Chaice Poetry.

From Gleasons's Pictorial. THE LIGHTHOUSE.

BY LIEUT. E. CURTISS HINE. Throw thy light upon the waters, Beacon by the deep blue sea; Fair as earth's resplendent daughters Are thy glimmering rays to me. Home returning, fondly gazing On the dim and shadowy shore, I, thy welcome glance am praising-Praise thee will I evermore. When the storm with sable pinion, Hovers round thy burning brow, Thou dost gaze on his dominion, Calm, unquenched and bright as now. When the foundering bark is reeling Mid the ocean's mountain waves, Grief sincere perchance thou'rt feeling For the lost in ocean's caves! Star of hope to the benighted,

First to greet the wanderer's eye-Joy in hearts hath oft been lighted, When thy beams shone on the sky! Harbinger that bliss is coming, Glimmer by the dark blue sea! And upon the ocean roaming,

I will sing in praise of thee!

LINES TO-Sweet one, rememberest thou a friend. Whose heart was ever kind and true? Whose love, unfading as the sun. Was treasured in that heart for you? Oh! then, dear lady, grant one thought To him who loves thee but too well; My heart in silence still must throb With love to deep for words to tell. I thought this dream might pass away, Like some stray vision of the hearth But when the hour of parting come, I learned how hard it was to part. I heard no words escape thy line, But saw a teardrop dim thine eye?

And since that time, in every dream, Thy gentle form seems hovering nigh. I know another claims thy love, But give one thought alone to me-I am content-I ask no more-

My heart shall ever beat for thee! WHITINGHAM, VT. WM. STREETER, JR. DIOIZAL.

> From the Presbyterian. A DIFFERENCE.

There is a religion which is general, and a religion which is personal; the first embracing all that concerns the state of the Church at large, and the last all that concerns our own spiritual relations with God. In contemplating the first, the head, much more than the heart, may be exercised; in regarding the last, the head and heart must be united. Men may speak volubly of the first, while of the last they have not a word to say; they may display great activity and zeal about the extension of the former, while inactive and uninterested in reference to the latter.

Let it be noted, that a man may talk much about the generalities of religion, and yet be ignorant of its special influences on his own soul. Both should engage the attention; and yet it will be a serious mistake if our interest in the general subject does not arise from that conscious sense of its value which no one can have whose heart is not right in the sight of the Lord. We must begin with ourselves, and when we are enabled to hope and rejoice as partakers of the grace of Christ, then, as a necessary result, we will sincerely strive and pray, and employ ourselves in the promotion of the spiritual welfare of our fellow-men. Who does not know that the best preachers, the best missionaries to the heathen, the best agents for benevolent societies, and the best private cooperators in the cause of religion, are those who feel the power of religion in their own hearts? The service of all others is formal, constrained, and heartless. Take heed, then, to the religious state of thine own heart. We may prophesy, make loud pro-fessions, give our goods to feed the poor, and even our bodies to be burned in martyrdom, but it will avail us nothing without heartfelt love to God. It is much easier, it is true, to give much attention to the outworks of Chrisown souls. This very difficulty of dealing feel that the scholars are engaged in an imsure. We must retire to our closets; we must bring our souls into close contact with God; we must pray and meditate daily, if not hour, to keep our own souls in health. Many neglect their own vineyard in cultivating those of others. This is not wisser form. ruinous. We are bound, in the first instance, are engaged. From the New York Organ. WHITE LIES.

We need a modern Mrs. Opic badly to enare not the innocent things they are taken to be, and that falsehood, by whatever name of the people's college? In the falsors of the people's college or profession of school in the common intercourse of the world, says a late writer, we find ourselves beset on every statements, false professions, false friends,—every grade and hue of deceit and dishonesty.

And we believe it is more from carele suees of truth, than from intentional lying, that carelessness of truth is two often fostered and encouraged by the excusses which we find for ourselves and make for others in any deviation from the truth by calling it "a white care), can only modify and polish, but can like." Dr. Johnson corr ctly says, "All truth is not of equal importance: but if little violations be allowed, every violation will, in time, be thought little." So far, indeed, did Dr. Johnson carry his love of truth so strongly did he dislike the common 'white lies which have become almost conventionalities in society, that he would not allow his servant to say he was not at home when he really was. "A servant's strict regard for truth," said he, "must be sweakened by the practice. A philosopher may know that it is only a form of denial, but few servants are nown to their country and honor to humanisuch nice distinguishers.'

