For the West Jersey Pioneer "In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening Withhold not thy hand."-Bible.

BY ESTELLA MAURICE.

While the morn of life is bright With the spirit's joyous light, Sow the seeds of holy truth, In the yielding hearts of youth. While thy child is young and fair, Free from sorrow and from care, With unwearied watchfulness Lead it in the path of peace.

And when evening silently Steals across life's glowing sky, Still in patience, hope, and love, Point the soul to Heav'n above. Never vield to grief or fear; God the Lord is ever near: He will heed thy earnest prayer, Bless thy constant watchful care Shiloh, Dec. 1852.

TEMPERANCE.

From the Bordentown Register. "A than art the Devil"

Was ever saying more truthful? was application ever more appropriate than this to rum? we thought not a few days ago. In taking a stroll, but a short distance from our town. we unexpectedly came upon a party of three, consisting of father, mother and child, heart-sickening to look at. The mother, for it was she first took our attention, lay stretched on the cold, damp ground, at full length, seemingly unable to rise, from intoxication.

A few steps off sat the father, who managed to keep his seat perpendicular by the nearness of a friendly fence, and probably the libations not having so much effect on his coarser composition and more frequent use. The little boy stood on one side gazing at those he loved best, and who should have loved him better, 'sorrowfully sad." O what a sight for even the disenterested passer! but what a sight for him, the son to behold-a mere boy, not a dozen years of age! Father and mother, both in a helpless state of drunkfire, taking vengeance on them that know not enness, away from home in the open air, on protector! We have seen many phases of misery, destitution, woe-have wandered through the Five Points, visited the den of iniquity, the Old Brewery in its palmiest unto him: ten times ten thousand stood before days-have seen the poor homeless emigrant him. The Judgment was set, and the books half naked and half starved, huddled, shivering and unheeded at the corners of our crow-ded marts; but never felt such keen anguish, or "looked on woe so stricken" as that poor boy, friendless and alone, standing beside his besofted parents. Abatement of a Common Nuisance.

"Hey! why, bless me, how fat you're get ting!" was the salutation usually addressed to me by Mr. Bluffy. Now I am quite aware of my tendency to corpulence; am disgusted off beer, resorted to early rising, taken violent exercise and much medicine in order to subdue it, in vain; endeavor now not to care about it; in fact, hate nothing so much. Mr. Bluffy himself is round and thick, but that does not vex him; he rather prides himself thereon; is accustomed to thump his big drum of a chest, expectorate with an explosion, and boast of his stamina. He has never had a day's illness in his life. Not he! Is always in robust-might say rude health .-Very rude! Bluffy, rising lifty, marches about he world bolt upright, with a hearty russet fece, cropped grey hair, and a bamboo caneof which the upper end has a leather strap in it. In order to give emphasis to his assertions he thumps the ground with the lower. Mr. Bluffy has retired from something— nobody knows what. Some think he has been a purser in the navy. He wears a military looking frock-coat, and many people intinctively call him Major. The greeting by which Mr. Bluffy used to mortify and exasperate me whenever he met me, is a sample of ompliments which he was in the habit of disbuting generally.

"Aha!" he would exclaim to one man,

As I sat by my window this morning little? Old age creeping on, ch?" Or, "Clome, thinking what a pleasant morning it was my boy—halloo!—shakyl hand trembles perhaps. "Why-what-the deuce! What a complexion you've got since I last saw you!

had heard of the new hair-dye? He has even about the steak, and got him to come and been known at a dinner-party, when a laugh was circulating, to take the happy opportunity of calling across the table to the cold '29 port after it. On this occasion one little head was covered with pretty curls, ty of calling across the table to some smiling which many a rich lady would give much to fair one, "Hey! Hey! Young lady? Young fair one, "Hey! Hey! Young lady? Young drophoma—the only symptom of that aread lady? Hey? Front teeth going!" And these ful disease he has ever shown since the horror ference to the probable permanency of the remarks he would make in a tone of one who is really rather pleased, though, to notice the manners.

Perhaps it was the consciousness of being "sound in wind and limb," as he phrased it, that occasioned Mr. Bluffy to delight in observing other people's plugues and infirmities -like the nice man who enjoys the view of a shipwreck from the beach. As though he should have said, inwardly: "Ha, ha! your hair is falling, back bending, head shaking, and mine not."

