From Godey's Lady's Book. MY MOTHER'S MINIATURE.

BY ISA L. JENKINS.

Faint pictures far more dear to me Than all the treasures earth can give, Since she, my all, hath ceased to be, · For whom it was my life to live.

Here I beheld that faded cheek, The calm, smooth brow and flowing hair, The lips that spoke in tones so meek, And breathed to heaven their fervent prayer.

Oh, she who ceasless vigils kept. Above my path in faded years, And o'er my waywardness hath wept, Now soars beyond this vale of tears. Yes, she who sought my heart to mould For brighter climes and purer skies.

Now dwells where countless suns hath rolled, Unmarked by years or centuries. You moon, whose track the milky way, .Whose light still glimers on the wave, Through months hath east its mellow ray Upon her lone and dreary grave. Thou sweet momento of the past,

A priceless treasure men 41. Through years to come, while life shall last, I'll keep and wear thee next my heart,

Thus was Kate Allin's bridal night spent in carnest supplication for strength to endure this bitter trial. That prayer was wafted to the throne of Grace. "A bruised reed he will not break," and "Kate Allin had learned the freiltess of cartility here; and carne the know about that I he can climb the rigging.

The real real trial stantly checked, and skin eruptions must be used in the result. Nevertheless, it must be less in the result. Children should always have their outer garments for winter made of woolen materials.

Although India-rubber shoes are excellent for walking in the streets in wet weather, or when there is a thaw, with snow upon the ground, they should never be worn at any other time, and should be taken off as soon as the wearer enters a house. They prevent perspiration in a great incasure, and are only useful as a lessor evil than getting completely wet from outside water.

Eloquent Extracts .- The following beautiful comparison is from a lecture delivered at St. Louis, by Thomas F. Meagher.

"One fair morning towards the close of the summer, I stood in a field that overlooked the Hudson. I was struck with the glowing "'That seed,' said one who stood by, came from Egypt.'

"It has been buried in the tombs of Kings and laid with the dead for three thousand years. But though wrapped in the shroud, -lived under the mighty mass of stonelived with death itself-and now that the dust of the Kings has been disturbed—that they have been called and moved not—that the bandages are moved and they open not their eyes behold the seed gives forth life and the nelds rejoice in its glory.

"And thus it is that the energies, the instinct, the faith and the vitalities which have been crushed elsewhere—have been entombed elsewhere in these virgin soils revive, and that which seems mortal becomes imperishsble. And thus it is that even here, the seed will multiply, and, borne back to the ancient land, will people the places that are desolate; the wildernes shall be made glad.

"Children of the old world, be of good cheer. Whilst in the homes, by the Rhone, the Seine, the Danube, and the Arno, the Shannon and the Suir, in the homes you have left, seem to prosper and spurious Senates provided for the offspring of the tyrants oven to the third and fourth generation. Freedom strengthens herself in these lands, and in the midst of countless hosts, concentrates the power by which the captive shall be re-deemed and evil lords dethroned. This shall be the glory of America."

Effects of Rum .- On Friday morning & young man, representing himself as Henry Cox Cheesman, son of an eminent physician in New York, made application to Justice Budd, of Camden, to be committed to the County Jail, alleging as his reasons that he hid become a common drunkard, and kad been on a spree for three months past, until all his substance was gone, and he was left perfectly destitute. He said he wished to re-form, and believed that incorrectation in the haps, such an arrangement might operate bed-cficially to him, Mr. Budd granted his request, ation will accomplish the reformation of this young man, and induce him to pursue a future course of usefulness and sobriety. It is a sad thing to see one so promising and intelligent abandon himself to all the immoralities and practises of a common drunkard.

To dispense charity widely is one of the most difficult things in the world. The man that possesses real worth possesses real pride, consequently those only who are unworthy of our kindness are the only ones to solicit. It's not begging but toil that needs our smiles. Two thirds of the suffering in the world is only indojence. In nine cases out of ten, he that begs for bread is too lazy to work for it. Want s the fine that God has set on idleness; in other words, he that wants to be blessed must work ten hours a day for it.

