the Constitution, to which Perdinand has declared his determination to swear, are as follows.

The Supreme power is in the hands of the people, who alone have authority to make fundamental laws. Every citizen of the state is bound to sunnoot the public burthens, and to defend his country. The legislative power is exercised by a Cortes, formed anew every two years. The sittings of this Cortes are public, and the persons of its members are inviolable. The King may refuse his consent to a law, but only for two years.—If it is agreed on for the third time by the Cortes, he must grant his consent to it at the close of the sittings of the Cortes. A certain number of the members remain assembled to call it together in cases of necessity. The executive poer is in the hands of the king. His person is inviolable; but he is not able without the consent of the Cortes, either to leave the kingdom, marry, abdicate, or make any cessions, conclude any alliances, or enter into any negociations for subsidies. He can grant especial privileges to tions for subsidies. He can grant especial privileges to no one, and has not the power arbitrarily to punish any man. The ministers are responsible. Besides the ministers, there is a council of state. The judicial power if entirely independent; no man can be deprived of the right of a lawful trial. The freedom of the press, with suitable guarantees, is secured. The constitution regulates the order of succession, and provides that the Cor tes shall have power to exclude from the succession and person incapable of governing, or who shall have don; any thing to merit being deprived of the crown

At a party last night in this city, where many of the members of the foreign diplomatic corp were present, it was distinctly observed, that no exchange of civilities passed between our heads of departments and the individuals composing the Spanish legation. Straws show, &c.

From the Baltimore Federal Republican, April 26.

To the Humane.—A woman calling herself ulia Aun Lybia, came to Baltimore on Saturday week, having in her possession a boy, of about four years old, whom she called William Lybia, and said he was her son-but from a series of circumstances which have since been developed, it appears the woman is an impostor, and the child has been stolen from New York.

The woman is tall, hatchet faced, and by birth French, but talks the English tolerably well, and has been in a state of continued inebriety since her arrival here. She however states, that she lived at No.155, Anthony street, in a frame house and the boy, who is more than usually intelligent, says he lived in Entre street, in a stone house, and was taken out of the cellar by this woman, and that his name, before she stole him, was William M'Donough Lavis.

The child has been inhumanly beaten by this most depraved of her sex, probably in order to train him as an assistant in begging, but is now detached from her by order of the Hon. Judge M. Mechen, and is in possession of the subscriber, at the Seven Stars, Second street, Baltimore, where any information respecting this mysterious affair, will be thankfully received, by THOS. H. WESTLEY.

LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

Norfolk, April 19.

Capt. Wheeler, of the ship Philip. Tabb, from Liverpool, left that place March 10th, but brought 30 papers—he informs that there was nothing new in the political world, of which we have not dready been advised.

The conspirators had heen tried, and Thistle-wood, and seven or eight others had been found guilty of high treason and committed to the tower. It was confidently asserted without contra-liction, that it was through the artifices of the ministers themselves that this quasi treason wad got up, their object being to acquire popularity fiir their extraordinary vigilance in maintaining the peace of the country, and to furnish themselves with a pretext to strengthen their powers. This sentiment was confirmed by the recent con-Fession of a fellow by the name of Oliver who was active in exciting the lower classes in Rome of the towns to rebellion, and who in the enti berayed them to the government—Oliver is said to have acknowledged that he was employed by he Ministry.

Female courage. - The Gazette of Augsburgh gives a singular account of presence of mind in the daughter of a game keeper, residing in a so-litary house at Weilheim. Her father and the rest of the 'amily had gone to church, when there appeared at the door an old man apparent-ly half dead with cold. Feeling for his situation. she let hiin in, and went into the kitchen, to prepare him some soup. Through a window which communicated from the room she had left him in with the kitchen, ehe perceived he had dropped the beard he had on when fie entered, that he now appeared a robust man; and that he was pacing the chamber with a poignard in his hand.
- Finding no mode of escape, she armed herself with a chopper in one hand and the boiling soup in the other, and entering the room where he was, first threw the soup in his face, and afterwards struck hiin a blow on the neck with the hatchet which deprived him of sense - At this' moment a fresh knock at the door occasioned hey to look out of the window, when she saw a strange hunter, who demanded admittance, and, on her refusal, threatened to-break open the door; she immediately got her father's gun, and as he was proceeding to put his threat into execution, she shot him through the right shoulder, on which he took to the forest; Half an hour after, a third person came and asked after an old man who must hare passed that way. She said she knew nothing of him: and after useless menaces, if she did nat open the door, he also proceeded to beat it in, when she shot him dead on the snot. The excitement of her courage being now at an end, her spirits began to eink, and she fired shots, and screamed from the .window, until some gens d'armes came to her; but she would not open the door until the return of her father.

Paris papers, received by the ship Brandt at Philadelphia, state. that letters received from Marseilles of the 23d ult. contain the following: -" The civil authority fearing the excess which might once more imbrue with blood the soil of our unhappy city, have multiplied their powers and precautions. For these few days past 800 men liave been under arms and numerous paheen pretty tranquil; thanks to the firmness of the magistrates who govern us. But the most horrible menaces are heard in every public place. Individuals have demanded, if the moment to strike the blow had not arrived?

A Journal of Marseilles, called Phoceen, which confirms these details gives others not less alarming. In spite of the vigilance of the po-lice, printed placards arid manuscripts have been posted in fhe most frequented parts of the city, the consequences of which may be alarming. One of these placards was couched in the following terms:—"The Mayor, the prefect and all those who protect the ministry must be heing."

A View of the Arguments For and against taking Life, in civil Society, for Murder,

WITH AN APPENDIX:

BY I. THOMSON. THE object of this treatise is to eshibit the arguments which are adduced; on which the different options of men are formed. The author has endeavored present all the arguments on both sides of the subjecting as concise a manuer as could conveniently be done.

The Appendix is designed to illustrate the last consideration in the work, by shewing wherein confinement for grand larceny has failed of producing the beneficial effect contemplated.

The price when bound and lettered in a neat duod?

cimo volume, will be one dollar.

To this will be added the essays of the celebrated lateDr. Rush on the punishment of death, for crimes and the effects of public punishment for grand larcency.

RECOMMENDATION I have read a manuscript treatise of Mr I Thomson, on the subject of capital punishments. The arguments are judicious and well arranged, and the deductions from them are, in my opinion, just. It is well calculated to disseminate correct principles on the subject, and I therefore recommend it as worthy of general per and and patronage. DANIEL D. TOMPKINS.