Dr. Johnson, in one of the numbers of his Rambler, gives a very strong picture of the difficulties attendant on speaking the strict truth. "There are, indeed," he says, "in the present corruptions of mankind, many incitements to forsake truth; the need of palliating our own faults, and the convenience of imposing on the ignorance of credulity of others, so frequently occur; so many immediate their generation, their country and the world! Less than this number gave to the world the When arrived others, so frequently occur; so many immediate evils are to be avoided, and so many present gratifications, to be obtained by craft and delusion; that very few of those who are much entangled in life have spirit and constancy sufficient to support them in the steady pracno species of falsehood is more frequent than fatigable, though perchance untitled teacher, fear, the dependant by interest; and the friend tense interest and a parental auxiety, watched vile nor timorous, are yet desirous to bestow pleasure; and while unjust demands of praise continue to be made, there will always be some whom hope, fear, or kindness will dispose to pay them." In the practical affairs of every-day life, we continually find some or other of these inducements pressing upon us, and leading us into the meanness of falsehood although we ourselves are fully aware of the meanness, condemn it most thoroughly, and are ashamed of it when we reflect.

Influence of Departed Friends.

O, how elevating is this thought! In the fever of life, when the head is hot, and the heart beats fast, how good is it to pause a moment, and think of those who are removed from the contagion of our excitement; who are no longer jostled about by a society at war with itself and with nature! Without such meditations to cheer our distracted existence, I know not how we could live. The oul longs for a state of full activity, yet harmonious and calm. But few can attain to it here; yet we all have its promise in those rare moments, when lifted to the hights of our being by praper, or enthusiasm, or quiet ascending contemplation, we know the meaning of that word which expresses the last re-It is not true that our friends in the spiritual world are the only true ones: for never with them do we hold intercourse in our moments of weakness, but in our hours of tofev endeavor and virtuous elevation? As when the Sun is resting below the horizon, we may climb to the mountain top, and, standing in the dazzling light, seen to those below us transfig-ured, so, upon the loftiest summits of our being rests a light from the spiritual world: and at times we are permitted to stand in it: then our souls are cheered and purified, and our faces become, 'like the faces of angels;' we are in the presence of God and the departed good, and those around us hang upon our words as utterances of inspiration!—Blessed be those who in another world still think of us, and thus transport us with their presence! We would not call them back but by prayer and purification would go to them.

A farmer in New York, who sends his communication to the Genesee Farmer, says that when he came upon his present farm, three years ago he found a large quantity of leached ashes near the house, which, from appearance, had been lying there a long time, being regarded as worthless. He hauled some of it upon ground preparing for wheat, and spread it upon the land to the extent of about 300s bushels to the acre, and the result was, that that portion of the field yielded eight bushels of wheat more to the acre than the

As small a thing as a pin often turns the scale in a youth's life and fortunes. Take care of small things and you will not neglect weightier ones.

THE SNEERER

There is a large class of people who employ themselves almost constantly by sneering at the efforts of others. Nothing done by s neighbor suits them. If you perform an act of charity, they question your motives; if you exhibit skill in your profession, they pretend to regard you an over-rated man; if you produce something decidedly meritorious, they ridicule and depreciate its worth; and if you originate a thought or machine, they declare you a plagiarist In their estimation your writings are stupid, and full of tautology; your conversation unprofitable; the work of your hands valueless. And yet ask them to do what you aimed at, and failed in, according to them, and they have not even the ability to try. They are all, in fact, what they feign you to be, and unfit for everything but fault-finding, crying down people of merit, and slanderitg worth. They are envious, jealous, and full of cant. Incapable of doing what you do, and therefore envious of your talent; too dull to command respect, and consequently jealous of that you receive; incompetent to produce a thought, and always ready to carp at what you express. Thoy are of the race of Diogenes, without his ability; Cynics, without the merit of honesty of purpose. Heed them not, reader, they are harmless, when treated with contempt; and if you ask where they are to be found, look around you -your circle of acquaintance will furnish one. no doubt, of the class.

OUR COUNTY.

At no period since the formation of this County have interests more vitally important to its prosperity, been committed to the hands of the legislature, than those to be presented for consideration and action, to the body now assembled at Trenton. We have been accusof as an isolated out of the way place, and its inhabitants as the "honest old fashioned people," too green to see the advantages of a connection with the world around us, or elso too much wanting in energy and enterprise, to avail ourselves of the privileges enjoyed by more go-ahead portions of the community.

The fact of our not being included in the net work of Railroads which join distant cities, is no evidence of a want of public, spirit. Hitherto the wants of the community have been supplied by other modes of conveyance. Almost within the memory of the "oldest inhabitants," the surplus products of a large part of the County were exchanged for articles of import at semi-annual "fairs." Then. a few small sloops were sufficient for the trade. Now, each of our navigable streams can boast of quite a fleet of commodious sailing craft of various kinds and sizes, constantly increasing in number, but still scarcely adequate to meet fully our wants. As a means of supplying this need and developing still further the resources of the County, two Railroads have been projected; -one at least with reference particularly to the business of this and adjoining counties. Of the utility of these roads to the counties through which they pass, we deem it lature to grant charters for these roads. Near- of these doubtless arrived last evening. ly the same extent of the State is to be benefitted by each of them. The route proposed from Keyport to Delaware Bay, probably pusses through more of the State not possessing the advantages of water communication with either New York or Philadelphia, and consequently would seem to be rather more demanded, by the general welfare. On the other hand, what section of the State can be injured by the construction of either?

