From the Jersey Blue. THE POET'S SONG.

BY EMMALINE EVANS.

"My song," thus sung the poet, ' Neath sunset's ruddy gleam, As he bowed his forehead meekly. To life's dark rolling stream; "My song was like the lakelet, Hid in the wilds apart: Till ft rose upon the waters Of my childhood's swelling heart.

The murmurs of the greenwood, The fragrance of the flower, The shell's half hidden glory, The rainbow's radiant dower, Awoke its slumbering echoes, For in its inmost shade It was linked with all things holy, The Holy One hath made.

My song was like the river. The river young and free, When the rosy dawn of manhood Flushed kindling over me: It soared aloft to heaven, On wings of hope and pride, And thrilled with joy elysian, As love's rapt strings it tried.

A wild and fitful music Filled all the odorous air; Now joyous as a sunbeam, Now gloomy as despair. High rose a rocky parapet Against my song's bright vave, It upward dashed with fury, Then headlong sought the grave. It called on pitying Lethe, To still it evermore:

Fell aweeter than before. My song grew like the river. Where it gains the open plain, Sweeping wide through fruitful harvests Of golden corn and grain. It breathed of peace and goodness, Of honor, faith and truth:

And its deep imploring numbers,

And sighed no more for beauty, Or the fleeting dreams of youth. The quiet stars at midnight, Bend downward smilingly, Our mission is co-equal, We love and honor thee, Thou who on earth's low pathway, Up-presseth to the throne. Where stars and songs forever

United breathe as one." Camden, July 15.

MORAL.

From the Mercury. A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY.

Pleasure is seldom found where it is sought. Our brightest blazes of gladness are usually kindled by unexpected sparks. The flowers which scatter their odors from time to time in the paths of life, grow up without culture o from seeds scattered by chance. Nothing is more hopeless than a scheme of merriment, because merriment is always the effect of a

So it is in all the affairs of life; we know not what a day may bring forth, and it is simply folly to calculate as to the events of the future, as connected with our happiness or misery.

THE DANGER OF TEMPTATION.

The hour of temptation is always a crisis of great danger to a moral agent. Among men there is no such completeness of moral character, no such fixedness of virtue, or strength of principle, as to form a perfect safeguard against the insiduous assaults of temptation. It is a real danger to any man to be tempted, however holy he may be, or long established his habits of virtuous action. Holiness does not increase our liability to fall into sin; it is some ground for hoping that we will not; yet no earthly holiness is so immutable as to be in itself a perfect security.—
The sins of good men, even the best of good men, abundantly show this. All have occasion to say, "And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil." While God pleases, we must live in this world, such as we are, and who needs to be told that it contains a vast accumulation of evil influences, great in quantity, various in form, blended with and acting in every society of human beings, lying across every path, and passing into every station as well as relation of existence? Human life confessedly lies through such a scene; and through it every good man must pass in making his journey to the skies.

There is, morcover, an artful and insiduous manner in the process of temptation, which greatly enhances the danger of this condition. of some natural, and in itself innocent principle of our nature, courting it to an excessive ble one to another, else will there be broken propensity of the mind, which, if restrained, hopes and blighted hearts at every hearth, lead to sin. The love of society is a natural feeling; and yet it may lead one to such companionships as will greatly damage, if not ruin character. So, too, temptations often make their appearance in the bosom of our necessities. A poor man may be tempted to steal. in his business, may make it the occasion for the commission of fraud. The universal neis, also presented under the fascinating appearance of a good-not an evil, but someman of the slightest virtue would yield him self a victim to temptation, if the whole power of reason and conscience were at that moment brought to bear against it; this would break the charm, and save him from the danger. This unhappily, is too often not the case. Men, when they are about to do wrong, hold their thoughts to the fair side of the picture; they make a plausible case by pouring a flood of sophistry over it; and thus by deck-

RAILROADS IN NEW JERSEY. We ask the careful attention of our readers to the following letter of Hon. William Parry: Opening of the Camden and Atlantic as will enable posterity to refer to the particular era at which important incidents have occurred, naturally devolves upon the proprietors of the press, it may not be less a duty of those who feel an interest in the welfare and prosperity of our country, to report to the litors such transactions as may come within heir observation.

