For the West Jersey Pioncer. A PICTURE.

BY ESTELLA MAURICE. She was kind, and meek, and lowly,

And her face was mild and fair, Shaded by the flowing ringlets Or her glossy golden hair. In her soft blue eye there lingered Sad and tearful tenderness,

Telling of a thoughtful spirit, Feeling keenly for distress. And her smile was sweet and holy, But 'twas not the sign of mirth; 'Twas the smile of pictured angels, Lovelier far than smiles of earth Like a strain of mournful music. Was her voice so soft and low; And like softened hues of even, Was her cheek's faint rosy glow

'Midst her sunny, shining ringlets, Gleamed no pearls or jewels rare; But the fragrant, lowly flowers,

Violet meek, and lily fair. By her side another maiden, Sat in leveliness and pride, And her glorious, queenly beauty

Well might grace a monarch's bride. Noble was her form and graceful, And her voice was rich and clear: And the tones like ringing music, Broke upon the listening car.

Fair as purest Parian marble, Was her broad and polished brow; And her clear, dark eyes were flashing,

With the spirit's fiery glow. Twined among her raven tresses, Glittered diamonds, rich and rare: And pale pearls were softly gleaming, Round her neck so purely fair. Tell me now, which was most lovely,

She so mild, and meek, and fair, Or the proud and queenly lady, With her gifts of beauty rare. Shiloh Nov. 1853.

From the Christian Observer. PARENTAL GOVERNMENT.

"FATHERS, PROVOKE NOT YOUR CHILDREN TO ANGER, LEST THEY BE DISCOURAGED."

The treatment which provokes an adult, will also provoke a child. He is but the miniature of a man; his sense of personal rights is developed at a pretty early stage in life; and as his wishes are often necessarily crossed, and made to yield to the require- tunes of the destroyer. ments of others, he learns to question the propriety of each new demand made upon his claims. It sometimes seems to him that evto contract needlessly the circle of his innocent joys. No good reason for such encroachment is apparent to him, and he very naturally thinks there is none. Hence he is provoked; he turns away from his father, as from an enemy, and becomes discouraged.

What course then shall a Christian parent nursue? His child is just awaking to the strong impulses of a depraved nature, and the allurements of a world of temptations; how shall he shun one evil and not produce the other? How shall he coerce and not make angry? He must necessarily restrain (even to unavailing.) but not provoke. He must make strong and high the barriors to sinful indulg ence, but not discourage. The task involves peculiar difficulties, and demands the exercise of the parest qualities of good guardianship. To aid the conscientious parent in this du ty to his children, we invite attention to the following suggestions.

1. Be Consistent:—Children desire to know what they are to depend upon; and this your approbation. This will deter them from knowledge is strictly due to them. They will de far happier under a system characterized by too stringent regulations, if duly enforced, than to be in uncertainty whether or not any necount is to be taken of their doings. The constancy of the natural laws by which the tinger is pained when thrust into the flame, soon leads even the infant to acquiesce without complaint. Consistency in government is indispensible to the successful training of children. Without this their wills are not person, and with real interest, to the recitals when once more the little creature opened sition there is sure to spring up a feeling of feats which they have performed, and of plans moved its lips, and in a faint voice said, 'God disquietude and opposition. A firm and stea projected. You must evince a hearty satisday purpose will obviste this and secure in faction at what is related as curious, and wonchildren if the ornament of a meek and quiet der at the marvellous; must sympathize with spirit. Such government; unfertunately is their sorrows; and encourage them under diffect from the every house. A lamentable and growing deficiency in this matter, obtains all indicates must repair the broken toy, and show midst every where at the present day. Who dies not daily where at the present day. mestic misrule, in the restiveness and unduti- | ment; will fortify them against the suggesful demeanor of children and youth? Nearly all the violent misdeeds whose recitals so often pain us, are traceable to a culpable inconsistency in the family nursery. Alas, how many parents govern only by impulse! And what sure excursions, and, when convenient, of determined the mistrate of the sure excursions, and, when convenient, of determined the sure excursions, and, when convenient, of determined the sure excursions, and when convenient, of determined the sure excursions, and when convenient, of parents govern only by impulse! And what determined insubordination and anger is

are, no doubt, rendered permanently irritable and morose by this form of indiscretion... Why dence, and a cheerful, Christian courage .-The fermer will purchase luxuries and immunities, but the latter alone can secure calmness under provocation, joy in adversity, and hope in death.

