Though absent from me row, sweet friend, Thy voice I seem to hear; How soft and mild those gentle tones Fall on my listening car. Thy form is with me in my dreams At midnight's lonely hour, And whispers to my lonely soul In tones of thrilling power. 'Tis then the memory of the past, And future prospects bright, Portrayed in all their loveliness, Come hovering to my sight. Alas! those scenes have passed away, And all their joys are fled; The dreams of fancy all are gone, The fires of Hope are dead!

MORAL

From the New York Organ. Primitive Causes of Female Error.

BY MRS. EFFIE FORREST. Shall beauty blighted in an hour Find joy within her broken bower? No: gayer insects fluttering by Ne'er droop the wing on those that die, And lovelier things have mercy To every failing but their own, And every woe a tear can claim, Except an erring sister's shame .- Bynon.

It was long thought that all intercourse with vicious women, or even knowledge of them, was incompatible with female purity; and Woman when she should, in virtue of her sex, have stood forth as the champion and defender of her unfortunate sisters-to arrest the falling-to protect the fallen-has turned against them, armed in all the terrors of her but too happy to avail himself of her sad mistake-I caunot believe it was ever a wilful wrong. Woman has done this when she might have reared a wall of impenetrable sanctity round many a desolate being, who would gladly have returned to the paths of peace and virtue, were they not all closed against her. She imagines it an obligation she owes to her own virtue, to bar her doors against the slightest suspicion of frailty, and plant her foot on the prostrate neck of the fallen. She assists-nay, she frequently determines the commission of the crime-and then punishes the offender as no other criminal is punished.

There are hundreds—and I dout not thousands, among the ladies of this and other large cities - and they may be found in what are called all the better classes -not the Fashionable alone, but the Moral and Religious are not exempt—whose vanity leads them to obtain the largest possible amount of display with the smallest possible means. In the materials of dress they will not stint themselves. These must be fine, and rich, and full. In order to meet this exorbitant draught on the purse, there must be retrenchment somewhere. This is often abstracted from the prices paid for the work-extorted from the straining eyes, the quivering nerves, and the failing life of the miserable worker. To large business establishment, who, by making cruel demands on the persons she employs, can afford work at cheap rates. Thus all the vital energies of the poor victim are wrought into the graceful cap, or flutter in the graniture of the dashing hat; while her very heart's blossom in mockery on the embroidered robe.

Let it no longer be said that pious women

-so called-come into our churches flaunting in garments, from the making of which their own covetousness-their own criminal vapity-had abstracted the price of Virtue-the price of Life. They may envelope themselves in their robes of tenfold sanctity; but through all the dark plague-spots will appear -crimson stains of the immolated Purityof the martyred Life-that was folded in every plait, and wrought in every seam. Let us learn that it is not only better but wiser to prevent error, than to punish it .-Let us cherish, under ALL circumstances, the inalienable tenderness, and generous devotion, which are essential elements of the female character, remembering that

"Sunshine broken in the rill, Though turned astray, is sunshine still."

From the New York Organ. THE SELF-TORMENTOR.

There is no end to the complaints which we hear uttered against the hard fate, the umberless sorrows to which the human race is exposed in this world. We are told that this world is a vale of tears, a dark, gloomy wilderness, a vast thornfield and the travellers through it are exposed to all sorts of trials

Now if these complaints are true, or even believed to be true we should in reason expect that people would refrain from adding to the general inconvenience and troubles of life by manufacturing new and additional ones. -Yet as a matter of daily experience, we find that a large propertion of men and women too own immaculate virtue; while Man has been are constantly and zealously engaged in inventing troubles and imagining evils which have no shadow of reality, but with which the inventors contrive to plague and worry themselves as much as they possibly could with the most substantial realities. It would be ludicrous, if it were not profoundly melancholly to notice the perverse ingenuity and industry with which many people pursue this business of tormenting themselves with imaginary sufferings. In spite of all that Providence lavishes upon them, they will be miserable, and you cannot persuade them out of it. How strange a being man is, and how certain it is that he is his own worst enemy. In nine cases out of ten, we have no doubt, could we sift out the grounds upon which people are miserable, we should find that the real troubles bore a very small proportion to the imagined ones. How long shall we keep up this folly? Why not be satisfied with grumbling over the actual ills of life, rather than tax our imaginations to create a new batch every day?

