From the Newark Meteury. COUNTRY OF WASHINGTON.

BY WILLIAM E. ROBINSON.

Hail! brightest banner that floats on the gale; Flag of the Country of Washington, hail! Red are thy stripes with the blood of the brave, Bright are thy stars as the sun on the wave; Wrapt in thy folds are the hopes of the free: Banner of Washington? Blessings on thee!

Mountain-tops mingle the sky with their snow, Smiling the prairies in sunshine below: Rivers, like seas, ebb and flow with the tide, Bord'ring thine empire-but not to divide: Cataracts grandly out-voicing the sea: Land of sublimity! blessings on thee!

Hope of the World! on thy mission sublime, When thou didst burst o'er the pathway of time, Millions from darkness and bondage awoke: Music was born when Liberty spoke. Millions unborn in thy light shall be free: Land of the Pilgrim's hopes! blessings on thee!

Empires shall perish and monarchies fail, Kingdoms and thrones in thy glory shall pale; Thou shalt live on, and thy people shall own Loyalty's sweet where the heart is the throne: Greitness and glory thy heritage be:

THOUGHTS AT CHURCH. church; before the bells begin to chime, I enjoy the quiet, brooding stituess. I love to think of the many words of holy cheer that and folded themselves like snow-white wings remarked that Princeton College played a over the weary heart of despair. I love to think of the sailess little ones, whose pearly tory. To prove this, he said that no better I love to think of the weak, yet sring ones, our Presidents. Pying a brief tribute to I love to think of the weak, yet's ring ones, who have tearfully tasted the consecrated cup on which is written. "Do this in remembrance of me." I love to think of those self-forgetting, sel exiled, who counting all things naught for Gethsemane's dear sake are trading foreign shores, to say to the soul fettered particles of the character of E twards, Burr and Finley, he dwelt at length upon the character, the life and public aervices of President Davies. He pointed out the eff. et of Princeton education upon the minds of her alumni, dwelling upon the formative process which made Madforeign shores, to say to the soul fettered pagen, "Behold the Lamb of God." I love to think of the loving hearts that at yonder alter have throbbed; side by side, while the holy man of God pronounced 'the twain one.' I love to think of the seraph smile of which death itself was powerless to rob the dead death itself was powerless to which the death itself was powerless to rob the dead saint, over whose upturned face, to which the sunlight lent such mocking glow, the words, "Dust to dust," fell upon the pained ear of love. I love, as I sit here, to list through the half-opened vestry door, to the hymning voices of happy Sabbath scholars, sweet as the timid chirp of morn's first peeping bird. I love to hear their tiny feet, as they patter down the aisle, and mark the carnest gaze of questioning childhood. I love to see the toil-hardened hand of labor brush off the peni-Now he rises and says, slowly-musically, liamson, and many o h z persons of note. 'The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.' Why at such sweet, soul resting words, do his tears overflow? Why has his voice such this evening. In haste, yours, a heart quiver? Ah! there is a vacant seat in the paster's pew. A little golden head, that last Sunday gladdened our eyes like a gleam of sunlight, lies dreamlessly pillowed their brightness; cherry lips are wan and mute, and beneath her sable veil the lonely mother sobs. And so the father's lip quivers, and for a moment nature triumphs. Then ath-wart the gloomy cloud flashes the bow of promise. He wipes away the blinding tars, and with an angel smile, and upward glance, he says, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust

PRINCETON COMMENCEMENT &c. PRINCETON, June 27th, 1854.

Here we are once more at Princeton. The place is crowded with visitors attending the name—while we cheer him with a proverb: commencement exercises.

Some are wandering over the College grounds, some examining the Picture Gallery, others viewing the Philosophical Hall. Leaving all these, as familiar objects, I have been rambling through the Cemetery. The sombre aspect of all around me, was not sufficient to give more than a passing tinge of ad and the Morse Telegraph Patent, of June 1840; mournful sorrow to my thoughts. The graves for the term of seven yeers. Prof. Morse of such pions and noble dead are not the pla-we should rather make alters "Where chastaned thoughts may offer praise."

Praise for the lessons which their lives have taught-praise for the legacy of noble deeds. and high examples they have left at death—praise for the manifold voices of encouragement and admonition which speak from their honored graves.

