MIDERALL.

From the New-York Recorder. Blessed Poverty.

Worldly reverses are often blessings. They who forget God while the world smiles upon them and plenty crowns their board, are sadly grieved when their comforts are withdrawn; yet it is then, in the day of adversity, that they consider. On a Saturday evening one of the missionaries of the New-York City Tract-Society listened to the pitcous tale of a woman. She was a widow and had one child, a boy about five years old; she was in a very delicate state of health, but so far from having the nourishment her condition required, was altogether destitute of food, even of the coarsest kind; and instead of a comfortable bed, the floor was her only resting place; the weather was cold and she was shivering, but she had no fire nor money with which to procure fuel. Her state was indeed distressing; her prospects were dark, she knew not God, and self destruction presented itself to her view as the only mode of escape from her sorrows; and upon this mode she would probably have rashly ventured, had she not been checked by the sight of her darling boy, whom she feared to leave an orphan, exposed to the world's buffetings. Thus it was when the missionary entered her room. It was doubtless the Spirit of God that taught him what to say, for his words were reasonable, and she felt them. Food was speedily provided, but the bread of life also was presented to her attention, and now it is believed that she not only enjoys the bread that perisheth, but feasts upon that which endures to ever-and the whole routine is performed with such precision and exactness, it would seem (without thought) that it was by some inherent power they were actuated, and performed heir part as a matter of course. We become so accustomed to this regularity that we are too prone to view it in this light. A beautiful painting always attracts our attention; the more natural the delineation, the more do we admire, not the picture alone, but the artist, who with truthful and masterly hand, portrays Nature's beauties. So, and much more should we admire the complete adaptedness, the beautiful and harmonious operations of that law, which moves, actuates, and guides in all things. That law is God's, its operations manifestations of his goodness and power.

The carth, since it left the hand of the great Architect, hath not ceased in its annual circuit around its attracting centre; it hath not failed in its daily revolutions, but with unceasing motion, in perfect and beautiful harmony hath made its annual and diurnal revolutions, giving us the mild and lovely Spring time, season of new life, and bright hopes, the charming Summer filling all hearts with joy and glad anticipations, sober Autumn with solid comforts, and rich abundance, Winter, season of rest and enjoyment, and day and night in omstant and agreeable succession. Each season abounds with scenes of beauty, of peculiar and ever-varying character. the blossoms sweet; the flowers gay; the singbirds; the genial sunshine; the fruitful rection unto life eternal, of that land where everlasting spring abides.

Summer presents all nature more matured The fields of golden grain; waving grass; luxuriant corn. The trees, most beautifully chades, present a cooling and inviting shelter from the summer sun. The refreshing shower, the lightning's glance, the thunder's voice. Bright summer, faint image of sweet fields beyond the swelling flood.

Autumn, more sober, yet not less beautiful. The varied crops matured, the garnered grain; the shocks of corp, the abundant fruit, the It speaks of the reaping time when angels will shout the harvest home.

Stern Winter next, with chilling blasts, and the flowers are gone, the grass is withered, the leaves are fallen, and all Nature scenes as dead; yet it is not devoid of beautiful, powerful, and benificent manifestations of the law of Nature's God. The fleecy snow doth mantle all with spotless white—a lovely emblem of the purity of Heaven. The earth is resting and while she rests, the keen and scarching frost doth actively perform its part; and while the wintry gales do blow, and there are storms of snow and sleet, and chilling rain, the earth doth rest, and we too rest and enjoy the bounties of Heaven, our hearts are filled with gratitude, and sweet thoughts of that rest that remains for the people of God. We have merely glanced at the beauties of Nature displayed in the changing seasons.— Animated Nature deserves a glance. A vast multitude present themselves and claim our attention, from the ostrich, strong and fleet, down to the smallest of the sprightly inhabitants of the air-beautiful in their habits, plumage and songs. From the gigantic ele-phant down to the minutest animal that walks the earth—beautiful in a thousand varied forms, in instinct and affection. The insect tribe display their beauty and attract our attention, in the air and, on the earth: their name is legion. The great and deep sea, too, swarming with inhabitants as varied in beauty, form and habits, as the bird, the beast, or insect tribe. The beauties of Nature are not confined alone to beautiful fields, the gorgeous array or the endless variety of blossoms and flowers; nor to the birds of most delightful song, and beautiful plumage; nor to such animals as please the eye with graceful motion and forms of beauty; but the rugged mountain, the gnarled oak, the humblest plant, the roaring thunder, and lightning fierce, the wind in its fury, and birds and beasts, and monsters of the deep there be, in all which there is a beauty; and while we fear and tremble, we wonder and admire. From every tree, and plant, and flower; from every insect, bird and beast, we hear a voice proclaiming, the hand А. Н. Н. that made us is Divine.'