A WORD TO POOR YOUNG MEN.

A sagacious old man said to a poor young friend of his—"Never despair, never be idle, never stop trying." That is a piece of advice which every poor man should act upon, if he desires to occupy a respectable place in this end they apply to the directress of some the memory of his fellow men. Resolution, energy and courage combined, constitute the gate-way through which many a poor and almost friendless youth has entered to the Temple of Fame. The poor young man must depend on his own efforts, if he expects to acquire for himself "a name the world will not blood goes to color the gorgeous flowers that | willingly let die." He should not be afraid to think, to judge, to decide, to act for himself. A timid mind is always inactive, and is sure to acquire a habit of indecision which weakens its powers; while the bold, strong mind leaves an impress which is sure to command the relege. We know that many and varied diffi-conviction that what women has attained culties beset the path of him who starts from in ages past, woman may yet achieve. the ranks of poverty to win by his own exertions, a name and a place among the giant in-tellects of the country, and that he does not of the land, which he should to persevere in and will gain the respect and esteem of his felmendable in man.

The man whose conscience lashes him for bright and beautiful one fade from his emearly frost; bows his head above the palid face of the prostrate form below him, and sighs in the agony of his soul, "Let me sleep!"—
"Sleep with the loved one, whose smile shall never welcome my footsteps more."

"Let me sleep," says the traveller, who, foot sore and weary has toiled long in the world, and seen hopes perish unfulfilled; joys wither ere they were tasted; friendships which he thought enduring, changing hue like the chameleon, and rainbow promises fading and melting into colorless air, "O, Let me sleep, for I am weary." UPPER PITTSGROVE, Salem Co., N. J.

Sir-Your circular of inquiries was handed me by my father a few days since, accompanied with the request that I would reply to it, Therefore, in accordance with the request contained therein. I herewith proceed to transmit you what little information I possess in relation to the condition of agaiculture in our portion of the State.

The condition of agriculture is rapidly advancing, and the spirit of improvement is evidently abroad. The farmer, of late years, has become awakened to the importance attached to this branch of national industry. A society for the promotion of agriculture, and other in-"Salem County Agricultural Society." --Scarcely two years have elapsed since the practicability of establishing something of this order was first suggested by a number of our most enterprising farmers; and the consequence has been, during that period, a goodly number of members have been enlisted in its cause. The society, therefore, having been organized under these favorable auspices, has proceeded thus far with surprising success, and at its first annual exhibition, held October 3, 1850, it surpassed the most sanguine expectations portion of "little Jersey" to stand on a l of equality with any State in our Union.

With these preliminary remarks, I will proceed to answer, as briefly as possible, your inquiries in regard to our great stapleswheat. Indian corn. &c. There has been a great increase in the production of these articles within the last ten years, both in the land cultivated.

The variety of wheat most cultivated in our locality at present is the Mediterranean .-Formerly the white smooth-head was considered to yield more to the acre than any other; but upon the introduction of the Mediterranean, it was almost entirely abandoned. This species will produce from 15 to 25 bushels per acre—average, 20 bushels, should the season not prove unfavorable. Placing the average, therefore, at 20 bushels to the acre,

Another reason for so much ill-health is the rendiness of our people to be humbugged with quackery. By over-eating, or some other infringement of the laws of health, they bring upon themselves aches and pains, wea-riness and sickness, and then down goes blew pill, or red pepper drops, or sarsaparilla, or tomato extract, or cordials, or bitters, in some of their infinite varieties. Meanwhile, the patient's chance of recovery would be much increased by an entire rejection of these nostrums; and especially by tracing his sufferings to their causes, and avoiding them.

