From Gleason's Pictorial. THEY BLOOM IN HEAVEN.

BY MRS. SARAH E. DAWES.

Three tender buds, all nursed with care, Were blooming in the summer air: When lo! the fairest, sweetest gem Was plucked from off its tiny stem, And borne by angel hands on high, To bloom more sweet in yonder sky!

Two lonely buds, so soon bereft, Were all their parents now had left; They grew in beauty, side by side, Their father's hope, their mother's pride, And seemed unfolding, day by day, New charms to cheer their earthly way.

When lo! another angel hand Reached forth from out the screph band. And plucked the bud so sweet and fair, That earliest claimed her mother's care: And bore aloft that earthly flower. To bloom again in heaven's bower!

One little bud-a dearer prize, Alone remains to cheer their eyes; The others, far in youder clime, Will feel no more the ills of time, But now beneath their Saviour's beam, Then, weeping parents! dry those tears! Mourn never more, but calm thy fears; Far sweeter ties bind thee above, Then ever claimed thy earthly love: Two nugles clad in garments bright, Watch the now from relms of light!

From the Evangelist. THE POWER OF TRUTH.

Wealth, we are told is power; talent is power, and knowledge is power. But there is a mightier force in the world than either of these-a power which wealth is not rich enough to purchase, nor genius subtle enough to refute, nor knowledge wise enough to overreach nor authority imposing enough to silence.-They all tremble in its presence. It is Truth, the really most potent element of social or individual life. Though tossed upon the billows of popular commotion, or cast into the seven fold furnace of persecution, or trampled into the dust by the iron heel of power, truth is the one indestructible thing in the world that loses in no conflicts, suffers from no misusage and abuse, and maintains its vitality and completeness after every assault. All kinds of conspiracies have been undertaken to destroy and drive it from the earth; all sources of power have been exhausted to crush it, and all kinds of seduction employed to vitiate and policon it; but none has succeeded, and none ever will. We can be confident of nothing else in this world, but the safety and imperishability of truth-for it is part of the divine nature and invested with the eternity. and omninotence of it author and source. #### WHAT IS EDUCATION.

It is remarkable, says the Ledger, that education, one of the first duties of a parent, is really the last to be properly understood. What is true education, is, indeed, comprehended by comparatively few. We will give our idea of education, by first stating what is not education, and then what is.

It is not education to send a child to school merely, for that will train his intellect, not Irregular and Detective. form his principles. It is not education to ciam him with four times as much as he can hold, for that is treating him like the boy Franklin tells of, who, having his hands full of apples, grasped after more, and so lost all. It is not education to put him to parsing almost before he can spell, for at that age he cannot analyse, and analysis of the language is the Alpha and Omega of true grammar. It is not education to teach him all sorts of frivilous and useless branches of learning, for a hundred to one he has his way to make in the world, and will want all the available knowledge he can acquire. - Finally, it is not education, if the child is a girl, to bring her up as if marriage was the object of her life, so that she need only acquire the accomplishments that dazzle, not the household virtues that delight.

Education is the training a child morally, physically and intellectually, the bestowing on it such knowledge as will be most useful to it in after life, and the imparting that knowledge in the most thorough manner. In that single sentence the whole circle of education, according to our notion, is embraced. We might enlarge on its several parts almost without limit; but we prefer to place it before our readers in the fewest words possible, that they may mentally digest it for themselves. We rank moral education first, because, without right principles, a smart man is but the greater rascal; nevertheless moral and intellectual education are closely connected, the latter materially assisting the former.

Moral education must be principally imparted at home, where the child's temper is best understood, and where affection and discipline, if the pursuits are proper ones, go hand in hand. Physical education is necessary to the future health of the child, without which learning is nearly useless, and even wealth no blessing. Lastly, it is the thorough men, not the superficial ones, who succeed in life. A man had better know one thing well, than twenty things indifferently. The education of girls should be guided by similar principles. But as their duties and position are different, so should be the kind f knowledge imparted; the true rule is that girls should be educated to make useful wives and mothers, and not to be belies or firts: parents would educate their children on these principles, it would be better than giving Outlines of the Analogy Between the Science of Drunkennes and the Science of English Grammer.

