From the Augusta (Geo.) Chronicle, May 10. CONSPIRACY.

On Wednesday last our city was thrown into a little confusion by the committal of ix persons of color, who were charged with having attempted to excite an insur-rection in the city of Augusta and its vi-cinity. We refrained, at the time, from noticing this circumstance, being un wilproviding, three for line of battle ships and ling to do so, until the result of a judicial

To prevent the escape of the whites, or favor their own retreat, as contingencies might require, the bridge was to be cut down, ings, and anchored in the middle of the river. A body of negroes in Edgefield, South Carolina, had pledged their assist-ance, and some in the swamp, who were provided with arms. Augusta was to be

Yet, the uncouth gibberish of the witnesses, would ever and anon provoke the gentleman's risible nerve, and he would graciously condescend to smile! We watched his countenance closein the insurrection and massacre in St.

Domingo in the year '98.

It is worthy of notice that the testimony of the witnesses was so concurring and corroborative, that not a doubt of its truth remained in the mind of the most sceptical. It was in vain that the counsel for the accused endeavoured to confound them, and beat them from their ground: they maintained it firmly, and preserved a consistent and unbroken chain of testimony, seldom, it ever, exhibited under similar circumstances.

However we may deplore the blow which hurls a fellow being to eternity, we cannot, on this occasion, refrain from an opinion that imperious necessity demands a terrible example. Mercy would here be cruelty. Justice and policy cry aloud for

[From the New York Evening Post.] Extract of a Letter from an officer on board the Lautaro, giving an account of the battle between that ship and the Spanish convoy, dated

"I shall just give you a small sketch of the battle. We sailed from this port on the 10th of September, with the San Martin, of 60 guns; the Chacobuco, of 20; the Anaconda, of 16, formerly the Columbus; our ship, the Lautaro, mounting 50 guns, with about 80 Europeans and Americans, and 200 Chilians, from the sod; but our offi-cers were good men, mostly English, who preferred going with us to their own countryman, captain Wilkinson, who commanded the San Martin, which ship had about 100 Europeans and 250 Chilians. Our intention was to entrap the Spanish convoy from Cadiz bound to Lima, consisting of the Maria Isabella and ten transports, with 2300 troops on board. The 5th day after leaving port, we lost the Chacobuco; on the 25th, lost company with the Anaconda; on the 28th, off the Island of St. Mary's, boarded a British whaling ship, which informed us that the frigate Maria Isabella had gone into Talcuba with four of her transports, which determined us to make all sail for the said port; and on the 29th we entered the port, receiving a heavy fire from the frigate and forts; from our ports not one gun was fired till we got within good canister shot, when we opened a tremendous fire of round and grape on the frigate, town and battery. The old Lautaro at this time was exposed to the most galling fire from the post she held, which she soon silenced.— The Maria Isabella, finding no hopes of beating us off, cut her cables and run in shore within pistol shot of the beach. We immediately sent all our boats, officers and men to get her off as soon as possible, which was not an easy task, having 1200 troops playing upon us from behind the houses with musketry. They kept up a constant firing for six hours, and we as warmly returned it. After a long and tedious time of 20 hours, we succeeded in getting the frigate off, under a severe fire from the enemy. Our loss was about 40 killed and wounded; that of the enemy must have been very great. On his arrival, finding what we had done, he was generous enough to decline accepting the command, saying that those who had struck the first blow to the enemy, was most entitled to that station; that it would be wrong in him to place the laurels gained by others on his own head-Pleased with his open and generous conduct, and being a man of talent and bra. very, we agreed to his taking the command of the squadron, and expect we shall sail from this to attack Lima, which place I think we shall carry without much hard fighting. An obliging friend has furnished us with the following authentic report of a case lately adjudged in a neighboring state. As it will not probably appear in any book of reports, we hope that we render a service to the profession by giving it a place in our paper.—Boston Daily Advertiser.

From the Derks & Schuylkill Journal, May 15.

The editor of this paper, on Tuesday vening last, in the city of Philadelphia, had the pleasure of witnessing a contest between the celebrated grammarian, Jona-than Grout and a Mr. Hitchcock, who conceived that his knowledge of grammar was at least equal if not superior to Jonathan Grout's. Each in his turn parsed several paragraphs, to the satisfaction of the auditors. At length Mr. Grout proposed the following lines from "Young's Night Thought," which completely palled his antagonists:

Here teems wirh revolutions every hour; And rarely for the better; or the best,
More mortal than the common births of fate.

We conceive Mr. Grout to be as great prodigy in grammar, as Dr. Johnson was in literature-and what most astonished us, his pupils, who had perhaps received but eight or ten lessons, parsed the most difficult sentences with as much facility as they could count.

Erom the Enquirer. Bell's Messenger, of March 28, charges the "American people" with " republican ambition"—and this charge is dictated at the moment of our acquiring Florida. But is it ambition merely to obtain territory that we want? For, as some of our rivers run through it, those citizens who border on them are without the certain means of carrying their products to market. We want it to screen our border citizens from a savage race that nestle in that territory, whom Spain is unable to control. We wan it too for the purpose of putting an end to the smuggling of goods and of slaves into our country. And we want it lest an entacks upon us, as the British wished to do in the late war. But if this be ambition, what shall be said of the conquest of Great Britain in the East? where plunder and dominion are the only inducements. The Messenger hints, that we shall next covet the British West India islands, that, indeed, with the exception of Jamaica, all the Caribbean islands are at our mercy. But it is obviously not our interest to attach these islands to the United States. Our country is sufficiently large for our ambition. It is particularly against the genius of our institutions to own one inch of foreign possessions, one single colony. But where is this ambition? Is it in our giving it up peaceably to Spain, (after Jackson took it,) and then getting it fairly by purchase?