This it is a religious duty to do. Man receives his birth in time for the purpose of receiving an education for the future. How is this education to go on unless the body has health sufficient to aid the mind? How shall we work while it is day, if we have no health to support us in work, either spiritual or temporal? There should be, therefore, a consecentious and religious regard for the bodily health. Where there is not, there comes, as length, a fearful retribution.

Agricultural Dep't. of Union Academy. The Agricultural department of Shiloh Academy have now in their service Professor Gurdon Evans, who is engaged in lecturing, instructing a class and the analysis of soils, marls, Guano, &c.

This offers a favorable opportunity to such as wish to obtain the analysis of any Agricultural or mineral substance.

For the benefit of such as desire the analysis of soils the following directions are given: Collect samples of a pint or more from various parts of the field at a little distance below the surface, after mixing the several samples thoroughly take from it a pound after it is dried. Label it carefully and forward it either to the care of Isaac West, Shiloh, or H. J. Mulford, Bridgeton. Any other articles may be sent in the same way. The charges for the analysis of a soil, together with practical specifications for the growth of crops is $4.00, for a marl $5.00, and for other substances made in proportion to the relative labor of the analysis. This opportunity will remain about six weeks.

AIR-LINE RAILROAD.

The bill authorizing the Air Line Road, says the State Gazette of February 16th, passed the House yesterday, 32 to 21. The details of the route will be found in another column. There is a rumor afloat that effort will be made to procure a reconsideration. How this will result cannot be predicted.

The mention of reconsideration brings to our mind some ideas that have heretofor occurred to us in this connexion. By the rules a passed bill can be reconsidered by the vote of a majority of the whole number of members of the House of Assembly. Efforts to procure a reconsideration are often made, with the hope that the bill will fail upon a second attempt to effect its final passage. A vote for reconsideration is asked even from members who supported and still approve the bill as a personal favor, as common politenes, and with the condescending assurance that after bill will not give the slightest offience. This is a venerable artifice. Reconsideration is excusable where a vote has been given inconsiderately, hastily, or in ignorance of the best information. But where members have voted deliberately with a knowlede of all the facts. and are satisfied that the sense of the House has been honestly expressed, they should listen to no such ingenious persuasions.

Powerful and corrupt influences from external sources may be successfully exerted to defeat any bill after reconsideration. Even an opponent of a bill that has been fairly discussed and passed should sustain the action of the majority, and one who has voted for that bill, cannot support its reconsideration, without incurring the charge of being its en-

The Catholics and the Common Schools. -A bill has been introduced into the Legislature of Michigan providing "that any qualified teacher may establish a private school, within any district, and on presenting a certificate of the number of children taught by him, may draw his proportion of the public Moneys." It is worthy of remark, that this is precisely the same measure urged in Pennsylvania by the Bishop of Pittsburgh, and in N. York by Archbishop Hughes.

We understand that such a bill is in contemplation in New Jersey, and we say in advance that we trust the proposition will be voted down immediately. The real effect of any such law would be to destroy the Common School system of New Jersey, and to structing a vault in the Surveyors General's substitute in its place a system suggestive of great evils, If we would remain a nation of freemen, and preserve the spirit of those who founded this land of civil and religious liberty, we must oppose any attempt to weaken the great principle of Common Schools supported by the funds of the State. Burglaries and Burglars .-- Aman charged with breaking into and robbing a store in Philadelphia, was arrested at Allowaystown. in this county, on Tuesday evening, and conveyed to Philadelphia on Wednesday morning. The police officer who had him in charge nformed several of our citizens that a gang of burglars were in this county, several of whom he professed to have recognized.