BY REV. II. T. LEWIS.

English Grammer, as you know, is the art of speaking and writing the English language correctly - and so says the drunkard; drunkennes is the art of tasting and swallowing iquor scientifically.

There are in English nine sorts of words:

and there are at least nine sorts of drinkers, viz: The mere taster, the moderate drinker the regular drinker, the universal drinker, the friendly drinker, the toddy drinker, the par- That it shall and may be lawful, for the justicular drinker, the secret drinker, and the

These states or situations in drunkenness may like the verb, be divided into Regular,

They are Regular when the inebriate is addled, fuddled, coated, smutted, tarred, and feathered and rode upon a rail. Irregular when he is stricken, driven, beaten, thrown, &c., &c., and Defective when the dimes are wanted procure the beverage.

To this subdivision of the etymological part f the science, properly belongs Mood, Tense, Number and Person.

Mood being the manner of expressing action or being in language, likewise expresses action or being in drunkenness. The Indicative Mood in drunkenness is expressed by flushed cheeks, red eyes, red nose, and some other ifallible sign. The Subjunctive is when there is a little loubt about the fact, as where there is slyness on the part of the drinker. The Imperative shows itself in the imposture assumed be some drunkards, and the most humble-come-tumbling down state of

In the Infinitive, you find the subject pois-ed like Milton describes the fallen spirit, cjaculating; with Shakspeare in soliloquy, To be or not to be-that's the question, and now, to be drunk or not to be drunkthat's the question.

In the Potential Mood we find a very peculiar class of drinkers. They will drink when they please; they can drink or let it alone, they must drink occasionally, and surely should drink unto their friends. The Present tense in drunkenness is known by the swagering, stagering and reeling of the

The Past Tense is indicated by swollen eyes bloated face, emptied pockets, destroyed health, lost credit and beggared families,

The Future is showg by fearful forebodings, extensive yawnings, craving appetite and in satiable thirst for the bowl. Number and Persons are those modifica-

FARMERS GARDENS.

We have seen shoemakers with gaping holes in their boots, and tailors out at the elbow. and the whole exterior man wearing a most seedy aspect. The smith who forges tools for the use of others, is the last man to have axe or saw fit for use at his own woodpile.-Whether the barber always shaves himself with a dull razor or not we cannot affirm. But we may certainly put in this category of men unblest by their own art, most of the farmers of our country. It is no exageration to say, that of all men who have steady employment, the feeders of the world are the poorest fed class in it. The statements of one of our corresponden's in his trave's at the West, in regard to the scarcity of vegetables at the tables of farmers there, are cases in point. If "hog and homminy" are the invaiable bill of fare there, we can point to large districts nearer home, where the circle of table comforts is hardly larger. Add potatoes and turnins to the list of "hog and hominy," and we then give the average entertainment to which many a farmer's family sits down the year round.

A good garden, well furnished with fruits and vegetables, to supply the table the year round with its products, is still the rare exception in many of the best cultivated districts here at the North and East. Though all these comforts may be embraced in an acre or two of ground, and though their production ers out of the suburban districts, are strangers to them. Many have never even seen or heard of the vegetables that give constant variety to the citizen's table, and promote the health of his family.