2. Be indulgent.—The desires of children are ardent; and when reasonable should be gratified. Every denial produces a painful revulsion and tends to discouragement. Open wide then the green fields of innocent mirth. Eucourage a buoyant cheerfulness. Devote time and means to the attainment of this object. Such a course is strictly philosophical, for the mind, thus preperly pre-occupied, is not liable to become engressed in other ob-

Johnie, a child of three years, and his sister Emma of five, while balancing in sportive merriment on their rocking-horse in the cool piazza, have no thoughts of petty mischiefs or of angry words. Charlie of six years, galloping his favorite pony about the home lawn, heeds not the troop of noisy truants, who are passing to-wards the dangerous swimming-place, or the still worse scene of promiscuous gathering.

Fanny, at twelve, intent on executing with her own hands, a fancy piece of worsted, or a "forget me not," for an esteemed friend, is for the time fully absorbed, and is not to be enticed away into rude and boisterous company.

Mary, at seventeen, has learned the true secret of happiness. Indulging a hope of piety, and desiring to be useful, she devotes herself to study, and to the general interests of the family. She is particularly attentive of the family. She is particularly attentive to the improvement and gratification of her of Nature, and of God. The pleasant zephyr young brothers and sisters. In the circles of which refreshes man at even, and the withergaicty she is unknown, and invitations to ing simoon that speads death and desolation scenes of frivolity and fashion are never tene sick are familiar with her voice of sympathy, and her Sunday class receive with avidity the truth from her lips.
Such we may suppose to be the filial piety and loveliness of the daughter of seventeen, the early culture of whose mind and heart has been pursued on principles of Christian faithfulness. She is already the pride and joy of her parents, "a cornerstone, polished after the similitude of a palace."

But sons and daughters in the later years of their minority sometimes become restive and impatient undar domestic rule. Parental discretion is then put to a severe test. No definite method of proceedure can in such case be given. The nature of the case must suggest to the wise how far indulgence will be a virtue. If the control has hitherto been to remiss, it may now be too late to attempt a remedy by additional stringency. While the customary order must not be relaxed very much will depend on judicious advice and encouragement, as well as on the general attractiveness of home. The danger of discouragement at this critical age is greatly enbanced by parental indiscretion, such as irritable impulsiveness, harsh threats, excessive requirements and restrictions. Many a promising, high-spirited youth has been impelled by an unfeeling rebuke to take counsel of his restraints of home, to seek in vain elsewhere the joys so imprudently lost. Daughters have thus leut an ear to flattery, misplaced their affections, despised parental warnings, and sundered every natural tie, to follow the for-vices of unscrupulous comrades. Let not excessive parsimony effect the evil we are deprecating. Better "divide the inheritance" prematurely, than suffer the demon of discord to turn it into a curso. Fit out the impatient prodigal, if nothing else will suffice. He has been known to "come to himself," and to return surprisingly improved in filial piety. He had indeed spent all, but his coming filled the home of his ebildhood with music and duncing.

The equandered patrimony proved to have been well invested. It secured the return and penitence of a lost and wayward son.

2. Be Companionable.—This is a point of great moment. If you become the confidential associate of your children, you secure them effectually against the influence of those whose views and example conflict with your own. Do not hand them over to peevish, wonder-telling purses. Spare no pains to many an improper act, and strengthen their good resolves in the hour of temptation.