A Transport wanted.—The Navy Commissioners with receive proposals till the 1st day of June next, to charter a vessel of 1500 to 1700 barrels burthen to take in a cargo of navy bread at Georgetown,

The assassin of M. de Korzebue yesterday, without having made any cression, constaintly persisting that he no accomplices. There were found a him many papers filled ith reflections the country, humanity and liberty; in the he styles his victim the slave of E and a Russian spy; he said, that all partizans of M. de Korzebne ongu-perish in a similar way.

Very inaccurate details have been culated relative to the circumstance the assassination. He presented him about 5 o'clock at the residence of M Kotzebue, and some ladies cuming up the door at which he had just knocked let them enter before him: they were of visit to M. de Kotzebue. Sand remain in the hali, and requested the servant announce him to the Councillor of Sta The servant returned and showed him to a room, where M. de Kotzehue shor joined him. It does not appear true! he proposed a duel to M. de Kotzebuch that he read the sentence of death, ten on a large sheet of paper. He m have struck his victim at the very into that he appreached towardshim; for soir ly had M. de Kotzebue entered the rea when the servant heard a loud shrick, a noise of something which fell; he en ed, and saw his master and the stud stretched on the floor. It appears that the assassio, on M

Kotzebue's entering, had immedia stabbed him with a poignard, which pe trated his heart, it appears also, that ing been dragged to the floor, by A Kotzebue, he stabbed him a second through the lungs; a wound was also ceived in his face. The ladies ran to room, opened the windows, and in and piercing accents called for help a surgeon. Miss Emily Kotzebue, with assistance of the servants, bore the b of her father to an adjoining aparties where he expired a few minutes at wards. - The assassin arose up with a posed air, and flourishing the bloody po ard, he descended the door step claiming—" The traitor is dead! the co serving that a crowd had assemble front of the house, he violently forced way through them; but hearing the lad exclaim from the open windows of house—"There is the assassin!" he turned, cast a wild look towards the and lifting up the poignard with one had and a piece of paper in the other, exclain ed—"Yes, I am the murderer! It is the that all traitors ought to perish!" Onde paper was written "The death blowd Augustus de Kotzebue, in the name a virtue!" He then knelt down amidst h assemblage, which increased every me ment, and raising his hands and eyes k Heaven, he exclaimed, in an aspiring top God I thank thee, for having permitte me to accomplish this act!" After this, he opened his bosom plunged the poniards his heart, and fell without any signs of life. Having recovered the use of his se ses in the hospital to which he was con veyed, he only spoke of the assassination with a kind of extracy.— He is then deal he exclaimed, "that Russian Spy! It was the control of the load. a dæmon of Hell that inhabited the bod of Kotzebue; it would not quit him; h gave me a terrible grin at parting.".
Every thing proves that this assassing confirmed fanatic, and that he had medi tated the crime for a long time past. His father is a respectable man, and has a

We have seen a gentleman who has just arrived from Havanna, in the Post Boy wko states that, Admiral Popham was at that place with three seventy-fours, and two frigates—that he was making arrange ments with the governor for the transfer of the Island of Cuba, which it was reported had been coded to the British government, and it was said would be given up at the expiration of nine months. Our Informant further states, that it was talked of generally in Havanna, and believed by many that a cession of Cuba to England had absolutely taken place—that private letters from Jamaica tended to confirm the report; yet, that the inhabitants of that island did not appear to be inclined to change their yoke, but were warmly dis-posed to declare themselves independent.

In Somerset County, Shade Township State of Pennsylvania, about 20 miles wes of Bedford, 7 miles north of the great Turnpike road to Pittsburgh, 8 miles west of the city of Germany, 11miles west of Schellsburg; 7 miles north east from Stoys town, 18 miles north east from Somer-set, (the County town)—the same dis-tance from Berlin, and from 6 to 8 miles south-from John's Town, a place of depot, which is situated at the junction of Stony Creek, and the little Conemaugh River, from which the manufactures and other productions of that country, are transported by water, about 70 miles from this place to Pittsburg.

This property is situated on the power ful and well known waters of Shado Creek and highly calculated to remunerate the Farmer, by its productiveness of grain, of grass, &c. &c. and the great price and constant demand for every thing he can raise. There is now a Furnace in full operation, and a Forge on the premises, and a number of other settlements.

The population of the County is from 15000 to 16000. This land is as well watered and timbered, as any district in the State: the timber is oak, hickory, walnut, chesnut, sugar maple, poplar, & white ask, and as there is little or no underwood, it can be cleared with great facility, and at little expense. The district particularly abounds with Stone Coal, and a good proportion of Lime Stone, and the land is very rich and productive. The average yield of oats, &c. is from 50 to 60 bushels per acre; and as an additional proof of the strength and fertility of the soil, the timber grows very lofty and luxuriant, and the rich was a school of the purposes. Each sale of townships 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 15 and 16, in range 16, west—12 and 13, in range 17, west.
