For the West Jersey Pioneer. Death of the First-born of Egypt

BY SARAH S. SOCWELL. A voice of bitter wailing. A voice of grief and woe, Swells wildly on the midnight breeze,

Where the Nile's waters flow. For the destroying angel Is passing o'er that land, And the first-born in every house Falls 'neath his blighting hand.

And Egypt's haughty monarch Bends o'er his princely son, And piercing cries ring wildly out Above that fated one.

And mournful tones of anguish Peal on the passing gale, As the young mother finds her babe, All still, and cold, and pale.

The maiden in her beauty Lies in-her dreumless sleep, And sorrowing friends, with breaking heart Their midnight vigils keep.

The pride and strength of manhood . Avail not in the hour, When manhood, infancy, and youth

And one foud lamentation, One cry of fear and dread, Rings like a death-peal through the land, Above the countless dead. Shiloh, Oct., 1854.

The secluded streets and narrow by-ways are often tenanted, if not by famishing inmates, at least by those to whom a little timely and kind assistance would warm like sunshine on a wintry day. There are the widow and the orphan, the invalid and unprotected, the aged and the feeble, who are either toiling on as carnestly as possible, or suffering silently and calmly, to whom a visit ty the kind-hearted and the genorous, by the sympathizing and the humane, would be as that of a being from a better world. AN ADDRESS To the Prohibitionist and Advocates of Temperance of the 1st Congressional District of New Jersey.

FELLOW CITIZENS:-The Salem Standard, Jersey Blue, State Guzette, Newark Mercury, and other organs of the Whig Party, have taken it upon themselves, to impugn the motives, and misrepresent the objects of the Temperance Convention, held in Bridgecould consistently vote, as their representative in the Congress of the Nation. They openly accuse us of having been urged on and controlled in our action by the Monopolists, and a few disappointed Whigs. On behalf of this Convention, we unhesitatingly deny the charge. They also insinuate, that we cannot, and do not, expect to elect our candidate and that our only object is, to defeat the election of Doctor Clawson, and insure the election of Mr. Mulford. Again, we shore—the sun is just sinking to his western aver that they are wrong. We assert, that chance of electing Mr. Hazelton is much better than the chance of electing Mr. Clawson; we see the steps of the great first cause. This | Mulford's. No, we have made no false issue. we are in good earnest, and intend to use all honorable means in our power to secure the election of J. W. Hazelton. We patiently waited the action of other parties, hoping and believing, that a sense of ight, and a proper regard for a party which had proved itself, not only honest in its purposes, but powerful at the ballot boxes, would induce them to place on nomination, candidutes who we could conscientiously support; but they have each in turn, treated us with contempt, and placed on nomination, men directly opposed to the principles we had been contending for many years. The American party had in their ranks men who would have been satisfactory to the Temperance men, placed upon nomination a man, who within less than a year, had been elected to the State Legislature as an oppon-Traffic. We could not, if we would, refrain men who in the Legislature, vote against it, by sending them to Congress? We then lookthirsty he lies down to rest; but no, this won't ed to the Whigs, and although we were well do, he must go on until he finds relief; on he assured, that over a thousand of them in this goes, but relief comes not yets overcome, he Congressional district, out of opposition to reclaim he fulls upon the arid sand, he lies the Temperance Cause, had last Fall refused to vote for the nominee for Governor, of their own party, and voted for Price and Monopoly; we yet hoped they might be induced to place on nomination a man we could vote for again he succeeds the man partakes of food our wishes were disregarded, and the objectionable nominee of the American party A little babe is stricken down by the cold adopted. As a last resort, we turned our at tention to the Democrate, and a candidate was placed before them, who would have

ly excitement, and still retain enough to elect our candidate. But, is there no defection in the ranks of the other parties? Is all harmony and good feeling, with either the Whigs, Democrats, or Natives? This will not be pretended. We believe, that our candidate will be quite as likely to receive help from their ranks, as theirs will be to take voters from us. Great expectations are indulged in, by the riends of Doctor Clawson, of support to be obtained from the Native Americans. Why! American principles years before the Doctor advocate the cause when he hoped by so dong, to ride into Congress on the backs of the party; and it will be found that a few men rom Philadelphia, who lodge in Camden, with their agents throughout the district, will not be able to control the Natives and comlives, and eating bread by the sweat of the pel them, to do their bidding. Jerseymen are hard to manage, they have indomitable and intelligent wills of their own, and are accustomed to acting for themselves. Many of the natives are genuine Temperance men, and hold their duty to suffering humanity to be more sacred, and more important than their obligations to the Political Organizations.-Besides, they believe that there is no more effectual way to deprive the foreigner of his political influence, and none so speedy, as to pass a Prohibitory Liquor Law; thus, at once ing the purposes of the Political Demagogue. to do great things for the Doctor; -unfortunately for the Doctor, here again Mr. Hazelton has the advantage of him; he, has been a consistent Anti-monopolist for years, and has not like the Doctor, waited the action of a Whig caucus before making up his mind to oppose a measure the Monopoly asked for .-Mr. Hazelton's thunder. Mr. II. has been beforehand with him, and what is more, hus been consistent in his opposition.

