For the West Jersey Pioneer. THE CROWNING OF JOASE.

BY BARAH S. SOCWELL. In the temple stands a fair young child, His clear, soft eyes are gentle and mild, A look of wonder mantels his face,

As he gazes around that holy place. Above him rises in grandeur bold, The stately temple, gleaming with gold, With pillared court, and resounding aisle,

All glowing beneath the sun's glad smile. Banners are floating over his head, With the blood of a hundred battles red; Incense is wasting its rich perfume

Through the lofty arches of that proud room Levites and priests are ministering there, Clad in their vestments rich and rare: The warrior's tread, and the clashing spear,

And the trumpet's blast, all peal on the ear. The courts are filled with a countless throng, And a murmur of voices, deep and strong, Rises up, as they eagerly press to gaze

On the child-king's fair and innocent face. Now a regal crown is placed on his brow, And priests and warriors before him how And Judah's princes their sovereign own,

As they lead the child to the royal throne. Now exulting music is pealing round, The lefty dome re-echoes the sound. And the spacious courts of the temple ring With the joyful shout, God save the King! Shiloh, Oct. 1854,

From the Working Farmer. POTATOES.

An agricultural friend who returned a week since from France, informs us that the farmers there have discovered that by leaving a portion of their potatoes, intended for seed, in the ground during winter, digging them up, and teplanting in spring, is a remedy against the continuouce of the various diseases to which the potato has of late years been subiected. It will be recollected that this process was first recommended in this country by Mr. Roberts. We have tried the experiment hy leaving potatoes in the ground last year, mulching them slightly during winter with brush. When we dug them this spring, we found the putatoes perfect and very solid, and have planted them along-side of others, kept in the cellar during winter. The growth of the crop gives fair evidence of the sup riority of the seed left in the ground, and from present appearance, our experiment, backed by the result claimed by Roberts, and by the French farmers, is likely to sustain the recommendation of the Farmers' Club of the American Institute for the trial of this plan. and those of the agricultural press who attempted to laugh it down at the time of its publication, will be able to review their jokes with some profit to their readers.

The potato crop of this year will doubtless prove of excellent quality, but the quantity will probably not be so great, and certainly not greater than that of last year, while the demand will be materially increased. The wars in Europe, and consequent high price of breadstuffs, are not calculated to reduce the price of potatoes with us. The emigration from Europe will probably be greater than during any previous year. The arrival of foreigners at the port of New York alone has been, in the last 12 months, hulf a million, and will probably be much greater during the Temperance District Convention.

The Prohibitory Liquor Law men held their Convention for nominating a Candidate for Congress, in the first Congressional District, on Tuesday, at the Court House in this place, the convention, to say the least of it, would compare favorably with any convention ever held in our town. A more orderly, conduct, proved that they were actuated by what they believed to be correct principles and a high sense of moral duty, and that they were prepared let the result be what it might, to put their whole energies into the prosecution of the work they had undertaken.

The proceedings of the convention were with very few exceptious characterized by the prevalence the most perfect harmony; the delegates from Salem County, from the peculiar circumstances in which their county ticket was placed, came prepared to object to a nomination of a candidate for Congress, but influenced by the strong feeling exhibited by the delegates from other counties, they, after having through Mr. Richman, plainly but moderately stated their objections, acquiesced in the determination of the convention; Mr. Bodine, from Camden county resolutely and persevereingly opposed the nomination, but it was soon evident that he stood alone in his opposition.

We suspect that no Convention has ever been more unanimous and more harmonious in their selection of a candidate, and we may more confidently depend upon the hearty and candid response to be received from those whom they represent. Mr. Hazleton goes before the voters of this district under the most favorable circumstances and may confidently be expected to receive their active support in the coming contest.

An executive committee of two from each county was appointed and the convention adjourned after listening to a spirited address from Rev. Mr. Morrell of Atlantic. with the utmost harmony and with the resolute determination to follow out the action of the day of the State has passed into the hands of our by their action at the ballot boxes.

The meeting of this convention cannot fail to produce a decided effect, the coming together of so many sober intelligent and reliable men from the different sections of the district, will tend powerfully to confirm the friends of the cause in their assurance of their strength, and their power to effect the reformation which they have so ardently hoped and labored for, and they will carry home with them confidence in the manly, honest and determined character of their fellow laborers which will renew their own energies and make them go to work with fresh zeal and increased confidence of success.

American County Convention.

This convention met on Wednesday at Millyille, and formed a county ticket, which they offer for the support of voters of the county at the coming election. In the first legislative district, they selected John F. Keen, who had previously received the nomination of the Temperance party. In the 2d district. James Wells, of Millville, received the nomination, and Joshua Dawson, also of Millville, the nomination for Sheriff.

It was believed by many that they would select for their candidate in the 2d district a Whig, and that an union of effort would take place between the parties as with the candidate for congress, but they seem disposed to and Scientific Publications." THE ATTEMPTED MURDER AND BOBBERT. Our community was quite excited last week by the account of a robbery and attempt at murder, near Millville. PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION. -The Elections held in Pennsylvania have have resulted no doubt in the election of Pollock, If hig for Governor. So far as heard from a conrespectable and resolute set of men, we have siderable Whig, Native and Know-nothing never seen; their very appearance and their gain in Congressmen. The Anti-Nebraski feeling has been exhibited largely throughout the State. The Temperance vote so far as heard from is very encouraging.

> Salem Co. Agricultural Exhibition. We regretted very much, that we were prevented from visiting our neighbors of Salem County, on the day of their Exhibition; we have, in common with many of our Cumberland brethren, been in the practice of attending their Agricultural Fairs, and thus encouraging a neighborly feeling, and we have regretted, that our neighbors of Salem did not more generally, reciprocate that feeling, and encourage us by their presence at our recent attempt to follow them in carrying out the great work of placing the agricultural interests, prominently before the publie; we trust that another year the interchange of visits will be more general.