What is here proposed must necessarily claim a portion of your time, A parent never mistakes more than when his labors for temporal gains are too incessant to admit of daily social companionship with his children. A competence is admitted to be needful. but not less so is the proper culture of the affections. To effect this, you must listen in person, and with real interest, to the recitals projected. You must evince a hearty satisyour business tours. Their happy faces and ing bequeathed to the Church a second gene-

It is quite common to hear it said that the otaries of science are traitors of God; that they who study Nature's works, wander off from thoughts of Nature's God; that the che-God whose image man is. Such is not the case. Throughout the universe there pervades in all things Law, pointing to an eternal and unchanging LAW GIVER; a law not of gloom, of terror or, caprice, but of order, harmony, system, and of beauty. The little "Morning Glory," that creeps up the lattice by his cottage door, opens to the morning sun the precious perfumery of its bud, and withers and dies beneath its power and heat. From the planting of its seed in the ground to the budding of the flower in its beauty, the man of science discovers the all-pervading law which governs each step of the plant's progress, even to the tints of the flower. This law is in per-infant's veins, and the spread of the cancer upon the old man's face; the singing of the winds in the lowland-valley, and the crashing of tempests in the whirlwind's storm; the rippling of the brook, and the comet sweeping across the heavens like a pendlum, and marking the hours of Eternity in strokes of centuries; all, all, to the mind of the man of science, reveal the laws by which they are governed, and the Mighty Law Giver who made both the Law, and the Creature to obey the Let the man of science wander in the field when the earth needs rain. By Heaven's decree it descends in abundance, and the air melts with thankfulness; yes, the very light of Heaven, in gratitude to God for the gentle showers, dissolves its rays in the beauteons colors of the rainbow! At such a sight the morning dew-drop sheds a crystal tear. And shall it be said that the man of science-he whose pursuit and delight it is to investigate these things, and their laws-shall be said that he is not sensible of the existence of a God? Shall it be said that while all nature raises up its hands to God, like needy children to their mother, the man of science sons not whither all Nature centres? No. He who discards God, by that very act discards science. He who would seck to fathom earth's and napassions, and with desperate step, east off the ture's mysteries, and casts God from his thoughts, does thereby remove that light which would illumine his path—the Light of

Don't allow the pebbles on your path to be-come stones of stumbling. Even if they do, take it easy. The ladder of pattence is at hand, and the smooth path of success lies beyond. If life brings a sorrow, take it easy. Sorrows are but the misty drifts in the sky, that float away in an hour. Even if they be as storm clouds, to-morrow or next week, will be sunny. If your brother speaks the cold word of scorn, or the bitter word of abuse. take it easy. He will be gone in a day, and a brother with a kind heart will take your hand, and whisper words of cheer. It is the best philosophy—it is the best pole star, this sentence, "take it easy." Adopt it, and see how stoically you will pass through the orde-

Every thoughful and observant American itizen, who is not an eager office aspirant for the sake of emolument, will heartily a sent to the doctrine set forth in the following ex-tract from Col. Benton's new work. The periodical sciamble for office in this country; the swerping system of removals for political opinion's sake, are melancholy exhibitions of selfishness, and the pergersion of power into a means of advancing individual interests.—

A FARM HOME.

Hon. Horace Greely delivered the address As for me, long tossed on the stormiest while it develops or strengthens within us the attachment, perhaps long smothered or ever-laid, for "that dear hut, our home." And so I, in the sober afternoon of life, when its sun, if not high, is still warm, have bought me a few acres of land in the broad, still country, and bearing thither my househould treasures, have resolved to steal from the city's le borers and anxieties at least one day in each week, wherein to revive as a farmer the memories of my childhood's humble home. And already I realize that the experiment cannot cost as much as it is worth. Alread I find in that day's quiet an antidote and a solace for the feverish, festering cares of the days which environ it. Already my brook murnurs a soothing, even song to my burning; throbbing brain; and my trees, gently stirred something of their own quiet strength and patient trust in God. And thus do I faintly realize, but for a brief and flitting day, the serene joy which shall irradiate the Farmer's vocation, when a fuller and truer Education shall have refined and chastened his animal cravings, and when science shall have cudowed him with her treasures, redeeming Labor from drudgery while quadrupling its efficiency and crowning with beauty and plenty our bounteous, benificent Earth.