> We confidently believe, that our candidate will get a plurality of votes, in at least four of the six counties in the district; Clawson may receive a small plurality in one county. and Mulford in the other. We say then to our tomperance friends, let no interested as sertion that Mr. Hazelton cannot be elected, induce you to neglect to give him your sunport; he can be elected and if temperance men do their duty in good faith, he most assuredly will be. But it is asked; of what consequence is it to the Temperance party that the member of Congress should be a temperance man? we, it is said, should look only to the State Legislation; Congress, we are told, cannot enact a prohibitory law for New Jersey-we grant it, but our temperance views are not bounded by the narrow limits of our dear little State; they are world wide, we embrace in our objects, in our aspirations for doing good, and benefitting our fellow men, every state and ever country; we would have our influence and our efforts, extend to every naion and every clime.

Who is there that has read of the annual scenes of drunken rowdyism, and disgraceful fighting, which takes place in our Halls of Vational Legislation; who can doubt the neessity of souding men to Congress whose example, precept and influence, will tend to remove, or diminish the disgraceful stigma which rum has fostened upon our national character, Every advocate of temperance should feel, that he was specially bound to use his influence and his vote, to infuse into our national legislature all the temperance orinciples he could, -it is there that the great battle is to be fought, let men know that Americans will have sober men there, men of tried temperance principles, and that they the tail of go old "Peacock" for the last thir will not trust men in that polluted atmosphere whose temperance principles are not fully esablished, and then, fashionable drinking in high places, the colessal opponent of our cause, will be made to feel our power and the up and partial self confidence, that I was force of our influence. I determined to visit some of my friends and see the agricultural fairs of this and neighboring States. I went into my barn yard and selected a little depriving him of his greatest means of serv. of the best stock I had. These animals said being in nice company. About the time I was in this state of mind there came a polite invitation from one of your townsman for me his barn. The cool North wind braced my weak nerves, till really I felt like "Richard's himself again." gazed upon the beautiful animals with more than usual admiration, for I had now heard from outside friends, that I had produced something worthy the soil I cultivate, and the people I live among. I thought of the old fellows we read of in Josephus who drove the best of their flock to be sacrificed at some distant altar. After three cays journey the young horse and cow reached the pleasant

I stood beside him as he watched so intently the task he was performing. It was a noble mark, and I thought I had never seen so noble a youth. Of course, as he was astranger to me, it was only association that had won my sympathy. Secretly did I bless that youth, and hope that he would win the prize, but he did not. Position of Women in this Country.

The following is from "Rural Hours," by Miss Cooper, daughter of the late J. Fenni-more Cooper. It expresses, we presume, the scutiments of all women of pure feeling and correct principles.

"We American women certainly owe a debt of gratitude to our countrymen for their kindness and consideration of us generally. -Gallantry may not always take a graceful form in this part of the world, and more flattery may be worth as little here as elsewhere: but there is a glow of generous feeling towards women in the hearts of most American men, which is highly honorable to them as a nation and as individuals. In no country is the protection given to woman's helpleasness more full and free in no country is the assistance she receives from the stronger arm so general—and nowhere does her weakness eet with more forbearance and consideration. Under such circumstances, it must be woman's own fault if she be not thoroughly ly, and simply; with truth and modesty of

CIRCULATION 1300

Only $1 00 per Year!

Notice to Agents and Advertisers.

FRANKLIN FERGUSON, EDITOR.

WE ARE PREPARED TO SHOW THAT

The West Nersey Mioneer Has a Circulation of at least 300 more than any other paper printed in Cumberland County. Its Circulation, (in the County,) is nearly double that of any other paper.

This notice is called for in self-defence. The "BRIDGETON CHRONICLE" falsely conveying the impression, that its Circulation is larger than that of the Pioneer.

Confidence of success necessary to the active and energetic prosecution of an Enterprise.

