A DEFENCE OF NEW JERSEY.

For years past the press of the country has teemed with calumnics the most ridiculous, ungenerous, and false, concerning our honor-ed State. So high has the recking mass of slander accumulated, that we cannot under-take at once to level it, or analyze its foulness; but we desire to signalize ourselves in this, the initial ere of our enterprise, in exposing, refuting, and rebuking the vitupera-tion which has been cast on New Jersey.— Which other of the gallant thirteen, whose soil was bathed in revolutionary blood, has been subjected to such reviling? WAR WITH EUROPE.

CONCLUDED FROM OUR LAST.

The Turks as a people, have always been considered brave and warlike; under their former leaders, prompted, and led on, by the influences of their religion, they have founded an empire of great magnitude; which has sustained itself, and successfully resisted all the efforts to subdue it, which have so often been attempted. Zcalously devoted to the system of false religion, imposed upon them by the threwdest and most successful of impostors, observing its forms and requirements, with a strictness and punctuality which should put to the blush most professing christians Abdie in battle, they will be immediately carried to a heaven where they will realize their wildest dreams of a voluptuous and seusual paradise, they fight without fear and die without regret.

With such views and such feelings, they have in former times made the most reliable and best of soldiers. It is doubtful however, whether their faith and devotedness continue as strong as it once was; it is questionable whether the introduction of foreigners, and the more frequent intercourse and contact with christians and others, has not weakened their confidence in their religion and thus impaired the influence of this powerful element of their strength and courage. They have however so far fought well, and sustained their character as good soldiers.

It is generally believed that the power and authority of the Sultan, throughout his extended dominions, is far less absolute than SNYDER, giving notice of the opening of the formally; indeed the divisions which have taken place, and the claims of independent action which have been set up by subordinate nexion with the opening of the Female rulers, renders such a conclusion plausible and probable.

It is evident that the Czar considers the marks of decay so palpable, that he is preparing to take possession of, and bury the body. France and England prove by their course, that they have so confidence in her power longer to sustain herself against the encroachments of Russia, and believing her continued existence necessary for the protec tion of the other European powers from its grasping ambition, have taken part with her in the contest. The Porte himself, evidently their children here with the utmost confifears the result, and has gone as far towards conciliating the Czar, and avoiding a war, as a consistent regard for his own independence and the honor of his country would permit. The Turks themselves, as a people, seem not to have participated in these fears, but have clamored for an opportunity to fight for their have an opportunity of knowing it, as a locahonor and their country. Turkey can still bring a very large army into the field, and out the fear of any evil influences on their will herself make a formidable foe to contend moral characters, or risk to their health.

Russia fights for conquest and for aggrandizement. Turkey, for her national existence. The interests of France and England are not so direct and palpable, but are indirect and contingent; it is though, in reality with them a defensive war, a war for the preservation of their possessions, their power and their national prosperity.

France has learned from her great Napole on, that an army may speedily be marched from France to Russia, and consequently from Russia to France; and that if the power of the Czar should continue to increase, he may be in a situation to avenge the insult once offered to his country, by repaying the visit of Napoleon to his nephew. At any rate, Louis Napoleon, who is a shrewd man, and has proved himself a much better politician and a more efficient ruler than he had credit for, sees very plainly, that it is necessary the amhis growth restricted.

the trade on the seas which would be controlled by Russia, in case she should appropriate to herself the Turkish Empire, would be a very important loss; besides, she prides herself on her navy, and glories in being considered the mistress of the ocean. She is well aware that Russian ambition has been directed that way, and that the facilities she would then possess, would enable her to become a powerful rival on her favourite clement: besides whenever the Czar shall sufficiently feel his power established he may be induced to meddle with her Indian possessions

England and France then, will not only fight for the preservation of the Turks, but for their own interests, and they will both have the enthusiastic and hearty concurrence and approval of their people in carrying on the enterprise.

