IT SNOWS. BY MRS. SARAH S. SOCWELL.

It Snows! and lips are wreathed in smiles, And rosy cheeks are glowing, And young hearts throb with glad delight,

For Ol at last 'tis snowing! It snows, and brighter flash the eyes Of each fair village maiden, And visions float before her mind, Of gliding sleighs well laden.

It snows! and toys are tossed away-This is no time for playing; And merry voices gaily cry, O, we shall go a-sleighing!

It snowe! and troops of noisy boys From school are homeward hierng, With laugh and shout and glad hurrah, And snow-balls thickly flying.

It snows! it snows! and youthful hearts Are filled with joy and gladuess-Would that the snows of wintry age Could know as little sadness! Shiloh, Dec. 1854.

following impromptu lines as a counterpart to those published from the Country Gentleman. It Snows-(The other side.)

BY MRS. JENNIE D. DEWITT.

It snows! and mournful sighs are breathed, And bitter tears are flowing, And aching hearts grow chill with dread. For oh! alas 'tis showing! e.

It snows! and little tender babes Must weep, and starve and shiver: Fair blossoms! cast so soon away On sorrows restless river!

It snows! and hunger's iron palm With firmer grasp is closing About the hearts where want and care, Grim spectres are reposing.

And some young cheeks are flushing, A bitter wail from lowly hearths, On the wintry wind is rushing.

It snows! and merrily go the bells, And voices ring with gladness! Oh! can ye not carry sunlight there, To the homes so full of sadness? Belleville, N. J., Feb. 8, 1855.

From the Newark Mercury. Americanism - What is it.

Every nation which has had a history worth recording, has had a prominent idea lying at the base, of its institutions, and almost insensibly governing its policy. This was not only true of Rome, but is also true of modern nationalities. Russia has Ler great idea, the ran with natural instinct to the water, and principle of expansion. France in military lory, and England in commercial and colonial greatness, supported by naval superiority. In the United States we have a spirit jealous of the principles upon which the government was founded, and thus Americanism takes the form of an educated and enlightened support of that civil and religious liberty upon which the superstructure rests. The foreign ele-ments which have of late years attempted to control our political policy, have been without any appreciation of our true national characteristic, and the present American movement s but an outbreak which will bring back the government to its original idea.

We presume that no intelligent man can ook back upon the political history of the last thirty years without acknowledging that there is a necessity for the movement now in progress. In almost ali our States, the popular suffrage has been corrupted, so that it no longer represents the popular will. Crowds of voters throng at our polls, iguorant alike of our language and institutious, to carry out he of some political demagogue. Holding the balance of power, the leaders of this vote claim to make terms with the great political parties of the country. The people have looked on this condition of things with distrust, until silently and secretly they have risen in their might to restore the policy of the government to its original aim and purpose. This is the whole design of the American movement, and when its great object is accomplished, it will naturally retire back among the people from which it sprang into Church on that day? Yes! will be sustained free from sectarian influences-our ideas of liberty will be governed by the sanctity of law-and all this will be the esult of that intelligent and active principle which lies at the base of our institutions, and which only needs to be called into action to on Sunday? ### A GOOSE STORY.

At the mills of Tubbenakeena, near Clon-mel, Ireland, while in the possession of the late Mrs. Newbold, there was a goose which, by some accident, was left solitary without mate or offspring, gander or gosling.

Now, it happened, as is common, that the miller's wife set a number of duck's eggs under a hen, which in due course became ducklings. As soon as they came forth, they the hen was in a bad pucker, her maternity urging her to follow the brood, and her sel-fishness disposing her to stop on dry land.— In the meanwhile up sailed the goose, and with a noisy gabble, which (being interpreted) meant leave them to my care, she swam up and down with the ducklings: and when they were tired of their aquatic excursion, she consigned them to the care of the hen. The next morning down came the ducklings to the pond, and there stood the hen in great flustration. On this occasion we are not at all sure that the goose invited the hen, observing her maternal trouble, but it is a fact that she being near the shore, the hen jumped on her back and there sat, and the ducklings swimming, and the goose and hen after them, up and down the pond. And this was not a solitary event. Day by day the hen was seen on board the goose, attending the ducklings up and down in perfect contentedness and good humor, numbers of people coming to witness the circumstance, which continued until the ducklings coming to the days of discretion, required no longer the joint guardianship of goose and hen.

