POETRY,

SELECTED FOR THE WHIG.

From the City Register. TO WINTER.

Hail Winter! thee I hail, With Boreas' sullen wail, And all thy frigid storms with fury borne: The clouds by whirlwinds torn, In fleecy volumes, through the ether sail.

Now Janus sends his power, With aspect stern and sour, From darkest dungeons in you northern Where all his spite unfurl'd. Rolls with relentless sweep a frozen shower.

Thou Virage, grim and foul, Thou sound-dissonant howl, To him who poorly clad treads o'er the way: No warming Summer ray Sheds gladness round, or stops the storm's rude growl.

Around the social hearth, The sear of joy and mirth,
Where blazi g fires their warmth and radience shed; From winter's look of dread, Now free, we owe content's intrinsic worth.

But blest, forever blest, That spark withwithin the breast, For human good, to chilling penury given; Thou darling child of heaven! Benevolence-the poor man's welcome guest.

Man gives up the Ghost, and where is he. The church-vard bears an added stone, The fire-side shows a vacant chair; Here sadness dwells and weeps alone, And death displays his banner there: The life has gone, the breath has fled, And what has been no more shall be: The well-known form, the welcome tread; Ah! where are they, and where is he."

A THOUGHT.

The song that charm'd the summer eves, Has died as died the summer flowers, And autumn's sear and withered leaves Hang drooping over beauty's bower— Tis thus with man, who blooms to fade, His morn a smile—his eve a sigh; A little space of l ght and shade— Just sent into the world to die.

RELIGIOUS.

The following is one of the most useful anecdotes we have ever read of the kind. It ought to be impressed on the mind of every individual as a lesson which may furnish a key to the causes why some preachers are successful in calling sinners to Christ, and why oth ers never produce any effect other than to tickle the ear, or please the fancy .-If the cause is explained in this anec dote by Dr. Chalmers, unsuccessful clergyman will perhaps be soon found to doubt their call or their picty-at least it may urge some to self examina-Eds.

ANECDOTE OF DR. CHALMERS.

Dr. Chalmers, who preached mere morality twelve years, and after this embraced evangelical sentiments, says, "And here I cannot but record the affect of an actual though undesigned experiment, which I prosecuted for upwards of twelve years among you. For the greater part of that time, I could expatiate on the meanness of disthe pests and disturbers of human society. Even at this time I certainly did press the reformations of honour, and truth, and integrity among my people; but I never once heard of any such re-formations having been effected a-mongst them. If there was any thing at all brought about in this way, it was more than ever I got any account of .-I am not sensible, that all the vehe-mence with which I urged the virtues and proprieties of social life, had the weight of a feather on the moral habits of my parishioners. And it was not till I got impressed by the utter alienation of the heart in all its desires and affections from God; it was not till reconciliation to Him became the distinct and the prominent object of my ministerial exertions; it was not till I took the scriptural way of laying the method of reconciliation before them; it was not till the free offer of forgiveness through the blood of Christ was urged upon their acceptance, and the Holy Spirit given through the channel of Christ's medictorship to all who ask him, was set before them as the unceasing object of their dependence and their prayers; it was not in one word, till the contemplations of my people were turned to these great and essential elements in the business of a soul providing for its interest with God, and the and measured 22 inches round.

concerns of its eiernity, that I ever heard of any of those subordinate refor? mations which I aforetime made the earnest and the zealous, but I am afraid at the same time, the ultimate object of my earlier ministrations."

THE PIOUS WIFE.

What knowesn thou. O wife! whether thou shalt save thy husband? or what knowest thou. O man! whether thou shalt save thy wife.

It is, no doubt, a dangerous experiment for any Christian to marry an unbeliever .- We know, however, an instance of a lovely saint, who we believe is now in Heaven, who, after much trial on this subject, gave her hand to the man on whom she had already placed her tenderest affection. He possessed almost every grace; but was destitute of the grace of God. By spending the early part of his life in a foreign land and associating with those who had the reputation of gentlemen, he had imbibed the fashionable habit, in that place, of using God's name in vain in common conversation.—His new and much loved wife sought to reclaim him; she took advantage of his love for her, to win him to Christ, and she effectually succeeded.