bability to last for years, to cause the loss of hundreds of thousands of lives, to carry mourning and destitution into numberless involved in this dispute which it is necessary to vindicate at such a cost? What in short, is the cause, the alledged cause of this war? Simply this, the Emperor of Russia, in what he professes to be his zeal for the religion of his state, has demanded of the Turkish government the exercise and enjoyment of certain political and religious privileges for the members of that church in his dominions, greater and different from those granted to other religious denominations, and guaranteed by treaties with other nations; these demands, the Sultan feels that he cannot concede, without impairing his own independence and unjustly discriminating between Russia and other nations; and besides all this, Russia demands this concession in such a manner that to comply with it would be to the highest degree humiliating; she marched armies into, and takes possession of important provinces, and requires him to agree to her terms under the influence of force and fear, and not of right and reason.

The effect of this war upon the world must be great, and particularly upon the nations of Europe, where the different governments are in the hands of the few, to the greater or less exclusion of the many.

It is said that Napoleon when confined to his island prison, predicted, that at about this time, the continent of Europe would become cither Cossack or Republican. Without looking for a literal verification of the prophecy, we confidently expect that this struggle will very materially, either advance or retard the progress of liberal principles. We believe that the principles of free government, the consciousness of individual rights, and the determination of the many to break the shackels which heretofore bound them in fetters solute fatalists in their belief, with a strong to the few, have taken such deep goot in the unwavering faith in the promise, that if they hearts of the people of the old world, that they will improve the train of coming events to the enlargement of their freedom.

The situation of the christian population in the Turkish dominions where they live only by sufferance, must be vastly improved, for the christian allies of the Sultan will not lose the opportunity of securing them in the fightful exercise of their religion. An opening will thus be made for the successful introduction of the religion of Jesus Christ amongst the followers of Mahommed.

Austria, Prussia and all the Northern powers must sooner or later be involved in this contest, and as they are all infected with the contagious influences of free principles, the commotions and struggles of the day will tend to hasten them to maturity.

AGRICULTURE.

The quarterly meeting of the Cumberland County Agricultural Society, was held at the Court House, on Wednesday afternoon,-although the attendance was not as large as at the annual meeting, it was, when we take into consideration the pressing demands upon the Parmers' industry just at this time, such as to give us satisfactory assurance, that the hearts of the Farmers is in the work, and especially the young and energetic portion of the Farmers. A schedule of premiums, to be offered at the exhibition, or fair to be held in the Fall was adopted, and the necessary arrangements made for preparing for that event. -A good spirit appears to prevail, and carry so improperly withheld from them at the openencouragement to the prosecution of the en-

England has other interests to defend, she This is rather surprising, for it is known that is a trading or commercial nation; and to her in those townships, particularly Deerfield, Fairfield and Downes, an active spirit of agricultural improvement has been manifested for some years. Fairfield and Downe were amongst the most spirited portions of the county when an Agricultural Society was started a number of years ago. We trust they will wake up to this subject portions to the next meeting of the Society in July, and prove that it is not their intention to fall behind their neighbors in the presecution of this good