Having partaken of the hospitality and heerful entertainment given at the opening of the Camden and Atlantic Railroad, on the 1st of this mouth, I felt it due not only to the generosity of said company, but to the community at large, who had not the pleasure of witnessing that social and interesting occasion, to draw public attention to this important enterprise.

This railroad is upwards of fifty miles in ength, and passes through the central portion of Camden and Atlantic counties, connecting the consolidated city of Philadelphia with the Atlantic Ocean at the delightful and romantic shore of Absecom; which, heretofore, may ner, but now has one of the safest natural harbors on the American coast.

This is an epoch in the history of West Jersay long to be remembered, and of which we have cause to rejoice. The opening of an independent railroad across the State of New Jersey, from the waters of the Delaware that roll peacefully on, to those of the Atlantic which dash fiercely against the time-wornbeach, is an achievement of no ordinary occurrence, and reflects great credit on the energy and perseverance of the President and Directors of the Camden and Atlantic Railroad Company.

Those representatives from the First Dis trict, (at the last session of our Legislature,) who manifested so great a desire for railroad improvements in West Jersey, that they were induced to oppose the Air Line Railroad, (notwithstanding they heartily approved of t,) fearing it might retard the construction of the West Jersey, Railroad in which they felt a deeper interest, can now tell whether their fond hopes are to be realized. They were induced to believe that upon certain conditions, the West Jersey Railroad the Camden and Amboy Company should be authorized to endorse their bonds and subscribe eight hundred thousand dollars of their stock; this was granted; also permission to endorse other bonds to a large amount; another condition was that the Air Line bill should be defeated; which was also done. And another, that the charter of the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company, which had some fifteen years to run, should be extended another generation, until 1889. Otherwise, they were assured from high-authority, that "the contemplated improvements in West Jersey would be indefinitely postponed." For it was alleged to be abso lutely necessary that something be done to improve the credit of the Joint Companies, so as to enable them to borrow money on more favorable terms, their bonds being much below par, while United States bonds. beartalists had not confidence in the soundness o the Joint Companies, who, having the power, carried every measure they desired. Now, what is the result? Has the price of their bonds advanced? Are they not now ten per cent. below par, and descending?

when that lamentable occurrence takes place, what will be the liability of the State of New Jersey, which is one-fifteenth owner? The paratus, and an electric telegraph as presents framers of our Constitutiwn were very careful to place it beyond the power of the Sovereign People to incur a debt of more than one hundred thousand dollars, without adopting prompt and efficient measures for its liquidation. But what guarantee have we for the product of the purchased and sixty the redemption of the six hundred and sixtysix thousand six hundred and sixty-six dollars being one-fifteenth of the said ten millions of debt, that has been imperceptibly brought upon us and is rapidly increasing. I have merely alluded to these matters for public reflection and serious consideration. From all of which does it not appear evident that our only reliable dependence, for the construction of railroads in West Jersey, is upon our own exertions? No men or set of men -ever accomplished anything great and desirable so long as they depended on others to do their work for them. It was not so much owing to superior indomitable will and untiring perseverance to carry out in person his plans, thinking nothing gained so long as a long as long ing gained so long as aught remained, that enabled the great Emperor of the East to astonish the world with the magnitude of his achievements. The same spirit that led him on to scale the mighty Alps, reaching rock contrast to our neat uniforms and solid ranks after rock until the highest pinnacle was beneath his feet, marked his every enterprise. The people of West Jersey have the power, and only lack the will, to build railroads and make other improvements necessary, but so

We have here a noble precedent, worthy of imitation, of the combination of power and will, that has completed the Camden and Atlantic Railroad the whole breadth of our state from the Delaware to the Ocean, within the short space of two years. While for the construction of the West Jersey Railroad which is depending on a "higher power" for aid, the first spade has not yet been used.

She touched in at the Islands unexpectedly, to have the barnacles scraped off her bottom, having discovered, after leaving San Francisco, that her sailing was impeded by them.