Reasons too, not only local, but general in their nature. The wise man has said "To every thing Speaker. there is a season, and a time for every purpose under the heaven." In full accordance with this we believe that the time has come because they propose to pass through sections of the country adapted particularly to the growth of articles finding a ready consumption in the cities of New York and Philadelphia. Secondly, because their unexampled increase in population demands a more extended cultivation of garden luxuries, to place them within reach of the laboring poor of these cities. Thirdly, because the increased and riculture, would enable our waste lands, by my ability; yet having but a limited experithe market facilities thus afforded, to be successfully and profitably cultivated. Fourthly, May I not confidently claim your indulgence many of them embedded in our soil, waiting of embarrassment and doubt. to be diffused, to return their full benefits to the agricultre of the State, point this out emphatically as the time and season for the legislature to render all the aid in their power, often that the lower counties have asked for very important legislation especially for should certainly be an evidence to that body, that when they do ask, it must be for something well worthy their consideration. We shall watch their proceedings with an unusual Mott nominated C. C. Hoagland, for that degree of interest.

GRAMAM FOR FEBRUARY .- This number comes to us bearing the richness of Art and Literature. Our old friend John Sartain, is now embodied with its interests, and in this number is one of his beauties of Art, the proposed Colossal Equestrian Statue of Washington, at which every American should look with joy unspeakable, appears.

The Daily True American of Jan. 12, says, there was quite a number in attendance at the State House yesterday afternoon to witness the organization of the Legislature. The Lobbies and Galleries were filled, a sprinkling of ladies being visable among the sterner sex: Every thing went off smoothly, and iu a few days the embarrasment of the new members will wear off, and the business of Legislation will go on without difficulty. There is an unusual number of new members in the presneedless to speak: our object in this article ent session, the natural result of the District being to call upon our citizens to use every | System. Re-organization of the Navy.-The Report accompanied by a bill, which was presented to the United States Senate on Monday, by Commodore Stockton, proposing a re-organization of the Navy, recommends a and ere long we may expect the work com- retired list as indispensable to the efficiency of the service, and deprecates promotion by seniority of commission, without regard to other considerations. It holds that as officers in command are sometimes required to compete with the highest professional talent of Europe, and to exercise great discretion in the protection of our commercial marine, they should be selected with a proper regard for their suitability to such command. It approves of the ranks of Commander, Lieutennts Commanding, and Second Lieutenants, but suggests the abolishment of the grade of Masters and Passed Midshipmen. For the seamen it recommends such increase of pay as will approximate the amount paid by the comnercial marine, and proposes rewards of merbesides opening the way to promotion to the sailor boy whose conduct is worthy of it. Older Still -The notice, says the Salem Standard, of an old book belonging to Mr. ing about the fifteenth of the present month. Harrison, made in our paper of December | The work has been driven with all possible Physician, which is ordinarily attained only 22d, has drawn forth the following from the Rev. J. J. Helm, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian Church of this town:

MESSRS. EDITORS:-I have in my library book older by 50 years than Mr. Harrison's Dictionary. It is a thin quarto, in fine pre servation; and shows less progress in your art n 300 years than in many other arts .- The olume contains two sermons and one tract in Latin, by Carolus Capellus, printed, one at Vienna, January 31, 1527; another at Prague, April 30, 1537, and the third at Veice, November 1, 1544. Baltimore; Jan, 12. who was last spring abducted from Chester on trial in the Baltimore County Circuit for feedom, was decided this afternoon, by a verdict granting her, her freedom. Rachel, it will be recollected, was taken away on the allegation that she was a fugitive slave, and the case has excited the liveliest interest among the citizens of Chester county, where she had resided from childhood. The Brooklyn Corporation have taken measures to work two avenues through the grounds of the United States now occunied by the Navy Yard, and the United States authorities have stopped the supplies for improvement at the Navy Yard; and intimate that if the Brooklyn authorities insists upon making the improvements, they shall consider the expediency of removing the Na-

One man had a thigh broken, a second had a leg broken and the 3d was considerably injured.

A Noble Gift. - The New York Commercial is authorized to say that a gentleman who attended the Madiai meeting in New York on Friday evening, at the Metropolitan Hall, sent to the American Bible Society on the next morning, a check for ten thousand dollars to aid in circulating the Bible, the book so universally favorable to civil and religious liberty, and so dreaded by all tyrants.

SUPPOSED MURDER.

