For the West Jersey Pioneer. LINES FOR AN ALBUM.

BY ESTELLA MAURICE.

May peace descend and fold her wings Within thy quiet, happy home; And may Faith strike the golden strings Which tell of brighter joys to come.

May Hope her fairest garlands wreathe, To cheer thee on thy pilgrim way; May Happiness around thee breathe, And fair Truth guard thee day by day.

May all things beautiful and fair, Attend thy wanderings here below, And then in Heaven may'st thou share The joys which none but angels know. Shiloh, March, 1853.

Behold that lovely bride beside her grocom, "In the sweet pange of love," Affections powers prove; All other ties are weak: see her leave home, And friends of former years;-

How calm her face appears!

How firm her heart to meet whate'ere may come To one so loving? No! I can-not think it so. He loves her as his life, and he will find Her love as strong as his, --

Oh womans love! 'tis this Which firmly joins together all mankind When thus we sever from our early friends, A pang of pain we feel, Which few can well conceal: 'Tis then imagination kindly lends Her aid, and with her hand

She paints a happy land Where grief at separation ne'er impends. On earth are all these sorrows kindly given, Which we are doomed to bear. And every anxious care,

That we may relish more the sweets of heaven; That after the last look At earth, by "The Good Book" Directed, we may soar 'mongst the forgiven. Pennsgrove, March, 1853.

Trifles Reveal Character.

That character and disposition are very plainly revealed by actions usually accounted trivial or insignificant, is an observation we have occasion to make almost daily. judge of human character very much according to this maxim. Shrewd people make shrewd guesses in this way. We have recently heard of one very shrewd old man, who made an application of this principle of judgment to assist his son in choosing a wife. Well knowing that any one who loved to see things life burns low, and its light is fast dying away.

Worn and exhausted, these sons of genius lay themselves down and sleep their last, long up; this old man is said to have told his son never to select one for his wife who would step over a broom, or pass anything by, which could be very easily put into a more proper place. The son taking advantage of this hint from the shrewd old father, schemed it so, on some gathering of young people, that a broom should be laid in the path of some young ladies of the company. As they passed from the house to a grove for out-door recreation, some stumbled over the broomstick, and others stepped or jumped over it, till at length one young lady stooped down, picked it up, and put it away with some carefulness in an appropriate place This showed thoughtfulless, love of order, and of having things done The world stands over the graves of depar- right; and by this apparently trifling and unbecame the wife of a wealthy and well educated young man; and he the husband of a doomed to disappointment; to live unapprecia- prudent, neat, industrious, and lovely wife. We notice in the Jan No. of the Phrenological Journal, that Mr. Fowler claims that the revolations of Phrenology may go far in assisting the young in determining who are likely and who are not likely to be suitable and proper companions. He claims that his favorite science has already done much in enabling mothers and daugh ters to determine the worthiness or unworthi ness of suitors.

With so many helps to a proper choice of a life companion, we trust, unhappy marriages and ill-suited matches will almost or altogether disappear in the next generation! We much fear, however, that this consummation so much to be desired—this good time coming will arrive too late to bless our optics, or cheer our heart. We will do what we can, however, to hasten on its coming.

Annual Report of the N. J. State Lunatic Asylun MANAGERS' REPORT.

The undersigned, managers of the State Lunatic Asylum, beg leave to present their sixth annual report. During the last year, quarterly meetings of the board of managers have been regularly held, and weekly and monthly inspections have been made by one or more of the mana-gers, as required by law. As the "general result of these inspections"; the managers are CR. Paid managers and water gratified in reporting to your Excellency their entire satisfaction as to the condition of the institution, the mode in which it has been conducted, the success which has attended it and the skill, fidelity and care of those to whom the administration of its internal policy has been more particularly intrusted. Order, method and careful attention to the comfort

On the first of January, eighteen hundred and fifty-two, the number of patients in the asylum was one hundred and seventy-one. There have been received since that time and up to the first of January, 1853, one hundred bold and daring, there is little hope of im-provement for either. The best skill and most udicious treatment must fail to secure the desired results. The building is not large enough, with its present number of inmates, to enable the superintendent to use the means best calculated to promote and secure success. There is a class of patients who are more or less violent and easily excited, and who injuriously disturb those of a different character. Some of these are incurable, but the counties who send them are desirous they should be retained, and are willing to support them. The managers are of opinion that proper provision should be made, so as to separate this class from other patients, and enable the institution to retain them, when desired by the counties from which they come. This cannot ow be done, and it is not probable the number of patients will diminish. An increase is almost certain. This would have been the case during the year past, had not the number, been kept down by the managers, for want of room. At one period there were two hundred and eight patients in the building. This was more than it could accommodate.

