For the West Jersey Pioneer. THE INDIAN CHIEFTAIN'S DEATH.

BY ESTELLA MAURICE

An Indian lay on his dying bed, A warrier old and grey, The hero of a hundred fights, Was passing fast away. The rushing storm swept wildly by, Through the forest dark and drear; And the aged chieftain's eye grew bright, It was music to his car. For it brought a vision of the past Before his mind again, When the battle cry rang fierce and loud, From his own true warrior train.

But the ligtning's flash, and the stormy wind Had spent their fearful power, And silence reigned in the dim old woods, At the solemn midnight hour. "Air! air! I cannot breathe," he crid, And they opened the cabin door,

And like a ghostly sliadow streamed The moonlight over the floor. The dying Indian silently gazed On the sparkling little stream. Which murmured along o'er its pebbly bed, Twas a lovely spot, where the willows drooped In the waters bright and clear: Where the gentle sigh of the cool night breeze Stole softly on the car, And the chieftain's voice was sad and low. And his dim eyes filled with tears, For there came a vision of long ago,

A dream of his early years. When he wandered beside that wildwood stream, With his beautiful Indian bride:

The light of his eyes, the joy of his life, The object of all his pride. He told of the beauty that won his love, Of the clear, dark, beaming eye, Of the glowing check, which rival'd the rose, In its rich, soft crimson dye.

And he spoke, in a low and broken tone, Of the dark and gloomy hour, When the strange, mysterious stroke of de Crushed his levely forest flower. With a kindling eye, and a flushing cheek, He spoke of the warrior band Whom the pale-face had driven, by cruel wrongs,

From their own fair hunting land. And then he told, in a softened tone, How he learnd of Jesus' love:

How his spirit turned from the joys of earth To the brighter world above. And the hours passed on in their ceaseless march.

Through the long and silent night, And the morning dawned in the eastern sky, In glorious splender bright.

The old man raised his hoary head, And gazed on the landscape fair, And a song of triumph, loud and clear, Rang out on the morning air.

"I am passing to the spirit land, from this fair earth away. My journey here is almost done, I can no longer stay;

My loins are girded, and my lamp is trimmed, and burning bright-I am going on the morning's wings, to the fair land of light.

I am an old and blasted tree, my heart is almos doad. A hundred winters' chilling snows around me have been shed; My brethren proud, and bold, and brave, have fallen around my path, As fall the sturdy forest oaks, before the whirl-wind's wrath. I've seen my nation in its days of glory, pride and power,

And I've seen that glory pass away, as a frail summer flower-I am the last, the only one, all, all, are gone hefore-

Ne'er shall the solemn council meet, in the dark forest more. Ne'er shall my brethren chase the deer, by the clear lake's green side; Ne'er shall they launch the light cance, upon the flashing tide,

Ne'er shall their glowing camp fires gleam among the lofty trees, Or their stern battle cry ring out upon the passing

My spirit turns in weariness, from this fair earth away, I am going to the angels' home, where evil hath no sway. There shall I mingle with the throng, who bow around the throne.

And his flashing eye grew dim, And the warrior's earth worn spirit passed, With the sound of that lofty hymn. Shiloh, March, 1854.

Then his voice grew feeble and faint again,

TEMPERANCE, From the Delaware Herald.

INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY. Its Bearing on the Temperance Cause.

BY BENEDICT.

There is no subject which a rational mind should more deeply ponder, than its own per-sonal responsibility. Every man has duties devolving upon him, which he only can discharge. He is responsible to his friends, to society, to his country and to his God. "No man liveth to himself or dieth to himself;" piness; truly may it be said of him that it were better for him that a "millstone were hanged about his neck and that he were drowned in the depths of the sea." Upon ime and eternity, and upon it rests the hope thing worth an effort, for himself, or for the world, who did not feel its weight. Under your front lawns, on the walls and tables, and its influence the good and great have gone furnishing of your dwellings? How many forth to labor and strive, and their impress hours of a spring morning would it take to has been left upon society; and the exclamation of the burdened soul has ever been: "Oh the weight of this responsibility!" "Am I my brother's keeper?" has been the language of the themselves and painted pickets. You of the thoughtless and the vicious, from the will carry a tenderer and therefore a manlier interjection of guilty Abel down to, the pres- heart in your breast all day, if you pass out ent hour, and enlightened conscience has ev. of a genial circle through the fragrance of li-er been pressing upon human hearts their re-lies, and roses, and honeysuckles. See that sponsibility to others; and in proportion as this is felt and realized will man be found to live in the discharge of the duties devolving upon him. Every man is, to a certain extent accountable for him; and God, in his infinite and doubtful companionships by the preoccuwisdom, has so constituted man that his true pying satisfactions of a cheerful and courtehappiness is only found in realizing and act. ous and hospitable fireside. Starve your paling upon their responsibility. It may im. ate, if need ever were for such denial, to stock pose on him labor and toil, but he feels that in that labor he is blessed; the mere world-table-talk, if you can—and let the ladies help