AGRICULTURE.

From the Working Farmer. GUANO QUESTION.

This all important question is now occupying the attention of many members of Congress, and we have received a number of letters asking questions relative to its use, value,

The importance of this question is scarcely understood by the public at large. We con-ceive it to be more important than any other that could now agitate the nation, unless it be the formation of an Agricultural Department by our government.

Guano is an excellent manure, not only as such, but as an integrant of the various preparations of soluble phosphates which are being made for the use of the farmer-and every ton which is brought into the United States from abroad, adds to the permanent agricultural capital of the country.

It must be recollected guano contains portions of the integrants of plants, or at least such of them as are most likely to be exhausted from the soil, and therefore, is a ready means of replacing the inorganic constituents which culiar and ever-varying character.

Thus the Mississippi alone, probably throws into the Atlantic Ocean an amount of fertilizing material nearly, or quite equal to that which would be required to fertilize some of dressed in foliage dense, and green of varying the smaller counties, each day. This is true in degree of all the smaller rivers, and when we take into account the amount washed into the Gulf of Mexico, and muddy condition of the Gulf Stream for hundreds of miles, we ran readily conceive that the waste of soluble materials, and even that held in mechanical suspension, must be immense. The great source for the replacement of these raw materials. trees arrayed in autumn's beauteous robes. from which by the action of nature's laws plants are created, is by the importation of guano. Indeed, it seems to be the natural method. The sea birds collect these matters snow-clad hills, and ice-bound streams, though as they find their way to the occan's surface, having previously served in many cases as constituents of fish, and deposit them in the form of guano on the islands.

Thus we are now manuring by the use of Peruvian guano the Atlantic slope, with the debris washed into the Pacific on our western States, and entirely passed over the South, shores, and this too concentrated by nature's and South west. In Ohio, Kentucky, Indiservants, the birds, into so condensed a form ana, Illinois and Missouri, the crop of maize, that it may be transported at comparitively it is computed, will not be more than half the slight expense.

It should be remembered that although one ton of guano will produce many times its cost in the current crops of the first year, still it is not lost to the country by such use. -The decay of these crops again furnishes the save the folder at least. But even in this same constituents to the soil somewhere and region, the crops of the year are average ones.

Great Cattle Show.

The Fourteenth Annual Cattle Show and Exhibition of the New York State Agricultural Society, will be held in connection with the American Institute and New York Horticultural Society, at Hamilton Square, in the City of New York, October 3d, 4th, 5th, and 6th, 1854. It will be seen by the advertisement in our present number, that premiums to the amount of $8000 are offered, and we cannot doubt that this exposition will bring together a very large collection of animals.—
Farmers should remember that these and other similar exhibitions are the only means thus far offered, for bringing the importance of Agriculture before the people, and no opportunity should be lost which can in any way tend to convince legislators of the necessity for the Establishment of an Agricultural Department.—Working Farmer.

From the Smyrna Times. AUTUMN-A REVERIE.

BY TEMPLETON TUSSLE, ESQ.