The New York Crystal Palace Exhibition

It is a source of congratulation, that Amer ican citizens usually feel a deep interest in industrial pursuits. Whatever tends to the advancement of the arts and sciences, leads also to the promotion in some degree of the comforts of civilized life.

The exhibition of the skill of rival nations acting as a stimulus to the inventive genius of each, is perhaps the most powerful means that can be employed to introduce among the people of each nation a knowledge and skill, which under other circumstances they would be long in obtaining. In the diffusion of this knowledge, and the consequent interchange of friendly sentiment, we recognize one of the leading instruments, in the clevation of man, and the downfall of despotism. The habit of inquiring into scientific and literary subjects, will naturally lead to investigation of political themes, and these to the comparison of different theories of government. In this investigation, our own System of government has nothing to lose. Liberal, but firm in its character, it commends itself by its simplicity and adaption to mans wants. to the judgement of all. In this view and with this feeling we hailed the London exhibition as the pioneer in a scheme eminently tending to the peace and fraternal feeling of the human family.

In the same spirit we welcome the New York Exhibition, to its share in the accomplishment of this mission.

a confidence that good results must follow, by placing it in competition with the rest of the world. Still something of a feeling of mortification is felt by the public at the delay in completing the New York Palace. It is quite small in comparison with its London instances of double eggs, different from anyhad hoped that the contract for its erection one complete egg with a shell enclosed in hands, whose ambition would have led them the case, and there is at present no prospect which had as they believed two or three times for its completion for the reception of visi- laid two Eggs in a day, seperate eggs, and tors before another month.

A decent respect for public sentiment, a regard for the credit of our common country among foreigners, and a self respect as citizens of New York for themselves, should have had some influence with the possessors of the property if they are not lost to all sense of moral or social obligation. That man who would for the sake of a few dollars, deliberately place or cause to be placed. in the path of the ignorant or unwary, temptations to their ruin which they could not withstand, is morally no better than a highwayman.

ARTHUR SPRING.

This wretched man preserved the same hardihood and stolid indifference on the gallows that marked his conduct while on trial. On the Monday previous to his execution he had an interview in his cell with his son .--The seeme is represented as affecting in the extreme. With tears and on his knees, the son. implored his father to clear him of all the imputatious he had laid to him, relative to the murder of Mrs. Shaw and Lynch.

To all his entreaties, the father returned only vague and indifferent replies, refusing to give him any satisfactory answer even while straining him to his bosom with spithets show a more profitable result than the potato of endearment and affection. It required crop. strong efforts for the son to leave him; he

Although strongly urged to make a full onfe sion on the gallows, by his spiritual adrisers he positively refused, but continued to essert to the last his innocence of the murder of the women or of Mr. Rink, but in the last extremity cleared his son of all participation in the murders, which was anuounced to those present by the Rev. John Street. At 13 minutes past Eleven on Friday all things having been arranged and leave been taken by those on the scaffold, the cord was cut and the murderer launched into eteraity. The body was cut down in about half an hour and given to the charge of Rev. John Street, for Baltimore, with coal to Reeves Nichols & Co. Arthur Spring Jr. A post mortem examination of the body was made on Saturday noon by Prof. McClintock of the Philadelphia college of medicine, in the presence of a large number of students. The phrenological developements of the head, corroborated the public opinion of his character. The moral qualities were found to be wanting, while the animal and selfish propensities predominated to such an extent as to give the head a bull with grain &c. dog appearance.

Long may it be before we are called upon to note the career and end of such a monster

The Rev. Mr. SWAIM, will preach a sermon upon the subject of Temperance, in the M. E. Church, on Commerce street, on Sunday evening next, at quarter of eight.

It was an excellent saying of Dr. Frank lins, that "one pence saved was two pence earned." There is quite as much art in laying out money right, as in any other of our mundane pursuits.

