Those of the clutest dates are principally filled with ac-Counts of humerous meetings of the people in various places, on the subject of their grievances. The meeting at Smithfied on the 21st, caused considerable alarm in London; the mayor stated that information had been laid before him on oath, that it was intended by that meeting to proceed to acts of open violence and blood-shed. The rumours respecting a misunder standing between Sweden, Denmark, and Russia, are strongly corroborated by the movements of the troops on both sides. The King of Sweden has a camp at Scania, where he himself resides; and the Emperor Alexander has ordered the formation of three Lamps in Finland, towards which the troops are marching, and the Emperor is expected to review them there. The fort of Scania was supposed to be chosen for the purpose of overawing the Danes who were disputing a short time about the Norwegian deby but as the payment of that debt was (according to official announcements in the Swedish jonrnals) arranged by negociations in London, the keeping up the force and the ke some apprehension of attack from may be exaggerated, as Alexander may merely want to drive away ennia by a lit-tle military spectacle; but yet we have a great notion that it is not in the nature of the present set in Sorope to be very pacifici and more particularly that Russia and Sweden are not calculated to be good neighbors long. FROM THE TRENTON TRUE AMERICAN.

Amendment to the Constitution.

The "Act concerning the Constitution of this state," and proposing an amendment to the same, having been officially promulgated in all the public newspapers may he fairly considered open to public discussion.

I shall avail myself of a right, common to every citizen, of briefly expressing my opinion on the subject; and I shall be glad to see others discuss it at more length.

It is well known to every one that the time appointed by the Constitution for the annual meeting of the Legislature, (the fourth Tuesday of October) is extremely inconvenient for Farmers, who compose the great body of the People of the State, and from among whom our legislators are generally chosen. Some of them, who might represent their counties with honor & advantage, decline the trust on account of the inconvenience; while many others accept it as a public duty, at great private sacrifice.

The Members who are elected on the econd Tuesday of October and the day following, and who cannot be notified of their election for several days after, are equired to attend at Trenton on the Fourth Tuesday of the same month; so that a very few days clapse between the knowledge of their being chosen, and their taking their seats. This is not only often a great detriment to the member who has to hurry off before he has made the necessary preparations and arrangements, but a serious disadvantage to his constituents, who have no opportunity of advising or consulting with him respecting any measures they may wish to be adopted; or any appointments they may desire to be made He himself has no time to ascertain pub lic opinion on any point; and the public have no chance of communicating it.

But the present time of meeting is not only inconvenient to the Members, and to their constituents generalfy; but especially so to those who may have business to bring before the Legislature. Experience proves that a man who wants any thing done by public body, must attend to it in person, to explain his views, obviate objections and enforce attention; but the season is so buzy the latter end of October and early part o November, that he cannot leave home without a loss which he is unable or, unwilling to sustain; he must entrust to others the management of his business; and it often fails through inattention, or is wrongly transacted from misunderstanding.

These and other considerations have of late years introduced and maintained the practice of Adjourned Sittings. That is to say, the Members meet at the day appointed by the Constitution, organize the government, and adjourn to meet again in January, to deliberate and act on the business of the state, and on private applications. This practice has been so long continued without interruption, and without any expression of general dissatisfaction, that we may consider it as settled by successive Legislatures, and sanctioned by the people.

Now I shail not here dwell upon the in jury the Members sustain in their business, and their feelings, in having twice to leave their farms and their families. I will only consider it as it regards the public interest.

The expense of the first Session, may with justice, I think, be considered as entirely useless, and wholly thrown away; as, I presume, the winter session need not be extended, were there no other, to a greater length than it now is. This expence, including the daily wages and trav lling allowance of the Members of both Houses, the pay of their officers, fuel, stationary, &c. cannot be less on an average than three thousand dollars a year! (The last year it amounted to more.) This sum, as I before observed, I consider as an un necessary expenditure, and consequently as so much annually wasted, which might be applied to beneficial purposes, or need not be raised from the people.

To save this large sum annually, either sirable, and a very important, object; one in which every individual is concerned.

Were it but for one year, it would be wor attention, at this period of general presure; but it is for every year, and thus comes of serious consequence. Three that sand dollars in e year, is 30,000 in ten years—60,000 in twenty years and so on And will it cost us any great labor of sacrifice to accomplish this saving? None at all. Merely alter the time of meeting of the Legislature, as proposed by amendment offered to the Constitution and this end is effected. The only trouble for every voter, who is friendly to it, be fore he puts his ticket into the ballot his at the next election, to write, or has printed on it, the word Amendment. Thes votes will be laid before, and counted his the Governor and Councils and if it shall appear that two-thirds of the votes give n on the question are for amendment, the Legislature will thence forward meet of the first Wednesday in January—the fall session will forever he dispensed with and its heavy expense avoided.