We once knew the farm of a country elergyman of the old school, pass into the hands of a farmer from a neighboring town. It was sweet quiet spot, the home of taste and refinement. Many a rose and creeper shaded the windows, flowers adorned the garden walks, and strawberries, rasperries and the smaller fruits grew in abundance in their season. The purchaser was no Vandal, but of more than average intelligence in his calling. And yet he drove his plow-share through the carefully tended flowers, uprooted the strawberries, and threw the raspberries into the economy. He thought it would not pay to have these evidences of taste and cultivation done. This contempt of the garden we beleive to be a very common error among farmers, and a very injurious one. The three price pal defects in the farm garden are the small space alloted to it the imperfect stocking of it with suitable roots. trees and vegetables, and the little labor that is bestowed upon it. We have before us now a fair representative of its class. There is less than half an acre in it, and it has no arrangement whatever. A few stunted or decayed peach trees, a row of current bushes, and a few quinces with numerous dead branches are the sum total of its fruits. There is a place An Act for the settlement and relief of for corn, beaus and potatocs, and these occupy three-fourths of the space. In the remnant a few onions, cabbages and beets are cultivated, and of these two last, only enough for a summer supply. The owner's apology, for this beggarly account of garden products is that they do not pay him so well as the field crops. These are his main reliance for profit, and he cannot afford the manure and labor of the truth. Not less than an acre of the best soil near he house should be devoted to this purpose If you mean to have a full assortment of fruits more will be better. But on an acre you dissolves, leaving white insoluble flakes; may have six varieties of pears, ripening in succession, to supply your table from the last of July till January; six varieties of plums. six of cherries, and six of peaches. You may have enough of strawberries, raspberries, currants, and grapes for family use. You may the surface with a white coating. In warm per has again become chargeable, to take pies; lettuce and cresses for salads; a large bed nitrogen by Lassaigne's method, by fusion back said pauper, on the original order, to of asparagus, to give you in May a greater with sodium and obtaining the precipitate of delicacy than green peas; carrots, parsneps, Prussian blue, it indicated the presence of

You want at least, twenty cords manner as other paupers are removed, to the of manure to the acre, and if you cannot man. The examination of this substance was intertownship, city or town corporate where the ufacture it upon your premises, supply its esting in connection with the Mexican ant place by four bags of guano, say six hundred pounds. The labor you can perform with the would therefore seem incapable alone of affordusual farm help. This may seem a large outlay for manure, but if it is well worked into place of legal settlement of said poor servant the soil, it will pay better than any smaller corporate, to which such servant is removed; the outlay will be good economy in dollars

would probably doudle that sum. It will be worth at least a hundred on your own premses. Will any other acre of your farm clear you half as much?

But there are advantages, aside from money, which make a good garden indispensible on every well regulated farm. The health of your family and laborers are to be taken into the account. No family can enjoy the same physical and meintal vigor on a diet whose staple is salt provision and corn bread that they would do, with fruits and vegetables added in their season. A variety of food is essential to the highest degree of health. The tone of the stomach is injured, and many a farmer breakes down under the regimen of salt meat for dinner six days in the week .-Well ripened fruits are among the best preventives of fevers and bowel complaints, popular prejudice to the contrary notwithstanding.

But a good garden is a conservator of sound morals, and of the peace of neighborhoods. Children universally love fruits; and if they do not enjoy them at home, they will be sorely tempted to plunder the fruit yards of their neighbors. If farmers' boys ever steal, this is the object of their plunder. Fruit in abundance at every farm house would in a great measure remove this evil from our rural districts. Now one of the most common objections urged against fruit raising is its liability to be stolen. You can at least remove this temptation from your children and satisfy heir longing eyes and appetites at home.

It will also very much increase the attraction of home to your sons. For some reason strange to you, it is very difficult to keep farmers' boys contented with the occupation of their fathers. Did it ever occur to you, that the raising of corn and potatoes, and the growing of beef and pork, is rather a limited field for the enterprise of an aspiring boy?-Teach him to grow fifty different crops, where is in the line of their calling, still most farm- you now grow ten, and you will very much enlarge the domain of his knowledge, and show him that the farm affords ample scope for the enterprise and energies of our best

The germ of better farming, and of better days, for our agricultural interests, lies in a good garden. For many of the crops it is not yet too late to put in the seeds. Will you make a beginning this season?