On Thursday night following the capture of the above burglar, the house of Jonathan Freedland was entered and robbed. Mr. F. resides on the Mannington road, two miles north of Salem. The burglars bored through the cellar-door, and thus gained admission. The housekeeper heard a slight noise about half-past one o'clock, but did not deem it of sufficient importance to raise an alarm. The lower story was completely ransacked, and all the silver, amounting to about $100 in value, was taken. Mr. F's. bed-room was entered, and a drawer, containing articles of clothing taken from about two feet of the head of hi bed, removed to the kitchen, and strewn about. They also helped themselves freely to edibles in the cellar. Several pieces of silver taken were highly valued by Mr. F.-having been in the family two or three gene-

The same night, the house of James W. Mecum of Salem, was entered, the burglars boring many holes through a back door, and taking out a piece sufficiently large to admit the arm and unfasten the bolts. They bored several holes into his secretary but found no money. Their booty here consisted of about one dozen spoons.

Again the same night several attempts were made to enter the residence of Richard M. Acton in Salem; Mrs. Acton was aroused Feb. 19, '53 by the noise, and, in raising the window, discerned men boring into one of the back doors. She called to them, when they made off. half later, the attempt was repeated, and they were again heard and driven off without effecting an entrance. - Salem Standard.

Washington and New York Rail Road

The reader will find in to-day's paper, copy of a bill for an air-line road from Was ington to New York, via Baltimore and Philadelphia. The rapid transition of the mails from New York to Washington has become so important, that many in Congress deem it advisable to improve means of communication between those points. Complaints are made of tardiness, delay, and imperfect accommodations by the present lines.

The notion, also, has gained credence that New Jersey makes citizens of other states pay happy result was brought about by the introduction of ventilators.

Now, that tax, though determined in amount, by the number of persons travelling across the State, is in principle the same as a percentage upon the rate of fare. But still this mistake prevails, after numberless explanations, and will have its effect upon the national legislature.

As to the right, there is no doubt. Conress has power under the authority given by he constitution, to make post-roads, and no particular material is specified.

Woman's Influence in Congress .- A Washington correspondent of the New York Commercial, attributes the loss of the N. Y. Mint Bill to a woman. It seems that Mr. Price, of New Jersey, who was in favor of the bill, was stopped in the lobby by a lady, who held him by the button until after his name had been called and the vote declared. The result was 87 to 88. The vote of Mr. Price would have made a tie, and the Speaker was in favor of the bill. And it came to pass they were named Knockers but they called themselves Mediums and they continued to spread abroad their revalations: saying that in the spirit world were seven circles of harpiness, each exceeding the other in delight and that apostles and martyrs were below one Paine, (who, while on Earth blusphemed God and wished to establish a system in which was not found virtue or morality) and that Napoleon and Wellington (of whose acts all are informed) had quarrelled respecting the battle of Waterloo and many other things in like manner they published. And it came to pass when the people heard these things they are gone mad. But some believed these things and continued to dwell upon them, until they became mad of a truth and were taken to places called asylums for the mad. And much mischief was wrought in this way, by their sayings. And it came to pass that the ministers stood up before the people and said, be ye not deceived, believe not these knockers for they seek to lead astray the children of men. The to be holden Scripture saith "try your spirits," see whether they be of God. In olden time the spirits cast out devils, healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, caused the dumb to speak and the deaf to hear and the lame man to leap as an hart; now the greatest wonders these spirits can do is to move a table or overturn a chair. They are led by a sect called Infidels and their object is to destroy the scriptures, especially that which saith "the wicked shall be turned into hell with all the nations that forget God." The Cape Town Mail of the 18th says that few events had occurred since the departure of the last steamer, which can be regarded as indicative of the prospects of the war. None of the proscribed chiefs had yet been given up. Twenty of Montague's horse, under Captain Villers, had been surprised at Koishmakock by thirty minutes and it moved not, then one of 100 Hottontots. The party fled and left five guns and horses in the bands of the enemy. One of the Uitharlders chief, taken prisoner, states that the total of their loss throughout the war amounts only to 120 men. General Catheart, with 2500 men of all arms, crossed The power with which the water was thrown it move itself, and one of the damsels answered I did assist to move it, and another said I