Autumn is coming; yea, it is even nigh at hand—his hand upon the shoulder of departing summer. And he laughs in her ear, as mockingly he whispers, how soon she must leave and give room to him.

How varied the reflections of man at this season of the year!—when nature is stripping the trees for winter and scattering the garb of summer along the pathways, covering the breast of earth with the once lively children of the bereaved forest, which now means sorrowfully its grief and desolation: crisp and hard each leaf breaks beneath the felt-telling of death and dissolution. The old man treading the vale of life, gazes upon the fall and decay of nature. He beholds the emblem of his own approaching change,—each moment, a leaf has fallen from his tree of life, and he now stands, as the tall cak, with but few scattered leaves waving on the naked branches; and, as he looks upon the past-strewed with these leafy moments—he realizes that the beginning of life is also the beginning of death; that all through his long years the leaves have been dropping, the branches have been moaning and the wind has been playing with the limbs, and soon the old tree will be dust,

We whose index of years points to the noon of life, looks also upon this change as that which may be his! Yes, he beholds the end to which he must come—the change he must undergo. Printers cannot do business successfully unless they adhere as strictly as possible to the cash system. We have lost hundreds of dollars by trusting Tom, Dick and Harry, and we came to the conclusion, some time since, that a continuation of such a policy would prove ruinous to us and troublesome to our creditors. We therefore require the cash for all transient job work and advertising, believing it is the only method by which printers can obtain a respectable living and be able to pay their debts. We hope the fraternity everywhere will declare their independence in this particular matter.

Roman Catholic Convents.—The instituions of Romanism are repugnant to every principle of republicanism. The New Orleans Advocate, referring to its convents says:

... For conventual establishments we have no use. A relic of a dark age, and a libel against nature, and against society, their existence in this century and country is a stretch of tolerance. Even banks are compelled to make a showing occasionally, and let the public know about the dollars in their vaults and store boxes. But when once a girl passes the heavy doors and iron grated windows of a Convent, all is dumb and dark. The Superiors can tell a tale that suits them, or tell nothing: (People, grand jury, judge—all are locked out, and consent to it. Are the inmates well or badly treated? Are they forcibly detained or willing captives? Society may not know. The thing is an outrage.— Ever and anon our grand juries, conservators of public good, go the rounds of the watch houses, houses of refuge, parish prisons, hos-pitals and asylums. They let us know of abuses, and whether the officers do their duty. But there is an establishment with as many iron bars as any of these, and as many prisoners-the Ursuline Convent; why do they pass that by? It is more than possible, nay, it is highly probable, it is morally certain that sighing ones are there that would rejoice at a delivery; abuses, that if searched out and told under oath, would make the ears of our citizens tingle. Have these victims no claim?

Are these self-constituted jailors amenable to no law? We never have heard of the coroner being called in there. It is high time the subject of the above remarks awakened deeper and more general interest. It is high time the attention of free Protestant Governments was in carnest directed towards the correction of this monstrous abuse. Canopy Musquito Net .- The most simple and convenient net for beds we have ever seen for preventing the entrance of musquitoes, is one recently invented by C. A. Haskins & Co. A rod is secured by a link and hook to each post of the bedstead, and they extend upwards at an angle of 45°, and meet in the center above the bod, and are secured there altogether under an ornamented cap.

The proprietor of a tavern named David Arthur, has been convicted before Mayor Courad with selling liquor to an intemperate person, after having been notified by the riends of the latter not to continue to do so. THE WEATHER.

That rain we have been looking for ha come at last. Directly after penning the article in our last number, on signs, we learned that the ponds and runs were filling up rapidly, that wet dirt was found near the surface of the ground where before all had been dry. On Saturday we again tried the tumbler of water, and found that large drops soon made their appearance, a tree toad made itself heard on a tree in our yard, and although it seemed for awhile to have difficulty to pitch a tune, or give utterence to its prophetic language, it finally overcome the influences of the dry atmosphere and kept up during the night a continued harmony of rough sounds.

