For the West Jersey Pioncer. SYMPATHY.

This principle came from the throne of love. Where nought impure a place can have, To renovate this world from all its stains, And, man from selfishness to save. Were sympathy extinct, this world would be

A savage waste; and all, like Cain, Would say "Am I my brothers keeper?" Self, Supreme, in every heart would reign. If one unlucky eye receives a wound,

The other, too, sheds many tears; So, if you wound my friend, you injure me; For him my love soon interferes. If cherished in my soul is sympathy, The flame concealed I can not keep;

But therefore must rejoice with those that do Rejoice, and weep with those that weep." This makes the verdant plains of Heaven ring, When prodigals their errors see, And, home return, redeemed by Jesus's blood, The richest fruit of sympathy. Dorchester, June, 1853. Mancus.

DIORAL. THE BIBLE AND THE FAMILY.

We can never adequately estimate the value or trace the relations of the family to the State, and of the Bible to both.

The family forms the basis of the community, and effectively reaches the larger ury. He incites the multitude, raises false spheres of the government and the State. -When pure, it is the copious fountain of all that is good and hopeful, as it is, which corrupt, the fatal source of all that is permiciou

The recollections of childhood, the father's en hallowed by the thoughts of bereavement and the wastes of the grave, meet and glow together in manhood, to exalt the agency coming from the family among the most eventful on the character and destiny of man. The sagacious observer of men and influpeople of so much moment, could with more truth have said, allow me the open way to the family; grant mo'to pour upon the household, at the fireside, at the social table, at the homecoming of labor from its toils, the light and power I may bring, to shape the mind, to mould the will and guide the thought; and, under God, I will hold the reins of public sentiment, and fix the standard of churacter and the law of conduct! Yes, he might add, with fearful truthfulness, I will make or un-

meet for him, and they shall be one flesh,— courage morality and prevent all wrong—to hand of this destroyer. A selection of this courage morality and prevent all wrong—to hand of this destroyer. A selection of the prices of t shall be one in joy and forrow and sympathy | the sum of human happiness. one in thought and purpose and counsel.—
And with it the Bible holds inseperable com aunion. There is no law Lut in God's Word that can preserve the family in healthful condition. All history shows that there is no other bond that can bind together its various interests. Let that green and verdant spot where chilhood and youth yield so freely to first impressions, and are moulded into the man and the citizen-let that be neglected or perverted, and no regrets or reproaches can repair the mischief. As well might we expect grapes of thorns, as virtuous and honorable manhood from neglected and wicked youth. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." The whirlwind for the wind is as true for nations as for man, and the harvest will show the seeds that are sown. It is a universal law, and sways all creation. Wicked parents and lawless children will grow into corrupt communities, and at last overthrow the wisest systems of social and civil order ever raised by the wisdem and skill of men. The family is benignantly designed and fitted to be the nurse of virtue; and to be such, the Bible must rule the family. The authority of God, and the influences of his Word and Spirit, must fence around this sacred place against hostile intrusions and corrupting temptations. The charities of home must be guarded and cherished by the doctrines and precepts of the Bible. There can be no stronger plea for the Bi ble, and especially here, with our free insti-tutions, the work under Heaven of our hands and with lawsthe fruit of our own legislation. We must have the Bible, in its power and glorified course, bearing light and purity and peace into every cottag and neighborhood and dwelling-place, or the tides of evil that threaten us will very soon roll over us in volumes of overwhelming desolation. And the American Bible Society is honored by this blessed instrumentality. God in his merciful provi-dence has raised up this institution for these great ends; and we would devoutly, acknowledge the goodness which has given to it so much favor, and crowned it with so many tokens of His approbation.

From the Banner of the Union IT IS THE LAW.

It is hardly possible to frame a sentence of more significance than is contained in these words, the is the law. However discordant the acts of men, and of nations, when questioned as to the propriety, justice, or reason of their conduct, the ready answer is, 'it is the law.' When armies meet in battle array, each intent upon destroying their adversary. When the dead strew the plains and the thirsty earth drinks deep of human blood When the dying soldier yields up his spirit in efforts to breatlie a last prayer fort he prowas so, and the answer will be, 'the laws of Nations-justify the wholesale butchery and oppression.' See those little ragged and mancipated children leaving the rich man's of food for a sick mother. They go away empty; and the rich min says the law has given me all these goods with which I am surrounded, and has also made provision for the care and projection of the poor.' But what provision has it made! Why if the applicant can produce certain evidences of right to claim the public (misnamed) charities, he can have sufficient food to keep from starvation; but there are thousands who by our laws are prohibited from receiving any- in acting in accordance with the principle of thing from the public treasury. 'It is the law!' exclaims the rich creditor, when he seizes the poor and unfortunate debtor's goods and leaves him without the means of support for a numerous and dependent family. The wealthy and prosperous manufacturer est possible rates of wages, and when he is making enormous profits upon the poor, and is living 'sumptuously every day,' upon their earnings—while they are starving—points to the history of nations. They waded through the law as his justification. The miser hoards, one hold and mighty phalanx of discourage. up his treasures, starving his family, over works his children, and denies them the privilege of an education, and of becoming useful and intelligent citizens, because the law

THE JEWEL NOT LOST.