Mr. Epiron:-For a long time much has been said of the virtues of the Chinese Breeds of Fowls, black, white and grey; and probably all may be true. These perhaps are the most profitable for Poulterers and Farmers but for citizens with only a rod or two of ground who, nevertheless, have a fancy for fowls and especially eggs, we think a much more convenicht and to them more profitable variety may be found. A variety not incompatible with a snug little garden, nor by their ungainliness contrary to good taste, and which gives free indulgence to a propensity for pets. We acknowledge the descent from a giant Shanghai to a diminutive Bantam is rapid, but to the latter we refer. The Bantam is as proud and as courageous and as pretty a little Biped as ever walked on two legs: He looks as if he were only made for show, but he has his place. The particular variety we have in view is the Pheasant Bantam. They are good layers, scratch and eat but little. Their eggs are not much more than half the size of those of the common hen, but they are good, come regularly and are large for the size of the fowl. They appear to be raised without difficulty. A writer in Dizon X. Kerr's book of Poultry, who is said to be a practical man, thus alludes to this diminutive stock. "Bantams in general are great devourers of some of the most destructive of our insects. The grub of the Cockchafer and the Crane-fly are especial favorites with them. They are thus serviceable creatures to the farmer as far as their limited range extends and still more so to the gardener and nurseryman." After relating an instance or two in which they were instrumental in completely destroying wood lice, he alds, "It will be seen, that, if Bantams were encouraged and brought up in gardens, they would effect much good; and I am of opinion that it will soon be found as necessary to keep Bantams to kill vermin, as it is to keep cats to keep down rats and mice. They will save various garden crops from injuries to which they would be otherwise exposed. They would scratch a little to be sure, but so do cats, and if the smaller kinds of Bantams are kept (those about the size of a Partridge) their scratching would do little harm." If general experience shall confirm these statements, the Pheasant Bantam will be hereafter classed nong the increasing fr nds of Horticulture under a new organization entirely. It is intended by the present Directors, with the world wide known Barnum at their head as President to open the exhibition with colat, giving the artisawand mechanic a voice in the inauguration and enterprise, which was ing last summer. It is understood that the politicians and military chieftians are to take their proper position on the stage, while the mechanics and artisans to whom the Association are indebted for their beautiful structure, and the ingenious machines and works of art which makes the place attractive, are to have allotted to them a high and prominent position on the occasion. It is designed henceforth to make the exhibition a 'Peoples's Exhibition' in every sense of the term, and reduce the price of admission on certain days of the week, 50 per cent from the rates heretofore charged. With Barnum as its chief manager, and the people for its patrons, there is every prospect of the Crystal Palace becoming a permanent insti-tution in our land, affording useful and entertaining knowledge for the elevation of the mind, the promotion of the arts, sciences, inventions, manufactures, and works of industry, and a credit and honor to our people and

WEST JERSEY ACADEMY.

Bridgeton, New Jersey. The Board of Trustees of the WEST JER. parents, guardians and the public generally, Jefferson College, Pennsylvania, and for the Centre College, Kentucky. Professor Snyder comes to us with the highest reputation for character, scholarship, and tact for discipline; and his long experience in the tuition and management of young men, affords the most encouraging prospect of success to the enterprise in which he has embarked, and in the conduct of which he will be assisted by teachers of experience in the several depart-

Design of the Institution and Course of Instruction.

The design of this Institution is to prepare young men for College or business, and to fit them for usefulness in all the walks of life. The course of instruction in literature and science, is designed to be thorough and extensive: embracing all the English branches of Education, including grammar, geography, arithmetic, algebra, moral and intellectual philosophy, chemistry, botany, geology, astronomy, the higher branches of mathematics with their application to mensuration, surveying, and mavigation; book keeping, drawing, the Latin, Greek, German, Spanish and Ital ion languages, together with vocal and Instru-mental music. By the rules of the Institution, religious instruction, including the subjects of Biblical geography and antiquities, and the evidences of Christianity, will compose a part of the regular course of studies. Special care will be taken to make this Institution a home for the pupils; and it is hopwill accure this most desirable end. BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS.

The Trustees have erected a large and commodious stone building, probably inferior to none, and equalled by few similar edifices in our country. The building is four stories in height; the rooms and halfs are spacious; and from the height of the ceilings and the applionces for ventilation, the various apartments are as well aired and as conducive to health as can well be devised. The edifice stands upon an eminence overlooking the town of Bridgeton, and commanding a beautiful and extensive prospect of the surrounding country and of Delaware Bay, from which it is distant about seven miles. The grounds attached embrace an area of sixteen acres, and include a grove, with other space for exercise where the pupils will enjoy ample room for recreation, without leaving the premises .-The whole building has been planned and finished with an eye to all the modern improvements in such edifices, and with a careful reference to the health and comfort of the pupils, and to the formation and fostering of habits of neatness and order.