Under these circumstances, the managers concur in the views of the superintendent, and with entire unanimity recommend the erection of two additional wings to the present building. No new officers will be needed, and the increase of expense will be small, af ter the buildings are once completed.

The appropriation of three thousand five hundred dollars was made by the legislature at its last session, for the purpose of furnish ing the asylum with an adequate supply of water; and the further sum of two thousand five hundred dollars for fixtures, improvements, and other purposes. This last was in-cluded in the general appropriation of seven thousand five hundred and seventy dollars, for the current expenses of the asylum. These the rind, cut off and threw away a good share of the cheese with it; and the third carefully lum, has been substituted for the two inch expense than heretofore. foundation than was expected. The accounts of the treasurer have been examined, and are found to be correctly stated and balanced

From Arthurs Home Gazette. A BUSINESS LIFE.

All the ends or objects for which business is, or can be prosecuted, come under one or other of two heads. Business may be prosecuted, either as a means of providing for the wants, natural and artificial, of the animal nature and the present life, or for the culture of the higher life of the spirit, and of the virtues belonging to its best estate. It is usually prosecuted for the end first-named, almost exclusively; it is sometimes prosecuted for both, though, we fear, but seldom. For it seems too generally forgotten that men are immortal > clusive end thereof. There is a danger, then, connected with business life, which it were well habitually to remember. There is danger that the higher objects with such a life may be prosecuted may be forgotten, neglected or subordinated to the lower. There is danger that the most excellent opportunities for the cultivation of praise-worthy virtues and qualities of character shall be thanklessly and unwisely neglected. There is danger, too, of falling into the opposite vices of fraud, falsehood, injustice, hard-heartedness, and greedy, grasping selfishness. For if the lower, the earth-limited end of business be exclusively aimed at, then will the pursuit of business be but a selfish worry and scramble—every man seeking his own gain and advantage, even at the expense of trampling over the rights and the advantage of others. Then will the pursuit of business be full of falsehood and fraud, pitiful scheming and contemptible trickery

REMARKABLE MEMORY.

John Franklin was a native of Canana, Litchfield county, Connecticut. An instance of his remarkable memory, when a lad of neventeen, will show that he was no ordinary hoy. Having accompanied the family to the place of worship, the meeting-house being only enclosed, but neither ceiled nor plastered, the beams and rafters were all exposed to view. John saw that his austere father sat through the sermon with great uneasiness, but could not divine the cause. On returning home, "John," said his father, "it is my duty to give you a severe thrashing, (common in old times,) and you shall have it presently, as prepare yourself."

"But you won't whip me, father, without telling me what for."

"No, certainly—your conduct at meeting, sir, is the cause. Instead of attending to the sermon, you were all the time gaping about, as if you were counting the beams and rafter

CHARACTER.

We may easily judge of a man's character by what he loves-what pleases him. If a the act approved the twenty-second of February, one thousand eight hundred and forty-nine, "granting five years" half-pay to certain widows and orphans of officers, non-commissioned officers, musicians and privates, both regular and volunteer" be so extended and regular and volunteer be so extended and regular and voluntee virtuous pursuits engage his heart and draw out his affections—we may be satisfied that he is an upright man.

GETTING ON IN THE WORLD.

There are many ways of getting on in the world, says a knowing one. It does not mean making a great deal of money, or in being conspicuous, for people to look at with wonder. Leaving off a bad habit for a good one, is getting on in the world—to be clear and tidy, instead of dirty and disorderly, is getting on in the world-to be careful and saving, instead of thoughtless and wasteful is getting on -to be active and industrious, instead of idle and lazy, is getting on—to be kind and fore-bearing instead of ill-natured and quarrelsome is getting on -to work as diligently in the naster's absence as in his presence, is getting on-in short, when we see any one properly attentive to his duties, persevering through difficulties, to gain such knowledge as shall be of use to himself and to others, offering a good example to his relatives and acquaintances, we may be sure he is getting on in the world. Money is a very useful thing in its way, but we hope to show that it is possible to get on with but small means, for it is a mistake to suppose that we must wait for a good deal of money before we can do anything. Perseverance is often better than a full purse. There is more help toward getting on than is generally supposed. Many people lag behind or miss the way altogether, because they do not see the simple and abundant means which surround them on all sides and it so happens that these means are aids which cannot be bought with money. Those who wish to get on in the world must have a

An apothecary in the country sent a lady three draughts, and on being asked what effeet they were intended to produce, said; "The first is to warm you, the second is to cool you, and the third to prevent the excessive effect of either."