Saturday Night's Liquor Selling.—Our liquor dealers drive a wonderfully thrifty buriness on Saturday nights, since the ordinance probibiting the Sunday sale has been strictly enforced. In some establishments, we are informed, the demand is so great that the attendants are unable to fill the bottles of customers as rapidly as they are presented. This is no doubt encouraging to the dealers, but rather discouraging, we should think, to the community, since it shows that any attempts to regulate the traffic must inevitably prove futile. The Sunday traffic may be extinguished, but so long as liquor is solf decimal to the customer of the community of the CIRCULATION 1300 Only $1 00 per Year!

FRANKLIN FERGUSON, EDITOR Notice to Agents and Advertisers.

WE ARE PREPARED TO SHOW THAT

The West Jersey Mioneer Has a Circulation of at least 800 more than any other paper printed in Cumberland County. Its Circulation, (in the County,) is nearly double that of any other paper. This notice is called for in self-defence. The "Bandgeton Chronicle" falsely conveying the impression, that its Circulation is larger than that of the PIONEER.

In writing for the information and amuse ment of our readers about our reminiscences of Bridgeton, we confined ourselves to what it was in by gone days; we have reason to believe that our efforts to interest them have not been in vain, and we believe that we may with advantage extend our numbers to other parts of the county; we shall however, somewhat vary our course, and speak of the Townships in succession, not merely as they were, but as they are, contrasting their former state with the present; noticing so far as we are able, their different stages of progress. Our recollections will not enable us to go so much into particulars, and we may not be able to say all that may be expected; we should have been gratified if some individuals from the different townships would have assisted us by furnishing us with local items to assist up to recall circumstances which have escaped our memory; but as they have not done so, we must depend upon ourselves. We shall not attempt to go back generally, farther than 1810-12, though many of our recollections of men and things of the greater part of our county, would extend further.

If any of our friends should feel that we have not been sufficiently particular or diffuse in our notices of their particular sections, for the public eye, we have thought it better they will have only themselves to blame; we to make a synopsis of its contents than to notified them of our intention and asked for their assistance; we will gladly make any corrections or additional remarks which may be suggested to us hereafter.

We had commenced a notice of one of the Townships for this week but our recollection being a little at fault upon a subject we wished to mention, we concluded to visit one of has witnessed, on the contrary he has been the elder men of the township to get our re- made to feel more than ever the importance engagements have detained us and we are compelled to postpone the subject another

Know Nothings and Native Americanism.

As we profess to publish a neutral paper there may be those who will object to what we are about to say upon this subject. We believe it however to be a part of our duty to keep our readers informed, so far as our limits will permit, of all subjects which are agitating the public mind, and likely to exert an influence on the interests of the country.

Of the Know Nothings, we profess to know nothing except what is known through the press or common report; enough however can be gathered from these sources to satisfy us that their principles are taking a deep and rapid hold of the minds of the people, and that their numbers are increasing throughout our whole land with astonishing rapidity -There are probably few sections of our land where they may not be found by him who has the "open sesame" to assist his search. That their principles are much the same as gling and fighting on board the steamers. the Native Americans, who insist on a longer term of probation for foreigners before they are permitted to vote or meddle with our elections, or our government; a total exclusion of foreigners from office; and stringent laws to prevent the influx of rogues and pauthe public will which will prevent the danger growth of Roman Catholic influence, we gather distinctly from these sources; that the American public are ripe for the adoption of such measures to secure the purity and permanence of their institutions, is sufficiently manifested by the eagerness with which they welcome and encourage the establishment of councils of this order amongst them.

The Native Americans have labored fo years to bring about this state of feeling, but until lately with little prospect of success.-The political parties, believing it important for their party purposes, to keep up their party organization, and hold on to their party power, have used all their influence to prevent the growth of this spontaneous American feeling; they have denounced it as the the feelings got up by this new organization, secured so great a hold on the public mind, that politicians have waked up to its importance and begin to think it advisable to fall into its ranks. Old party ties have been loosening for years past, the temperance movement has proved that they are no longer strong enough to keep men from thinking; and when Americans think, they no longer remain slaves. It is argued by the party papers, that although these organizations may become strong enough to break down the present existing political organizations, that they cannot continue, for no third party can austrin itself. The vision of these men cannot reach beyond party: they cannot conceive upon ordinary subjects, uniting for the ac- to be supported at the Noyomber election.