If Bluffy thought you had money in a bank, he would tell you of some similar establish-ment that had just broken. If he believed vou to possess landed property, he would talk o you about the inevitable reduction of rent; if he imagined you were a fundholder, he would predict to you the conversion of Three per Cents. Had you a brother residing on an estate in Ireland, he would inform you how such and such a landlord thereabouts was murdered; was your son on his way to the Diggings, he would put you in mind of ventry, these being the peculiarities of his dis- | were published. course, may seem to have been the place of residence for Mr. Bluffy.

But, besides his unpleasant habit of telling his friends of their calamities, he had also the habit not so unpleasant, of telling one of his friends the calamities of others. He was likewise a general gossip—given to read and repeat the news; saved many people taking in the Times, and got taken in himself instead. Hence, it was not uncommon to meet Bluffy at the board of hospitality—and have sequence of eating. Having, on one of these occasions, stuffed himself to his full content, Mr. Bluffy transferred his attentions from the plate before him to a young lady before that. She had pearly teeth: Bluffy could not say they were going; her blue eyes were clear and ustrous: he was unable to tell her she had a cold in them; her hair was flaxen: he had no pretence for suggesting mirific tincture; her complexion spotless white and read: not pimple on that pure face for Mr. Bluffy to call attention to. Nor could he have the leasure of congratulating her on being as a dabehick. Miss Mildmay's figure was rather slender; Mr. Bluffy thought, thin. "Sharp weather this!" said Bluffy, cheerily, with his eves fixed on Miss Mildmay. "Bad for tender chests-knock's 'em down right and left; bright blue eyes, light hair, slear complexion -Eh! Drop like phesants. All winged, all touched, with Consumption?" Miss Mildmay fainted! Her two sisters and her maternal aunt had died of a pulmonary complaint. She fainted-all jumped up in consternation, the table was nearly upset, and Mr. Bluffy treading on the tail of a dog under it, the dog bit Mr. Bluffy in the legto the great delight of the rest of the company when they came to know it, after his victim had recovered, and been comforted by an old doctor who was present into smiles.— The dog had made his teeth meet in Mr. Bluffy's calf-that was some consolation cspecially to Tom Heywood, humble admirer and worshipper, with pure veneration of the beautiful Mildmay.

Tom Heywood also admired and worshipped, with a more familiar devotion, the pretty barmaid at the Black Swan white he was accustomed to repair for the purpose of offering his idol incense-by talking nonense. Mr. Bluffy frequented the same tavern to read the papers. It was the next to proclaim liberty throughout all the land, evening when they were both sitting in the roffee-raom; and to them entered a stranger to an oppressed people to submit no longer to rebuilt the pans and vats. stonished Tom. "Eh? by Jove though, now remember, this is no joke! Cooper's dog! why it was he that bit you yesterday! " Mad! mad!" shouted Mr. Bluffy frantically. "Mad dog. Bit by a mad dog. Oh! Oh!!Oh!!!" he roared "Help, help! A doctor—a surgeon! Help!" And dashing at the bell with a shrick he brought the bellrope down and himself with it, down, plump! on the floor, whereon Mr. Heywood and Mr. Hawkins, echoing his cries for medical assistance, left him kicking. A year has since elapsed. Bluffy was not itacked with hydrophobia; but he writhed under the dread of it for half a day. "Dear me! what a price eggs sell for."— Every person who is familiar with the habits f fowls must have noticed their fondness of animal food. Animal garbage, insects, slugs, and worms are sought for and devoured by them with great avidity. During our long winter season they are prevented by the frost from procuring a supply of animal food, and this is supposed to be the cause of their ceasing to furnish the usual supply of eggs. Some managing housekeepers, who know that eggs always bring a good price during the season of frost, boil bran or shorts in pot-liquor, in which meat has been cooked, and which has imparted to it the animal juice with which they feed their heus, and it is unquestionable that they derive great benefit from it. It is not represented as the largest, but merely as one selected from a patch of about six thousand companions. A meeting was held in Newark, at the commencement of last week, to consider the subject of the construction of a railroad from the North Ward of that city to New York. The difficulty in the way of the enterprise appears to be the monopoly relative to bridging the Passaic and Hackensack rivers on the route, enjoyed by the old Turnpike and Bridge company, under its charter of 1790. The present New Jersey Railroad had to obtain by purchase of a majority of the stock, at high prices, the privilege of Bridging the Hackensack, by consent of the Bridge Company.