Hope inspires confidence, and confidence promotes success. This we see exemplified in all the transactions of life; it is true, conit leads to it, and in very many instances is the main lever which produces the successful prize, in the struggle for success in the various efforts at superiority, or exertions for power or taken place, it ought to be a matter of rejoicproperty or any other object of desire, it is ing that its fall had not occurred as reprewell that we are so constituted, that we view sented. things from different points, or through different mediums, thus inducing us (each competitor for the object in view) to persuade ourselves that we are to be the successful party by whom success is to be secured. If it were deception, which secures hope and confidence in ourselves, or in the work in which we are engaged, the great stimulant to exertion would be lost, and the many would fall into inactivity and hopeless despondency, and leave to the few, the control, the possession and management of the affairs of the world.

This natural susceptibility to the influences of hope, and the indulgence of confidence exemplified than in political contests and party strifes for excellency and power. We have upon which to found their confident calculations of beating their opponents in the contest. Could all see the real state of the case, the interest in the struggle would be in a great measure destroyed. It is well that and bloody one. these illusions should be continued, they keep alive a spirit of interest in public matters which conduces to the public good and more than compensates for the troubles and evils produced by the intermeddling of officious, arrogant, and ignorant partisans who generally manage to bring themselves into notice upon such occasions.

It is a remarkable illustration of the readiness of mankind to be persuaded of the truth of what their wishes predispose them to beshould not see at a glance the probabilities of victory which are perching upon their banners. Well, probably it is a happy thing that it is so; it tends to keep up the interest and rican systems, it flatters our self-love and our estimation of our importance and power; we feel with pride the annual return of our individual sovreignty, and enjoy the consciousness that we have our say in the election of the men who are to control the affairs of our great country.

These reflections which go to prove that the responsibility for good or for evil, of all the public acts of our representatives must really and ultimately rest upon the people themselves and not upon their agents, ought to scof electing representatives, whose known prining, believing that they will use their influence, their example and the power we delegate to their keeping, in such a way as to conduce to the moral, as well as political and pecuniary interests of the people. If we believe that we are individually, or as members of a community called upon to exercise our influence for the promotion of any known reform, or the suppression or extinction of any known election and the singular cutting up into seetions which has been presented.

The Fate of Sir John Franklin.

The fate of the entriped commander of the exploring expedition, which has been so long missing, with his hardy followers, has at length been ascertained upon authority which will permit no longer doubt to rest upon it. For the West Jersey Pioneer. MR. EDITOR:-In glancing my eve over the columns of your excellent paper, I observed a statement of the recent dedication of the New Baptist Church, at Newport, in this County, and hence deem the conclusion that you would, doubtless, kindly permit a small place for a brief notice of the First Quarterly Meeting Conference of the Methodist Protestermination of his noble wife to discover and tant Church, recently organized at Newport, under the Pastoral charge of the Rev. J. M. Timberman. The business portion of the Conference, held on the afternoon of the 21st inst., was encouraging and harmonious. The religious services in the Evening, and on the Sabbath, which were held in the large and commodious School House, were truly delightful and encouraging, the congregations were large, especially in the evening, when a goodly number of the friends could not obtain entrance within, and notwithstanding the dense throng that filled the place, the most marked attention was bestowed in eagerly, and profitably listening to the words of Faith as they fell from the lips of the officiating umns. The question naturally strises for Clergyman, on that interesting occasion, viz-Camden: and who desires thus, through your kindness, publicly to express his sincere thanks to the inhabitants for that true hospitality and kindness which he received from

The Moutreal Herald of this morning has the following: "In our extra of yesterday rening we in-formed the public that a rumor was current in town that the remains of Sir John Franklin and his crew and their ships had been

We immediately dispatched a special messenger to the Hudson Bay Company's house at Lachine, and through the kindness of the Governor. Sir George Simpson, are enabled to lay before our readers the following outling of a dispatch received by him yesterday from Dr. Rae:

Dr. Rae has been absent from the coas since the first of the mouth of June, 1853, and returned to York Factory on the 28th Aug., last, whence he forwarded letters by express to Sir George Simpson, via the Red River settlement.

After briefly noticing the result of his own expedition, and the difficulties with which they had to contend, he proceeds to state that from Exquimaux, he had obtained certain information of the fate of Sir John Franklin's expedition, who had been starved to death after the loss of their ships, which were crushed in the ice, and while making their way South to the Fish River of Buck, near the outlet of which a party of whites died, leaving accounts of their sufferings in the mutilated corpses of some, which had evidently furnished food to their unfortunate companions. This information though not derived from the Esquimaux who had communicated with the whites, and who found their remains, but from another band wno obtained the details vica voce, may yet be relied on. No doubt is left of the truth of the report, as the natives had in their possession various articles of European manufacture which had been in possession of the whites.

