POETRY

The Missionary of Christ.

With furrow'd brow, and cheek serenely fair,
The calm wind wandering o'er his silver hair,
His arm uplifted, and his moisten'd eye
Fix'd in deep rapture on the golden sky,—
Upon the shore, through many a billow driven,
He kneels at last, the Messenger of Heaven!
Long years, that rank the mighty with the weak,
Have dimm'd the flush upon his faded cheek,
And many a dew, and many a noxious damp,
The daily labour and the nightly lamp,
Have left away, forever left, from him,
The liquid accent, and the buoyant limb:
Yet still within him aspirations swell
Which time corrupts not, sorrow cannot quell—
The changeless zeal, which on, from land to land,
Speeds the faint foot, and nerves the wither'd hand,
And the mild charity, which, day by day,
Weeps every wound and every stain away,
Rears the young bud on every blighted stem,
And long to comfort, where she must condemn.
With these, through storms, and bitterness,
and wrath,
In peace and power he holds his onward path;
Curbs the fierce soul, and sheaths the murderous steel,
And calms the passions he hath ceased to feel.
Yes! he hath triumph'd—while his lips relate
The sacred story of his Saviour's fate,
While to the search of that tumultuous horde
He opens wide the Everlasting Word,
And bids the soul drink deep of Wisdom there,
In fond devotion, and in fervent prayer,
In speechless awe the wonder-stricken throng
Check their rude feasting and their barbarous song;
Around his steps the gathering myriads crowd,
The chief, the slave, the timid, and the proud;
Of various features, and of various dress,
Like their own forest-leaves, confused and numberless.
Where should your temples, where your worship be,
Gods of the air, and Rulers of the sea!
In the glad dawning of a kinder light,
Your blind adorer quits your gloomy rite,
And kneels in gladness on his native plain,
A happier votary at a holier shrine.

Presentation of Clergy of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

We have stated more than once, that it was impossible for the activity of our press to keep pace with the interesting occurrences connected with the visit of the NATION'S GUEST to Baltimore, nor did our paper, large as it is, afford, from day to day, sufficient room to record all the tributes of respect paid him during the period that elapsed between one publication and another; therefore, the relation of many circumstances has been unavoidably postponed, and no doubt many have escaped our notice, as well as others, that we did observe, unintentionally omitted in the hurry of composition, and putting the Gazette to press.—Among the latter, is the extremely impressive circumstance of the visit paid to the General, by an esteemed and highly respected body of Clergymen, but we shall now endeavour to give a faithful, though brief sketch of what occurred on this truly interesting occasion.

About 9 o'clock on Monday morning, General La Fayette was waited on, at his apartments, by a number of clergymen of the Methodist Episcopal Church, on being presented; the Rev. Mr. Merwin delivered the following address:—

General—We salute you as the Ministers of the gospel, and present ourselves before you as the representatives of the METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH in the city & precincts of Baltimore. We congratulate you, sir, on your safe arrival in our happy country; we greet you with a hearty welcome. And be assured, sir, that we participate in the general and heartfelt joy of our fellow citizens at your visiting this country. We respect your character, feel grateful for your services, and rejoice in that liberty, civil and religious, which you risked your life to procure [here the General seized the hand of the Speaker.]—We, sir, are the ministers of a peaceful gospel. [The General again grasping the hand of Mr. Merwin with both of his, exclaimed—

"Yes it is a peaceful gospel!—It destroys all animosity; it harmonizes all hearts." [Mr. Merwin proceeded,] "a peaceful gospel which has for its object the present, future, and eternal happiness of man; and we most devoutly pray, that you may share in its richest blessings, that your future days may be crowned with honour, that your end may be peace, and that you may attain that eternal life that remaineth to the people of God."

The General, still holding Mr. Merwin's hand within both his, immediately replied, and with evident token of deep interest.—

"I am happy, sir, to receive this mark of respect from the ministers of a peaceful gospel.—It is indeed a peaceful gospel, and I am sorry I have not time more fully to express to you the cordiality with which I receive this evidence of your respect."