Baltimore Flour Adrift .- About twenty barrels of American flour recently drifted on the shores of the Bermuda Islands. One of the barrels was branded on the head "Willow Mills-Superfine Flour," and on the side Baltimore, Sept. 1852," but there was no other mark that could lead to the discovery of the name of the vessel in which the flou was shipped.

The Methodist Episcopal Church Case,

"What Shall we do for Change?" is asked by a hundred of our cotempories, and the N. York Time's says, "this is coming to be the all-prevalent study. Silver is searcer than gold. The wealthy man does not begin to be as independent as the man who has plenty of change. To offer a tradesman a bill for a shilling parcel, is esteemed a insult, and one must apologize if he tries to get off a gold dollar. When the husband leaves home for the office, the anxious inquiry is, 'Have you left us any small change?' Give the ladies the pence, and they'll take care of the pounds. If man is caught in a shower, before he looks for a 'buss, he feels auxiously for a sixpence in all his pockets. The rain quickens, and in despera ion he leaps on board. But when the fare is collected what shall he do? He is a gentleman and hates to insult a body. His wallet is stuffed with bills-but he would as soon offer his hat and damand the change after paying his fare with it, as to produce one of them. At the ferries, in the omnibusses, at the groceries for small purchases, at the thread and needle stores, and, indeed, almost everywhere bills are not a decent ten der. The smaller silver coins can hardly be deemed current. They only go one wayaway from the holder. The country papers are full of the complaint. Stories of private issues of shin plasters are told of almost all lo calities and of all sorts of small tradesmen What shall we do for small change? is the unanimous cry. We would propose that the Secretary of the Treasury set himself to devise a plan of escape for us from our dilemma. His predecessors have immortalized themselvss by helping along the larger currency of which was large enough to go alone, and had wings, according to the proverb; but for a more popular and memorable labor than the making of Fiscal Agents, National Banks or Sub-Treasuries."

The Railroad Accident .- The intelligence we received of a fatal railroad accident, on Thursday night, near Beverly, turns out to be true. It appears that the wagon was in the act of crossing the track, as the 5½ train from Philadelphia was approaching. The engineer immediately reversed the engine, but before the locomotive could be checked it struck the wagon, containing Mr. Durell and a lady. The wagon was smashed to pieces, and Mr. Durell killed. The lady was very seriously and, it is feared, fatally injured. Mr. Durell was a highly respectable farmer, about 75 years of age, living in the neighborhood of Beverly. The lady was not known. She appeared to be about 30 years of age. - State Gazette.

Filling Teeth over Exposed Nerves .-Dr. S. P. Hullihen, of Wheeling, Va., has discovered a method whereby the cavities of teeth over exposed nerves may be successfully olugged up. It is this: The diseased parts the tooth are removed to make it apparent cavity. The opening should be of about the size of a small knitting needle-its object is to open the blood vessels of the nerve, which years old. will at once be known by the flow of arterial blood. The cavity of the tooth may then be filled without the least fear of pain or ill con-sequences. The plan has been successfully practiced in a number of cases. Hitherto a tooth having an exposed nerve, could not be filled and prevent pain and toothache.

The Joint Companies .- At the meetings of the stockhelders of the Joint Companies held at Camden many, resolutions were passed authorizing the directors to make the Canal eight feet deep, and the locks 220 feet long. and to wall the banks throughout. The line for College. of the railroad is to be fn shed out with the beavy rail, and extensive improvements, are to be made at Camden and Amboy. Proposed Increase of Cavalry .- Major General Winfield Scott, in his report to the Secretary of War, recommends an increase in the cavalry force. The report says this force is inadequate by the demonstration of experience, to the wants of the service. No |-tend. troops are generally so efficient against Indians, and the immense extent of our frontier requires that at least one more regiment of horse should be added to the establishment. he number of privates allowed to ompani fall arms should in no case fall clow sucy four, with a sliding scale upwards to eighty-four, at the discretion of the

Mr Kennedy's able Census Report meets with general eulogy. It is clear, condensed and by far the most comprehensive and interesting document of the kind ever given to the public. The N. Y. Mirror gives the following analysis of it:-