The New Specie Bill-The Jour. of Commerce says of this bill: "The reduction in the intrinsic value of silver coin by the reduction in the weight, as propsed, is not only as great as the relative declension in the value of gold, But at least 4 per cent greater. We do not expect however, that it will 'call back silver to our circulation,' but that it will prevent the upon me the necessity of doing away with my new coin from being exported, and that the latter will become plenty as soon as enough can be coined."

The flouring mill of Henry M. Fine in Fineville, Warren Co. N.J., with its contents, was destroyed by fire on Saturday night week, the two millers, who slept in the mill, making their escape with some difficulty. The conflagration spreading, a wagon, corn-house, and one or two out-buildings, also an unoccupied oil mill, were consumed. The residence of Mrs. R. Bellis was much damaged, and other adjacent houses were only saved by the exertions of the citizens. In the flourishing mill where some forty barrels of superfine flour in sacks, and from eight to ten thousand dollars state. There was an insurance on the building of $4,500, but none on the stock, which was the property of Mr. Fine, upon whom the loss falls. From the Salem National Standard. THE EXECUTION OF Samuel T. Treadway.

Yesterday being the time appointed for Samuel T. Treadway to undergo the extreme penalty of the law, a large concourse of people collected in town, among which were many from the adjoining counties to witness the execution. Notwithstanding the unfavorable weather, and the previous declarations made by the Sheriff, that but a few persons would be admitted, still every one evinced a desire to get a glimpse of the unfortunate man, Throughout Monday the prisoner was engaged in prayer and praise, and showed no concern during the crection of the gallows. Four gentlemon were with him during the night, until 6 o'clock on Tuesday morning and report the prisoner as having slept sound about half an hour, the remainder, of which was spent in cheerful conversation and devotional exercise. He assured them he had no fear of death, and expressed a desire that he might be allowed to go to the gallows unbound. His cell was entered at 81 o'clock A. M., by the Rev. Mr. Young and the Rev. Mr. Wid demer, Pastors of the Baptist Churches of this place, and the Rev. Mr. Otis of the Episcopal Church. They found him calm, and he told them he felt happy, and did not dread the punishment that awaited him. Religious exercises were held in the cell in the morning by the above named Rev. gen-Widdemer, a Bible, a Hymn Book, and a one dollar note, which he wished to have present ed to his niece. The Sheriff entered the cell, 25 minutes past 11 o'clock, and the prisoner was brought

At the bottom of the scaffold, Rev. Mr. Stratten, of the Presbyterian Church read the 3d chapter of Lamentations, after which the Rev. Mr. Young addressed the throne of grace. The hymn was then sung at the request of the prisoner commencing with

The following are its dimensions: 8 feet by 9 at the base; from the bottom to the top of the platform, 7 feet 10 inches. STATEMENT BY SAMUEL T. TREADWAY. The following statement was made by Samuel T. Treadway on Friday afternoon last, to Rev. E. S. Widdemer, in regard to his lifedesigned to be given at the conclusion of the sermon over his remains at his brother's resi-

I was born in Gloucester County, New Jersey, near Woodbury, May 20th, 1811, and was blessed with a pious mother, who often advised me to do well. She repeatedly urged evil actions and serving God. I remained with my parents until I was between eighteen and nineteen years of age at which time a difficulty arose between myself and father. I then left his house, but shortly after upon his sclicitation returned home again. A second difficulty occured through my disobedience, and this was the first step to ruin—disobedience to my parents.