One day as she was standing before him, in company with a few friends, who were listening to his conversation, in order to give additional interest, as he supposed, to what he was relating, he added the name of Christ. He looked at his wife and saw her in tears. He was confused. With ineffable weetnes she raised her hand, and gently pressed his chin: "Oh!" said she, if you knew how much I love that dear name, you would never again pain my heart by trifling with it." His heart was touched. He was unable to proceed. He asked her forgiveness, and soon left the room. In this way he was saved from ruin, and is now an eminent example of piety.—Christ. Mirror.

WHITFIELD'S ELOQUENCE.

Hume the celebrated historian and philosopher, notwithstanding his Deistical principles, was a professed admir-er of Whitfield, and used frequently to hear him preach.—He related the fol-lowing instance of that matchless preacher's eloquence, to one of his intimate friends.

"After a solemn pause he thus addressed his numerous audience;-· The attendant angel is about to leave the threshold, and ascend to heavenand shall he ascend, and not bear with him the news of one sinner, among all the multitude reclaimed from the error of his ways?" To give the greater effect to this exclamation, he stamped with his foot, lifted up his hands and eyes to heaven, and with gushing tears cried aloud, " stop Gabriel! stop Gabriel ! stop ere you enter the sacred portals, and yet carry with you the news of one sinner converted to God." He then in the most simple but energetic language, described what he called a Saviour's dying love to sinful man; so that the whole assembly melted into tears. This address was accompanied with such animated, yet natural ac-tion, that it surpassed any thing I ever saw or heard."

PIETY communicates a divine lustre to the female mind-beauty and wit, like the flower of the field, may flourish for a season, but age will nip the bloom of beauty; sickness and sorrow will stop the current of wit and humour; and in that gloomy time which is appointed for all, piety will support the drooping soul like a refreshing dew upon the parched earth.

The wisdom of God appears in afflictions. By these he separates the sin which he hates from the son whom he loves. By these thorns he keeps him from breaking over into satan's pleasant pastures, which would fatten him indeed, but only to the slaughter,

STACKHOUSE'S Complete Body of Divinity,

PROPOSALS,

BY JOHN CLARKE—BRIDGETON, WEST N. JERSEY, For publishing by subscription, Stackhouse's Complete Body of Speculative and Practical Divinity.

ADDRESS TO THE PUBLIC.

The work now offered to the public is one with which the literary world in England and America have long been familiar. It is so well known, so generally admired, so universally sought, and so highly appreciated, that no particular recommendation in its famous long house source long the contract of the contract long the co vour has been accepted, preferring rather to depend on its established fame and intrinsic depend on its established fame and intrinsic merits for success that to attach to our prospectus the best written eulegium which the brightest genius in our country could produce. STACKHOUSE, as an ingenious compiler, as a man of learning and research, and as a profound. Theologian, ranked in his own day among those who gained the highest literary eminence—the lapse of time has contributed exc. edugly to encrease his well earned celebrity.

The Born of Divinity which is now proposed to be published, was originally compiled for the Episcopal Church of England. It first emanated from the Press in the early and the architecture. Since then, part of the eighteenth century. Since then, part of the eighteenth century. Since then, it has stood its ground and sestained a reputation beyond which cotemporary writers never did, and subsequent writers never have been able to pass. Several editions of it have been circulated in Great Britain, but it has never yet been published in the United States. Various compilations of systematic Theology have been repeatedly committed to the American Press, each of which has been adoptnerican Press, each of which has been adapted to the standa, d of faith of the respective denominations for whom it was published.— This work is professedly written on the Armenian Scheme; but notwithstanding this, its high character has caused it to be an object of anxious inquiry by every class of christians. It has heretofore been in the hands of few in the United States except Divines, and for those it has generally been imported by order, and at great a expense. The reason willy it has never been re-printed in the United States is obvious. In matters of faith, monopoles have been sought with no less avidity, (perhaps not improperly.) than in the mart of the merchant; and those denominations of christians whose pretensions have not been supported by a widely extended and numerous fraternity have been compelled to coalesce, and reciprocate favours in the Root states. the Book market, in order to obtain from the publishers of books throughout our country that kind of spiritual nutriment which would enable them to grow up in the faith and opinions which they delighted to cherish as the foundation of their future hopes.— Where this advantage was not presented the student in divinity was compelled to wade through Tomes of ancient authors in the dead languages to satisfy his inquiries; or to collect those systems of opinions which are laid down by theologians—as founded on, or deducted from the sacred records—from an endless variety of writers, many of whose sentiments they viewed both as absurd and inconvictent.