' He who noble ends by noble means obtains, Or failing, smiles in exile or in chains, Like good Aurelious let him reign or bleed,

Like Socrates, this man is great indeed." Now, whoever thou art, gentle reader, apply this doctrine of your own personal responsibility to the evils growing out of the use of intoxicating drinks. The influence of these drinks upon the humon family—the sad havor they have made with human happiness-is but too familiar with all; the master evil of society—any other single vice dwindles into insignificance when compared with it! When we group together its 3000,000 ruined victims-when, in fancy, we stand beside the 30,000 ruined and infamy, and wretchedness, when we group of this monster vice, loving heart-broken wives, beggared and orphaned children, gray haired sires and mothers gathered around the dying victims of intemperance, with all the deep yearnings which only the mother's heart can feel - when we follow the souls of these regions of deepest gloom where hope and peace visit not-when the sad thought comes up that not one of these thirty thousand, who annually die in our happy laud by intemperance, shall ever have one ray of light, or peace or hope, to visit their wretched souls, but shall ever remain a "blusted wilderness of undying thought," the said realities of the evils of intemperance comes home to every posom, and well may the startling inquiry arise. " what have I done to stay this desolat ing tide of evil?" And I ask you, reader, what have you done? If you have pondered these evils deeply in your heart, sympathised with rum's ruined victims, and, by precept and example, done all that you could do, to arrest the surges of this whelming tide of woe then your own conscience, and men and angels, shall hold you guiltless of their blood. But, if you have stood idly by, without one effort to roll off this dread evil from society, brother's blood crieth to me from the ground.

wrapped yourself in a mantle of selfishness and coldly, unfeelingly asked, " am I my brothers's keeper?" your conscience, and all good men, and the God who is looking down upon you, shall write in the fearful charge. "Thy But reader of mine, if, worse than cold indifference, thou hast stood by with cynic sneer, and ridiculed and found fault with every effort of others to stay this tide of evil; if forgetful of your duty as a man, a patriot, a christain, thou hast thrown the weight of thy influence against the cause of temperance, then may God pity and pardon thee, and awake thee to some sense of the responsibilitics under which thou art living. #### From the N. Y. Daily Budget. AMERICAN FEMALE DOMESTICS.

How American women, who are dependent on themselves for support, are to be employed, is becoming one of the most serious of questions. The numerous labor saving machines—especially the sewing machine—are gradually driving them from their old occupations, and it is assuredly best that this should occur, for every reasonable man, however conservative he may be, will acknowledge that their sphere of action has been too limited, and since nothing but their expulsion from some of their former occupations would bring about the necessary revolution in this provement in their conditions, "even though their sisters, descendants of American patrifor the present it may seem not joyous but Sheer starvation, if nothing clse, will now force them to wrestle with men for the possession of some of those employments which they have not before engaged in. But a long period must elapse, even though great willingness to give way to them should be manifested by the male sex—before the needy among the daughters of America can be provided with such employment as would be exactly in accordance with their capabilities.

therefore, is: What can they do now? What means of support are now open to them? therefore, "my gentlemen" are all smiles and acquiescence, while internally they are raving at the "old man" just as furiously as the less shackled cook would. But let us continue the comparison of the case of the domestic with that of the sewing children, while many sewing women, who would think themselves sunk into almost tho

WAR IN EUROPE.