The Rights of Woman .- A bill is before the Senate of New Jersey, which provides: Sec. 1. Gives married women the power of devising and conveying their property without the consent of their husbands. Sec 2. Makes the separate property of married women liable for their ante-nuptial debts, and exonorates the husband. Sec. 3. Allows married women to prose

> The California News .- The steamships Northern Light and Uncle Sam which arrived at New York on Sunday, brought San Francisco papers to the 15th of January. The intelligence possesses a painful interest. Famine had done its fell work within the snow beleargued gourges of the mountains, and some of the miners had absolutely died of starvation. The destitution was not confined to solitary and scattered instances, but it seems to nave affected entire communities, situated in emote districts, which had been rendered almost inaccessible from a number of causes. the principal of which was the inundation of the roads and the destruction of bridges by the immense floods. Each vessel on its arrival at the port of San Francisco presented bill of mortality that was truly alarming. On the passage of the steamship Cortes, from Panama to San Francisco, no less than twentyseven of her passengers were consigned to the rolling waters of the pacific, all of whom died from dysentery and fever, diseases which were engendered in the transit across the isthmus. On the steamer S. S. Lewis, eleven deaths occurred; on the steamer Panama, there were eight deaths, and on the California five: besides four on the Winfield Scott, and a number on sailing vessels.

The Strike for Wages .- The papers of thousand men from the workshops of the and engineers of the transportation trains, have combined to exact higher-wages from their employers. None but passenger trains.

Seized as the property of Martha Coleman and heir employers. None but passenger trains are running on the road, and engineers for the passenger trains can only be obtained by high premiums. A meeting was held at Monument Square, attended by about 3,000 men. The operatives from several of the large manufacturing establishments in Baltimore have united in the movement. They demand an increase of wages to the amount of 15 per ct.

The Steam Fire Engine. - At a fire in Cincinnati, on Tuesday last, the steam fire engine, for the first time, gave a practical demonstration of its powers. The Equirer says that at the first sound of the alarm, four horses were atsched to it, and in the short Vine, where it was put in operation, by supplying the engines of the 8s and Independent No. 2s with more water than they could use.

Ned Rail Road .- The Bill authorizing the N. J. Rail Road Co., to increase their capital $5,000,000, with power and privileges to widen Bergen out; enlarge their bridges, depote car and engine houses, and increase their number of tracks with improvements in Ferry and Rail Road accommodations at Jersey Lor. Large bottles 27½ cts. Small bottles 25 cts.

Philadelphia, Nov. 2, 1851.

Dr. Steeling—Dear Sir.—In compliance with DE STEELING—Dear Sir:—In compliance with your request, that I should express my opinion of of your Pulmonary Syrup, I am happy to say that having very frequently used it in my family for various pulmonary complaints, for several years past, and particularly for croup amongst our children have been more or less subject ren, to which they have been more or less subject, dren, to which they have been more or less subject, we have always found the most beneficial results from its use. Upon the appearance of this discass we apply at once to your Pulmonary Syru; and when the symptoms are severe, we double, at d sometimes treble the dose recommended in your printed directions, which speedily produces sickness and vomiting, after which the system becomes relaxed, perspiration ensues; the alarming symptoms are removed, and, through the blessing of Providence upon the means used, the sufferer is soon restored to health. Knowing you to be an soon restored to health. Knowing you to be an old and experienced physician, your Pulmonary Syrup is, doubtless, the result of much labor and experience; and as it has been a kind friend in my family, I do most cordially recommend it to the notice of all, but most particularly to mothers, who might save their children many a severe pang, by always keeping, a symbol of your Syrup of the particularly to mothers. always keeping a supply of your Syrip on hand, and giving it immediately upon the first appear-ance of any of those diseases for which it is reence of any of those diseases for which commended.