The design of the publisher in offering an edition of stacknesses. Body of Speculative and Practical Divinity to the public is two-fold; namely, for their good and his own. While he wishes to supply a demand for it, high control of the state of the sta which seems now to be particularly called for, he is desirous to obtain a subscription which will defray the expense, and compensate him for his labour. More than this is not expected—any other reason than this would not be the truth, and he hopes the would not be the truth, and he hopes the public will appreciate his candour in this arrowal. He believes the work eminently calculated to do good. Truth, and whatever ends to elucidate and confirm it, are, in the present age, objects of research & inquiry. In this work, all the leading doctrines of the Holy Scriptures are amply discussed and explained. To the pious layman it will supercede the necessity of a great variety of works on divinity which he may be desirous to possess, but which he may not have the means to procure. By purchasing this work true economy may be consulted, as the necessity of procuring many fugitive works which obtrude themselves on the public will be obviated. There are a number of respectable and pious classes of christians and christian minimizer. ated. There are a number of respectable and pious classes of christians and christian ministers throughout our country, who will doubtless avail themselves of the opportunity now offered to obtain it upon reasonable terms by encouraging an American edition. Of the Author's style he will only say, that it is plain, but nervous, bold and eloquent.— The work in general evinces the profound scholar and the pious christian—but he does not wish to incur the charge of exaggerated commendation; such an imputation, he presumes, will not be offered by those who have read the work with impartial attention, and from those who have not given it a perusal it would be premature.

THE WHIC.

BRIDGETON,

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1823.

The letter of the Secretary at War accompanying the public documents, together with some editorial remarks intended for this paper, is postponed to next week for want

We have read with much interest the address of the Philadelphia committee to the public, for the purpose of soliciting donations in behalf of the heroic but oppressed Greeks. It is a well written production, and breathes the spirit of patriotism, sympathy and eloquence. We sincerely hope that the efforts now making to procure pecuniary aid for that suffering people may be successful; and also that the memorials addressed to congress to take into consideration the propriety of acknowledging their independence, may be reseived in such a manner as to meet the wishes of the whole people of the United State-.-We find that the students in Yale, Nasau Hall, and Dickenson Colleges have made and are making spirited exertions in their favour. Meetings have taken place in Albany, and many other places, for the same object .-Would it not be well if the inhabitants of Bridgeton and its vicinity, would assemble and throw in their mite to aid the holy cause of liberty, religion, and the rights of man-

European affairs .- The accounts lately received from Liverpool, and Gibraltar, furnish us with one or two items of intelligence, which to us are of more striking importance than even the surrender of Cadiz. One is the proposed meeting of sovereigns to interfere in the affairs of South America, and bring them back to their allegiance to Ferdinand;