The black waters of the river of death were olling sluggishly onward. There approached one whose features bore traces of anxiety and sorrow; and with a bowed form she gazed into the turbulent stream, as though she would fain desery something far down in its

"Alas?" she answered I wore a sparkling jewel upon my bosom.-It was no paltry bauble, but a monarch's gift and invaluable. The wealth of India can vield none to match it. In an evil hour it dropped from its resting-place into this dark river. The answer came: "Nay, but thou art deceived. What thou seest is but the semblance of what was thine. Yet, turn thy eyes upward and rejoice!" She obeyed, and beheld a star gleamng from a bright spot of azure in the murky sky, whose rays give even the waves of that gloomy river a tinge of brightness, and whose reflection there she had mistaken for her own

TEMPERANCE.

For the West Jersey Pioneer. Extract from a Temperance Address delivered by Rev. D. Kelsay.

How were our liberties achieved, and what are we as a nation? I answer they were achieved by the noble, the persevering, the self denying, the undaunted courage and hearty determination of our fathers. They sir's, were men, wise men; they knew the path to greatness and to glory was only to be found right. They pursued it. They marked their trackless way to the field of battle with the blood that oozed from their lacerated feet. They sowed in swent and blood, and reaped a glory as fadeless as the sun that illumined ires men, women, and children, at the low-their pathway to the contest. They burst in sunder the chains of tyranny and planted the flag of liberty on an eminence unparalled in answer, we are so great that our arms are extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific ocean. schools, and seminarys are springing aup inalmost every section of our country. The sails of our commerce whiten every sea, and tell to every land our greatness. Our country throws open her ddors as a great asylum to receive the poor and oppressed of every land. Upon her streams of benevolence, is borne the glad news of salvation to the perishing nations of the earth. And shall our greatness and that noble charter of our liberties, which are the wonder of the world, and

Is there danger? Go sir, to the prison and ask the history of the man indicted for murder; he will tell you, he once was respected, he once was in circumstances of comfort, happy and beloved, but in an unguarded moment he was led to taste of that which produced intoxication, his appetite for it increased, he squandered his property, destroyed his constitution, and while under the pernicious influence of intoxication, murdered his Ohild. Is there danger? Enquire of the broken hearted wife, with diffidence she will tell you the source of her troubles. "My husband was once all that a husband could be, no kindness was too much for him to do, no self-denial too great for him to practice in order to make me happy. But he has taken to the intoxicating bowl, he now abuses his family and himself. I am often afraid of my life, he is not like the same man, nothing appears too and for him to do. I have but little hope of his ever reforming, my children are beggared, I am houseless, homeless, friendless, and-" the womans heart beats with auguish she can say no more.

Were there but seldom an instance of this character it would be worthy our energies to remove it. But there are a great number of families, that are suffering all the blighting influence of intemperance. Could you but see the tears and hear the grouns and know something of the wakeful hours, spent by the watchful and dependent wife, unxiously awaitng the return of her drunken husband, your sensibilities would be awakened and the sympathics of your natures excited. Could you feel something of the sorrows of the widow, turned out upon the cold charity of an unfriendly world. Oould you listen to the piteous mean of beggered children, or know the gnawings of want experienced by the houseless orphan, would you say there was no dan-

More Gold Discoveries .- If half we hear of the discovery of gold in Texas, Mexico, Arkansas, &c, be true, it will soon ceuse to be the "precious metal" it is now denominated. The wonderful results of the discoveries in California and Australia, have already had an important influence upon the currency and prices of the world. What the end will be, is a pozzle to political economists. There is said to be almost as much excitement in Arkausas just now as there was in California thirty days after the development at Sutter's Saw Mill. There are but few, however, out of the immediate circle of that excitement from this newest homefield.

If recreation is needful to relieve the mind and refresh it, it is needed by the whole family.

Ordinarily we should suppose that, women stood as much in need of amusement as the men, because in addition to a proportion of the care and responsibility required for the beautiful yard attached to the residence of domestic management of affairs, their life is much more monotonous than that of the oththe dullness and tedium of every day life. In RYAN, of Philadelphia. large towns and cities it is very common for those who join clubs and companies to make frequent excursions. And instances are very common, in those places, where men expend their means on these pleasure parties to the neglect of their families. Now this is moral-

Important Information for Rheumatics. Haddonfield, March 26th, 1852. Dr. Steelling-Dear Sir-Some time since I was attacked with a severe Inflammatory Rheumatism was entirely bedridden, and could get no relief, until I made trial of your Rheumatic Liniment, which entirely cured me, after I used two bottles of it. I would observe that before using your Liniment, I had a physician, but derived no bene-fit from his medicines. I have also been cured of a severe attack of Lumbage by the same Liniment. My wife had a severe attack of Rheumatism, which entirely deprived her of the use of one of her hip joints; she used two bottles of your Liniment and was entirely cured. I could also relate several other cases of Rheumatism, where I have recommended it, which were also cured by Steelling's Liniment.