To Prevent Milk from Souring. A correspondent of the "Ohio Farmer'

rives the following plan: "Agreeable to your request I will give you in account of our experience in the duiry business, with regard to preserving milk from ecoming sour. We have kept from inty a hundred and fifteen cows for several years, on Hamlets soliloquy, "To be or not to be," and have milked seventy-two the past season. We strain the milk at night into a tin vat set in a wooden one, iuto which we pump cold around him. Thus we pro ceed until Saturday night, when the milk is set and a curd made which is kept until Monday morning and made into cheese. Sunday morning the milk is strained into woode bowls, which are painted inside and out with a thick coat of paint, smooth and hard, and set in a cool place on the cellar bottom where it keeps sweet until Monday when it is skimmed and made into cheese. The result has been that we have not lost a bowl of milk the past summer. But milk set in tin pans has ometimes goured. We formerly preserved it in tin pans by putting a piece of clean ice into each pan. The rest of the Sabbath may be enjoyed and the practice of making cheese on that day be discontinued...

FOOD OF THE QUEEN BEE:

For the West Jersey Pioneer. THE USE OF ANGLO SAXON.

The Anglo Saxon clement of the English language is that which gives to it force. From they were embodied in the Norman) came its dignity and elegance. A tendency to use the latter portions, to the neglect of the first, is a common fault among writers, and particularly young ones who have not learned how much can be conveyed by a brief monosyllable. There is something attractive in nice sounding derivatives, and it is often believed that a production well studded with what is called 'big words,' presents a more learned appearance, and will stamp its author as a more learned man, than if plain, rough, homely Anglo Saxon had been used instead. But which will tell most upon people? Present the same matter to the same minds first dressed after! Well, live right her, and it will be all same matter to the same minds first dressed carefully in ornamental English, with as lavish a use of the Norman compounds as can be got hold of, and then clad simply in Saxon, as exclusively as possible, not turning away from its simplicity to catch at some foreign flower for adornment, but sticking to its rude garments. See which of these two styles would produce the more powerful effect. The the gentlest touch, to the stout blow of a sledge hammer. In the moment of a roused passion it is the strong words of Anglo Saxon that we catch at; the startled mind does not stop to hunt up derivatives of five syllables for its expression, but it lays held of that rugged forcible language which carries a meaning with it. But if a freer use were made of the Anglo Saxon element, style would be improved and power added to it. All words of this origin are sometimes, as much as can be excluded, as though they took away from the effect of writing. The valuable agricultural properties of the article are now generally known and appreciated, and a great demand has been greated for it in consequence. LARGEST CIRCULATION In West Jersey!

Only $1 00 per Year! FRANKLIN FERGUSON.

EDITORS. Joseph A. Miller.

The Salem Sunbeam & the West Jersey Railroad.

We cannot but regret the tone and temper, feature in the policy of either party. In respect to the powers proper to be granted in such charters, people very naturally differ.

The propriety of any specified route, involving as it always does particular sectional interests, does not to our mind, form a question properly belonging to the special creed of either of the great political parties.

There are considerations of expediency common to all railroad routes, rising above and totally independent of the claims of party organization.

For example, would the proposed route shorten and save the time which is a part of the capital, of the travelling community, in the process of transit from one place of destination to another. Secondly, would it bring into use and value an important and neglected section of the country, and aid in developing resources valuable to this state. Thirdly, is the proposed road to run between points now important or hereafter likely to become so. Fourthly, does the route form an imporready, or about to be established.

more questions less general in their application but at present unimportant to consider.

