BY SARAH S. SOCWELL.

Come! O ye glorious Visions of Heaven, Come to me now in the dim hours of even! While the red light is slowly fading away, And twilight is veiling the brightness of day.

Come! O ye visions of glory and light, Visions of leveliness, joyful and bright! Lot me revel awhile in the fair Land of Dreams, With its evergreen bowers and bright flashing

They come! they are floating around me now, Soft airs from Paradise blow o'er my brow. Strains of sweet music float on my ear, Mingling with voices melodious and clear. Round me the brilliance of heaven is beaming,

Through the soft gloom the bright rays are stream-Pouring in splendor down from the White Throne Where sitteth in glory the Almighty One! The rushing of myriad wings I hear,

And soft spirit voices float on my ear, And faces of beauty, unearthly and bright,

Let me soar away with that radiant band. Let me mount to Heaven, that glorious land, Where the souls of the loved and pure are dwellsite ladies, it says, are emphatically consumers. They do nothing, produce nothing, and their gold, or that of their fathers, goes indirectly to Europe to pay for articles which are absorbed in nothing. A five hundred dollar veil, a thousand dollar silk dress, or a hundred dollar kerchief, when reduced to its intrinsic substance—that is, ashes—has not more than nutriment enough to fructify ten grains of wheat. By this system of fast living, superinduced through false pride, Europe gets our gold, and we get her dross. Is it to be wondered, then, that people complain of hard times and a tight money market? Young gentlemen and young ladies, ponder upon these things. Think, while you are votaries of pride and apers of abominable fashion, that your fathers may be writing in mental ago-ny, and loaded, bowed to the very earth with pecuniary embarrassments. Beauty may for a time, shine attractively in borrowed plu-mage, but when unmasked, is repulsive. States and governments have always exhibited wonderful alacrity in rewarding, with swords and the like, rity in rewarding with swords and the like, those who have distinguished themselves on the battle-field, but they have often overlooked the claims of the patriots of industry like Mr. Cockrill, who has for forty years devoted himself with wonderful assignify to improvements in the growth of wool. In his answer to the gentleman who presented him with the medal, he says, "at the World's Fair at London, in 1851, the themium for the golden fleece was awarded to Tennesse. PILLAR LETTER BOXES.

A simple and efficient plan for facilitating the posting of letters in the most populous parts of London has been adopted. It consists of placing pillar letter boxes along the leading thoroughfaves, at intervals of half z' mile or thereabouts. These hollow pillars will be fitted for the reception of letters, and fixed on the footway, in such a position as not to obstruct traffic of any kind, and the Post office Department will itself bear the whole cost of construction and erection. The letters are to be taken out every hour, so as to continue the present admirable system of the London Post-office, whereby any letters posted within three miles of the General Post office, is delivered to its address within a period of not more than two hours from the time at which it was deposited in the letter box.

Temperanceville Glass Works .- We were leased to notice last week in passing through Glasboro', that operations at Mr. Eden Whitney's works at that place, which had been suspended in consequence of the recent destruction of the main Factory building by fire, had been fully resumed. It would probably have been to the interest of Mr. W. not to have started again this season; but with the deep feeling of kindness which should ever exist between the employer and the employed, ho could not but sympathize with the many himself; in a few seconds the sum was done, bly thrown out of employment, and with characteristic zeal and energy he set to work, and by unremitting exertions procured the necessary materials and erected a temporary building to shelter the works. All was completed within five days, (the furnace not having been "injured,) and the workmen with glad hearts resumed their labors. The loss sustained, except that caused by suspension, was nemly covered by insurance. It is Mr. W's intention to creet a new factory, combining all the recent improvements, during the next senson. Injustice. - The discounts which the man of business is obliged to make in transacting his concerns, especially during the present pressure of the money market, are frequently oncrous and oppressive: but that the laboring man should experience similar losses in the expenditure of his hard-earned wages, at a time when provisions are so dear, is absolutely shanieful." A dollar always ought to bring the equivalent of one hundred cents; but in process of making change, how often does a shilling pass for twelve cents, and a sixpence for six cents, thereby subjecting the purchasfor to a discount of four cents on the dollar .-If a man therefore by hard work earns $10 per-week, forty cents of it often disappear in this way, without the shadow of an equivalent. It is the duty of Congress entirely to suppress the circulation of the Spanish currency among. use and confine the circulating medium to our own: which contains none of these ruinous fractions. Then let grocers and all others be required to sell their commodities for so many dollars or cents, and let the word pence sink to its merited oblivion .- Newark Daily.

SALE OF PUBLIC LANDS.