Location of the Institution.

The town of Bridgeton is pleasantly situated on Cohansey Creek; contains a population lum for Indigent Widows and Single Wodelphia about thirty-eight miles, and is of easy access from that place, by several daily Academy pre-eminently so. The building mercy, and who went about doing good. and grounds being in the outskirts of the town, the pupils will enjoy the advantage of retirement, and of exemption from many digging opposite the Gas Works, in Fair St. Raw and Refined Sugar 6 to 9 Snoar House and N. Churged with Counterfiting .- On Mon. day a further hearing in the case of John Hart, arrested a few days since, on the suspicion of being concerned in counterfeiting, was had before Justice Shivers of Camden. Considerable further evidence was adduced confirmative of the suspicion, and the following articles were produced, which were found in the room in which he was captured: One | ging under the roots at the time. It was onprinting press; several copper and steel plates in figures, letters and vignettes, with inks and side that he escaped himself. Great care neids, such as could be used for altering or printing notes, also a transfer stone, and book, in which were found four three dollar notes on the Central Bank of Connecticut, on two of which the figure 3 had been altered to

There were in the same book several slips of bank-note paper, on which had been printed the words "one hundred dollars," in a style well suited to be used for pasting and made provisions for a geological survey of altering notes. There were also three small pencils, which could be used for such purposis. The prisoner was ordered to find bail for his appearance to answer at Court in the sum of $2000, in default of which he was remanded to prison. There were others engaged with the final report, the typography of every him in the business, and as far as can be ascertained; they carried on quite an extensive operation in counterfeiting. - Philad. Sun.

Bank Bills - Within the past week we have received quite a pile of bills which have been devised for the purpose of preventing their alteration. We would greatly prefer a like quantity of current bills, to those which we have reveived. It is somewhat tantalizing to see a pile of ones, tens, fifties, hundreds to., and yet none of them of the least value as a medium of exhange.

We cannot, however, omit to mention very simple plan, proposed to us by David Baldwin, of Godwinsville, N. J., to prevent the alteration of bills. It is as follows: Make the one dollar bills, 3 inches broad by 5 3-4 inches long, increasing every higher bil one-fourth of an inch, thereby rendering it impossible to alter a smaller to that of a greater value without being detected at a single glance by the most common observer. Scientific American.

RED BANK.-There are few places adiacent to the city of Philadelphia, culculated fo call up more interesting reminences than Red SEY ACADEMY take pleasure in announcing to Bank and its vicinity. A., for many years a professor in revived many a fainting heart, and decided many a wavering mind, the fact is sufficient last three years Professor of Mathematics in otism. But the hand of improvement has been busy there, and innovations are rapidly d facing the primitive beauty of that memorable spot, while the town of Lagleton stands upon the very ground over wich Count Don-op marched his Hessian army to attack Oen. Greene's entrenchments. Other improvements are going forward there, and perhaps few years will chapse when not a vestige will be left to mark the spot where the patriots of Cloths, Persian Cloths, DeBeges, Barage DeLaine Lawre Ginehams. Prints &c. be left to mark the spot where the parties of old struggled for freedom, and fell in the glorious cause. Even the names of the regiments of valiant heroes who fell in that ongagement, and above whose remains a humble monument was raised as a grateful tribute to their memory, have been mutilated and defaced, and the monument itself stands close on the verge of falling into ruins. The winds sweep mournfully through the few pines that are left, and the busy tramp of active life is everywhere pressing the consecrated sod made hallowed with the baptism of patriotic blood, unconscious, perhaps, of the mighty struggle of freedom for supremacy in the "times that tried men's souls." Carts and vehicles are driven over the graves of many who fell there and the humble stone that marks the place where rest the bones and dust of Count Donop, is almost worn away by the attrition of wheels passing against it.—Philade Sun.