To show the manner in which these quesfrom the Salem Sunbeam of May 20:-

"The project, West Jersey Railroad, met the other necessary steps toward a speedy and an effective organization. But soon a counter scheme was set on foot: the grasping ambition of other States to obtain a foothold on and use our territory for their own aggrandizement was freely invited and greedily embraced, in the gullible "air-line" attempt to barter State Rights for political revenge. Fortunately for the interests of New Jersey, and the independence and welfare of our people, these schemers did not succeed in getting a charter, though the contest was fierce and the bribe dazzling. The zealous watchfulness and perseverence of the principal movers in our West Jersey enterprize overcame all opposition, and a charter was granted."

is in this extract to commend itself to the judgement of any man, no matter what his political opinions may be. No constitutional to be done on public roads, is not to be govaffirmed by the advocacy of the West Jersey Road. From which we infer, that the editor is personally and politically, friendly to the fences, hog styes, &c." exercise of the chartering power. Why then these unmanly flings at the "air line." Is it not enough in all conscience to gratify the most rabid anti-railroad member of society, that it was wantonly and undignifiedly killed off last winter, by an unusual resort to an extreme measure of policy, without flinging back insult upon its friends. But "fortunately" these "schemers did not succeed in getting a charter." Jerseymen every one of you down on your-seats and render thanks, for this fortunate escape from this grasping ambition of other States to use your territory. Only think how awfully "gullible you must feel, if Citizens of New York, should invest a few dollars in buying your soil to locate railroad, that would scatter wealth and prosperity through a neglected section of your state. Citizens, of Philadelphia, have invested capital in the West Jersey Road, to use Jersey Soil; but just keep shady about that, they wont take your "State Rights," in barter, not they.

Now seriously, neighbor Sunbeam dont you think it beneath the dignity of an independent press, to urge such absurd prejudices to the consideration of freemen. If you think it wrong for the citizens of other States, to own and use property in this, come out like a man and say so. None of your humbuggery them. For the West Jersey Pioneer. Cruise among the Shanghais.

In a late visit to my friends in Burlington and Camden Counties, my attention was particularly directed to the subject of raising Poultry. I had before been considerably affeeted by the Chicken fever which was not at all abated by what I witnessed while amongst the Farmers and others engaged in the business. The amount of money brought into the County of Burlington for Poultry and Eggs sent to market independent of what is received for that sold for breeding and the domestic consumption would. I have no doubt! astonish even themselves and to our people would be absolutely incredible. Burlington County has for a number of years been engaged largely in that trade and the farmers there have taken much pains to improve their stock of chickens; within a few years past the different varieties of Shanghais have in great measure superceded all others, there are very few farmers who have not adopted the Shanghais altogether or crossed their stock with extraordinary prices they command encourages the raising of large numbers of Chickens. The size combined with the docility, tendency makes the Shanghais particularly valuable for these purposes.

My first visit was to the establishment of Dr. McClintock in Philadelphia Count the Frankford road, who had particu' vited me to visit and examine his chicken fix ins. The Dr. has gone into the business Handsome Steamboat. - The Messrs. Harlan and Hollingsworth, of Wilmington, Del., have just completed a very large and magnificent iron steamboat for the Messrs. Reybold, which these gentlemen incend running be-tween Salein, New Jersey, and Philadelphia. The length of the keel is 190 feet, with an extension of the deck 7 feet, making the entire length 197 feet. It has a beam of 30 feet, and the extreme width between the guards is 51 feet and 10 inches; depth of hold 8 feet 6/ inches. The diameter of the cylinder is 42 inches, with a stroke of 11 feet The wheels are of wrought and cast iron, except the paddles, which are of Delaware oak. Their diameters are 31 feet 8 inches, and have a fall of 8 feet. The engine is calculated to make 22 revolutions in a minute, and is a little upwards of 600 horse power, with a pressure of 30 pounds of steam to the square inch. The boat has every capacity for the accommodation of passengers, and is finished in the highest and most imposing style of workmanship.

It is supplied with Francis, metalic Life Boats and has two double acting forcing pumps, one on the forward deck, and the other aft, which are so nicely connected with the machinery that in case of fire, the whole boat can be instantly deluged with water This boat is built on a beautiful model, and was brought from Wilmington to Philadelphia May 14th.