and the other is the execution of Riego. Perhaps a more atrocious act has not been performed under the sanction of the government of any nation since the days of Charles the IXth. of France, or Peter the cruel of Spain, than has been done in the murder of the gallant & chivalrous hero whose fate we, in common with all the lovers of freedom throughout the world, sincerely deplore. This one act will rank the infamous-the execrable Ferdinand, while his name disgraces the pages of history, among the most vindictive, perjured and inhuman monsters, that ever was encased in the likeness of a man. France too, has, by sanctioning this act, which she certainly did-as it was in the power of the Duke Augouleme, who was no doubt in Madrid at the time of the execution, to have prevented it-been guilty of the blood of this murdered patriot. The hanging and quartering of Riego furnishes a lesson to freemen which should never be forgotten-that no confirmation is to be placed on the oaths or promises of despots. The constitution which Riego, and his gaitant compatriots re-established in 1820, was that which the sovereigns, now composing the holy alliance, recognised and supported in 1812. This constitution Ferdinand obligated himself by reiterated oaths to support. He acted in concert with its provisions, and made the most solemn professions of sincere attachment to it. Riego was elected by the people of his nation a member of the cortes authorised by this constitution -He acted in his military career under a special commission SIGNED BY THE KING; and in obedience to his duty he was fighting the king's battle's against the enemies of liberty and his country.-In the deliberations of the cortes he was also in the conscientious discharge of duty, obeying the voice of his constituents .-In every case he was found to be the unwavering and decided advocate of liberty. But very popular in Washington, and that he was executed by a commission from that he is rising fast in the public estimaking who authorised him to do the act for tion. The best accounts from Obio grant outrage on justice, honor, humanity, or the forms law was never made. This stupid fanatical and priest-ridden animal in the shape of a king, has never in his life that we have heard of, done one honorable action; and every thing like virtue will now be proscribed by his savage and contempuble followers. The death of Riego will make his name as immortal as his death was glorious. Inscribed with Porlier, Lacy, Padella, and a list, of noble martyrs to the cause of freedom, his name will be given to posterity, and will constitute the rallying word of freedom, in future efforts to establish the cause of liberty-But the blood of the martyrs has been the seed of the church. A few more sacrifices like this and Spain will soon again be free .-Tyranny carries with it the seeds of its own destruction, for the e is a point of forbearance beyond which human nature is unable to go. Driven by his priestly advisers to an excess of folly and crime, he may soon find retributive justice at his heels, when Alexander, busied in making an atonement for the blood of his murdered father, may be unable to extricate him; and when Lewis XVIIIth engaged in keeping order in his own family, may find enough to do without having the ability to interpose in his behalf.

Much speculation is affoat on the probable step which this government may take in the affaits of South America in case of an attack by the members of the holy alliance—but

We believe the number is very considerable first rank among the hopeless. who would be giad to see our government take a decided step in favor of our southern neighbours. This would be no chivalrousno quixotic-no thankless undertaking. It would be our own cause we would in such case defend. It would be fortifying our out works and the approaches to our own institutions, and cripping the enemy before the main attack was attempted. The South American colonies, it is well known in Europe, are organised and independent states. They stand on equal ground with us, as it is liberty against which the crusade is made, and what nation is so othors to and stands in more danger from the holy alliance than ours.

The above is according to the lates! returns received at the adjutant gener al's office in Washington; many of which are of four or five years standing. We have no doubt that the whole aggregate of the militia of the United States fairly enrolled and exactly returned would far exceed 1,100,000 .-It appears no return has been received from New Jersey since 1821. Now if we are not mistaken, the adjutant general of this state is entitled to an annual compensation of 100 dollars for this very service. We wonder whether he has omitted to receive his pay.

An inspection of the above table will show that there is either a gross deception in some of the returns, or that the militia laws of some of the states have gone a great way in exempting from militia duty. For instance, New Jersey with a population of 277,575 has returned $9.568; while Connecticut with a population of 275.248 has returned only 22,671, Massachusetts with a population of 525,287 returns 53.908; at the same ratio as that of New Jersey their militia would exceed Presidential Candidates. - The name of De Witt Clinton, has been by some person added to the list of candidates. It seems however that it is strongly denied that it was done with his consent, or that he intends to stand. General Jackson, it is said, is making himself will be supported in those states. That he will receive much support present crisis very apparent. If Clin ton is not taken up, the probability is strong, that New York and all the states north and east of it will be in his favor. Calhoun will also have friends, and many of them in New York. New Jersey will be divided between the two last mentioned candidates. The belief that Crawford will not be respectably supported in a ny part of the Union, and that his cause is rapidly on the decline, leadus to conclude that Delaware and Maryland will be in favor of the Secreta v, as the latter states have strong predelictions that way. Calhoun is not supported by any state exclusively. except his own, but his friends are nu merous and respectable in most of the states of the Union. We are of the opinion, as appearances now stand, that Adams, Calhoun, and Jackson, are the three most prominent candidates. But such is the mutability of things, that a few months may so