We find the following statement of the amount of Lands sold by the Government, in .a letter to the Baltimore Sun. The writer, no doubt, has been favored with a perusal of the Report of the Land Office about to be submitted to Congress.

The General Land office has done a big business during the past fiscal year. About 9.500.000 acres have been surveyed, and of these 7.000,000 have brought into market, which vielded a revenue of nine millions two hundred and fifty thousand dollars in round numbers. This shows to what extraordinary extent speculations in lands and real estate generally, have been carried on the past season, and explains in a measure the tightness of the money market in the Western States. alogy that the dry-goods men in the Eastern

For the West Jersey Pioneer. CAPE MAY COURT HOUSE, Nov. 25, 1854 OUR SCHOOL

To the Editor of the West Jersey Plonter. In the reign of Richard the Second, the men of England, potitioned that the boring men's son, should not be allowed to attend school. Education was then thought something too sacred for common people, and for common purposes. In our time we think our institutions, and our happiness depend upon the education of the masses. The wealthy are taxed that the poor may be educated.— Our leading men are the sons of the laboring men, and our brightest minds are found in the raughest families. The poor boy of to day is expected to be the rich man, of a few years hence. The ragged youth is quite as likely to be our leading statesman, as any other, for our best schools are our common schools. These facts are now just beginning to be noticed, for the fruits of our high schools are now ripening. At first we found the youths which had been educated in the free schools, in our counting houses, and shops, as apprentices, they are now the Presidents of Banks, Insurance Companies, Rail Roads, the Direc-Its Circulation, (in the County,) is nearly double tors of Institutions, Governors of States and at the head of our nation. It there are any who doubt these things, let them examine the catalogue of the High Schools of Philadelphia, of ten years ago, and compare the names with those who are now figuring on the top round of the ladder of fame.

Inquire of Millard Fillmore who he was and where he was found in his youth. Inquire who to-day are the truly great men of this great nation. Are they not generally the pcor boys of a few yeurs ago? Go into the U. from whence they came, and how, and by whom, they were educated.

What would be thought of a petition to our U. States Government to ctop the education of the laboring man's son and who would be

These reflections passed hurriedly through my mind the other day as I attended our school examination. As it has been rarely my pleasure to witness so gratifying a sight, were gathered about 40 or 50 little boys and girls dressed for the occasion in their country cut clothes, all clean as new pins, but as brown as the nuts they have been lately gathering. Before me stood the teacher and behind him. hung the map of the U. States, and a large black board. Presently after the very little ones had said their lessons in spelling and reading, and we had had a song by way of recreation, the class in Mathematics was called out, a little fellow of about ten years. with a smile upon his blooming, rosy face walked boldly to the board, and with the rubber cleaned it for his task which was now to commence. He was asked to solve a sum in a difficult part of Algebra, and now commenced the rattling of the chalk which none could have made, save one who had confidence in he answer announced. Another was given a little harder and I supposed he would be stuck, as we used to say in childhood. But he was equal to his teacher's expectations, it was done with the same case and rapidity as the first. He then explained all his work and took his seat. This child was so little that he could only reach the board by standing well be prouder of him, than if he were mine than the whig party. Our adopted citizens, almost and another were given her, but all were done it is in consequence of their votes, that the alike with the same ease.

COMMERCE.

There is abroad in the world at the present day a very general expectation that great moral and political changes are near at hand. A better day is coming. Yet the nations, we believe, are first to be shaken to their very centre. Civil revolutions and moral commo tions such as the world has never before seen, shall seem to throw all back to chaos. But, as preliminary to this, and in an important sense contributing to it, and especially and Religion must be proportionably augmented, and the principles and institions of civil and religious freedom must be under steamship line for their own ships.

This state of things has been mainly caused legitimate consequences of an extensive commerce. At least, these are results which folfavored by, the operations of international

It is no more than justice between man and man, that some reform in this matter should be effected. It ridiculous, that apples, potatoes and the various roots, truits and vegetables sold in the market, should be said to be measured, when the vessel in which they are dealt out; is filled full, and the number to be placed on the top is guessed at. Take for instance the ordinary peck and half-peck measures, used by dealers in the form of the frustrum of a cone, one upon one side, and one upon the other. It is plainly to be seen that us the mouth of the one extends ontwardly and that of the other is drawn inwardly, much more in proportion may be made to lie upon the broad mouth than upon the narrow one. This may be considered, and is but a trifling matter when confined to the single half-peck, but when bushels and scores of bushels are considered, the aggregate is by no means trifling. And it will also be seen that the loss falls entirely on the poorer classes, who from necessity must procure these things in the smallest quantities. There would however be no necessity for legislation upon the subject, if dealerswho have it in their power-would take the matter in hand. If they would both buy