"The boat leaves Lucerne several times day, to make the excursion of the lake, and I ve enjoyed more of the beauty and grandear it presents, that most of the travellers are willing to take time for. I waited some to join me, as I had heard of his arrival in Europe, and that he would soon be in Switzerland. The tolegraph has found its way across the mountains and the valley of Swit zerland, and as I was getting impaitent; I went to the office in Lucerne to see if I could not send an electric spark to him somewhere between this and Basle. The operator read my message, which was done in decent Ger-man, and seeing the name of Morse, said to me that he used Morse's instrument in his work. He was greatly pleased when I told him the relations of my correspondent with the inventor of the telegraph, and we went to work to get the wires into communication with him. Now, said he, we are receiving a message from Italy, from Lugano, the line ty of this American invention, which transmits thought in an instant over Alpine barriers, dusing it to traverse regions of eternal

The "Newburyport Herald," referring to the launch of the Great Republic, says:

"Mr. McKay, we hear, will immediately commence the construction of a ship larger than this, which he is to build by contract. 'The theory has been started of building a ship so large, that she will pass through the sails so large, that she will pass through the ocean with comparitively little motion ploughing directly through the waves, without rising upon them, and so high above them that the highest waves will always be below the decks. It is a daring thought, but in view of what has been accomplished already, who vill venture to denounce it as absurd? There are those bold enough to predict, that a ship vill yet be built that will pass through the stormy waves on the occun with as stately a progress as a vessel of a hundred tons through

Such a vessel could enter very few ports in the world, because there is not a sufficient depth of water to fleat such a vessel. It would not be wise, we think, to build essels of such magnitude. There is certainy a limit to the economic size of vessels, but what that is, we cannot tell, nor can any other person at present; experience alone can settle this question ... LIVING FOR SHOW ONLY.

There are two kinds of people, those who live for comfort, and those who live only for show. The latter are more numerous than might be supposed. They crowd every con-dition of life, but are oftenest found among persons in moderate circumstances; and exist in the country as well as in the city, though more numerously in the latter. To keep up appearances, they sacrifice comfort, economy, and sometimes even health. Ambitious of twing as handsomely as their wealthier neighburs, and forgetting that people of sense never estimate others by outward show, they pinch, and pare, and often almost starve, in order to went fine dresses, have rose-wood furnitura in the pailor, or give expensive entertainments. Instead of living within their means, and thus being always independent, they are continually exceeding their incomes and making themselves slaves to debt. Nor do they, after all, secure that gratification to their vanity, which was the pattry reward for which they sterificed so much. Much as they strive to outshine, there is always somebody, whom they know, to surpass them; somebody who has a finer house or more elegant furniture; somebody who wears a costlier brocade, gives a handsomer party or drives a superior equi-

DUTCH AHEAD.

An old, plain spoken Dutch farmer, from the vicinity of the Helderburg, in pursuit of dinner, the other day, dropped in at the Excelsior Dining Saloon, in Nassau street. Taking a seat alongside of a dandyish sort of a fellow all perfume, moustachios and shirt collar. our honest Mynheer ordered up his dir.

"What will it be, sir?" asks white apron. "You got good corned beef, hey?" says Durchy. "Yes!"

"You got sourkrout, too hey?"

"Ob, yosl" "Vell, gif me some both!"

FRANKLIN FERGUSON, ? EDITORS. Joseph A. Miller.

ELECTION DAY .- On Tuesday next occurs the annual period for the exercise of the privilege peculiar to freemen. Although in this county there is not the stir and bustle sometimes attendant upon our presidential election, yet there are elements of interest enough to make the canvass a warm and probably an exciting one. The old issues between Whigs and Democrats seem to be lest sight of in the absorbing interest occasioned by the Maine Law question. We have observed a disposithat the question for that day's solution .-This unusual position of things creates quite a perplexity in the usual calculations of the active political calculators, and envelops the events of the day.