Our readers have been apprized from time to time, for months past, that a war in Europe was threatened, and finally, that it has been formally, and actively commenced. They must have read attentivly, and studid the subject pretty closely, if they have been enabled satisfactorally to learn what has produced this war, and why all, or most of the great powers of the old world should be engaged in it. It must we believe, be somewhat of mystery to many of our readers, why christian during the last year. He has evidently outpeople, not only of Europe, but of our cwn country also, should sympathize with and take part with the Turks, -the enemies of Christianity, and condomn the Russians, professedly a christian people.

There are many of our readers as well, and better informed upon these subjects than ourselves, and to them it may appear presumptious, or at least unnecessary, for us to attempt to place this subject in some tangible form before them; but we write not so much for those of enlarged opportunities and means of instruction, as for those who are more restricted in their sources of information, and feel that they have a right to information through the columns of their paper, on the great events transpiring in the world around

All the probabilities are, that this war is to be bloody and protracted; that the nations of the old world will all be more or less involved in the struggle, that it will produce in its course, great changes in the political posigovernments of Europe, and that it will have a very considerable effect upon the interests of this country; it is well then for us to make ourselves acquainted with its history, its cause and its progress. Who then are its parties? Russia having been the aggressor will first receive our attention. Very little is known of the early history of Russia, but all that is known, proves it to have been wild, semi-barbarious, brave, ambitious and aggressive in its character; in the tenth century it is said, that a Princess of that country who had embraced religion and been baptised in Constantinople, introduced into Russia the rudiments of learning, and the religion of the Greek Church, which has we believe, continued to be the religion of the State up to the present time. This will be well to hear in mind, as the defence and protection of that religion, is claimed by the Czar to be the object of the present war. From that time, for centureis, and until the rise of the present governing family, Russia was ruled by a succession of sovereigns despotic and overbearing, some of them adventurers, with only their daring and ambition to support them, and with scarcely an exception, to their uniform character of cruelty, profligacy and insatiate ambition. They seem from their earliest history, to have been bent upon extending their dominions, and subjugating the neighboring nations. There was a time however, when torn by intestine feuds and weakened by the quarrels of contending claimants for the sovreign power, this great country was ruled over by a son of one of the Kings of Poland, that nation which has since, by this very power, been blotted from the family of nations and partitioned out between itself and its allies, this sovereign was elected by the nation, his reign however was short, and he was succeeded by the first of the present race of rulers. The government has ever since been in the hands of this family, who have been characterized by a strange mixture of cruelty and clemency, of barbarism with refinement, and licentiousness with religion; their whole history has proved them ambitious of extending their dominions and their power, and they seem to have been possessed with a settled conviction that they were to become the great governing power of the world, and this feeling is said to pervade the nation generally, as

ARRIVAL OF THE AMERICA. We give below the war news received by the America. The other news is not import ant. Austria and Prussia have not committed themselves on either side. In France the war is very popular, the loan of 250,000,000

The war is to be in strict accordance with a treaty between the Porte, France and England signed on the night of March the 12th, embracing five articles.

1st. England and France engage to support Turkey by force of arms, until the conclusion of a peace that shall secure the independence and integrity of the Sultan's dominions.

2d. The Porte shall not conclude peace without the consent of the allies. 3d. The allies shall evacuate the Turkish territories after the war.

4th. This treaty to remain open for the adhesion of other powers of Europe. 5th. Turkey guarantees to all the subjects of the Porte, without distinction of creed, perfect equality in law. Several protocols are attached, regulating the details.

Meanwhile the campaign has begun in car-

It is confirmed that the Russians have crossed the Danube in great force, the object being to strike a decisive blow before the arrival of the Anglo-French force. On the 22d March, the Russian detachment, under Prince Gortschakoff, forced the passage of the Danube above Tulksa, and captured 11 guns, 200 prisoners and occupied Tulska, together with several forts on the right bank. Gen. Luders crossed with the main body of the army from Galatz without much loss.