We have been interested in the Nanever considered it their object to establish a them to wish to accomplish certain reformations in the laws of our country for the country's good: when those objects are accomclaim the grateful remembrance of their country for the good they have done and disband.

To the mere politician, who expects to ive by politics, by party and by office, we would say, that although this organization may for the present control the offices; that is not their object or their ambition, and you had better, when you join them prepare for living by other means.

There are two sources of danger to the success of these institutions, both practices acted upon by the old political parties; and both if acted upon by this party, calculated to injure its usefulness; the first is the danger, that they will neglect and pass by old advocates of their principles, to secure strength by giving that the thermometer stood one degree hightheir influence for places of honor and profit to new converts to their cause, who have come in at the eleventh hour to reap the benefits of others labours: the second is. the fear. that for the sake of the votes obtained by the they will risk the loss of that Interest, (the temperance party,) a union with which has enabled them to secure the mighty victorics which they have already gained. It is the influence which the foreigners, through their numberless liquor establishments have exerted on the voters. which has made the old parties so assiduously court their support, and pander to their wishes: it is to the interest of the cause of the Know Nothings and Natives to abolish these sources of political profligacy. United cordially with the temperance strength, their cause is safe, and will tell a tale at the coming elections, which will astonish the nation, and seal the doom of the mere political demagogue.

CALIFORNIA. We have had placed in our hands a long and interesting letter from our old townsman Edward Collins, now in California. The pub lication of the whole letter would be interest ing to many of our readers, but as he has not been accustomed to newspaper correspondence and has included matters not intended publish the letter.

Mr. Collins has been for years a consistent and active Son of Temperance, his letter is especially intenden for the Division here to he speaks of is intemperance; his zeal in the cause has not been cooled by the scenes he collections corrected or confirmed, pressing of the cause. He thought while in New York that intemperance there raised its head to a demoralizing height but that San Francisco beats New York two to one according to the population. He describes the array of all the appliances and temptations of the business and save that it is carried on with a zeal which would do credit to a better cause. On arriving at San Francisco notice was given to ty men who went in for the temperance house.

Like many others, he found the expenses of the voyage more than anticipated, and advises others who may be going there, to inform themselves as well as they can of the adouble the amount for that purpose, he seems to have had evidences enough that it is necessary to take good care of number one while on the passage. He describes with his characteristic humor some of the quarrelling wran-

His impression after his arrival for a few days seem to have been that any body who perior in any Institution. The musical dewell there, before being there many days he well managed during the entire examination altered his opinion and come to the conclusion that there was destitution and hard ing, were of a high order-well read, and pors from abroad; and also an expression of times there as well as elsewhere and that men who were willing to work could not always of a union between Church and State, by the find work to do. He describes the temptations to evil practices and the necessity of firm, decided and well grounded principal to guard and secure men from ruin.

His description of the city of San Francisco is quite spirited; he found plenty of sand, says the read between Millville and Port Elizabeth is not as bad as at San Francisco. The city built as it is in a valley where there is a deficiency of room is extended over the water, so that the gurgling of the water may be heard as you pass along the streets. He speaks in a becoming manner of the goodness and defends the city from the high winds which constantly prevail from eleven o'clock in the morning until midnight. He had vis-"one idea party." It has however, through ited many of the curiosities and exhibited a vankee disposition to know something; we shall be glad to hear from him again and trust that he will be able to give a good account of bimself.

In our cities particularly Philadelphia and New york many deaths have occurred in consequence of the excessive heat, in the country we have escaped very well.

For the West Jersey Pioneer. Celebration of Sunday Schools.