The Editor of the Salem N. J. Messenger has called a Meeting of the people of that county, friendly to the election of GENERAL JACKSON to the presidency of the United States, to meet at the Inn of James Sheron, on Thursday, the 8th of January next. We are aware that Gen. Jackson has many warm friends in this state, (and who ought to be his enemy?) but we do believe that Mr. Adams and Mr. Calhoun are the favourites of New Jersey-and there are no two names on the list of candidates, who are, in our opinion, more deserving their support We are inclined to the belief that a great number of Gen. Jackson's warmest friends will not give him their suffrages for that office-if it were so few in the nation would oppose him-he would be elected by acclamation-but this will not be the case. At this moment it would seem, however, that a man of nerve & resolution, as well as a skilful statesmen, is likely to be much needed, for it is probable, before long, we may have to tug with the holy alliance, who are marching with rapid strides towards us over the rights and liberties of Europe.

Character of a Sot .- A sot is a silly fellow without brains. His sight is best when he is stone blind, for till then he can never find his way home. He is the only being that has discovered the way to renew his youth, for he can even renew his childhood, and to perform this, he stews himself in his favorite beverage. He is a Bostian, for his senses are stupified by living in a moist climate.-He measures his time by his glasses. He is like a statute placed in a humid atmosphere -all the lineaments of humanity are mouldered away, and nothing remains of him but a rude lump of the shape of a man, but scarcely to be distinguished as a branch of that species. He has swallowed his humanity, and drunk himself into a beast, as if he had pledged himself to madam Circe, and done her justice. Like a fly, he is always hovering around, or drowning himself in a glass, nor can the sunbeams bring him to life again. He is like a spring tide; when he is drunk to high water mark he swells and looks big, runs a gainst the stream and overflows every thing that stands in his way; but when the drink within him is at an ebb, he shrinks within his banks, and falls so low and shallow that cattle may pass over him. He governs all his actions by the quantum of drink within him, and has a different humour for every nick to which the drink rises, and which indicates his state like the degrees of a weather glass, the hand of which points to politics, religion, ribaldry and quarreling-this brings him to the dog-days, from whence he falls down again until his liquor is at the bottom, and then he lies quiet, and is frozen up.. He is a post boy's horn to alarm a quiet neighbourhood at the unseasonable hour of one in the morning. He is a brewer's pump to keep his store cellar dry. He is a lawyer for he understands conveyancing extremely well .-Although he scarcely knows what a pulpit means, yet he is a most religious fellow, for the name of God is ever at his tongue's end; and he is particularly careful to teach his family the duty of fasting. He is a mendicant, but he solicits alms only in the tavern, and receives it only in drink. He is a bare- from the preceding year. footed carmelite, for he is seldom seen with pair of shoes on his feet. He is an apothecary, for he is always dealing in essences, drugs and plasters He is like an Emperor, for he is always surrounded by a crowd of flatterers. His frugality is remarkable, for a shirt will last him a month without washing, and a pair of stockings until they are quite worn out. He is like a despot for he never moves from home without a body guard, for a cloud of flies may be always seen hovering around him to designate his march. He is which he was put to death!! The editors of the United States Gazette, before publishing the conditions of our Prospectus for an edition of Stackhouse's Complete Body of Divinity has made the following remarks recommendatory of that work.