There lies in unbroken silence the remains of the gifted great, who have added lustre to

The Kings that slumber there were innointed by a ligher had earthly hand -There, side by side, are the early Presidents of the College—the classical Burr, its President under the first decade of its existence, the devoted Jonathan Edwards, the accomplished Davies, the high-minded and philanthropic Finly, "New Jersey's meekly trustful Witherspoon." the astute of learned Samuel Stanhope Smith, the venerable Green. Near the remains of Aaron Burr, the sceond President of the College, are those of his son, Aaron Burr, Vice President of the United States. For fifteen long years no monumental stone marked his resting place-there was nothing to tell the stranger who he was, or "where they had lain him." But some two or three years ago a plain marble slab was erected by an unknown hand over his grave. The slab merely contains his name and age, leaving the passer-by to fill up the history. It is a consolution to his admirers, however, to know that calumny has done her worst, and her pois ned arrows have all been discharged. However black his private character may be, the time will come when some impartial historian, writing our country's history, will accord to Auron Burr some little need of that praise for public acts which is now lavished upon the name of his rival, Thomas Jefferson There are bright spots in almost every cloud, and the members of the Closphic Society of the College at least have occasion, as often as they are called together, to admire the matchless skill with which the foundations of that Society were laid by his master hand.

The address before the Literary Society was delivered at 4 o'clock by Philip R. Fendall, E-q., of Washington. The people and the journals of other cities beneath the coffin ho; gleeful eyes have lost have been much struck by the authoritative action of Mayor Conrad of this city. Even those who dissent from it, admire it as a demonstration of spirit and decision, contrasting manfully with that temporising and compre mising sentiment so prevalent in society.— Public feeling, in fact, as well as fortune, favors the bold—even in a questionable matter. But in this case, the moral sentiment of society backs the action of the Mayor. He goes the shortest way to put down drunkenness and to maintain the peaceful police of this great city. He has giant evils to con-tend against, and must behave with sternness. We can assure him that, if he acts in the genuine Jacksonian style, he will be quoted and remembered when all the mild wavering offiials of the world will be forgotten. He is right. Let him go ahead, then, in God's

The opening ceremonies of the Camden and Atlantic Railroad, which unites Camden with Atlantic city, a new town projected at the New York Custom House for the fiscal Absecum, took place on Saturday July 1. A year closing June 30th, 1854. It is shown large number of guests had been invited among that, notwithstanding the stringent condition whom were members of the press from Philadelphia and New York, and many gentlemen of note. The day was delicious, and every heart seemed elated at the prospect of taking an exenssion for the first time on an iron track, through the centre of South Jersey, to the sea, and of enjoying a delightful plungo in "old ocean's briny waves." At 9 o'clock about six hundred persons left Vine street wharf, and proceeded to Cooper's Point, where a train of nine cars were in waiting to receive them, and where they were greeted by a large creased demand abroad for our bread stuffs? deputation from Camdon.

At half past nine the train started and arrived at Haddonfield in twenty minutes. At this place the company were also joined by quito a large party eager to join in the celebration of the occasion. From Camden to the White Horse tovern, the road lies through a rich agricultural district, interspersed with alternate groves of pine and oak, growing upon a soil susceptible of the highest state of cultivation. Demonstrations of unfeigned gratification were everywhere manifested is the quantity warehoused, viz: $11,500,000 along the road; the unwary ploughman in the for 1853-4, against $5,605,000 for the previfield, and the gatherer of grain as the train dashed along, waved their han ls in welcome and shouted with loud hazzas At Waterford the ladies had assembled in large numbers, and had painted in rude characters upon a board, encircled with a wreath of evergreens, "Welcome to Waterford;" and presented beautiful wreath to the President of the company, Mr. John C. Da Casta. The employces of the Glass Works hal also arranged themselves on the opposite platform, and as the train halted, two volleys of firearms were importations. discharged, after which they saluted the company with " three cheers for the Camden and Atlantic Railroad," and " three more for the Directors.

In a short time the company arrived a Winslow glass works, having passed through Long a-Coming and several other small hamlets. Several very handsome improvements are in progress here and the Messrs. Collings formerly of Camden, have erected a large paper manufactory near Atzion, a short distance from the depot, where he has discovered a peculiar kind of grass, which he manufactures into an excellent quality of paper. From Winslow the road is lad in a direct line to Absecum village, and there is not the slight est variation in the survey. From Abseeum village it runs semi-circularly through the salt meadows, a distance of six miles, to Atlantic city, where the new town is in progress and which is the A lantic terminus of the

The party arrived on the Beach at halfpast 12 o'clock, and many indulged in a 'dip' in the surf. After this operation, a splendid collation, prepared by Col. R. B. Jones, of Philadelphia, and set out in the dining room was discussed, and ample justice was done to the citizens. the good things.