A large and deeply interesting meeting of Sunday Schools, was enjoyed in the Roadstown Baptist Meeting House, on the third Sabbath in the present month. The presence of some three hundred children and youth, together with a very large number of parents and teachers, gave much interest to the assembly. In addition to this the presence and acceptable labours of five different Ministers of Jesus Christ, rendered the day one long to be remembered. The services of the meeting were introduced by the Pastor, Rev. J. M. Challie. Prayer was then offered by Rev. H. C. Putnam of Greenwich. The first address to parents was delivered by Rev. W. E. Cornwell. After appropriate singing, an impressive address was delivered to the children by Rev. Dr. Wilson, of Bridgeton, and the last but timely address was delivered to the Teachers by Rev. A. Gillette of Shiloh. If we mistake not very many found it which he belongs and one of the first subjects good to be there; and that impressions were made upon many minds lasting and divine. If the writer is not mistaken, assemblies of this kind are much more calculated to benefit children, parents and teachers than woods, which frequently result in but little

Bunn, each of whom we believe fully competent to discharge the duties assigned, and faithful in the performance of the same. The committee do therefore with confidence and pleasure recommend the Pen nington Female Institute to the friends of education, as a place admirably adapted to secure the comfort and happiness of young ladies; and we believe that the moral; intellectual and physical advantages offered are not and wisdom of Providence in surrounding the inferior to any of the institutions of a similar city by a range of mountains which breaks off character in our land. The Institute is in a very flourishing condition.

For the West Jersey Pioneer. TAVERN LICENCE.

Are our Tavern licenceses according to

of the State of New Jersey concerning Inns and Taverna sava: "It shall be the duty of the presiding Judge at the time of application made and before a licence is granted, to call upon the Judges present to make known any facts or objections within their individual knowledge, if any there be, why such application should not be granted and thereupon the court may in their discretion grant the licence prayed for by the applicant." Now, if facts like the following are not bicotions sufficient for not granting licence to a tavern in a village where it is of no earth ly benefit, then we confess we cannot tell what would be sufficient reason for not granting them licence. That is to say, where the neighbors of the Judges and the tavern keepand get drunk and from there go home and drive their wives and children out doors, break down gates, demolish furniture and commit other outrages not fit to name here. we say if all these are not sufficient objections why the public should not have a nuisance placed amongst them, we can file some more if necessary.

The 13th section of the same act says, that, it shall be the duty of and it is expressly enjoined upon the said courts to licence no more inns and taverns in their res pective counties than shall be necessary to accommodate and entertain travellers and strangers to serve the public occasions of said counties and for the convenience of men's meeting together to transact business and to prevent as much as possible inns and taverns to be kept open for the encouragement of gaming, tipling, drunkenness and other vices.'

Now, Mr. Editor, the only thing here we have to know is, whether it is necessary to have a tavern in a village where the evil that comes from it does overbalance the good .-And is it necessary, and does it conduce to the public good to have a rum tavern where there is twenty cases of drunkenness to where there is one person or traveller to stay all night. Now we know there is a tavern of the above description licenced by our court not twenty miles from your town, that is doing mighty big business in the destruction of human happiness and all that is good. We think the persons who sign the petition for a tavern as the above, sign it not knowing the work of death that is going on in the said place. But I suppose you know it has become the custom of the landlords to go some distance from home to get signers to their petitions, so perhaps the signers do not know how things are going on at these slaughter ouses of human blood

I would just say to the freeholders who sign petitions for tavern licences, read the watchfulness, he was relieved, but was unawhole of the law concerning the licenoing of ble to get up without bringing on the disease inns and taverns and particularly the fourth section of the act passed by the Senate and General Assembly of New Jersey.

Mr. Editor, is there no punishment for the judges who so neglect their duty and abuse the trust placed in their hands?

Escape from Merter Jail .-- On Saturday night about nine o'clock, John A. Rickey, Robert Remney and Charles Harrison alias Story, escaped from the Mercer J il. They first opened the iron latticed door, and ther pryed up the wooden door at the rear entrance of the prison. We did not examine the doors er are in the habit of congregating together the Sheriff being absent in search of the fagitives, and cannot explain the precise means that were used. The business was done by main physical strongth, of which the three combined had more than three ordinary men

"The Sheriff was sitting on the rear portico of the building a few minutes before, and had gone to transact some business appertaining to his office. He returned in about a half hour afterwards, and immediately dispatched messengers to every part of the county, and started himself with the Marshal to Grove ville. The search was continued pretty much during the night but without success.

