Choire Poetry.

From Gleason's Pictorial. KEEP AT WORK.

BY NEALE BERNARD. Busy hands are apt and pliant. Hopeful hearts are warm and bright; Labor's voice bids strong-armed, giant Drones arouse their inert might.

Laggards have no title places, No great good in future store; No stern eyes, nor honest faces. No frank hearts to truth outpour. None but stalwort labor-learners, Toilers never ceasing strife, Can attain to earth-discerners Of the true and perfect life. Out rude masses forms of beauty

Life-like spring from master hand; So good deeds from faith and duty, Emanate to bless our land, World-wide toilers, skilful moulders, Delvers in the glorious arts. Ye are nations' dest'ny holders, Men of brave and honest hearts. Curbers of the lightnings subtiles, Weavers of consummate skill. Through the loom the darting shuttle Speed ye, working wonders still. Nations' wealth and power and blessing, Shapers of a country's fate,

To construct and re-create. Keep at work! Toil keeps hand and heart from rusting, Buoyant soul, unfettered mind; Look back hopeful, forward trusting

Good reward's above enshrined.

Proud are we such worth possessing,

From the American Artisan. CAN I FORGET THE PAST.

Some joys I can forget; For on my path and round my heart A light they shed, a balm impart, And these I cherish yet.

Some friends I love well, For they have watched my early years, Have soothed my grief and calmed my fears. And more I fain would tell.

Some flowers are dear to me; I've culled them in the sweet wild woods, Where forest birds and gurgling floods Sing in sweet harmony.

Some scenes I love to view. As they before my mind return, Like ashes from dear memory's urn, With colors faded few.

The whole bright past I love, Though darkly dawns the present, now, I will not let it cloud my brow,

For oh, there is in life For every thorn a fragrant flower, For each sad day a happy hour, With jox and pleasure rife. Then why should we be grieved When to our lips is handed up Affliction's bitter bitter cup, With cypress darkly wreathed?

For oh, there is a power, That, while it wounds will ever bless, Our cares beguile, our griefs repress, In sorrow's darkest hour. Oh, then let us resign Ourselves, our fate, to that kind hand Who made and keeps us by command, And feel He is Divine.

darkened visage of its miserable habitants. But we have other causes for merriment other reasons to rejoice, than those furnished by the visible objects around us. And cold must be that pleasure, and lifeless that enjoyment, that does not find some avenue through which to escape; that does not find some means to display itself to the beholder. The happiness of that individual must be but half complete, who can smother it within his own breast; indeed it can searcely be called happiness; or if be, it has that sordid selfish hue. so much resembling the diabolical, yet boasted joy of black revenge, that it is unworthy of the name—while that delight which flows from the innocent heart, and lights up the countenance with the brilliancy of smiles, or falls upon the ear in peals of harmonious glee, diffuses itself upon all around, producing the same effect upon others that we observe in ourselves, and their happiness in its turn, flows back to us, so that we 'By giving, increase our store And lighten the hearts of many more.'

Like the uncorken vessel of rich perfume, the joyous heart that dispenses its freely received gifts, allows a constant current of grateful fragrance, to issue from its odorifcrous contents, which is wafted upon the balmy breeze, or mingled with the soft, sweet breath of heaven, but loses nothing by imparting. Well then may we appreciate the following sentiment-

"Had I but one hour to live, That little hour to bliss I'd give!"

AGRICULTURE

PULVERIZE THE SOIL

Mr. Peter Love, an Englishman of some distinction, has written a letter to the Mark Lane Express, in which he makes the following remarks, on the action of plows. He says:—

"If it be a fact that the primary object of cultivation for the production of the various agricultural crops, is a well pulverized soil and porous subsoil, then the farmers ought to draw out the ingenuity of our agricultural mechanics, by giving prizes for those plows that will invert without smoothing and smearing the under strata, and most effectually pulverize the greatest quantity of land a given depth with the least amount of power, instead, as the present practice is by all our agricultural societies, of awarding prizes to those plows that cut a furrow with all three of its cut sides well smoothed and smeared up There are beings, upon whom the chill and turned over in as unbroken a state as possible, so that it will shine from one end to the other, like a well moulded piece of concrete, and the bottom of the farrow well polished over by the friction of a broad-soled landside and rest, thus rendering the under strata almost impervious to air or water." If we could have a plow so made that it would, in the act of inverting the furrow slice breake it into pieces, and pass over the bottom of the furrow without the friction of any cheering ray of gladness, to penetrate their tom of the furrow without the friction of any adamantine hearts, and whose blood must be smooth surface of iron or other material be chilled in their veins, having lost all warmth ing drawn over, closing up all the pores and and animation. Philadelphia & the West Jersey Railroad