Madame Luna too had turned her full face upon us, and was at evening surrounded by a magic circle; such a coming together of signs and tokens, we supposed must augura change coming; and sure enough, the rain did come, and such a rain, why it seemed as if the windows of heaven were opened and a flood was being poured down upon us. What a change in the face of nature, all things so lately, parched, dried up and forbidding in their ap- on Tuesday, having found six bills of indictpearance, now look fresh, bright and animating; the countenances of men look cheerful, their step bouyant, and their motions sprightly. Grumbling and complaining has for a time given place to thankfulness and good humor, and as it is very common for mankind to imagine matters to be worse with them than they really turn out to be, so we find men while under the cheering influence of the favorable change in the weather, beginning to conclude that after all the effects of the to 56 cents a half peck.—State Gazette. drought has not been so destructive to their crops as they had supposed. It is we believe generally conceded that the Corn crop is by pected from many well tilled fields which would have been considered but a few years since almost incredible. That there will be a shortening of the crop generally, is undoubtedly true, but not at all equal to what was feared; and as to the potato, both round and sweet, we have evidence before our eyes in walking our streets that potatoes have grown this summer for somobody and we don't despair of having an abundance. But that buckwheat:-we have felt interest enough in that crop, from our anxiety about those cakes we are looking for next winter to go into the fields and examine for ourself—previous to his life. the rain the prospect for the cakes was bad enough, we hope the fresh blossoms not yet blasted will, if the frost does not come too soon, produce something, but little, however, must be expected. Cabbagas and turnips will we trust be much benefitted by the change and the fall pasture will we hope soon displace the miserable, bitter, oily subterfuge under the name of butter, which many have the real article.

Of course it will be Pay Up!—We are informed by Mr. Smith, said that the approach of election has given a of the Salem Standard, for the twentieth stimulus to operations, and the sincerity of time, that the Camden Democrat has been those who have the matter in hand will be as little believed as ever. A New Trade for Philadelphia .- The Absccom railroad has opened a new business for this city, which is well worthy the attention of some of our capitalists. The meeting took place on Wednesday August 30th, on Squan Beach, and was well attended. Some three or four hundred persons were present. Several Divisions of the Sons of Temperance were on the ground dressed in full regalia.

After the speaking a collection was taken up to defray expenses, the meeting was then dismissed, and the assembly quietly and apparently in good spirits, betook them for their boats, there being about thirty small sail boats along the shore, making quite an armament, and perhaps the first Naval Expedition ever fitted out to battle with King Alcohol, the party were soon under sail and gliding swiftly over the bosom of the bay, each to his respective home, and each so far warm hearts wishing the good of all men.

Upper Pittsgrove, New Jersey. Geo. A. Leinau—Dear Sir:—I have used your American Fertilizer upon a large field of Wheat. The field had never, in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, produced anything but Indian Grass, (a weed.) My neighbors laughed at my cultivat-ing that field and using your Fertilizer, But the crop of white bearded wheat which I raised, was the admiration of all beholders. I sold the wheat to Mr. Whitney, of Glassboro, New Jersey, and send you a bunch for the Crystal Palace at New York. I am now preparing a largerfield for wheat this Fall, and using your American Fertilizer in preference to Guano. ISAIAH WOOD. Farmers of New Jersey, use Leinau's American

THE Fall term of this new Medical School for Ladies, will commence on the first Monday i October, 1854, and continue four months. The System of Teaching, here pursued, is entirely new, and is more comprehensive, thorough, liberal and practical, than that of any other Medical School in the country. It is based, as far as possible, upon the positive Sciences, consequently, free from all sects and dogmas. The branches of study are divided according to their natural order of succession, and taught in four progressive courses of four months each; there are two courses in each year, thus enabling the students to pass successively through all four courses within two years. By this arrangement the study is rendered easy, and possessed of daily increasing interest.