After indulging in an after-dinner bath, the company took a survey of the site of the new Atlantic city, and at half past five o'clock the whistle sounded the signal and the excurtionists were again en route for the city, which they reached about 10 o'clock, well pleased with the trip and gratified with the treatment they had received at the hands of the company.

The Fate of Kansas.-The emigrants are pouring into the territories in great numbers; but according to the laws of the United States or rather the treaties of the government with the Indians, they are not permitted to remain there. The Indian title to the lands is not yet extiliguished, and when our friend left At Fort Leavenworth, the U.S. Marshal was engaged with a posse driving the squatters and emigrants out of the territory. Many, however, were pushing onward beyond the Fort to the borders of the great plains, which they hoped to be beyond the reach of the Marshal. The country is not yot open to settlement, and cannot be till the Indian title is extinguished. This will no doubt be effected as rapidly as possible; but the philanthro-pist will a-k, where can the poor Indian go? That question suggests sad and solemn reflections. Let us hope that many of them will become civilized and onjoy with us the blessings of liberty.

The course which the officers of the government feel bound to pursue, is producing much ill feeling among the emigrants. They are hardy and enterprising, and seem determined, each for himself, to pre-occupy a large slice of this new and valuable territory. Desperate efforts are being made by the Missourians to induce slaveholders to go there, but the balance of the feeling is against it. Many of the most intelligent slaveholders admit that not full our northern people for a single moment, and they certainly should not be deterred by the blustering of the Missourians from going there.—Chicago Dem. Pirchimstances it is said too, have been connected with the matter, and an investigation ists who are extensively engaged in manufacmay perhaps take place.

Interesting Relic .-- The Syracuse Journal says that the banner which was stretched across Salina street, from the Corinthian duct the bank on legitimate principles, con-Halls during the sittings of the Old Soldiers in Convention, was the same as used as field flag at the battles of Plattsburg and Sacketts Harhor. The gallant Gen. Pike was wrapped in its folds after being mortally wounded, and it was his winding sheet. The blood stains from his wounds are still to be seen upon it.

Guano.—A special committee has been appointed in the House of Representatives at Washington, with our representative, the Hon. Geo. R. Riddle, as chairman, to report on the expediency of purchasing one of the Guano Islands from Peru, or to negotiate with that Government for the removal of the restrictions placed on American vessels engagrestrictions placed on American vessels engaged in the Guano trade. This is an important time for receiving proposals for the sale of the movement to our agricultural friends, and line of the public works, expired yesterday. No bids were offered, and consequently no sale can be made without farther legislation.

Commercial Review of the Fiscal Year. The Courier and Enquirer furnishes in Commercial Boot and Shoe Store, tabular form the Commercial transactions of of the money market, there is a large increase in the general importations.

The table shows aggregate imports to the amount of one hundred and ninety-one millions of dollars against one hundred and sixtyfive millions for the previous year in round numbers. This is not wholly compensated by the enlarged value of domestic produce exported, viz: $66,483,000 in 1853-4, a-gainst $43,993,000 in 1852-3 Where would we have been without this sudden and in-In the items of Dry Goods the increased amount thrown upon the market, is fully equivalent to 121 per cent., while in the general importations for 1853-4, the increase be youd the previous year is about 16 per cent. In this item the tabular details are appalling! Nearly ninety millions in dry goods thrown upon the New York market, as the channel for distribution to all the remote points, North, East, South and West. The most formidable item, however, under this head, ous year. Foreign sugar is the second article in importance, and the articles of iron and steel now form the third in value, in addition to which the single article of railroad iron amounts to no less than $1,200,000 for the past year. These statemen's ought to enlist the close scrutiny of our business men, and those who pretend to legislate for the interests of the country. Instead of reducing the present range of duties, they should be in reality so raised as to prevent these excessive complete order, and we are able to furnish it coolers.