It can be learned however in a little time by calling at D. B. Thompson's cheap one price clothing store, where customers can find all styles of gentlemens wear at very low prices. From long experience in the business and an extensive assortment of goods he is just exactly fixed to suit all tastes. Try him.

Accident.-On Monday, while the workmen were engaged in excavating for the foundation of the engine in the new mill erecting by Reeves, Nichols & Co, a horse and cart were precipitated into the pit by the caving of of a good and sure market for all produce, the bank. The cart was partially loaded .-It was upset and the horse thrown on his back. We feel a pride in American genius, and No person was injured, and no damage done except breaking the shaft of the cart and ment of the resources and capabilities of the slightly bruising the horse.

A Good Farm .- The Camden Jerseyman notes the sale of the farm of Blakely Sharpless, Esq., in Newton, near Haddonfield, recently for $175 per acre—the purchase money aggregating over $22,000. Newton township for the most part will compare favorably with the most highly cultivated district in the

We are told that 250 acres, of which the above is a part was bought for $2800.

A large portion of our land is susceptible of a high degree of cultivation; it is easy of tillage, and of great productiveness. The rich marl deposits of this district, with the improved facilities of getting lime and other manures afforded by good roads and naviga-ble streams; and added to these the vicinity cannot fail to enhance the value of land. kind we have ever seen. We look upon this road as of great import ance both to our city, and the whole line of country through which it passes, and every aid and facility which our people are possessed of should be afforded the enterprising gen tleman who have risked their capital to build the very earliest day. Upon the more remote portions of Camden, and the whole of Atlante county, the construction of this road will have the most happy and beneficial effects .-Every acre of land in the vicinity of its track will be greatly increased in value, and thousands upon thousands of unproductive, and at this time worthless soil, will be reclaimed, and converted into "very garden spots" and, by being brought into close proximity to the best markets in the world, will become immensely valuable. We repeat-that this is a great enterprise, and its final and rapid completion should be prayed for by the whole people of this region of West Jersey.

Camden Democrat. The annual jubilee of the "colored population" known as the Bayleytown meeting, came off on Sunday last, but on account of a damper thrown upon the anticipated festividence, will be celebrated at Fairton, on the ties by a handbill numerously posted about our streets, the attendance was unusually small, and the scenes of lawlessness yearly endinner, Ice cream, and other refreshments, there under pretence of attending a religious acted at Woodstown by those who assemble meeting, effectually prevented. The bill stated that the citizens of that place, in view of the coming event, had called a public meeting and requested the landlords to close their hotels and make no arrangements for the black's accommodation; also that an extra police force, in the persons of some of the most respectable citizens, was appointed to prevent to the advertisement in another column, of the violation or desceration of the Sabbath in the city of New York that we cannot visit a Whitall, Brother & Co. > Study the Weather .- The nights and mornings are chilly and cold, and the middle of the day is excessively hot. In such a condition of the elements, it behooves frail moring should be changed as often as the weather, although it may require time and trouble to keep up. Carelessuess in this particular will subject the individual to great risk and most likely bring on fevers, pleurisy, &c .-Children should not be suffered to remain out late at night, or run about in the morning without shoes, and with thin clothing. American Principles Vindicated .- We learn with great pleasure from the Washingof divers abuses which have so long existed in our diplomatic and consular service. Americans travelling abroad have often been shocked to witness the employment of foreigners in many of unr European legations, and in the United States consular offices almost everywhere. Governor Marcy has corrected this abuse by directing that hereafter none but Americans are to be entrusted with diplomatic and consular secrets and archives. Hereafter, it is said, our foreign ministers are to transact their own business, and not transfer to their secretaries the onus and responsibilities of official signatures. For the future all less injured. our foreign legations are ordered to be opened every day, except Sundays, from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M., for the accommodation of American citizens. Hereafter American passports are to be vised gratis by the minister, in ail places where one resides. This will be found an important reform, in Rome and Naples particularly, and in some other cities. The new Secretary has abolished consular and diplomatic uniforms, in all cases where they can be dispensed with.