One new feature may be said to accompany the present canvass, and that is the readiness with which members of the old parties leave things. Old political opponents may now be seen working, side by side, for or against the new issue presented to consideration. In this breaking up of old party ties, we anticipate the establishment of a new and we hope a more independent order of things. The unnecountable fidelity with which party ties have for a long time past been observed, and the willingness with which the masses have submitted to party drill, will, at the approaching election, receive a shock which probably for all future time may change the position of parties in this county. The influence among the mass produced naturally by this state of things, is to lead to more inquiry, and this naturally to the truth. As education is becoming so much more general, the idle and improbable tales circulated by partizans for political effect, will be weighed in a more intelligent spirit, and their falsity and design be more easily detected. The full effect and benefit of our free institutions cannot be realized while there is so much disparity in the intelligence of our citizens. "Knowledge is every county in this State either full or partious and aspiring. The nearer equal we become in intelligence the less of a controlling influence can one mind exercise over another. Hence all may act in their own independent and proper sphere, examining and deciding for themselves - each rejecting for himself whatever course of public policy his own enlightened judgment may disapprove.

With all our boasted pretensions to liberty and freedom of political action, there are but few that will not admit that party discipline has exerted an influence somewhat at variance with the spirit of free institutions. Instances are not wanting where party fidelity has led to the furtherance of measures to which the candid and unbiassed judgment of the individual would have been opposed. This thraldom and subserviency, so totally unbecoming the professions we hold out to the world, if we can read the signs of the times aright, are fast becoming broken, and yielding to the dawning of that happy day when, in politics as well as religion, no man need say to his neighbor know them, for all shall know, from the least to the greatest. There is a practice quite prevalent in the western and south-western States, among candidates for popular favor, of going round and addressing meetings of those whose votes they are soliciting. At these assemblages they declare their own views of public policy immediately to the people, without the intervention of third parties to represent them as their own interests may dictate. In many respects this practice is very commendable. Any man by seeing and hearing a candidate for office is much better prepared to vote understandingly than if he had no personal knowledge of him. Besides that, his publicly expressed views of policy would be something of an indication of his course as a public agent. The fact of having expressed them before the people would lead to a cautiousness in pursuing any other course than | 000 was destroyed. the one he himself proposed. From this we should not wish to be understood as favoring the practice, sometimes adopted, of giving pledges. A general expression of opinion on public policy does not by any means involve a pledge. We would quite as soon vote for a candidate, whose views corresponded with John Franklin, the expedition has been abanours, without a pledge as with one, fully sat- doned. isfied that the reasons for a departure from that policy in the first instance, would be such as to induce a violation of the pledge in the last. The candidate elected as well as the constituent has a just right to the free and

The November number comes to us. There are other questions likely to arise in with all the freshness and literary interest which the county should very naturally feel awakened by the previous ones. Amongst a a more than usual degree of interest, of this number of very superior literary communicaclass, are the Railroad and Bank questions .- tions we observe an excellent article upon As these have not been made distinct party "The Pacific Railroad and how it is be built." issues, it is very probable but little difference As this scheme is now attracting the atof opinion exists among the county candidates tention of the intelligent capitalists in our upon them; of this, however, we suppose each country, we bespeak a candid and impartial voter will satisfy himself before depositing his examination of the article under considera-

ACCIDENT FROM CAMPHENE .- Another of those warnings, which have become quite frequent of late, showing the danger of carelessly using camphene, occurred one evening week before last on board of a vessel belonging to David Campbell, Esq., while lying in Maurice River. The light used in the cabin having become dim, two of the men belonging ing on board, undertook to fill up the lamp while lighted. The vapor from the camphone ignited, communicating a flame to the conents of the lamp, causing an explosion and scattering the burning fluid in all directions. Some of it flew on the face of a young man named Dallas Lore, who was sitting in another part of the cabin very severely burning him on the face. Medical aid was procured as promptly as possible and he is now in a fair way to recover.

What seems a little remarkable is that neither of the persons engaged in filling the lamp were injured, although the can containing the fluid and the lamp were both dropped upon the floor, at the time of the explosion. The prompt and copious application of water probably saved the vessel if not the lives of the parties.