The following extract from the Philadelphia "North American and Gazette" of the 15th inst., while giving our readers an idea of the importance of the Southern trade, will that city to explode the "Air Line project" from New York to the South:

"A project is now in process of development, having for its object the connection of Norfolk, Va., with New York, by a line which is as nearly direct as can be made, and which cuts off both Baltimore and Philadelphia from the route. The purpose evidently and 3-4 hours. is to enable our neighbors at the mouth of the Hudson to monopolize the trade of the South, which is of immense value, and is now seeking the most rapid inland transit to the markets of the East.

We need not point out particularly the serious loss of business, present and prospective, which this city would sustain provided the should be consummated; nor need we urge fifty per ct. in convenience and comfort. the importance of an effort here, either indeties having a common interest with us in the available plan that can be adopted for the purpose, seems to be the opening, at once, of a channel for Southern travel and trade, adapted, quarters from the latter. in point of directness, speed, and cheapness of transportation, to prevent, by competition with any line New York interests may construct, an entire diversion from us of the commerce which now reaches this point from the South. Should such a counter enterprise be at once set afoot with a probable prospect of early completion, we are persuaded that the New York "air line" scheme would be either finally abandoned, or, if carried out, be rendered incapable of injuring the commercial interests of Philadelphia to a serious extent.

The projected route, particularly stated, is from Philadelphia to Dona, by steamboat, seventy miles; from Dona to Seaford, by rail-Norfolk, by steamboat, one hundred and thirty-seven miles. The estimated time of transit over this route is sixteen hours, and the whole cost of the line will, it is said, be under half a million of dollars."

Passing over those parts of the extract, which betray so slavish a dread of New York Enterprise, we propose for the present, to fall in with that axiom of Philadelphia policy. which makes it essential, that all the lines of inter-communication through the country should pass to that city, and volunteer a few remarks suggesting that that policy requires aroute to the South, better adapted in "point of directness and speed," to its wants, than any yet proposed, by them.

From some remarks thrown out by a Havana newspaper, the opinion has become general, that the new President will attempt to put the country under Spain as a Colony under the government of a Viceroy.

We have no such fears. The benefits to be derived from such a change are far from being inviting. On the other hand an Empire with Santa Anna at the head, would be less objectionable, and still, with the example of Iturbride before him, and knowing the discordant nature of the people, we think, that he will not attempt even that. LATER FROM CALIFORNIA.

As our readers are aware, the steamship The steamship Humboldt, from Havre 12th United States has arrived at New Orleans, and Southampton 13th, with four days later with two week's later advices from California, the synopsis of which confirms the report of the loss of the steamer Independence, and, in addition, makes the lamentable announcepassengers are numbered with the dead. The ran ashore on the 16th of February, on Margaretta Island, Lower California, where she took fire and was entirely consumed.-There were five hundred passengers on board at the time, nearly all of whom jumped overboard, and heroically braved the dashing surf and strong tide to gain the shore. Those who succeeded in reaching the land were afterwards obliged to stand mere helplesss spectators and listeners to the vain struggles and haart-rending supplications and dying shricks of the less fortunate of their companions -including men, women and children-who were either perishing on board the blazing vessel or being swept out to sea by the irresistable force of the current. Of the immense number who were thus hurried into another sphere, the telegraph only furnishes the names of seventeen of the many from the Eastern States-among them twelve New Yorkers. In addition to the foregoing, there were two hundred and seventy-three steerage passengers. The Independence, it will be recollected, had on Foard those who sailed from New York city in the steamship Northern Light, for San Juan, on the 20th of January. The Independence was never considered an Cadet with £54,000 in gold, have arrived A 1 steamer. Prior to leaving New York city for the Pacific coast she was said to have been leaky on some occasions; and in a letter dated at Acapulco, where she coaled on the 10th of February Mr. Robinson of St. important, with the exception that the funds Louis described her as being very old, but vainly consoled himself for the inferiority of the vessel, with the remark that there were societies are again moving, and many arrests only four persons sick on board." Indeed, it is asserted by some that she is the same steamer Independence that plied between New York city and Amboy, a number of years ago. There was no insurance upon her in Wall street, and she was probably uninsured anywhere. A despatch from Baltimore states that a great many Marylanders were on board and the confirmation of her loss had created intense excitement there. Four families from St. Louis were also on board. The general news from California is possessed of great interest. We learn that the city of Marysville has again been submerged, and that extensive loss of property has been the consequence. Gold appears to be as a bundant as ever. The steamer which sailed from San Francisco on the 1st instant had on board nearly two and a quarter millions of the precious article, of which eight hundred thousand dollars were shipped by one house, and five hundred and thirty thousand by another. Owing to the arrival of a large number of vessels, freighted with every description of merchandise, the San Francisco markets were