Mr. Merwin then introduced an aged and venerable minister, who, embracing the hand of the General, observed—"I had the happiness to see you, General, when you were in circumstances less favourable and pleasant than you are now.—I saw you, Sir, when you came into Philadelphia, wounded, from the battle of Brandywine"—Here the General, in the fulness of his heart, said to the venerable minister, "I am glad to see you, my respected old friend; I hope God will bless you," [clasping him with both hands.]—Each minister was then severally introduced by Mr. Merwin, and shook the hand of the General, with every mark of attention and esteem.

GRATEFUL REMEMBRANCE.

After the introduction of the surviving officers and soldiers of the Revolution, who reside in and near Baltimore, to General La Fayette on Friday last, he observed to one of the gentlemen near, "I have not seen among these my friendly and patriotic commissary, Mr. DAVID POE, who resided in Baltimore when I was here, and but of his own very limited means supplied me with five hundred dollars to aid in clothing my troops, and whose wife, with her own hands cut five hundred pair of pantaloons, and superintended the making of them for the use of my men." The General was informed that Mr. POE was dead, but that his widow was still living.—He expressed an anxious wish to see her.—The good old lady heard the intelligence with tears of joy, and the next day visited the general, by whom she was received most affectionately; he spoke in grateful terms of the friendly assistance he had received from her and her husband: "your husband" said he, pressing on his breast, "was my friend, and the aid I received from you both was greatly beneficial to me and my troops."

The effect of such an interview as this may be imagined, but cannot be described.

Trial of Jacob Hook.—It has already been stated in the papers, that Jacob Hook, a rich man in the western part of Pennsylvania, who committed a most bloody murder a few months since, has been tried and acquitted. His acquittal was received with great amazement by the public, although the anticipations of some were realized. The New-York Censor, published in Chatauque county, explains the matter by stating that "the most abominable corruption was exhibited at his trial, and which reflects nothing but disgrace on the judge and jury who tried him. As a serious confirmation of this, we have to state, that one of the jurymen, a Mr. Ira Dunn, who has heretofore been considered a respectable man, committed suicide on the morning after the trial. He was heard to say, before his death, that he had been guilty of perjury by means of bribery, and that he might as well die as live. On being asked how much money he had received, he replied that he had received no more than the rest of the jury. Mr. Dunn's wife found a sum of money which she could not tell how or where he received. The deceased has left a large family of children. It is currently reported that Judge Moore, who presided at the trial, also received a large sum of money from Hook; but this, by some, is not believed. Hook, since his trial, appears haughty and impudent. We should not be surprised if the effusion of blood did not stop here.

About three o'clock on Monday morning, the Stroudwater Safety Briton coach, which passes through Abingdon, arrived at Rose-hill, Hurley bottom, at the rate of ten miles an hour; the guard, as usual, jumped off his seat to lock the wheel, but the coach having reached the decent, the coachman could not stop the horses to give him sufficient time. There were six outside passengers on the coach, who became alarmed at the rate they were descending the hill, and the rattling of the drag chain.—About the middle of the hill a young woman jumped off, and falling in the hedge escaped injury, she was followed by a gamekeeper from Gloucester, of the name of Miles, who was going on a visit to his brother, at Hurley, and who unfortunately fell on his head and still remains in a precarious state, being quite insensible. At the foot of the hill, John Russell, a porter to a house in London, leaped off, and pitching on the top of his head, died in a few minutes; he has left a wife and several children. The coachman, immediately after this fatal disaster, pulled up without further accident.—Mr. Ireland, one of the proprietors of the coach, was inside at the time of the accident, and rendered every assistance. A Coroner's inquest sat on the body of Russell, and returned a verdict of accidental death.—Reading Mercury.

On the late debate on the Slavery Bill, the gallant but eccentric Admiral Sir Isaac Coffin said, that "the Negroes were a happy and contented race, if they were but left alone."—Mr. Wilberforce shortly after this declaration, went round the House and sat by the gallant Admiral, who repeated to that Gentleman what he had said before. "But what do you think," asked Mr. W., "will become of their soul?—Oh d—n their souls!" said the gallant Admiral—"what do I care?" A few days ago, some watermen rowed on the Thames for a boat; the gentleman of the club who conducted the match dined togethr, and after dinner the victor was introduced, and informed that the prize belonged to him: upon which he thus addressed the company: "Gentlemen of this here club, thank you for that there boat, and God save the King."