I again left home, and directed my course towards Pennsylvania. I there found employment on the Columbia Railroad, after which I returned to Gloucest r County again. Here I found employment upon the farm of John Jessup. From thence I went to James Jessup's upon whose premises a difficulty aworth of corn, an inconsiderable portion of rose between myself and a colored man by which has since been got out in a damaged the name of Johnson in relation to leaving open a barn door, whereupon I determined to cart whip him. In the effort of a third person to drag him away, his foot caught under a strip crossing the barn floor-he fell and broke his leg. The next day I took him to the County House, where afterward I heard he died. The third time I returned to my father's house. I then determined to leave for Louisiana. I arrived there; and remained three years in the employment of Samuel Guise. From thence I steared my course to New Orleans, remaining one summer, when I again returned to New Jersey, where I arrived late in the fall of 1841. It was at my father's house where I first to be on business relating to the seisure of the opposition to my mother's will. Difficulties which has caused a great excitement at Ha-sequence, as I believe, of both doing wrong, which ended at that time, in our separation. We again commenced keeping house together in Elsinborough, in my father's house. She soon became dissatisfied and left me the second time, leaving with me an infant. Why she left me at this time I cannot account for.

improved in health. He is sanguine of a babe under the care of my sister, Hannah speedy recovery from the effects of the sugar Cobb. I enlisted in the United States service during the war with Mexico. After serving 18 months, I again returned to New Jersey, the spring of 1849. The following August, we again commenced housekeeping together and for three years we lived happier together than ever before. The first thing that marred our happiness at this time was occasioned by a trifling thing. Namely, the sale of fowels, against her will. After this I became very much intoxicated, and if ever I threatened her life it was when under the influence of liquor. The following night she again left. This was on the 22d ted, and after a hearing released on bail before the session Court. I met my wife in front of Mr. Stout's store, in Salem. I asked her whether she would compromise the as I am determined to pay no grog or tobacco bills, as I am determined to pay no grog or tobacco bills, answer. One week from that day I went to Mr. Bilderback's house to converse again on Mr. Bilderback's house to converse again on the subject. She gave me no answer then whether she would appear against me at court not. I offered then if she would bid me good bye, I would leave this part of the country, and pay the surity money. I left her, and again met her the following Tuesday morning in Salem, when court was in session. I, for the last time, asked her whether she would court, and I was sentenced for thirty days to the County jail. I had said to her before we went together the last time, that if we ever came logether again, we would never part unless death separated us. It was while reflecting upon the disgrace of imprisonment, after my release, that I had some thoughts of putting an end to her existence, yet my mind was not fully made up at that time. When I left Elsinbourough I did not expect to kill her. I designed to visit my sister at Halltown. Neither did I pass around the house where my wife lived, as stated or supposed by some, but crossed the fields, passing over a small run, directly from the road to the house. Had I not seen my wife standing in the kitchen when I came up to the house, I would not have thought of killing her then; but the moment I saw her the thought came into my mind that if ever I did kill her, that was my best time. I fired at once without reflecting upon consequences.

When returning towards Salem from the house of Mr. Bilderback, I began to reflect seriously upon the deed committed. I then resolved to put an end to my being by drowning myself in Salem creek; and while in deep study, I saw before me in the road something in the form of a pyramid rising.-It brought a terrible feeling over me. I thought at first that it was perhaps imagination; but as I advanced it kept rising and advancing with me. The thought of committing suicide at once left me; and through a concious guilt and the belief of the presence of a supernatural vision, I cried aloud several times, "O God have mercy on me," my eyes resting on the object all the time. I attribute my ruin to two causesfirst to disobedience to my parents, and secondly to the ruinous consequences of indulging in intoxicating liquors. Let me warn all who hear of my execution to be obedient

The reports which are in circulation about my burning my child to death by sitting it upon a hot stove, I deny before God, my judge, before whom I shortly expect to stand. I do not deny threatening my wife with taking ordoned my sins. I now cherish a good feeling towards my enemies; my prayer is that they all may be forgiven. The Prohibitory Liquor Law was taken up. Mr. C. T. Day moved to re-commit the bill

The bill being read, for a prohibitory law. He knew of no objectionable or unconstitutional features in the bill. Provision had been made for distilling for proper purposes and only prohibited the sale for unnecessary purposes. Provision had also been made for a trial by jury and an appeal. He thought the bill should meet favor from the representatives of the people. There was so much to be said on the sub ject, he feared to enter on it lest he should weary the House. But he perceived that the hands of those philanthropists engaged in this work of reformation were somewhat wearied. Notwithstanding they had accomplished so much by suasive measures they were disheartened that they could not see they were not finally to prevail. The matter had been likened to persons by the side of a cataract—we should reach out our hands and pluck them out as they came to the verge of the precipice, but we should become weary as they were continually coming down. We would Hill, Hutchinson, Jackson, A. Jones, S. W. go up the stream, and arrest those who were plunging their fellows in .- So we have tri d to save inebriates by suasive measures, but we now intend to take hold of those who make them such, and stop the thing in its begin-