I am not in favor of hasty or frequent alterations or changes in our constitutions But here is a plain, simple, and distinct proposition-one of which every man capable of judging, and, by the aid of experience and reflection, of deciding correctly—one, from which I think much good will naturally flow, and from which as far as I can see, no evil can result.

Such are my sentiments and opinions! They are frankly and sincerely given. should be gratified to know those of others Should objections to the proposed amend ment be made, I shall read them with at tention, weigh them with candor, and pre serve a mind open to conviction. At present, after the best consideration, I have been able to give the subject, I am in favor of AMENDMENT,

We have to record another melancholy case of destruction by lightning. Or Wednesday evening, the whole heaven seemed covered with dark and angry clouds. These were charged with an un usual quantity of the electric fluid. T peals of thunder were rattling and fre quent, and flashes of lightning, sharp and vivid, came in rapid succession. About 5 o'clock, the rain fell in torrents. The whole surface of the earth was covered in a few moments with water; and where the descent was considerable, it rushed down with surprising impetuosity. The hills of the Capitol Square, where they were not protected by turf, were washed into large gullies. The pavement on Governors street, which has a codsiderable descent was washed up-many of the gutters on the different streets, sustained a similar

A young gentleman of the name of Allen, was on the Church Hill, in the house of his mother, a widow lady, we under-stand, from the neighborhood of Williams burg. A stream of lightning struck the gable end of the house, on the side he was standing, passed almost in a direct line down the wall, and struck him as he wa standing it is supposed, with his head re clining against the window frame. He was instantly seized with strong convulsions, and expired in about twenty minutes.

A lady, perhaps a sister of the deceas ed, was above stairs, seated at the window, and immediately over his head. She did not touch the side of the house; to which circumstance her preservation has been attributed; but the shock was so great as to drive her several feet from her seat to the middle of the room. The only injury which she experienced, was a certain numbness of the body and the limbs which were inclined towards the window

Mr. Allen's brother was in the same room with him, on the opposite side—h felt the shock, but received little or no injury—like the lady above he was in in contact with the side of the house.

Extract of a letter from London, dated July 17:

Freights are very scarce. Passengers are not so plentifully as they were, but are likely to be more numerous in a shorttime, as it is reported that several parish es in the vicinity of London are about making arrangements to ship off all the paupers that are willing to emigrate. I am extremely sorry to say that all mercantile business is very dull here, and am pretty confident that the city of London never experienced more gloomy times than the present, but we all hope that they will be of short duration. Several very important failures in the American trade have taken place within these few days.

PREAMBLE.

The wealth of a nation is derived from the labor of the people who compose it; and as the general revenue will be great or small, according to the quantity of spro distinction that is set in motion, it is sof the first importance that the public prosperity be not suffered to languish for the want of timely support. Amongst the means of producing the most profitable results, the protection of our decling mamulactures, with the steady employment of that portion of our population, who, by their habits and dispositions, are unqualified for agricultural or commercial pursuits, stands conspicuous. But manufac turers, to withstand the forced competition of foreign countries, must be patronized in their infancy by the laws, or by the patriotic feelings of the people; and perhaps no better mode is presented, to ive them duration and stability, than a vo. luntary engagement on the part of our ci-tizens, to give a preference in their expenditures, to the products of each other's Jahor. By such a measure they will strengthen the bonds of the social conpact, render their country truly indepen-dent, and by standing in the mutual relation of producers and consumers, they can apportion with a regularity hitherto impracticable, the supply to the demand and increase them both to any reasonable extent which their comforts may require.

With the view of hastening the adop-biom of a policy; upon which the destines of a great portion of our fellow citizens must hereafter depend, and in anticipa on of measures which it is confidently hoped will be pursued at no distant day. by the government, a number of the citi phia, have formed an association, which nas adopted for its government, the follow-

From want of skillor design, (we know not which) the balloon vas only partially inflated. The citizens waited for three or four hours, with a patience nor to have been anticipated when it is considered, that many of them had been disappointed in a similar manner; a few days before, and t is probable would have returned to their homes, without any violent expression of their disapprobation, had it not been for a most unfortunate and unjustifiable occurrence which took place about sun-down. A boy had clambered up the fence of the gardens, when he was ordered down by a person in the inside, he refused and gave the man some insolence, who struck him lown with a piece of board or slab. It is said, with what truth we are unable to say, that the with what truth we are unable to say, that the boy is since dead.