LAUNCH.-A fine Sloop, said to be the argest trading in Cohansey Creek, was launchtion among the mass of the people to make ed from the ship-yard of Mr. John Pew, on Laurel street, on Thursday last, about noon. As she glided gallantly into the water, a flag was raised to the mast-head upon which was inscribed her name (SPRAY).

result in a mystery only to be solved by the Quite a large number, including both sexes, young and old, crowded the surrounding wharves to witness the launch. As the tide was high at the time of launching, quite an amusing stampede occurred among the spectheir cid issues to meet the new aspect of tators along a portion of the wharf as the wave caused by the descending vessel swept over it, indiscriminately wetting the feet of those who were so unfortunate as to be within

As the vessel was approaching the dock after the launch, a boy undertook to jump ashore from on board, but, owing to some miscalculation as to distance, fell into the water. He was immediately rescued without any other damage than a thorough wetting.

APPALLING SHIPWRECK .- By late English papers received by the Niagara, we learn that the ship Annie Jane, with 450 Irish emigrants on board, bound for this country, was wrecked, on Barra Island one of the group of the Hebrides, on the night of the 28th of September, by which three hundred and forty-eight persons met a watery grave.

The remainder of the passengers with the captain and 12 of the crew had arrived safely at a small scaport in the isle of Mull.

So that throughout the state nearly the full strength of the Temperance party will be exhibited.

In this county an unusual amount of activity prevails among them, and meetings have been held nightly during the past week throughout the county, at which the advantages of the Maine Law have been set fairly beforc the people.

RELIGIOUS REVIVAL .- A series of religious meetings are now being held at the M. E. Church in Roadstown now under the charge of the Rev. Mr. Primrose, which are attended by numbers of persons many of whom are exhibiting gratifying evidences, of an awakened interest in the cause of religion.

ADVICE GRATIS .- Citizens of Newport who wish to learn something to their advantage would do well to consult our advertising columns the present week.

Fight with the Negroes .- A serious figh occurred in this town about 10 o'clock last Saturday night, between a party of drubken negroes and a posse whom Justice Thompson had summoned to assist him in arresting them. on Fenwick street, where the justice had repaired to arrest the offenders, and was one of he most desperate encounters had with the Wheat blacks within our knowledge. Knives, bricks, Corn stones, and clubs were freely used; and in the affray a young man named Joseph Warner received a severe blew on his bead, from the New Corn effects of which he is still suffering. One of the blacks was stabbed; and Justice Thompson had one of his fingers dislocated. After repeatedly repelling the assaults of the blacks. they succeeded in arresting the chief of the sold at $1,50, including some small lots not gang, a large burly negro, and placing him prime, at $1,48, and 2 a 3000 bushels good safely in the dungeon. After a few day's negotiation, Com. Perry landed a force of three or four hundred men, presented the letter of the President and his own credentials to a member of the Emperor's Privy Council appointed to receive them. The above force was met on shore by about five thousand Japanese troops, drawn up near the water's edge. Both parties were ready By the Govern for an encounter at a moment's warning-for GEORGE F. FORT. the Japanese had apprehensions of treachery as well as the Americans and had guarded against it. However, everything passed off and received a number of presents.

After the ceremony of presentation, the ship moved farther up the bay, and made a general survey of a portion of it. The city of Jeddo was not seen, but only a junk anchorage a few miles below it. The people did not appear to mind the sailing vessels, but they were evidently dreadfully afraid that the steamers would discover too much, and could not understand their moving about against wind and tide. Jeddo Bay is represented as being the most beautiful and extensive in the world.