Of Paupers the Census reports only 134,-972, as having received public charity during the year, preceding June 1850, and only 50,-353 as actually receiving subsistence from the public on the first of June in that year. Of these, nearly three-fourths were natives. The aggregate cost of supporting paupers during the year aforesaid, was only $2,954,806, whereof N. York paid $817, 536, Massachusetts $392,765. But the estimated capacity of the Presbyterian and allied churches is greater in the average than that of the Baptist and Methodist churches, so that while all the Methodist churches will accommodate but 4,209,333 worshippers, and all the Baptists but 3,130,878, the Presbyterians and related churches aforesaid have room for 3,865,211 worshippers. There will be some difficulty, perhaps in agreeing upon the route, and upon the plan of construction of the road -whether the government shall build it, or one way or the other, however, the road has penses at 51,704—which is an extreme figure, eventually to become a "fixed fact." Motice to the World. Dr. MCUCK'S PANACEA

s the only medicine for which the Government of the United States has ever granted a patentcause they considered it the greatest discovery in medicine over made; and that it was destined to save the lives of millions of the human family .-This decision alone should be sufficient to remove all doubt from the minds of every one as to its superlative excellence in conquering disease, and its transcendant power to heal. By Purifying the Blood.

It will cure Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, White Swellings, Measles, Ulcers, Sores, Biles, Eruptions, Blotches, and all cutaneous dis-By Regulating and Cleansing the Stomach & Bowels It cures Inflammation, Indigestion, Dyspepsio Sick Headache, Vomiting, Loss of Appetite, Fainting, Costiveness, Leoseness, Piles, &c. By Strengthening the Digestive, and Regulating th Secretive Organs, It cures all Billious diseases, or Bilious or Intermittent Fevers, chills and fever, ague and fever, heartburn stranguary and other peinful disorders of the kidneys and bladder.

By Quieting the Nervous System, It cures Neuralgia, Hysterics, Palsy, Epilepsy an I all other Nervous diseases. It is also unrivalled i: the cure of Female Complaints. It works wonders in cases of Fluor Albus or whites Falling of the womb, obstructed, suppressed, or painful Mensis, irregularity of the Menstrual Periods and the like, and it is as effectual in curing al forms of Kidney Disease and Liver Complaint

From the powerful alterative properties of this nedicine, it is well calculated for diseases of the Liver, which is the great centre of the bile, and is the seat of a variety of diseases peculiar to that organ, and when diseased or obstructed is the excitng cause of many ailments which are of frequent occurrence, such as jaundice, bilious disorders, costiveness, piles, headache, drowsiness, pain in the side, sickness of the stomach, indigestion. Diseases of Children.

To no class of human beings is Dr. Houck's Pancea a greaten blessing, a more convenient, salutary, bland and appropriate medicine, than to infants and children. Now we hesitate not to declare, that Children need not Die

More than others, if they are sustained by suitable nourishment, and that medicine which is best adapted to their delicate organs and tender years. Mothers, if you wish to preserve the lives of your children; if you wish to give them a medicine which you may be absolutely certain will not, cannot do them injury, which will infallibly and speedily cure them; if anything on earth can do it, Dr. Houck's Panacca will. Fail not to use it ere it be too late.

Diseases of the Lungs, As Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Catarrh, Pneumonia Bronchitis, Consumption. This Great Remedy

Is composed of rare and valuable herbs, the properties of which act in harmony with the functions of the human system, calming the nerves, allaying all irritation and pain, dispelling inflammation, and diffusing its Healing & Soothing Properties to every part of the body.

The estimation entertained of it by medical men may be inferred from the extensive use they make of it in many diseases, for which they possessed no reliable remedy until it was found in DR. HOUCK'S PANACEA. Price Reduced. Dr. Houck, at the carnest solicitation of thousands, has determined to reduce the price of this great and good medicine to ONE DOLLAR PER. BOT-TLE, thereby placing it within the reach of all.— His only desire is that it may have a range as universal as it is competent to arrest the whole catalogue of diseases with which humanity is afflicted. He will then be content, because he will be sure that its virtues are widely spread, and the family of man receiving a benefit and enjoying a Messing to which it has heretofore been a stranger, and in that belief his philanthropy will be gratified and piness complete. All letters on business, or orders from druggists merchants, traders, agents and dealers in medicine must be addressed to Dr. P. Houck, N. York city.