Absecum Railroad .- The grading of this road it nearly completed through Camden city. Workmen have commenced laying the rails at the Point. The termination is in the public garden on the south side of Main street. The Company have commenced the construction of an extensive wharf at Cooper's Foint, upon which they are to creet their car-houses. depots, &c., for the accommodation of pas sengers and trains at the Camden end of their road. This wharf will extend into the river a distance of 300 feet, where a sufficient depth of water can be obtained for every necessary convenience. This wharf is just below the present ferry slip, from which a new and commodious ferry boat will run to Vine street, Philadelphia, on departure and arrival of the train.

at New Hope, on the 12th of April, starting from this point. The tolls for the month of April amounted to $52,72 of which $17 was for crossing at the Outlet lock at Well's Falls. The first boats passed through the new locks on the 2d day of May, since which time business has been regular, and the line appears to be in good order throughout.

Up to May 16 the whole amount of toll received in the office at New Hope is $1418, 41. The average number of boats passing the locks daily is about 130. The new locks are of sufficient dimensions to pass two boats at atime, instead of one as heretofore and thus far the usual crowd of boats above the locks awaiting an oportunity to go through has been avoided .- District.

A Month of Calamity.—Truly this has been a month of calamity. Within three or four weeks we have been called upon to report the destruction of the steamship Independonce in the Pacific, the Ocean Wave on the Lakes, and the Jenny Lind in California; the awful railroad calamities at Chicago and Norwalk, and now we have to add to the catalogue the loss of the ship William and Mary at sea. By these six disasters, not less than five hundred souls have been hurried into eternity, and in addition to these there have been minor accidents on railroads and steamboats, falling of buildings, &c., which would leet their losses.

materially swell the fearful aggregate. There An Important must be a growing disregard for human life throughout the world, when disasters of this kind come "in battalions." The effect will be to keep all travellers merely for pleasure at home, until they can have some guaranty that they will have a fair chance for life in rail-cars and steamboats.

Strikes. - The mechanics and laborers emplayed in from forty to fifty different pursuits have struck for advanced wages this spring, but generally with indifferent success; and it is questionable whether the movement, in a majority of instances, has been of any pecuniary advantage to strikers. Employers have in numerous instances, in acceding to their Road, in place of Mr. Ovenshire, who has redemands discriminated between those who were bost and those who were least qualified to earn the advanced wages. Inferior workmen lose their places, or continue in them only until they can be better filled; and the most accomplished are taxed for their support according to the terms of associations, while they are out of employ. The expenses incurred in making public demonstrations, biring miblic-hotels, bands of music &c., have been large, and these, too have been saddled on the passage between New York and San Francisgood workmen. Much time has also been | co, to be commenced forthwith. lost at the best season of the year.

Jour. of Com. Some New York papers propose that New York and Pennsylvania should buy New Jersey and divide it between them! Two states so deeply in debt that oftentimes they can't pay the interest on it, propose to buy a state that always has a large unappropriated surplus in her treasury—decidedly cool that!— We think we can make a more sensible proposition. Here's Delaware and New Jerseyboth have a great deal more "tin" than territory. Pennsylvania has more acres than she has dollars-in fact, she is always "hard up" when pay day comes. Let Delaware and New Jersey buy Pennsylvania, divide it between them, and thus bring their money and land more to an equality, besides doing their neighbors kindness in relieving them of the burden of a government which they certainly have showed no skill in managing .- Record.

We learn from the Temperance Reformer: that Enoch Knowles of Mercer, was appointed State Agent at a meeting of the committee last Friday. His services commence Monday the 16th inst. Mr. Knowles is a Jersey Farmer, residing near Trenton, occupying a place which he has successfully tilled for several years past. He was formerly an i incrant preacher, of the Methodist persuasion, and in that canacity travelled over a considerable portion of the State, and is therefore well acquainted with many of the people. He is a fluent and effective speaker.

Arrangement of Judicial Districts of N. Jersey:—An arrangement has been made, by which the Judicial districts and Circuit presiding Judges are as follows.