The suspension of Messrs. Robert and George Schuyler is announced in New York. These gentlemen have been for many years among the most respectable railroad contractors, and connected with many of the best railroads of the country as officers, &c. They have been probably more extensively connected with the railroad system of this country han any other firm. Their last great proe', of which Mr. Robert Schuyler is, we clieve, the father, was the Illinois Central Railroad, a work 700 miles in length. The very extended nature of their engagements, combined with the sudden depression in the value and the inconvertibility of all railroad sale or retail, as cheap as the cheapest. securities, has brought on a crisis. The mount of liabilities and assets of the house must reach millions, and if not pressed too hard, those best informed think it will wind up worth a million or over.

Education .- The perfection of education was pronounced by the Romans 2000 years ago to be "a sound mind in a sound body." Modern education consists in schooling, and in accordance with this idea we have some perfect prodigies. Many children are schooled into their graves. The exercise of the body should be as vigorous and as systematic as that of the mind, and should be attended to in its proper time and place.

BRIDGETON:

Saturday Morning, July 8 CIRCULATION 1300

Only $1 00 per Year?

FRANKLIN FERGUSON, EDITOR.

Notice to Agents and Advertisers. WE ARE PREPARED TO SHOW THAT

The West Jersey Pioncer Has a Circulation of at least 300 more than any other paper printed in Cumberland County.

Its Circulati (in the County,) is nearly double that of any other paper.

This notice is called for in self-defence. The impression, that its Circulation is larger than it will be seen on the trees around us. that of the Pronner.

Our article on Bridgeton, will be resumed next week. The fourth of July and other who has so conspicuously figured with his big matters, have prevented the appearance of a gun on all public occasions for years back, number this week.

FOURTH OF JULY .- The usual arrangements for the celebration of this day by the people of our town, not having been made, we did not anticipate the usual evidences of spirit and interest on the occasion. We were. however, agreeably surprised by witnessing a very general turning out of the citizens. lively interest manifested in the patriotic recollections and associations of the day and a ready adaptation of all the proceedings to the furtherance of objects calculated to promote the permanent good of the community. There was quite a large number of visiters from our neighboring villages and country and the day passed off pleasantly and we trust profitably.

In the beautiful Grove, near the West Jersey Academy, where suitable accommodations had been prepared, the people assembled in the morning, escorted by Mr. Henry's Brass Band, under direction of the veteran Marshal, D. M. Woodrvff, Esq. The assemblage was large, orderly and attentive; the exercises were opened by Prayer, by the Rev. Dr. Jones; the Ceclaration of Independence was read by Mr. Shinn, the principal of the Bridgeton Public School, in a manner highly creditable to himself and interesting to his audience; this important document, which properly and almost necessarily forms a part of every celebration of this day, is frequently so read as to prevent it from receiving that attention which it deserves, or conveying the important lessons which it should do, to the minds of the hearers. There are few men who can read the Declaration of Independence in such a way as to command the attention of an audience, and compel them to listen to its important lessons. Mr. Shinn was very happy in his manner, and we believe was listened to with satisfaction and pleasure by the com-vals from the excellent Band. In the afternoon there was a large assem blage called at the laying of the corner stone of the New Meeting House for the use of the Baptist Church of this town. The exercises commencing at 21 o'clock. The services were introduced by the Rev. Henry Westcott of Blackwoodtown reading an appropriate Hymn. This being sung by the Choir, the Rev. James Challis of Roadstown, led in prayer, and the Rev. Robert F. Young of Salem read the 122d Psalm.

tive audience or an assemblage which appeared to be better pleased, the only fault we

The Rev. John Dowling D. D. then ad dressed the audience on "Soul Liberty."

The Rev. Charles Hopkins followed in an verse. The pastor, the Rev. Wm. E. Cornwell, then proceeded to lay the Corner Stone. This was followed with prayer by the Rev. John Todd of Cedarville, and the benediction by the Rev. Uriah Cauffman.

The services were witnessed and listened to by a large and attentive audience.

The house is to be brick, with stone base ment; size, 99 by 50 feet, and steeple.

In the Evening a concert of vocal and instrumental music was held at the Fayette st. Methodist Church and short addresses delivered by the Rev. N. Vanzant and Rev. A. A.

Willets. The Baptists had a fair with refreshments at the lecture room which attracted its share

The Senate had passed a resolution to ballot boxes, to elect men who will legislate adjourn on the 17th of July until the 16th of for the moral good and welfare of the people. Take it altogether the day passed off very time now fixed was the result of a compromise pleasantly.