Eastern Fishermen.—The capture of Fishermen on our eastern coast by British armed vessels, has produced a great excitement of the Public feeling at Eastport. The Editor of the Sentinel has recommended an immediate appeal to arms.

Rattlesnakes.—A man lately in Tennessee had a box of rattlesnakes which he had tamed in such manner that they would crawl over his breast, head, shoulders and face. He would handle them familiarly, and that too, without having extracted their fangs. Trouble in the Wigwam.—We learn from West Florida, that Samuel Fry, esq. late editor of the Floridian, printed at Pensacola, was attached for a contempt, at the May Term of the Superior Court for the District of West Florida, in publishing in that paper an article headed Law Report in vacation, and was fined three hundred dollars, and his name stricken from the list of Attorneys, and subsequently imprisoned for non payment of the fine!!!

As misery loves company, we add, by way of Nota Bene, for the comfort of Mr. Fry, that at the late term of the County Court we were committed to the Port for a like offence, and were brought up by Ulysses Corvus which is still pending.—B. Florida Herald.

FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE

From the New York Evening Post, Oct. 14. LATEST FROM ENGLAND.

By the regular packet ship James Cropper, in 27 days from Liverpool, we have received our usual files of London and Liverpool papers to the 16th September inclusive.

"Liverpool Courier Office, Thursday, Sept. 16th."

We have kept the parcel open until this moment, in the expectation, that the London morning papers of yesterday (Wednesday) would contain some particulars of the demise of the King of France; an event which is announced in all the Evening papers of Tuesday.

He will be succeeded by his brother Count d'Artois, under the title of Charles X. who is now in the 65th year of his age. We have already expressed an opinion that the death of Louis would make no alteration in the politics of the French government.

The London Courier of the 13th Sept. in anticipating the event which has happened, after expressing a similar opinion, says, that the heir to the throne is "popular with the army, as well as with the people."

"We have received this morning New York Papers to the 22d ult. and Charleston to the 15th. They contain no further intelligence from America; but they are filled with details of the reception of General La Fayette.

We may, perhaps, make a few selections from them tomorrow, to show how little essential difference there is between republican and monarchical honors. The same flattery; the same pomp; the same ceremony; the same parade; but more servility and infinitely more of burlesque self-importance.

An article from Hydra says—"The troops which landed at Ipsara, were almost all chosen men, and their destruction will prove a serious calamity. The Egyptian expedition has probably been much magnified by report—from the number of vessels it cannot exceed 16,000 men.

"THERE HAS BEEN THE GREATEST CHANGE FROM JACKSON TO ADAMS THAT I HAVE EVER WITNESSED:—There has been nothing like it at any former election.

From the Morrilstown Palladium. Public opinion generally in this state is, undoubtedly clearly in favour of John Quincy Adams, the industrious intrigues and political management of the friends of Crawford and Jackson to the contrary notwithstanding.

From the Port Gibson Correspondent, Sept. 2 NEWS FROM THE EAST. Having understood that the Hon. Chancellor CLARKE had arrived from Columbia, where he had been for two or three weeks, holding the regular term of the Chancery Court of the eastern district, and being desirous to collect from the most authentic sources, and disseminate as speedily as possible, all information in relation to the great question now pending before the people, I yesterday despatched a messenger with a note to his honor, requesting him to communicate for publication such information on the subject as he was possessed of.

To the Editor of the Correspondent. DR. SIR—When at Columbia, I heard a good deal of conversation among the members of the bar, of that section of country, and was informed and understood a great change had taken place in the public opinion, as regards the Presidential election, that General Jackson was losing friends; and that Mr. Adams had a large majority in the eastern counties.—I am perfectly indifferent on the subject of the Presidential election, and my information was derived as above stated.

THE WHIG

BRIDGETON,

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23, 1824.

The address of the Democratic Convention will, if possible, find a place in our next. So much political matter presses on our hands that we trust our readers will excuse us for a week or two, and then politics will be at an end for a while at least.