Most of the troops met with were armed with spears, javelin, and bows and arrows. -There were thirty flint-lock muskets and two or three hundred old fashioned fire-locks amongst them. On the day of the landing a few women were seen accidently, but none of the upper class. On the 17th, the squadron left Jeddo Bay. At the Loo Choo, Com. The Picayune learns from a gentleman who has arrived from Merida, that the federalists had attacked that city, notwithstanding the imprisonment of their leaders, Barbachano and Zetina, and succeeded in making Gen. They are impelled to this step by the pecuniary success they have steadily met with since the exhibition was complete, and by the consideration that an carly close must deprive an immense number of persons of the pleasure and benefit of visiting the Palace. From the first of September to the present day the receipts have been highly satisfactory, averaging $4000 or more a day, while the current expenses are but $600. The receipts of the fortnight ending on the 22d inst., were $58,000. Stoves will be immediately erected in sufficient numbers to keep the building comfortable, and new ones will be added as the weather bee mes more severe.

Philadelphia, Oct., 80-P. M. Since last evening, six o'clock, we have had no less than six fires in the city and districts, all the work of incendiaries. An ice house, a stable, some hay stacks, and the Washington engine house were destroyed. The latter located in Lombard street, above Tenth, was fired about half past one o'clock this morning and burned until near six o'clock. The building is four stories high, with cupola on top. and was a handsome edifice. It was almost entiraly destroyed, together with the compa ny's library, consisting of 800 volumes, twenty set of new equipments, four splendid paintings by Woodside, and numerous other arti cles of value. The adjoining property, occupied by colored persons, was somewhat dam aged. The "Washington" was insured for $1,500 in the Fire Association.

Two vessels have been built in this counat Panama on the 13th, from San Blas, with try for the Russian government. The first was a sailing vessel called the Kensington, which was built in Philadelphia, in 1824, which was built a few years afterwards, in and wood work generally were excellent, and both these vessels are still in the Russian service.

Wilmington, Del. - The Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company, in furthering their own interest, have comprising the escort were more or less done and, from present indications, will soon much more for the prosperity of Wilmington. They have surveyed, at their own cost, the route from Seaford to Wilmington, and will lend their aid to that work to an extent which it is confidently believed will, before a great while, secure its completion. And they are now surveying the route of the Wilmington and Brandywine railroad so as to connect with the Pennsylvania railroad, for the purpose of bringing to Wilmington market a great amount of coal and other valuable products of Pennsylvania, direct. It is said it is their intention, when the proper time arrives, to contribute liberally to the construction of last mentioned improvement.

Sad Affair .- A disturbance took place in South Camden on Saturday night, in consequence of the arrest of a drunken and disor arrest the prisoner, he offered serious resistance, upon which the Constable drew his Lilly News from Havana .- News from Havana | and inflicted a blow on his head, which felled him to the ground. Some fears are apprehended that his skull was fractured, and that the injuries will prove fatal.

Danger of Arsenic.—A little son of Geo. W. R. Seal of Winchester, Va., about four or five years of age, got hold of a piece of bread, last week, that had been put out in a room for rais, and cat it. Fortunately, the arsenic was taken in such a quantity as to induce vomiting and save the child from death.

Africanizing Guba .- The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce, says, some doubt has been suddenly thrown over the rumors of the interference of England and France in the Affairs of Cuba. They claim the right to interfere, but they have not done so, as yet, in any effectual manner. It is to be presumed that almost any administration in England will fall in with the general feeling of the British subject of slavery, and no one can doubt that destiny points to the ultimate abolition of slavery in Cuba. Death from Hydrophobia. A gentleman of Providence, Mr. Henry Hopkius, died at the house of his brother-in-law, near West Killingley, Conn., a few days since, of hydro-phobia or lock-jaw. He had been bitten by dog not known to be rabid, some three months ago, and felt very much alarm for a long time, though his fears had subsided before he was attacked by the complaint. The Monopoly in the Guano Trade. - A Committee of the Virginia State Agricultural Society, consisting of Messrs. W. Death of the "Oldest Inhabitant."-A friend writes to us that on the 12th ult., died, on the plantation of Edmund B. Richardson, in Baden county, N. C., Judy, a slave aged one hundred and ten years. She was one of eight slaves who nearly sixty years ago, were the first settlers on the plantation where she died, within one mile of the Cape Fear river. Of the other seven, one died over 90 years of age, another 93, and the third 81. Two are yet living, one 75, and the other over 60 years of age. Within five miles of the place where Judy died, lived William, Pridgen, whose death at the age of 122 years

FOR THE LADIES: Fall and Winter Fashion.