Not less than 50,000 Russiaus are now on the Turkish side of the Danube. On the 24th, Gen. Luders began preparations for the siege of Matschim. On the 22d, the Russians attempted to cross the Danube at Oltenitza, when a desperate battle ensued and the Russians were repulsed with dread ful carnage. The Russians lost 3,000 men; stans. The allied fleet are report and the Turks themselves were so badly cut cruising off the coast, near Varna. up that they had to retire to their entrench-

It will be seen, however, that the Russians have effected the passage at three points .-On the very day, the 22d, when the Russians commenced to cross the Danube, Omar Pasha had intended to attack the Russian head quarters at Polana. A plan of this battle was drawn up, and the entire force put under command of the French Colonel Drew, but the Russian movement disconcerted the plan. A dispatch from Omar Pacha, dated the 5th, says: "The Russians have lost all desire of attacking Calafat, and propose crossing the Danube at three points. If they should really do so, they would render me a great service, by enabling me to give a sound chastisement to those barbarians who have broken into our house like robbers But if the Russians do not resume the offensive, I shall undertake nothing important until the arrival of our reserves and cavalry from above." has 40,000 men in the right wing, with a sians.

information given in the British Farliament. The allied fleets remained at Beycos. There were rumors (not credited, however,) of Turkish preparations to attack Schastopool.

The British Frigate Retribution, found the Sulina mouth of the Danube impassable. Napier's fleet, at last accounts, the 29th March, was again under way, the supposed destination being to seize the island of Aland. Kioge Bay is named as a rendezvous. Lord Bloomfield, the British Minister a

Berlin, telegraphed to Sir Charles Napier the declaration of war, with instructions to commence hostilities. The Russians were making stern prepara tions for hostilities in the Baltic. It was supposed that the first collision would occur at Vesel Island.

All the lighthouses and buoys are removed, and formidable fleets of gun-boats are collected in shallow waters at the principal Masses of rock are dragged along the ice to intricate parts of the channel, to block it when the ice shall melt. All the houses in Cronstadt, not capable of defence, are pulled down. New batteries were erecting elsewhere, and two hundred additional gun boats had been ordered forthwith. The Czar and his sons were personally superintending the operations.

Discontent prevailed in Finland against the Russians, and some arrests had been made. The accounts from Greece had been unfavorable.

The Turkish Minister had demanded his passports and left Athens. The Greek insurrection was reviving, but the Turks hold the fortress and have eight thousand troops in Epirus. They have as yet only had one or two unimportant rencon tres with the insurgents. An Anglo-French occupation of the country was not improbable. Euroys were daily expected at Athens with the final commands of the English and French Governments. It was given out that several nobles had joined the insurgents. Fifteen thousand French troops had already embarked, and the remainder of the army. 50,000, will be in Turkey by the 1st of May. 40.000 were landed at Gallipoli on the 26th. It was reported that the British land force was to be increased 30,000 more.

The first division of the Expeditionary force was being rapidly forwarded from Malta to Constantinople.

The English Cavalry Regiments were to go to Marseilles, and thence by steam to Gal-

The rumor that Sir Charles Napier had ta ken a Russian frigate, is contradicted. A report is current that a Russian ship from the Black Sea, with produce, had been seized at Waterford, and the crew sent to jail as prisoners of war. This is considered doubt-

FOUR DAYS LATER.

New York, April 16. The steamship Arctic, from Liverpool, with dates to the 5th instant, arrived at her wharf at 8 o'clock this (Sunday) morning and has consequently made the run in ten days and eighteen hours.

The Arclic brings no intelligence of the missing steamship City of Glasgow. Hirsova has been captured by the Russians but no details have been received. The Russians have also taken the strong position of Babadagh, and are thus masters of the Upper Babrudja, the country lying be tween the Danube and the Black Sea. It is also reported that Isktchi was taken by the Russians on the 27th.

Five steamers are reported to have left Sebastopol with 4,000 Russians, to aid in Gortschakoff's operations beyond the Danube .-The capture of Babadagh will enable these troots to be landed without difficulty, if not intercepted by the allied fleet.

The Turks are throwing reinforcement into Varna, on the Black Sea, which will probably be the next point assailed by the Russians. The allied fleet are reported to be

FOR THE HARVEST OF 1854. Mower and Reaper Combined. ITHIS Machine can be worked with two horses and at the usual ploughing gait and is intended to cut all kinds of Grain or Grass standing or lodged, wet or dry, and if the knives are not dulied by accident, no sharpening will be required during the Wheat Harvest, unless the field be unusually grassy, or the harvest a wet one; in such a case, as in mowing, the cutters should be ground when dull.