We must not forget to mention that at half ence. past five o'clock in the afternoon the beautiful Sloop Nile was launched from the Ship Yard painted, and glided into her natural element the 26th of June, subject to draft, $28,888,of Mr. John Pew. She was full rigged and tory piece of American news:-"New Jersey | nor has representatives so willing to give A neat and substantial building has recently been erected in this town for the worship of Almighty God. A debt of a few hundred dollars still rests upon the building.'

THUNDER GUST .- On Wednesday afternoon our town was visited by one of the severest gusts that we have experienced for a long time; the day had been excessively hot, and the appearance of clouds arising in the north, was welcomed with pleasure as an indication that our scorching soil, and heated atmosphere, might probably be rendered bearable through the coming night; but when the clouds had gathered around us, and began to exhibit their powerfully charged batteries of electric fluid, the streaked lightning with rapid successions to visit us, followed by grashing peals of thunder, we might almost have been willing to have borne yet longer the oppressive heat of the day. We have soldom or ever heard a more rapid succession of cracking peals of thunder; such thunder as always accompanies lightning when it strikes near us, and we expected to have heard of more damage from it.than we have. A sloop belonging to Messrs. N. L. & A. Stratton, laying at the wharf, was struck, her mast shivered to pieces, but we believe the vessel was not otherwise injured; there was no one on board at the time. The Cohansey Public School House was also struck and the upper story very considerably injured, so much so. that the school has been dismissed for the week; we have not yet learned of any other BRIDGETON CHEONICLE" falsely conveying the effect of the lightning but have no doubt but brought within a distance of three short hours

> Supposed Suicide. - Capt. Samuel Taylor died suddenly on the 5th inst. He was known to purchase laudanum in the morning and it is supposed that he took it himself. No cause is known to induce him to such a course unless it was that his pride was wounded because on the fourth of July his occupation was gone. He was doubtless labouring under insanity, produced by bad laws, obstinately left on our statute books by faithless legislators. How much destruction of human life will be necessary to teach politicians their duty? A prohibitory law passed last winter would have saved his life.

CHOLERA.-The predisposition to Cholera it exhibits itself in its force. Diarrheea is common and of a character temprove the exestence of an unusual cause. In our town we have not, we believe, had any distinctly, well marked case of Cholera, reaching the stage of disease when its unmistakable characteristics perminently exhibit themselves, but we have had many cases of disease evidently produced by the epidemic tendency, prevented from becoming serious by the well timed caution and resort to medicine which has been used. In Cedarville two deaths of prominent and worthy members of society has occurred from the disease during the last week, and several other cases have occurred which we are pleased to say are recovering.

In Millville we learn four deaths have occurred. It is supposed that local causes produced them and that the cause has been removed. In Port Elizabeth we learn of one death. Again we recommend care and prompt attention to the premonitory symptoms.

VEGETATION. -We have never been more forcibly struck with the rapid growth of the pany. The address by the Rev. A. A. Wilvarious production of the soil than we have lets elicited the cordial expression of approbeen during the last week; Corn especially bation from all that we have heard speak of we could almost see grow, fields that we have passed in our rides would seem to have perceptibly grown on our geturn in a few hours, and the change of a day has been such as to have heard was that it was too short. The astonish us, the hot suns with the moisture exercises were releived by music at the interof the soil is doing its work and if the latter part of the season is favorable, there must be large crops of corn and potatoes.

THE NATIONAL MAGAZINE. - We have received the July No. It is beautifully illustrated with 30 engravings, and its list of anv of its predesessors, in thrilling interest Rome; The Summons; The Reformed; Rev. Richard McAllister; An awkward Adventure; address founded on 1st Peter, 2d Chapter, 6th Religion of the Past; The Bell of St. Regis; Signers of the Declaration of independence: Sketches in Europe. WESTERN SCRAPS.

Rock Island, Ill, June 21, 1854. The opening of the Chicago and Rock Island railroad on the 22nd day of February last, was an event long to be remembered.-By it the union of the Atlantic and the Mississippi, was effected by a line of travel far more direct and expeditious than any hitherto in existence. On that day might have been seen, posted on the side of one of the large depot buildings of this city, the significant emblem of two hands clasped in friendly greeting, accompanied by the inscription written in glaring capitals-" Atlantic and Mississippi." Nor is the matter to rest here. The spirit of Eastern and Western enterprise combined seems determined to pursue its onward march toward the setting sun, till the waters of the Missouri are-spanned and the Rocky Mountains are scaled or excavated from slope to slope, affording an easy passage for the "iron horse," and extending the long gigantic arm of the turbulent Atlantic till in cordial fellowship it grasps the inviting hand of the imperturbable Pacific. In less than one year the prairies of Iowa will be startled by the shrill whistle of the thundering locomotive and the capital. Iowa city, will be from its Eastern border nor will the future from that period be a long one ere the Mississippi and Missouri Railroad shall be exten ded to Council Bluffs, its present contemplated terminus.