" Stackhouse's Complete Body of Divinity. "Mr John Clarke of Bridgeton, New Jersey, has issued proposals for publishing by subscription, Stackhouse's Complete Body of Speculative and Practical Divinity
"Perhaps no theological work ever published in the English language has attained to such merited praise, as this valuable Commentary, nor is it likely, from the comprehensive and lucid manner in which the learned author has treated his great and interesting subject, that this work will ever be superseded.

"To praise a book of such acknowledged excellence might indeed be a work of super-rogation, for although its price, (being an English publication) has heretofore confined the wook, generally, to the libraries of the divines, yet there are few of the reading part of the community who have not occasionally drank at this fountain of biblical knowledge, and confessed its purity.

and confessed its purity.
"Stackhouse's Body of Divinity is not the text book of any particular sect, it exhibits undoubtedly in a clearer light than other similar works, the great truths of Scripture, as applicable to all mankind, and while the author gives the opposing opinions of other writers, he offers his own ideas, with a modesty and forbearance becoming a Christian commentator.

"We congratulate the Christian commu nity on the opportunity now offered of fur-nishing their libraries with this valuable treatise, and as personally we know that among students in divinity, this work has been earn-estly, but vamly sought for, we invite the attention of the public to the publisher's pro-

Washington, Dec. 17. "I understood that it is firmly believed on the very best authority, that Great Britain will take the same stand that the President has in his Message, as to the interference of any Foreign power between Spain and her colonies. It is so much the interest of England, that I should expect she would act with vigor on the occasion." Free. Jour.

The Board of Health of Paris, in its general report for 1822, laments the avages caused in the capital by the small pox. This alarming increase says the report, naturally leads to the conclusion that vaccination has diminished in the same proportion. Unnatural-A Newbern paper says, at the last court of Oyer and Terminer, we witnessed the most singular occurrence of family events which has ever come under our observation. The first was, a wife, by her testimony, consigning her husband to imprison ment for sixty days-the next, a father and mother, swearing against a son, & he is consigned to prison-and lastly, a daughter swearing against a father, and he is consigned to prison for life.

> HOUSE OF ASSEMBLY. December 12.

Mr. Drake submitted the following

Resolved, That the thanks of this impartial manner in which he has discharged his duty as Speaker, during the present session. - Which was read

Gentlemen,-I return you my most sincere thanks, for the undeserved honor you conferred on me, in calling me to preside over your deliberations, and especially for the kind partiality which has induced this public approval of my official conduct. The arduous duties of the station were appalling in prospect; but the indulgence you have uniformly shewn to my inexperience and imperfections-and the attention to order and decorum that has been so made them easy; and the situation of speaker has been as pleasant as it is honorable. The harmony and mutual forbearance that have characterized the present session, and the laborious attention more is said about what they ought to do. as to place those who now stand in the always labouring in the dark. He can liberations, are causes for congratulation. Permit me to express my confident belief that your labors will prove useful and honorable to the state, and will receive the approbation of our constituents.

I cannot refrain from taking this op. portunity of congratulating you upon our happy prospects as a nation, and as a state. At peace with all the world, respected abroad and tranquil at home; we are left at full liberty to bend our united exertions to the completion of all those great works of internal improvement which are so peculiarly calculated to make us a great, a glorious, and a happy people. Party excitements have subsided. The lessons of experience are not forgotten, but they are remembered that we may shun the evils of former times. Those great political principles which were consecrated by the revolution of 1776, and were confirmed, and I trust forever established, by the revolution of 1801, deserve and will obtain the warm support of every democratic republican. But while we hold fast to our political faith, we must never forget, that as lawgivers, and as the scource of office, we legislate and appoint for the whole people.

But now we are to part .- The endearments of home, and the quiet pursuits of private life, are pleasant in prospect. - But it is painful to separate from those to whom we are attached by the ties arising from daily intercourse, the friendly interchange of good offices and the common pursuit of laudable ob-

You have my best wishes for your future health and happiness. shall probably never sgain all meet in this world-God grant that we may be brought together at last in a better and happier state of existence.

Congressional Summary.