Coroner Thompson was called on Monday last to hold an inquest on the body of a man named Joseph Johnson. Said body was found lying in the road near "Cool Run," in the vicinity of Turnip Hill, in this County, at 9 o'clock, on Monday morning, with the juglar vein severed, and with three distinct cuts on the left side of the throat: there was also a bruise in the forehead. About 260 feet from the body was found a large quantity of blood, and near at hand an axe belonging the First Presbyterian church. The mem- to the deceased, upon the helve of whi were distinct marks of two bloody hands. Forty-eight feet from the axe was found the churches. The Chief Marshal will then form hat, and drops of blood were discovered on the intervening space. No blood was found on the carth near the body, and the circum stances indicate that after the murder the body was conveyed to the road, where it was finally discovered. - Johnson was a married man, about 35 years of age, and a resident of Allowaystown, at which place he was last seen on Sunday morning. The waunds were evidently inflicted by the axe of the deceased and it is the opinion of many that he came to his death in a drunken fight. At the time of our going to press the Coroner's jury had not agreed upon a verdict.

> A Lamantable Occurrence .- One day last week in Pittsgrove a most distressing casuality took place in the family of a person whose name we did not learn. The particulars as we heard them are these. While talking about the execution of Treadway, a little son inquired of his father how they hung people. The father took a handkerchief and put it around his son's neck and showed him. Sometime afterwords, in the absence of his parents the boy took a handkerchief and proeceded to experiment with an infant sisterlying in the cradle, and suspended her till she was dead. - Constitution.

Few men, numbering so few years, have passed away from among us, who have made so favorable an impression, upon the community as did Dr. Porter. He had many and warm friends, such as it is not only a pleasure but an honour to possess, whose appreciation of his many excellent qualities gives additional poignancy to their grief, at his early removal. He commenced the practice of medieine at Greenwich in the spring of 1849, where his naturally superior qualities of mind, his attainments in medical science, high sense of moral rectitude, good address courteous and kind manners, and untiring devotion to his profession, gained for him in an unusually short time, that confidence and esteem as a speed; and we are now informed that on or by years of unremitted attention. WANTED 1000 Bushcls Clover Seed To get out with Hibb's Patent Clover Huller and Cleaner. THE Subscribers having purchased Hinn's Pattent Clover Huller and Cleaner, are now propared to get out Clover Seed any where in the County of Cumberland. The Machine is superior any ever introduced into this County. It does not break or injure the seed, taking it out and cleaning it by one operation, and owing to the peculiar combination and arrangement of parts the Fuller is not liable to be injured by stones, nails, etc., which prove so fatal to other Machines of the kind. The Dust so annoying to those operating with other Machines, is carried off in one direction by the wind from the fun, causing but little more inains, English and American de lains, Persian onvenience than cleaning common grain. From the repeated and thorough trials to which this Machine has been subjected, and the satisfac-tion given where it has been used, the subscribers feel warranted in thus calling the attention of Clover Raisers to their Machine, fully convinced, that . when seen in operation, they will be actisfied of its superiority over all other Hullers. Important Information for Rheumatics. Haddonfield, March 23th, 1852. Dr. Steelling-Dear Sir-Some time since I was attacked with a severe Inflammatory Rheumatism, was entirely bedridden, and could get no relief. ustil I made trial of your Rheumatic Liniment, which entirely cured me, after I used two bottles of it. I would observe that before using your Liniment, I had a physician, but derived no bene fit from his medicines. I have also been cured o a severe attack of Lumbago by the same Liniment. My wife had a severe attack of Rheumatism, which entirely deprived her of the use of one of her hip joints; she used two bottles of your Liniment and was cutirely cured. I could also relate several other cases of Rheumatism, where I have recommended it, which were also cured by Steelling's Liniment. Yours truly,

hia, Nov. 2, 1851. DR .STEELING-Dear Sir:-In compliance with your request, that I should express my opinion of of your Pulmonary Syrup, I am happy to say that having very frequently used it in my family for various pulnonary complaints, for several years past, and particularly for croup amongst our chil-dren, to which they have been more or less subject, we have always found the most beneficial results from its use. Upon the appearance of this diseacs we apply at once to your Pulmonary Syrup; and when the symptoms are severe, we double, and sometimes treble the dose recommended in your printed directions, which speedily produces sick-ness and vomiting, after which the system becomes relaxed, perspiration ensues, the alarming symptoms are removed, and, through the blessing Providence upon the means used, the sufferer is soon restored to health. Knowing you to be an old and experienced physician, your Pulmonary Syrup is, doubtless, the result of much labor and experience; and as it has been a kind friend in my family, I do most cordially recommend it to the notice of all, but most particularly to mothers, who might save their children many a severe pang, by always keeping a supply of your Syrup on hand and giving it immediately upon the first appear ance of any of those diseases for which it is re DAVID W.