Northern District-Sussex, Warren, Mor ris and Hudson, held by Judge Haines. Eastern District-Passaic, Bergen and Esex, held by Judge Ogden.

Middle District-Somerset, Middlesex, Monmouth and Ocean, held by Judge Potts. Western District-Hunterdon Mercer, and Burlington, held by Chief Justice Green. South District—all the counties South of Burlington, held by Judge Elmer.

The Use of Geological Knowledge.-In several counties of Ohio, where it was supposed coal existed to the extent of a few rods or hundred yards at most, the geologist informed them that they might consider their supply inexhaustible. The rise in real estate, in different counties, was variously estimated at from one hundred thousand dollars to five hundred thousand dollars, when it was known that manufacturing means were possessed in such unexpected abundance. Professor John Locke, to whom was assigned the south-western portion of the state, in a few moments demonstrated to the inhalitants of West Union that the rock under their feet was well suited for lime. They had previously been hauling lime a number of miles.

Another Railroad Accident .- As the 12 o'clock noon line of the Mount Holly and Burlington Railroad, was passing from Burland door, to be of white oak, balance of frame lington to Mount Holly, on Saturday last, the stuff to be hemlock or sweet gum. Burlington Railroad, was passing from Burentire train ran off the track. The accident occurred while running at ordinary speed, about two miles from Burlington. The en- tre. gineer and fireman, after the engine was reversed, saved themselves by jumping off. The passenger car was completely overturned and considerably damaged. One of the passengers, Mr. Joseph H. Acatty, had his head cut and an ankle sprained. The conductor escaped with a wrenched ankle, and Mr. Havens, who is superintendent of repairs upon the road, is an ankle sprained. The conductor escaped injured internally, but whether seriously or not, we have not heard. It is supposed that

Beauty, Health, and Cheapness. MAMUEL L. PITHIAN has on hand and for sale a large lot of Zine Paints as follows viz. Pure to White No. 1, 2 & 8, Brown Zine, Black Zine, Zinc Dryer and Demar varnish.

The Zinc Paints in their improved state have now been in use for a number of years and fully tested side by side with the Best Pure White Lead and has in every instance proved to be superior to.
White Lead both in Color, Durability, Resuly, and Cheapness. From experiments it has been found that 100 lbs best White Zine will cover when applied in three coats on new work as much surface as 1662-3 lbs White Lead Pure, and will cover as well which makes the Zine over 60per ct cheaper than

It is equally applicable to inside or outside work or for the bottom of vessels or in any other place where paint is necessary. The reasons above given, we think should satisfy any one of the Superiority of the Zinc paints but should any yet doubt, we should be pleased to have them give us a call and SEVERAL persons can be accommodated with board by applying first door west of the office ority for Beauty, Durability, Health & Cheapness, of the Bridgeton Chronicle.

FOR THE LADIES: Spring and Summer Fashiom.

INFLUENCED by the prevailing law of Fashion the subscriber continues as heretofore, to pro-sent new fashions at the opening of the various Seasons. Taste demands that these fashions shall possess new combinations and exhibit aspirations after new forms and embodiments of the useful and beautiful. The increase of his business affords the most gratifying evidence of the kind appreci-tion in which his previous efforts have been hel His present offering is a DRESS GAITER for Spring or Summer, in the first style of elegance and distinction-being composed of rich and durable materials. While his principal fashion will undoubtedly be acceptable to the general taste, yet in or-der to gratify all, the subscriber has prepared a variety of styles, so time every one, old and young, plain or gay, can select that most becoming for themselves. The Paris style of Gaiter will comnend itself for its dress appearance, it being decidedly the Galter for the promenade.

The subscriber therefore can confidently invite he attention of his friends and the public, to his establishment, giving them the assurance that he is fully enabled to offer articles of his own manufacture, at lower prices and of better quality, than are usually met with. It will ever be his aim to maintain for his goods the distinguished mark of superiority and relative cheapness, which alone render them worthy of commendation and appro-