Among these are several silver spoons forks, &c., on one of which is engraved: Sir-John Franklin, K. C. B, while the others have crests and initials on them which identify the owner as having belonged to the illfated expedition. Drawings of some of these have been sent down. This fearful tragedy must have occurred as long ago as the spring

Additional Particulars Concerning the. Fate of Sir John Franklin and his Companions.

Late Montreal papers contain some additional details concerning the discovery of Sir John Franklin's party, obtained by Dr. Rae from the Esquimaux. The report is as fol-

In the spring of 1850, a party of white men amounting to about forty, were seen travelling southward over the ice, and dragging boats with them, by some Esquimaux Indians who were killing scals on the north shore of King William's Land, which is a large Island, named "Keliktak" by the Esqui manx. None of the party could speak the native language intelligibly, but by signs the natives were made to understand that their ships had been crushed by ice, and that the whites were now going to where they expect ed to find deer to shoot. From the appearance of the men, all of whom, except one chief officer, looked thin; they were supposed to be getting short of provisions, and they purchased a scal from the natives.

At a later date, during the same season; but previous to the disruption of the ice, the bodies of about thirty white persons were discovered on the continent and five more on an island near it. About a long day's journey west of a large stream, which can be no other houses continue the quotations received by than Capt. Buck's great Fish river, as its dethe Africa. The demand has been moderate scription, and that of the low shore in the neighborhood of Point Ogle and Montreal Island, agree with that of Sir George Buck's.

Some of the bodies had been buried, some were in tents, others under a boat that had ral lay scattered about in different directions. Of those found on the island, one was supposed to have been an officer, as he had telescope strapped over his shoulder, and his double barrelied gun lay underneath him .-From the mutilated state of many of the corpses, and the contents of the kettles, it is evideut that the party had been driven to the last resource-"cambalism" as a means of prolonging life.

There appears to have been an abundant stock of amunition, as the powder was emptied in a heap on the ground by the natives, out of the cases containing it, and a quantity of ball and shot was found below high water mark, having been left on the ice close to the beach. There must have been a number of watches, telescopes, compasses, guns, &c., all of which appear to have been broken up, as Dr. Rac saw pieces of these different articles with the Esquimaux, together with some silxer spoons and forks. As many of which as could be obtained were purchased, and a list of the most important of the relics found, with the drawings of others, were to be for warded to London.

BIOGRAPHY of SIR JOHN FRANKLIN.

The reported discovery of the remains of this illustrious navigator-whatever doubts may be thrown upon the credibility of the which have thus far been communicated to the public. Sir John Franklin was born in 1786, and would accordingly have been 68 years of age had he survived to the present time. His native place was Spilsby; a small London on the 9th. In 1818, he commanded the brig Trent in the Polar Expedition under Capt. Buchan. After the failure of the search for the northwest passage by Capt. Ross, he received the commission in 1819, to undertake an expedition by land from Hudson's Bay to the mouth of the Copper Mine River, in co-junction with Richardson and Bach, to co-operate with Capt. Parry, who was to visit the region by water. On this expedition he followed the coast as far as Cape Turnagan, 68° 30° northelatitude, and after Incredible hardships, having been once rescaped from death by the Indians, he returned to the ship. a ship of the line in the Mcditerranean, and afterward was appointed Governor of Van Diemen's Land, from which post he was recalled in March, 1843. Returning to England in the spring of 1845, he was entrusted with the command of the fatal expedition in which his life has fallen a sacrifice. The two vessels, Erebus and Terror, in which the younger Ross had accomplished his expedition to the South Pole, were selected for the voyage, and two distinguished officers, Captains Crozier and Fitzjaines, were appointed as his companions. The Expedition sailed on the 19th of May, 1845, arrived at the Whale Fish Islands on the 4th of July, and was seen for the last time in Mellville Bay, on the 26th of that month. It was not until after the return of Captain Ross in 1849, who had been sent in search of the missing navi gators, that general anxiety was felt for their safety. In 1850 an Expedition was fitted of all other goods usually kept in a Country store.

The unsuccessful result of these Expeditions is well known. During the past year a large flect was sent out by the British Government, to make renewed search for Sir John Franklin. Mr. Grinnell also destatched the Advance, under the command of Dr. Kane, on a similar errand. But all in vain. Before the announcement of the recent intelligence, no further hope was cherished that the lives of the brave explorers had been preserved.