Among the many improvements now going on in Trenton is a project for building an As-ylum for indigent widows and single women. ed that the care devoted to the habits, and The ladies of this city are about forming themthe moral and religious training of the pupils | selves into a society, the object of which is to support by annual subscription this institution. They have succeeded so far as to have procured nearly two hundred subscribers of three to five dollars (the sum being optional) per annum.

The great interest which has been manifested warrants its being brought before the public. The condition of the aged and indigent female is one which calls for the sympathy and aid of every friend to humanity. The utter h Iplessness of such a condition is too obvious to all reflecting minds to render any exposition of it necessary. Many who have passed t irough a long career of active usefulness find themselves bereft in their declining years of both physical and mental means for the gratification of their recsonable desires, or the supply of their pressing necessities. When reduced to this forlorn condition, they are deserving of our warmest sympathics and cordial assistance to protect and shelter them from the cold scratiny of the world. Impressed, with a deep conviction that the aged f; male should be dealt with no less tend rly Small Figured than the infant, and like it provided for when Broche incapacitated to provide for herself, the ladies | Plain DeLaine, all Wool of Trenton appeal to the benevolent public to aid them in the establishment of an "Asymen," to be located in Trenton, New Jersey, believing that such an institution would be lines of steamers and stages. The region of the country is healthful; and the site of the blessing of Him whose mission was one of productive of very beneficial results to the ob-

Tallow .- There is now apparently a fine field about to be opened for the sale of any extra tallow that our tallow dealers may have on hand, or our farmers be able to raise during the war between Britain and Russia. In 1852 no less than 64,578½ tuns were importel from the latter country, by the former .-All this supply will now be cut off, and the soap and candle makers of England will have

Hair Breadth Escape. - Dr John L. Taylor made a very narrow escape yesterday afternoon. He was coming round the corner of State and Willow in his carriage just as a tree on the north-east corner (which a man was engaged in cutting down) fell with a tremendous crash. The carriage was completely demolished and the Dr. escaped by the fork of the tree falling directly over his head. His back and knee were slightly injured. Six inches either way would have resulted in instantaneous death. The horse was very gentle and remained perfectly quiet until the Dr. got out. The man who was engaged in cutting down the tree says he did not expect it to fall for three or four hours, and was dig ly by throwing himself lengthwise on one should be taken by persons who are employed ia cutting down trees to keep a watch out to warn persons who are approaching.

Trenton, State Gazette. Geological Surveys .- We have no information as to any steps which have been taken to carry out the proposed Geological Survey of New Jersey, but the present season ought not to be lost. We notice that Ohio has also that State. The law provides that the State shall be divided into six districts, and the work be done by one principal geologist and sufficient number of assistants. A map at least seven feet by six, engravings to illustrate square mile of territery, assays and so on, are all provided for in the bill, and taxation to the amount of $1 per square mile-$40,-000 per year for the State-to pay the expenses. - Newark Mercury.

This is the time for gardening. Those who have a few feet of soil unoccupied by the brick and mortar of this go-ahead generation, should give to the spot, however small, an hour or two's attention each day. They will find it a healthy occupation, and in the heat of summer they will be repaid by sweet and fragrant flowers and healthy vegetation. A garden of vegetables may be regarded as a small affair, but in these bard times, every little helps.-By care and attention, the interest of two or. three hundred dollars may be gathered from an ordinary sized garden. If some of our young ladies, who spend the healthful morning hours in bed, would spend them in gar-dening, and raising flowers we think they would soon find returning to their cheeks that roseate hue so much admired by the sterner sex. Do you hear that girls. - State Gaz.

The design of this Institution is to afford a thor ugh course of instruction, in all the Substantial as well as Ornamental branches of Female Education Special pains will be taken to qualify young la-dies, for the important work of teaching. To those, having this object in view and whose means may be limited, all possible encouragement will

The experience of twelve years, in conducting Boarding Schools, both in this country and in Asia, gives the Principals no small advantage, in their resent undertaking.
Bridgeton is delightfully situated, on the Co-hansey Creek, a few miles from its junction with the Delaware, and is easy of access by Steamer or Stage, from Philadelphia, by different lines, daily. The town is pleasant and healthful and the society emarkable for its morality-intelligence and

The large and commodious building, known as the residence of the late Judge Elmer, has been secured for the purpose, with ample grounds be-onging to it, and the School Rooms, at the North East corner of Pearl and Commerce streets are engaged temporarily for the School, until a suitabuilding may be crected.