The Conviction of Caling.—The trial at Hackensack, N. J., of William Cating for the murder of the children of Daniel O'Brien, was concluded on Friday, with a verdict of "Guilty of murder in the first degree." All doubt respecting the guilt of the accused, if there could have been any, was removed by his voluntary confession, and the only plea left serviceable to the defence was the much abused one of derangement, or, at least, of imbecility of mind. Fruitful as the last few months have been in murders, more than usually harrowing in their details, the double murder for which Cating was on Friday sentenced to die was the most atrocious of all. During the absence of their father, in whose house he had long Colognes, Farboen a resident, and while the children were Pure Spices. entrusted to his special care, he put an end to their lives in a barbarous and revolting manner-revolting, even, in this era of horrible murders-chopping the girl's throat with an axe, and inflicting deep gashes in her brother's neck, with the same instrument. These deeds, as he confessed, were committed with the design of revenging himself upon the fa-ther for a real or fancied injustice. His counsel argued ably in his defence, in the endeavor to prove him unaccountable for his actions, uncognizant of the distinction between right and wrong, a mental and moral imbecile. The jury retired at 4 P. M., and at 5 it verdict .- To the usual question from the clerk of the court, the foreman answered, Tuesday, June 28, the prisoner, William Cating, should be hanged in the yard of Hackensack jail.

Opinion is much divided respecting the imbecility of Cating. That he is a man of ordinary capacity the acts of his life would tend to show; but that there is a sufficient degree of imbecility to excuse him from punishment, few will admit. Considerable excitement was manifested respecting this plea of imbecility from the fact that about two years since, one Patrick McHugh, who was charged with the murder of Simon Demarcst, escaped on a plea of insanity, and was subsequently liberated as being of sufficiently sound mind to be allowed to go at large.—This, coupled with the feeling of horror with which the murder is regarded, will prevent any attempt being very warmly espoused in the neighborhood of Hackensack, for obtaining a commutation of the prisoner's sentence.

Important Information for Rheumatics. Haddonfield, March 26th, 1852. Dr. Steelling-Dear Sir-Some time since I was attacked with a severe Inflammatory Rheumatism, was entirely bedridden, and could get no relief, uztil I made trial of your Rheumatic Liniment, which entirely cured me, after I used two bottles of it. I would observe that before using your Liniment, I had a physician, but derived no benefit from his medicines. I have also been cured of a severe attack of Lumbago by the same Liniment. My wife had a sovere attack of Rheumatism, which entirely deprived her of the use of one of her hip joints; she used two bottles of your Liniment and was entirely cured. I could also relate several other cases of Rheumatism, where I have recommended it, which were also cured by Steelling's Liniment. Yours truly, Philadelphia, Nov. 2, 1851. Dr .STEELING-Dear Sir:-In compliance with your request, that I should express my opinion of of your Pulmonary Syrup, I am happy to say that having very frequently used it in my family for various pulmonary complaints, for several years mast and perfectled to the complaints. tried various remedies, which had little or no effect, until I was induced to give Brewster's Pectoral Mixture a trial, less than one bottle of which entirely cured my case, to which I cheerfully bear my testimony. JOHN W. GANDY. Brewster's Pectoral Mixture is for sale by the proprietor in Bridgeton, and by most of the Stores throughout the country. Jan. 22, 1853.

various pulmonary complaints, for several years past, and particularly for croup amongst our children, to which they have been more or less subject, we have always found the most beneficial results from its use. Upon the appearance of this disease we apply at once to your Pulmonary Syrup; and when the symptoms are severe, we double, and printed directions, which speedily produces sickness and vomiting, after which the system becomes relaxed, perspiration ensues, the alarming armpness and vomiting, after which the system becomes relaxed, perspiration ensues, the alarming symptoms are removed, and, through the blessing of Providence upon the means used, the sufferer is soon restored to health. Knowing you to be an old and experienced physician, your Pulmonary Syrup is, doubtless, the result of much labor and experience; and as it has been a kind friend in my experience; and as it has been a kind friend in my family, I do most cordially recommend it to the notice of all, but most particularly to mothers, who might save their children many a severe pang, by always keeping a supply of your Syrupon hand, and giving it immediately upon the first appearance of any of those diseases for which it is recommended.