The Democratic Convention of this State convened at Trenton on Tuesday last, agreeably to public notice, Robert M'Chesney, Esq. of Middlesex, was called to the Chair, and Robert Lee, Esq. of the same county was appointed Secretary. A majority of the delegates from Gloucester were friendly to Mr. Adams, but two of them being prevented by sickness from attending the Convention, left the majority of the delegates from that county in favour of Mr. Crawford.

A majority of delegates from Burlington were friendly to Mr. Adams, although as they succeeded in getting their member of Congress, they did not attend the meeting which authorized the protest.

There were Adams delegates sent from the county of Salem, supported by a more numerous meeting than that which appointed the delegates which were received. But these delegates were rejected by the convention, because some of the persons who attended the meeting which appointed them were federalists—yet the persons who voted these delegates out, voted in a few hours for Electors which had been nominated by a meeting composed indiscriminately of Federalists and Democrats, in anticipation of that meeting & regardless of the usage of the Democratic family of this state. This is fact.

Hunterdon appointed men to the state Convention who were supposed to be friendly to the Adams cause. On meeting the Convention a number of these joined the Jackson and Crawford side, and left the Friends of Adams in the minority. These men would not have been appointed had it not been understood they were on that side.—We are informed even Hunterdon will give its vote for Adams and that a great majority of the democrats of that county are on his side.

There was Adams Delegates from Morris, who claimed a right to a seat in the Convention; had they been admitted as they should have been, a majority of the whole counties in the state would have been for Adams; but they were rejected in consequence of a mistake in the day, it being advertised Wednesday the 28th, when it was the 29th.

The protest will explain the reasons why the republican minority separated from their brethren on this occasion.—There is one consideration which should perhaps not be forgotten, and which added its weight to the causes that induced the protest. Besides the anti-republican and unwarranted deviations of the majority from all former usage, they sacrificed this usage and seceded from it to favour a man who knows no distinction in party. However correct the course of Genl. Jackson may have been in that respect (and of this we will leave others to judge) those delegates who exclude all Federalists—even union men, who are not decided democratic republicans, from their deliberations—from a participation in any office for which they can recommend them, should not be the first to call themselves genuine republicans, and adopt such an inconsistent course. If any thing be ridiculous, we think this is. This is making a nose of wax of democratic republicanism, and adapting it to any convenience which the interests of its pretended advocates may think proper.

The following TICKET was formed at a meeting held the evening of the 19th inst. in Trenton, by the Democratic Delegates who protested against the proceedings of the Jackson party, and a number of Gentlemen assembled there from eight or nine counties in the state, generally delegated for that purpose, in favor of JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.

JOHN DODD of Essex.
JESSE UPSON of Morris.
ROBERT M'NEELEY of Hunterdon.
JAMES T. DUNN of Middlesex,
ABRAHAM BROWN of Burlington.
DAVID DUBOISE of Salem.
JOHN M. SHERRARD of Sussex.
EPH. MILLER of Gloucester.

New Jersey Convention.

We the undersigned delegates to the Republican convention held at Trenton on the 19th of October 1824, viewing the proceedings of this convention as in many respects irregular, and contrary to the long established usage by which all other Republican conventions have been governed for the period of upwards of twenty years, and believing also that the course adopted by the majority of this convention will have a direct tendency to destroy the harmony and union of the Republican party of this State, and to subvert the principles upon which former republican conventions have uniformly acted, do respectfully beg leave to present this remonstrance against those proceedings, and to state some of the reasons which induced us to dissent from the majority of the convention.

1st. When it was discovered that no one of the Presidential candidates had a majority of the delegates from the several counties in this State in his favour, and it was proposed to adjourn the convention, after the formation of the Congressional Ticket, and to leave the friends of each Presidential candidate to form their own ticket, we do conceive that it would have been more to the interest of the Republican party of this State, and that it would have tended more to promote harmony among its members, and better comport with the manly and dignified policy which that party has heretofore uniformly pursued to have adopted than to have rejected that resolution.

2d. After the majority of the convention had negatived the resolution to adjourn (upon the ground as was alleged of its being anti-republican and tending to destroy the harmony of the party and the authority of the convention.) We do conceive that they were bound, in consistency with their own principles, to adopt the resolution which was introduced, to disapprove of the conduct of those members of the republican party (some of whom were also members of this convention) who united in forming a convention at Trenton on the 1st day of September last, as the direct tendency of that convention was in our opinion to destroy the authority of this convention, by sanctioning the calling of a convention by persons other than the legitimate officers of the last convention, and by anticipating and forestalling the decision of the regularly constituted convention of the Republican party.

