A NARRATIVE

Stephen Gerrish.

Many of our readers may recollect, says the Newburyport Herald, that Capt. Gerrisit, commander of the brig Retrieve, of this port, was captured by the savage natives of Java, when passing over land from Batavia to Samarang, in 1818. In our paper of yesterday we announced the In our paper of yesterday we announced the appointment of John Donnell, Esq. as successor o James A. Buchanan, Esq. in the presidency of the U. S. Branch bank in this city. John White succeeds James W. M'Cullol, the late cashier. The election of Mr. Donnell has given universal satisfaction, so far as solidity of wealth, prudence in finance, integrity of principle, and strength of canacity can satisfy in secition; confidence and capacity, can satisfy in securing confidence and inspiring respect.

DISTRESSES.....We have several times verted to the distresses of the day, and should rea umin in resuming the subject, were it not the paramount topic in all places and on all occasions. The famous South Sea Scheme in England, the execuated Mississippi Scheme in France, each produced in their turns the same terror, the same ruin, and the same distress which our country feels at this juncture. The fallacy of our banking systems was never so obvious as now, and while we see our monied institutions on the verge of ruin....the wealthiest, and some of our worthiest citizens falling about us...their tributaries without subsistence, and their credi-tors without redress, we cannot wonder that so many rapid revolutions are made in our systems of finance and economy; nor can we be surprised that so many are stripping off the tawdry trini-mings of dishonourable vanity, and mourning, though too late, that their pride has carried them beyond their resources and has left them beyond the reach of relief. The gay crowd of fashionists, that but yesterday were strutting in Market that our yesterday were strutting in Market street in all the pomp of baughty ostentation, are no more seen. The streets are now thronged only with astonished victims, studying their various modes of ruin or remedy.

The sober reality has at last found its way to

The souer rearry has at last tound its way to the toilette; wives and daughters now hear the story of distress, and are told that their gay gew-gaws, must be laid aside; that routs and plays must be relinquished; that industry must take the place of luxurious indolence; and that pride me piace of uxurious indolence; and that pride must yield to poverty, or the drawing room be exchanged for the gaol... Our whole city presents an aspect of gloom, which would hardly be equalled during the reign of pestilence, and though we are far from wishing to give strangers the alarm, we feel a conviction that the shock of this period will carry us back to a retrogression mite rapid than any always and the shock of this period will carry us back to a retrogression mite rapid than any always and the shock of this period will carry us back to a retrogression more rapid thon our advance; and will for years shroud many a face with mourning that has been always a stranger to care; long will our industry toil in vain to repair this vast wreck of its efforts, and long will it mourn over our crumbling palaces, before the work of redemption is accomplished.

"The patentee suspended 34lbs to a line, which, passing over a pully, moved a stage coach which weighed 17 cwt. Seven half-hundred weights were then placed on the roof, when it required 25lb. more to move it. The seven half-hundred weights were then placed down in the boot, when it required only 14th, thereby proving, that to place the weight nearer on a level with the line of draft is a saving of labor to the horse of 11lb. in every 25 of draft.—If a person was to fix a pound weight at the top of a ten foot rod, and run with it at the rate of seven miles in the hour, this would show how much more

Mallory, Choate, 36 days from St. Salvador, we learn, that the Portuguese appear very much exaspe rated at the Americans, in consequence of their being so many vessels by the Insurgent pri-vateers....as it is declared by them on all occasions, that those vessels are built in, and fit, ted out, and principally manned in the United States by Americans. Captain C. was detained three days when ready to sail, for having a suspicious looking vessel under his command...[the picious looking vessel under his command...[the C.K. M. is sharp built, and in her model and otherwise and rigging, not much indike a privateer]....and would without doubt have had to discharge his cargo again; had it not been through the instrumentality of, Mr. Hill, the American consul, who interfered in a spirited manner in Captain C's behalf. Captain C however; was compelled to give security that he would not molest any Portuguese vessels.

Extract of a Letter published in the Richmon Inquirer

The con mercial distress of the nation is very The con mercial distress of the nation is very great. The banking bubbles are breaking and will keep us all poorer than they found us. Industry, economy, ought to be the order of the day, until the crisis, is past. If this distress could open the eyes of the community to the real sources of wealth, and induce them to put down, as soon as they can, the parasite institutions which accumulate it in the hands of a few, at at they destroy all marsitic and sound feel. ing, it would be a great happiness. But the curse seems to be entailed on us. For some time many of us in the towns have been, and we shall continue, slaves to bank directors. Some merchants of high standing are obliged to crouch to these whiters of credit, upon which all depends. Would to heaven that these parasite in pends. Would to heaven that these parasite institutions were sink in the lowest depths of the ocean, and their very memory blotted out for ever. It would be a benefit to mank ad, even if it threw us a century back in "internal improvement," and reduced us to wooden platters provement, 2 and reduced us to wooden platters and pewter spoons. It would restore us our honest and glowing sense of independence, if it diminished our wealth. We should assume the port and dignity of men, if we lost some of the trappings of fools. Our possessions would not be so great, but they would be our own. The country is yet only in part tuintal. If it were enlightened, we might hope a redeeming spirit would arise out of it, which might save our towns.