NELUENCED by the prevailing law of Fashion, the subscriber continues as heretofore, to pre-sent new fashions at the opening of the various Seasons. Taste demands that these fashions shall passess new combinations and exhibit aspirations after new forms and embodiments of the useful and beautiful. The increase of his business affords the most gratifying evidence of the kind appreciations to please all tastes, at remarkably low tion in which his previous efforts have been held. His present offering is a DRESS GAITER for Fall or Winter, in the first style of elegance and distinction-being composed of rich and durable materials. While his principal fashion will undoubtedly be acceptable to the general taste, yet in order to gratify all, the subscriber has prepared a variety of styles, so that every one, old and young, plain or gay, can select that most becoming for themselves. The Paris style of Guiter will com-themselves. The Paris style of Guiter will commend itself for its dress appearance, it being decidedly the Guiter for the promenade.

The subscriber therefore can confidently invite the attention of his friends and the public, to his establishment, giving them the assurance that he is fully enabled to ofer articles of his own manufacture, at lower prices and of better quality, that are usually met with. It will ever be his aim to maintain for his goods the distinguished mark of superiority and relative Cheapness, which alone realer them worthy of commendation and appro

Pennington Female Institute. THIS INSTITUTE, located in the village of Pennington, Moreer county, N. J. (directly opposite the Conference Seminary) will close its present Scolastic year, on the 12th day of JULY next. The next session will commence on the FIRST DAY of SEPTEMBER, following. Extensive arrangements have been made for the ensuing year, and no efforts will be spared to make the Institute stand (as it has stood) in the FIRST RANK for educational advantages and literary excellence. The subscriber will have associated with himself as principal CHARLES W. BUNN, A. B. BIL EXPERIENCED TEACHER and GRADUATE OF TALE college; a preceptress and other Teachers, emi-nently qualified to fill the positions assigned them. All branches usually taught in Female Seminaries All branches usually taught in Female Seminaries can be successfully pursued in the Institute, viz: Common and Higher English and Mathematics, Ancient and Modern Languages, Including French, German, Italian and Spanish; DRAWING and PAINTING in all their varieties, together with MUSIC on the Piano, Guitar, Melodion, or Seraphine. The success of the Institute during the past year has enabled those interested in its affairs, to put the Terms for Tuition, &c., Lower than any Scholarship Terms offered in New Jersey.

TUITION in all the Common and higher English branches, including Board, Room Rent, Furniture, Bed and Bedding; and Fuel, TWENTY-FIVE DOLLARS per quarter, or ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS per year; and for the mignest branches pursued, including the above only THIRTY FIVE DOLLARS per quarter or one hundred and forty bollars per year, Washing and Light extra. Bridgeton, July 30, '53. Wm. BROOKFIDLD. Beauty, Health, and Cheapuess. CIAMUEL L. FITHIAN has on hand and for sale a large lot of Zinc Paints as follows viz. Pure

Zine White No. 1, 2 & 3, Brown Zine, Black Zine, Zine Dryer and Demar varnish. The Zinc Paints in their improved state have now been in use for a number of years and fully tested side by side with the Best Pure White Lead and has in every instance proved to be superior to White Lead both in Color, Durability, Beauty, and the public, that he shall continue his friends and the public, that he shall continue Cheapaess. From experiments it has been found to sell at prices which an inspection cannot full to that 100 lbs best White Zino will cover when applied in three coats on new work as much surface as 166 2-8 lbs White Lead Pure, and will cover as well which makes the Zinc over 60per et cheaper than Lard, &c.

It is equally applicable to inside or outside work or for the bottom of vessels or in any other place where paint is necessary. The reasons above given, we think should satisfy any one of the Superiority of the Zine paints but should any yet doubt, we should be pleased to have them give us a call and we think we can fully satisfy them of their superi-ority for Beauty, Durability, Health & Cheapness.