The friends of the Prohibitory law have prayed for it year after year, and now they demand action, without which we shall not act fairly and honorably towards our constituents. There is a high state of interest on the subject. It was said last year that public opinion was not high enough to sustain the passage of the law. Referring to an illustration of Mr. Boyle last year that the tide was not high enough to float the vessel, he said that public opinion was now high enough, and it was raised into a flood by the tears of wives and widows, fathers and mothers weeping right had been changed, and there could be legislation at this session, and heretofore, diffiover their children, ragged children weeping over their desolation, and a mighty host stretching forth their arms to the Legislature part of the State to reciprocate the support as in some cases have been asked for. To the Afflicted.

Cape May Court House, Jan. 1, 1853. THIS is to Certify that in the fall of 1847. I was attacked with a very bad cold, attended with a severe cough, which continued for some eight weeks, the latter part of which time I raised large quantities of Blood, attended with Fever and Night Sweats; during all which time my Cough increased in violence, so much so, that I, and also my friends, became alarmed about my case. I had tried various remedies, which had little or no effect, until I was induced to give Brauster's Pectoral Mixture a trial, less than one bottle of which entirely cured my case, to which I cheerfully bear my testimony.

Wotice to the World.

Dr. HGUCK'S PANACEA s the only medicine for which the Government of the United States has ever granted a patentcause they considered it the greatest discovery in edicine ever made; and that it was destined to ave the lives of millions of the human family.-This decision alone should be sufficient to remove all doubt from the minds of every one as to its superlative excellence in conquering disease, and its ranscendant power-to heal.

By Purifying the Blood,
It will cure Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, White Swellings, Measles, Ulcers, Sores, Biles, Eruptions, Blotches, and all cutaneous diseases. By Regulating and Cleansing the Stomach & Bowels,

It cures Inflammation, Indigestion, Dyspepsia Sick Headache, Vomiting, Loss of Appetite, Fainting, Costiveness, Leoseness, Piles, &c. By Strengthening the Digestive, and Regulating the Secretive Organs.

By Quieting the Nervous System,

the eure of Female Complaints. It works wonders in cases of Fluor Albus or whites Falling of the womb, obstructed, suppressed, or painful Mensis, irregularity of the Menstrual Periods and the like, and it is as effectual in curing all forms of Kidney Disease and Liver Complaint. From the powerful alterative properties of this medicine, it is well calculated for diseases of the Liver, which is the great centre of the bile, and is the seat of a variety of diseases peculiar to that or gan, and when diseased or obstructed is the excit ing cause of many ailments which are of frequent occurrence, such as jaundice, bilious disorders costiveness, piles, headache, drowsiness, pain i the side, sickness of the stomach, indigestion. Discases of Children To no class of human beings is Dr. Houck's Panand children. Now we hesitate not to declare, that Children need not Die More than others, if they are sustained by suitable nourishment, and that medicine which is best adapted to their delicate organs and tender years .-Mothers, if you wish to preserve the lives of your children; if you wish to give them a medicine which you may be absolutely certain will not, cannot do them injury, which will infallibly and speedily cure them; if anything on earth can do it, Dr Houck's Panacea will. Fail not to use it ere it be

Diseases of the Lungs,

As Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Catarrh, Pneumonia Bronchitis, Consumption. This Great Remedy Is composed of rare and valuable herbs, the properties of which act in harmony with the functions of the human system, calming the nerves, allaying all irritation and pain, dispelling inflammation, and diffusing its Healing & Soothing Properties to every part of the body. The estimation entertained of it by medical men may be infered from the extensive use they make of it in many diseases, for which they possessed no reliable remedy until it was found in DR. HOUCK'S PANACEA.

Price Reduced. Dr. Houck, at the carnest solicitation of thousands, has determined to reduce the price of this great and good medicine to ONE DOLLAR-PER BOT-TLE, thereby placing it within the reach of all.— His only desire is that it may have a range as universal as it is competent to airest the whole catalogue of diseases with which humanity is afflicted. He will then be content, because he will be sure that its virtues are widely spread, and the family of man receiving a benefit and enjoying a blessing to which it has heretofore been a stranger, and in that belief his philanthropy will be gratified and happiness complete.