Information was received during the night that all three together were seen at Classins Bridge on the Feeder and parted there. Ricsey was seen walking up the Water Power bout half past nine o'clock

Rickey had been committed a week ago for passing a counterfeit five dollar bill Renney was committed on a charge of breach of trust, and embezzling about $1200 belonging to a miller at Groveville. Harrison (a colored man) had been in the state prison, and was recently committed on a charge of stealing about $50 in gold in Lawrence township .-He is said to be quite a desperate character A number of persons started out in search yesterday, a reward of $150 having been of Harrison, the colored man, we learned yes terday, spent Saturday night in Trenton .-He borrowed 25 cents of a woman on pretence of getting it for her husband .- Guzette.

At Burlington the cholera struck a terrible blow in a single family, which should serve as a warning. Mr. Jas. Powell, his wife and one of his daughters were taken down on Thuraday, the 13th; Mr. P. and the daughter died in a few hours, and on Friday Mrs. P. and another daughter died. The family, the evening before they took sick partook freely of fresh fish, cucumbers and milk! Such imprudence is temerity. We have another instance which may serve a good purpose to note. During the week the disease was so fatal at Woodbury, a citizen who was suffering from constipation, ate, late at night, a couple of apples scarcely ripe, as an alterative, having had that effect at former periods. The result was he was taken down with a severe diarrhœn; by proper medical aid and again, for a number of days afterwards. Woodbury Constitution. City Court .- The City court for the July term commenced in Camden on Tuesday mor ning, at 10 o'clock. The Mayor directed the attention of the Grand Jury to the fact that since the last session of the Court, a number of individuals had been arrested and placed under bonds on charges of having sold intoxicating liquors on the Sabbath, contrary to law. He stated that he, together with the other officers, had done all they could to put a stop in such violations of the Sabbath law, and so far had been successful in the suppression of the sale of ardent spirits on that day. He wished the Grand Jury to second their determination by finding true bills against such violators, and he was certain that, under such circumstances, the dignity of the law would be sustained.

A large number of bills found at the last session, and which have lain over, will be tried at the present term. Hon. Thomas W. Mulford appears as Prosecuting Attorney, and Mr. Vorhees as counsel for some of the defendants in the liquor cases. It is thought this term will be a protracted one.

Destructive Fire .- A fire was discovered last Saturday night in the weaving shop of the silk and woolen shawl factory of John Committee of three Appointed to select suita- Duncan, at Franklin, Essex county, N. J., which was wholly destroyed, together with an adjacen print shop, belonging to L. W. Duncan. Large quantity of machinery and and contained much valuable material. A small portion of the stock was saved. The loss cannot yet be fully estimated, but is stated at $50,000, of which about $24,000 is covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. Many persons by this fire have been thrown out of employment.

The Cuban Slave importations from Africa appear to be progressing, as uninterruptedly as though it were a perfectly lawful business. The Homestead bill after baving the Homestead entirely knocked out of it, was passed in the Senate yesterday by a vote of 36 to 11. Bridgeton, July 29, 1854. Brewster's Cholera Mixture. IN a great majority of cases the cholera is pre decided by Diarrhoea or looseness of of the bowels; which being neglected under the false but too common opinion, that it will work its own cure by a little abstinence, has resulted fatally in numerous cases.

Thousands of persons in New Jersey and throughout the United States have borne testimony to the efficacy of Brewster's Cholera Mixture us remedy for Diarrhoea, Bowel complaints and Cholera Morbus, the premonitory symptoms of Asiatic Cholera.

The proprietor is constant y receiving testimonials of cures performed by this mixture. During the last eight years it has been very extensively used, nearly two thousand bottles have been sol within a month past, we have no hesitation therefore in recommending it as a safe and effectual reme dy if administered in the early stages of the disease rding to the directions on the bottle, every family and vessel, as well as travellers should have a bot tle of it, to be ready for sudden attacks. Prepared only by F. G. Brewster, Druggist, Bridgeton N. J. Price 25 cents per bettle, and sold by most all store keepers and Druggists. July 29, 1854.