A limited number of young ladies can be accon A limited number of young ladies can be accommodated with boarding, in the family of the Principal, where they will enjoy the advantages of home and the society of their teachers. This limitation will be found to be a great advantage to the boarders, as they will enjoy more personal atten-tion and Parental influence from the Principals than could be expected, in a large and crowded establishment.

Cumberland Mutual Fire Insurance Company. THE annual meeting of the members of the Cumberland Mutual Fire Insurance Company was held at the Hotel of E. Davis & Son, in Bridgeton, on Monday the 13th day of March 1854.

LEONARD LAWRENCE, Esq., Chairman. Directors Reported as follows:
A continued accession of members and strength to the Company during the past year, which is the tenth since organization, and very favorable success, with but one loss paid, and they have now a better cash fund than at either of the two

The increase of the Company during the year has been 246 Policies. Insuring amt. $267.587 Premium notes 45,183 43 They have now outstanding 2,728 Policies. Insuring the amount of Premium notes deposited 859,793 99 Cash funds. Invested on bond and mortgage Endorsed notes 2,500

Cash in hands of agents 714 35 $5,964 35 The Interest money received has been $325 11
The only loss paid during the year was $1,692 and one small claim not yet adjusted.

Since commencement of issuing of policies, there has been received Premiums Interest money There has been paid for losses 15,150 86 1.576 11 The interest money having paid all expenses and $1,820 more.

Assuming as heretofore, that a cash payment equal to the five per ct. upon premium note, had been annually paid by the members, the amount saved by this Company, would now reach the sum of $86,400, and as the five per ct. paid is less than usual charges made for insurance upon similar property, by any responsible Stock Company, it may be fairly stated at the round sum of $100,000, which is increasing at the rate of nearly $18,000 a year, so long as no assessment has to be made.
As an evidence of strength existing in the Company, they would call attention to the fact that, if an assessment were made of but five per ct. upon the premium notes, an amount which would scarceby be noticed by any one paying it, the funds of the Company would at once be raised to $24,000, and if ten per ct. were made, which would not be oppressive to any members, a fund of $42,000 would be at their disposal to meet any losses for which it were needed.

They cannot but feel a just pride, that an Institution so successful in its operations and of so essential benefit to the community, has thus far been under their direction, and would offer to extend tions of the Animal system, Purcly Vegetable, afts protection on terms as heretofcre. Proceeded to Election of Directors, when the

the great and numerous advantages derived from their use, convince us at once of the fact, that all who seek comfort and convenience will at once try the plan we recommend. HENBY B. LUPTON, Secretary.

Executive Committee.—David P. Elmer, Isaac A. Sheppard, Jonathan Elmer, Lewis McBride. The subject of renewal of Policies, which now are about to expire, was taken up, and it was deemed not advisable that any part of the present insured, had incurred greater hazard than was found after the second or third year, and as a rate of premium was charged upon the first issued poli-cies, less than was found expedient afterward, that such new applications that might be made and new applications that might be made and new policies issued upon property heretofore in-sured, the risk to the property being the same, should be charged at the rates originally taken, and as almost every policy would at the end of the ten years, be found to have changed its form, or applicant might desire to make additions to or alterations in his insurance, it was thought best for all parties, that each policy should at its expiration be entirely closed. And as each new one issued would be free from assessment for one year from its date, and a fund already on hand would probably prevent resort to assessment for years. They beleive such a course best calculated to strengthen the Company and equitably dispose of the funds to all concerned.

The Insurance to the first members has cost but about five cents per annum on the $100 insured on all common kinds of property.