3d. We conceive that the decision of the majority of this convention in refusing to permit the counties forming each congressional district to agree among themselves in appointing their own member of Congress and Elector, was a departure from the well known and established usage of the republican convention ever since its formation, which practice has uniformly been to give each congressional district the right of choosing its own elector and member of congress provided they were republicans, the convention only interfering when the district could not agree. The deviation from this well established practice, by the majority of this convention, at this time, we deem more unwarrantable and obnoxious, particularly as the very reasonable resolution which was introduced into the convention, of allowing the delegates from the different counties, to vote according to the ratio of their representation in the Legislature was rejected upon the ground of its being contrary to the former usage of the republican convention. We do conceive, that if former usage was binding upon the majority of the convention in this instance, it should have been equally obligatory on them in the former. We do, therefore, most solemnly protest against this departure from the well known & established usage of former conventions in this respect, least it should hereafter be drawn into a precedent.

SIGNEI,

*The following is a copy of the original resolution offered to the convention by William W. Miller Esq. of Essex, and which was, after having been discussed and negatived, entered on the minutes of the proceedings of the convention, and afterwards ordered to be erased on motion of William N. Jeffers Esq. of Salem.

Resolved, That this convention disapprove of the Electoral Ticket recently formed in this city for Andrew Jackson, and that the convention which formed it was anti-republican, and was convened contrary to the regulations of the democratic party; and that its direct tendency was to create division and discord in the councils of the party.

Fire!—Our inhabitants were very much alarmed on Friday evening last, by the raging of this element.—But for the stillness of the air the whole of the central part of the town would have been destroyed. Several barns, filled with grain and hay, one belonging to Thomas Thompson, one to John Smith and one to Joel Fithian, with sheds and small buildings were destroyed. By the exertions of the citizens in tearing away small buildings and fences, and throwing water the fire was kept from the range of houses on the streets; but such was the alarm of the inhabitants that a number of them removed a part of their goods. Had the wind blown fresh from almost any quarter, a large number of buildings including one or both of the tavern houses, the court house and jail would have been destroyed. Still as it was, the burning cinders were carried to the distance of a quarter of a mile, and in several places setting fire to the roofs of other buildings.—Salem Messenger.

Extract of a letter from Mr. Hunter, mate of the schr. Fly, to the owner in New York dated at

ALVARADO, Sept. 2.

"Sir—It has become my painful duty to inform you of the loss of your schr. Fly. The circumstances are as follow. On the 9th, ult. we left this port, and on the morning of the 11th, at about 10 o'clock, the weather being fine, were struck by a tornado which capsized the vessel, one of the main hatches being off, she filled and went down in less than fifteen minutes. Myself and four seamen succeeded in cutting away the boat, on the bottom of which we remained fourteen hours, when, the gale having abated we succeeded in righting and bailing her out, and after being 7 days at sea, without provisions or water, oars or sails, we made the land at the river Cazous, where I was actually forced to sell the boat before the inhabitants would furnish us with any thing to eat. We remained here recruiting our strength for three days, during which time William Carpenter died. On the 21st myself, Wm. Thompson and John Leonard, seamen, started for Tuzpan, leaving Ralph Sweeney, at the point of death. At Tuzpan we were treated with great hospitality by the commander of the place; from thence the two seamen sailed for Tampico, and I took passage for this port, in a small coaster, where I arrived on the 31st. I regret to state, that Capt. Van Dyne, two cabin passengers, (James Torrance, and Samuel Haven,) five seamen, and the cook, went down with the vessel. It is my intention to leave this in the first vessel that sails for New York, or Philadelphia, probably in the Sophia, for the latter place."

CERTIFICATES.

I have within the last two years had an opportunity of several cases of very inveterate ulcers, which having resisted previously the regular modes of treatment, were healed by the use of Mr Swain's Panacea, and I do believe from what I have seen that it will prove an important remedy in scrofulous, venereal and mercurial diseases.