Horrid Murder On Monday, the 24th ult Colonel Charles Bagwell of Accomack county, Eastern Shore of Virginia, as he was riding in his gig from Drummond Town to his residence, a distance of eight miles, was way laid by the road side, by some unknown person, about two This was done by a gim charged with the esligs. Two of the slugs continued their pro-gress and struck the horse on the hip, and went and distance of nine or twelve inches. This is the base and cowardly conduct of some unknown villains, who dare not approach him in any other way, to weak his vengeance for some trifling of fence. Letters from Martinique, Gaudaloupe, and Saint Martins, of the 10th February, announce that the small Pox makes great ravages in those islands. The disease was introduced there by an American vessel, from the coast of Guinea, which stood off Martinique. It had 400 slaves on board: half of them had perished,...The Americans trade almost exclusively with Guinea, in fine sailing ships, which were formerly privateers, and which are generally well armed.—

From a London Paper. Execution at Maidstone.

On Thursday last, the awful sentence of the law was executed on Jame Morgan, aged 39, and William Bowra, aged 19, both capitally convicted at the late Kent Assizes.

After the criminals had hung some time; the usual disgusting scene took place of persons afflicted with wens applying to the executioner for the purpose of having the swelling rubbed with the hand of the deceased while the credulity and ignorance of the afflicted or their relatives led them to suppose would be an effectual induce a young girl, in the face of hundreds of spectators, thus publicly to expose herself in the presence of an act so revolting to female delicacy and general feeling. It is truly pitiable.

No man ever prospered in the world, without he consent and co-operation of his wife; let him be ever so frugal, industrious, or successful, all avails him nothing if she is unfaithful to hen trust; or profusely squanders, in pleasure and dissipation, those sums which toil and attention have gained; but if she unites her endeavours with his, and rewards his labour with her en-deaving smiles, he applies to his vocation with spirit; and perseverance; with confidence he re-sorts to his merchandize or form, flies over land, sails upon the seas; meets difficulty and encounters danger, and esteems all a pleasure, if he knows that he is not spending his time and strength in vain, but that his fatigues and auxistics will be rewarded by the sweets of home. How delightful it is to have a friend to cheer, and a companion to soothe the solitary hours of weariness, and the more distressing hours of weariness, and the more distressing scenes of guief and pain! Sickness and disappointment enter into the history of every man's life, and he is but half provided for his journey, who finds a kind associate only in happy days, while for his months of darkness and gloom no sympathizing partner is at hand to alleviate his pain, and console his sinking spirits, by benevolent assidinty lent assiduity.

I know an old codger in New England, says a writer in the Independent Balance) who, for lifty years had been a col-lector of Newspaper debts in various pla-ces in the United States. He was an excentric genius, and paid particular attention to things, in themselves, apparently the most triffing. In his breeches pocket he carried a memorandum book, in which he was accustomed to insert the various incidents, &c. which occurred in his pere-grinations. When this whimsical, but honest old fellow, paid the only debt he ever owed, I was present at his funeral, and The Swindler again .- The person nam shortly after was appointed one of a comgie, published in that place, adds the following, in a note, after giving what appeared in our paper:

The population of the County is from 15000 to 16000. This land is as well watered and timbered, as any district in the State: the timber is oak, hickory, walnut, chesnut, sugar maple, poplar, & white ash and as there is little or no underwood, it can be cleared with great facility, and at little expense. The district particularly abounds with Stone Coal, and a good proportion of Lime Stone, and the land is very rich and productive. The average yield of oats, &c. is from 50 to 60 bushels per acre; and as an additional proof of the strength and fertility of the soil, the timber grows very lofty and luxuriant, and the Collensonia Canadensis, or the rich weed, grows from 5 to 6 feet in height, and its leaf nearly as large as the Catalpa leaf; and the Nettles and Hazle Bushes ere to be seen in great abundance.

The immense travelling on the great Western Turnpike Road, and daily increasing, requires a large supply of Grain, Hay, &c. together with the Iron Works and other Factories, daily rising up, will always give this district particular advan-tages, for the Fermer has it in his power to amass considerable wealth, with very will take in payment for his land, the whole of the crops of grain, deliverable at his Iron Works, or on some designated part of the Turnpike Road at the following prices, viz:-