Why this Machine is preferable to any other is, after you have cut your different kinds of Grain, fully as well as can be done with any other Machine, with not over fifteen minutes work, you can take the same Machine into your Grass field or Meadow and cut your grass at the rate of 10 to 15 acres per day, cutting closer and cleaner than can be done with a Scythe. With proper care this Machine will last fifteen or twenty years, with trifling repairs.

Persons wishing Machines, will please order thom early, to insure their delivery in time for the coming harvest. Apply either personally or by mail, to ROBERT BARBER. Sole Agent, Bridgeton, N. J. N. B. Persons purchasing the above Machines, will avoid the unnecessary trouble and delay in case of accident or breakage, (experienced by most of those who purchased Machines last year,) as the subscriber is prepared to make all repairs and breakages.

On my arrival in England both machines were put into the hands of the Cleveland Agricultural put into the hands of the Cleveland Agricultural Society, in consequence of a challenge given by McCormick's party and accepted by me, that the two machines might be deliberately proved by the Farmers of England, instead of an Exhibition Jury, who had too much on their hands to allow them to make such an important trial in a proper man-

The Cleveland Agricultural Society, of which The Cleveland Agricultural Society, of which the Earl of Ze land is President appointed a jury of twolve of the first farmers of the country, whose award was most decidedly in favor of my Machine; and no decision was ever more hearthy concured in by the whole community. My great victory in England is fully sustained by the testimonials of practical farmers in this country, who have had long experience with both Machines.

has been received Premiums Interest money There has been paid for losses Expenses The interest money having paid all expenses and $1,820 more. Assuming as heretofore, that a cash payment equal to the five per ct. upon premium note, had been annually paid by the members, the amount saved by this Company, would now reach the sum of $36,400, and as the five per ct. paid is less than usual charges made for insurance upon similar property, by any responsible Stock Company, it may be fairly stated at the round sum of $100,000, which is increasing at the rate of nearly $18,000 a year, so long as no assessment has to be made. As an evidence of strength existing in the Com-pany, they would call attention to the fact that, if an assessment were made of but five per ct. upon the premium notes, an amount which would score by be noticed by any one paying it, the funds of the Company would at once be raised to $24,000, and if ten per ct. were made, which would not be oppressive to any members, a fund of $12,000 would be at their disposal to meet any losses for which it were needed. They cannot but feel a just pride, that an Institution so successful in its operations and of so essential benefit to the community, has thus far been under their direction, and would offer to extend its protection on terms as heretofere. Proceeded to Election of Directors, when the following named persons were chosen:

Benjamin Sheppard, Greenwich; Jacob Harris Roadstown; Dr. Jacob W. Ludlam, Deerfield; Daniel L. Burt, Esq., Fairton; Dr. Leonard Lawrence, Cedarville; Dr. Wm. S. Bowen, Bridgeton; David P. Elmer, do.; Isaac A. Sheppard, do.; Nathan L. Stratton, do.; Francis G. Brewster, do.; D. A. F. Randolph, do.; Jonathan Elmer, do.; Isaac West, Esq., Shiloh; Lewis McBride, Esq., Bridgeton; Lance, Stilke, Forder

James Stiles, Esq., do.

At a meeting of Directors, held after election the following officers were chosen: BENJAMIN SHEPPARD, President. HENRY B. LUPTON, Secretary. Executive Committee.—David P. Elmer, Isaac A

Sheppard, Jonathan Elmer, Lewis McBride. The subject of renewal of Policies, which now are about to expire, was taken up, and it was deemed not advisable that any part of the present fund should be divided in such renewals. It was resolved, that inasmuch as those who were first insured, had incurred greater hazard than was found after the second or third year, and as a rate of premium was charged upon the first issued policies, less than was found expedient afterward, that such new applications that might be made and new policies issued upon property heretofore in-sured, the risk to the property being the same, should be charged at the rates originally taken, and as almost every policy would at the end of the ten years, be found to have changed its form, or applicant might desire to make additions to or al terations in his insurance, it was thought best for all parties, that each policy should at its expiration be entirely closed. And as each new one issued would be free from assessment for one year from its date, and a fund already on hand would probably prevent resort to assessment for years. They beloive such a course best calculated to strengthen the Company and equitably dispose of the funds to all concerned.

The Insurance to the first members has cost but about five cents per annum on the $100 insured on all common kinds of property.