Mr Havne in the senate on the 15th inst agreeably to notice, introduced the following resolution to amend the constitution of the United States. A similar one was introduced into the house of representatives.

Resolved, by the senate and house of representatives of the United States, in congress assembled, two thirds of both houses concurring, That the following amendment to the constitution of the United States be proposed to the legislatures of the several states; which, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the states, shall be valid, and to all intents and purposes, as part of the said constitution:

"If no person voted for, according to the the constitution, as president of the United States, shall have a majority of the votes of the whole number of electors, then the president of the U. States shall forthwith issue his proclamation, calling upon the electors to convene at ____, on the ___ day of ____, thereafter, for the purpose of choosing a president; that the electors, when so convened, shall choose, immediately, by ballot a president of the U. States, and a majority of the whole number of electors shall be necessary to a choice.

"And should no person voted for, according to the constitution, as vice president of the United States, have a majority of the whole number of electors, then the president of the United States shall forthwith issue his proclamation, calling upon the electors to vene at —, on the — day of —, thereafter, for the purpose of convene at choosing a vice president; that the electors when so convened, shall choose immediately, by ballot, a vice president of the United States, and a majority of the whole number of electors shall be necessary to a choice."

The above resolution was read twice and ordered to be printed. A proposition that all the resolutions proposing amendments to the constitution, offered at the last session and the present. should be printed in a pamphlet, was made, but the consideration deferred. Mr Eaton on the 16th offered a resolution, which was agreed to on the 17th: That the judiciary committee inquire if any, and what amendments may te Heuse be returned to the honorable if any, and what amendments may be Lucius Q. C. Elmer, for the able and ecessary to an act, entitled "an act, relative to the election of a president and vice president of the United States and declaring the officer who shall act as president, in case of vacancies in the offices of both president and vice president," passed the 1st of March 1792."

In the house of representatives on the 12th inst about 30 petitions and 12 or 13 resolutions were presented .-They are for the most part unimportant. A resolution, the object of which is to associate with the military acade. my at West Point, a school of instruction for the midshipmen of the U.S. navy, and another requiring U. States' surgeons and their mates to be examined by a board of physicians before heing admitted into the service; were prosented by Mr Spencer. These were agreed to next day. The committee on the public lands reported 'a bill to authorise the state of Indiana to open a canal through the public lands to connect the navigation of the rivers Wabash & the Miami with lake Erie, which was read twice and committee. On the 16th, Mr Kent of Md. offer-

Commissioners.
October 30, 1823-Nov. 8. 150 9t CapeMay Orphans' Court.

Term of October, 1823. Present,-Cresse Townsend, Israel Townsend, Jacob G. Smith and others, esquires, judges.

Nathaniel Holmes and David Stites, executors of the last will of Benjamin Stites, deceased, having presented to this court, duly attested, a just and true account of the personal estate, and also of the debts of the said decedent, whereby it appears that the personal estate of said decedent is insufficient to pay his debts, and the said executors having set forth to the court that the said decedent died seized of real estate in the county of Cape May, and praying the aid of the court in the premises: IT is THEREFORE ORDER-ED. that all persons interested in the lands, tenements, hereditaments, and real estate of the said decedent, do appear before this court, at the court house in the Middle Township of the county aforesaid, on the Monday preceding the first Tuesday in February text, at ten o'clock in the morning, to shew cause, if any they have, why the real estate of said decedent should not be sold for the payment of the debts and expenses yet unpaid.

ORDERED, on application of Humphrey Hughes, administrator to the esate of Levi Eldredge, deceased, and Richard Edwards, administrator to the estate of Jeremiah Wicks, deceased, that the creditors of the estates of the said decedents bring in their debts, demands and claims against the same, on or before the fourth Tuesday to October, 1824, or the said creditors shall be forever barred of an action therefor, against said administrators; the said dministrators giving notice of this order by setting up copies thereof in five of the most public places in the county of Cape May for the space of two months, and also advertising the same for the like space of time in one of the newspapers in Bridgeton.