Some persons on the outside, already exasperated with disappointment, immediately commenced, the work of destruction, by tearing down the fence of the garden. They then went deliberately to work; breaking the lamps, summer, houses, windows of the temple, &c. They broke into the bar room, broke the bottles, glasses, &c spilled and drank the wine, and other liquors. When they had destroyed all they conviently could, they set fire to the temple which being composed of wood, was entirely consumed, notwithstanding the active and unremitted exertions of our fire and hose companies. It is, of course, impossible, for us yet, to state the probable amount of the loss sustained by the probable amount of the loss sustained by the propable amount of the loss sustained by the prorictor of the garden.
Under the circumstances of the case, the destruction of the balloon, although it could not nave been justified, might have admitted of some palliation. But the wanton and illegal destruc-tion of the property of an unoffending individual is an offence which cannot be tole ated in a government of laws. Among all the societies formed in this fallen world, there is but one that embraces so noble an object as the institution of Masonry; and that is Religion. Three great duties every mason is charged to inculcate, "to God, his neighbor, and himself." "To God, in never mentioning his name, but with that reverential awe which is due from a creature o his Creator," "To his neighbor, in actlug upon the square." Do we see a man addicted to lewd company, or hear him advocate the principle, mark well the seventh chapter of Proverbs.

Do we see a man cruel and oppressive, over-reaching his neighbor, mark well the entering of the house. Take from masonry the validity of the Bible, that great Light. and total dark ness will ensue. If the soriptures are not what they are said to be, the unerring word of God, what an awful falsehood they are - Moses, the man of God, who was raised up to deliver Israel from the land of Egypt and the house of bondage, deliberately utters falsehoods. He tells us that he saw the burning bush at Horeb; and that the Lord called upon him out of the midst of the bush "and said unto him, Moses, Muses! And he said here am I-and he said draw nigh hither, put off thy shoes from off thy feet, for the place whereon thou standest is holy ground."
"Moreover he said I am the God of Jacob." "And Moses hid his face, for he was afraid to look upon God."

When a well-instructed mason is asked what ancient production of his art does he find previous to the erection of king Solomon's temple; how quick will be point to the tahernacle in the wilderness, and say, behold a perfect model of the Temple of Solomon.

If the unhallowed foot of the deist pre sumes to step upon the pavement, spurn him from thence, for he can never frame to pronounce the Shibboleth of Masonry and if, by his duplicity, he should gain ad mittance there, and should dare approach the veil of our sacred tahernacle; let all the guards be assembled and spurn him from thence, for he is not a true descendants of any of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel.

The introduction of such strangers to the genuine principles of masonry, is cal culated to make confusion among the craft -they are not fit materials for the maso nic edifice; they are neither oblong nor square—they will answer none of the dimensions or weight of masonry; neither can any of the working tools of the craft be adjusted upon them.
Weigh them in the balance, they are

Let us; my brethren, in viewing the evils that have come on masonry, erect a temple of reparation, and have it situated near the borders of the wilderness, on that side which is stretched out towards the regions of light, and in it erect an altar of repentance of a just cube, which every mason knows to be a figure of six equal sides, each side is three feet square; and suspend it three feet from the pave ment, so that the top of the altar may exactly answer to the height of a man, so that no one may think himself above or be low the humble exercise of repentance. And as four sides of the altar will be perpendicular, and the other two in a horizon-tal position, the four sides will face the four cardinal points; and on each side we will have an inscription, in large capitals. On the east side Illumination; and on the west, Humanity; on the north, Resolution, pendicular, and the other two in a horizonwest, riumanity; on the north, Resolution, give notice or return him to David Bradway at and on the south Dependence. The Appendix is designed to illustrate the last consideration in the work, by shewing wherein confinement for grand larceny has failed of pro-dicing the beneficial effect contemplated.

The price when bound and lettered in a next duodecimo volume, will be one dollar.

To this will be added the essays of the celebrated late Dr. Rush on the punishment of death, for crimes and the effects of public punishment for grand larcency.

RECOMMENDATION.

I have read a manuscript treatise of Mr I. Thomson, on the subject of capital punishments.
The arguments are judicious and well arranged, and the deductions from them are, in my opinion, just. It is well calculated to disseminate correct, principles on the subject, and I therefore recommend it as worthy of general perusal and patrons age.