The chief poin's of interest in the locality from which my letters date are Rock Island the cities of Rock Island and Davenport, together with the adjacent villages of Moline, East Davenport, and Camden. The small Island on the Mississippi known as Rock Island is about three miles in length with an average breadth of half a mile and contains therefore nearly one thousand acres. The upper rapids commence some fifteen miles above it and terminate at its foot. On the Illinois shore the city of Rock Island and the village of Moline are opposite its extreme endings while the city of Davenport and East Davenport occupy nearly the same relation to still continues throughout the country; it is it on the Iowa side. On the extreme lower end only occasionally and in certain locations that of the Island stands old Fort Armstrong built truction of the entire row east as far as Eighth in 1816 by Col. Mason, U. S. A. A little above on the North side of the Island is the residence of the late Col. Davenport, who was brutally murdered on the 4th of July 1845. Most of the infamous wretches whose thirst for gold led them to commit the horrid deed were afterwards discovered arrested and executed. During his life the Col. often requested to be buried beneath the spreading branches of a stardy oak standing a short distance > in the rear of the house. A visit to the place in company with friend gave me both the pleasure of an introduction to a part of the family still residing there, and the melancholy satisfaction of looking upon the grave of him whose wealth but proved an occasion of his untimely death .-which his heartless murderers entered to perpetrate their deed of blood, I could scarce restood and gazed at the rude wooden monureach his residence on or before the 4th of Jugrave. In token of their mingled respect and sorrow they set up the rude monument above referred to. Until recently the Davenport residence and those connected with the Fort constituted the popular character of the exhibitions that have only habitations on the Island. Within a short time past, however, quite a number of articles is fully equal with, if not superior to, small though neat tenements have been built on the upper end of it for the accommodation and sound morality—perhaps ve cannot bet- of operatives in the Moline manufactories, and dance. The cozy little lecture-room too, ter notice the work, than by giving a list of still later a larger number have been fitted them, viz:-A trip from St. Petersburgh to up on the lower end of the Island to serve as Constantinople; Luther and the Reformation; | temporary houses for the men employed in The Rev. William Jay: The Catacombs of grading the Mississippi and Missouri Railroad across the Island. Their work is nearly completed together with the piers for the bridge by which the Island is to be connected with the Illinois shore. One of the butments for the bridge from the Island to the Iowa side has also been erected. The building of a bridge over the great "father of waters" at The Crusaders; The Old Cockade: Guilty this point, is justly deemed a bold and important undertaking and is destined to invest Rock Island and its surroundings with an interest and importance which few places on the river can acquire. It is in fact the only we thought ourselves in duty bound to at point at which such an undertaking is deemed tend not only for our own gratification but feasible so that the cities of Rock Island and also that our readers might be informed of Davenport must always continue to attract very general attention and become the scat of interest. The substantial block of dwellings, once the residences of the first families, but since converted into stores, were early marked out as a prey to the flames, and at one time the roof of so many had been kindled by the flakes from the consuming theatre, that the desstreet, was deemed to be inevitable. These stores were all first class establishments and contained stocks of goods of immense vaiue, and the police officers, firemen and citizens, lent their aid in saving what could be carried out. During the burning of the Chinese Museum, masses of burning timber was thrown as far as Eighth street, covering the roofs on each side of Sansom street, and setting them on fire. The crowd in the streets would immediately warn the inmates of the threatened building, and the early application of water prevented the flames from spreading in this direction. Many of the sheets of tin from the roof of the Museum, were thrown a distance of two or three hundred yards, by the force

The Foreign News .- The news by the America embraces some additional intelligence from the Danube. The attempts of the Russains to take Silistria have so far failed, and some severe reverses to their arms tents, soon caused a tremendous light and are reported. The accounts say that they have been driven across the Danube with 'dreadful loss," and that the seige has been raised. This probably refers only to the attacking party in front. Luder's divisien is certainly not driven across the Danube, or the forts le had taken would be again in the hands of the Turks, which is not the case. -While the English accounts say the seige has that it is to be prosecuted with greater vigor than ever.