BRIDGETON: Saturday Morning, Feb. 17. CIRCULATION 1300 Omly $1 00 per Year!

WHO IS OUR NEIGHBOR?

Occasionally we see the true churacter of the "Chronicle" eking out in short editorials. and the sympathetic appeals of a wilted sheet craving to be brought into notice by those who ought not to be its friends. Accusations, false and rash are made, dark as its sanctum and poisonous as its boasted contents, are put forth to deceive the unwary. Win cing epithets, such as only would come from the justly jaded advocate of the powers of darkness, are hurled in wild profusion from a pen dipped in its native element, showing a brain racked by midnight revel, are to be found pointing out the author. More lengthy effusions may be found, filehed from the moral literature of past days, intended to cover the cloven foot, served up as original, in the columns of that sheet. Well may it be called a heterogeneous compound, which circulates where no other paper does, for if we were to tell our friends, the FACT that in the townships of Greenwich, Hopewell, Stoe Creek, Fairfield, Downe, Maurice River and Millsille, two hundred of this compound, cannot whether they deserve help. The "Camden Democrat," we observe, has made copious extracts from the "Bridgeton spirits in their sanctums. The Liquor Trade is exalted, in the highest terms, and the " Editor of the Chronicle," sanctioned by the "Democrat," remarks:-" We shall adjourn joining the Sonneys at present until this Wine is gone. If our Maine Law friends, (we presume this is intended for Sons of Temperance who support such Establishments,) wish to try this Wine, they can have a private place in our Sanctum, where no eye can see

Yet, we are glad to find that the "Editor of the Democrat" when he comes to himself. thus humbly makes amends for the error he has committed: -- "The serious indisposition rial matter, and of due care in the selections for the present number of the Democrat."

And we shall not be surprised to see the "Chronicle" repeat their exultations, thus:-"The "Pioneer" has again hurled one of its insignificant, harmless shafts at us. Its bers, and we think their list is getting pruned so close the roots are decaying.

It is amusing if not edifying, to see what a variety of shape envy assumes to vent its uneasiness. Since our commencement with the sent. Chronicle, it has been our fortune, (good or bad) to be assailed by a train of scurrilous and ill-natured attacks by that sheet. It seems to follow us so, exactly in proportion to the success which attends us, that we have half a mind to stop the mouth of envy by keeping the evidence of our growing prosperity to our-selves. Nothing feeds that wicked passion more than the happiness of others. And what occasion would it have to vent its bitter spleen were we to tell our friends that within a space but little exceeding two months we have had an accession to our list of over one hundred subscribers."

No doubt when the actor, the author, the EDITOR, the doctor, the lawyer, the divine, the merchant, the man of leisure, and the we were much pleased and we trust edified sonney, all drink Middleton's liquors," there with the exercises of the day. For the West Jersey Pioneer. REMEMBER THE POOR.

Bridgeton is perhaps as free from poverty, lestitution and suffering, as any town of the ame amount of population in the Union, owng to the industrious, temperate and economical habits of her citizens, many of whom are members of some one or more of the various Beneficial Societies, Sons of Temperance Odd Fellows, Mechanic's Association, and various other similar institutions, whose laws and regulations inculcate and enforce principles and habits of Industry and Temperance, and provide for the necessities of their members when sick, or disabled. As a consequence of this mode of saving a little of their monthly carnings, many persons have been enabled to procure a comfortable house and home, and lay up a little to meet the necessities of the present pinching times. Unfortunately it is not so with others, whose improvidence, indolence, and in some cases intemperance, have reduced their families to a state of destitution, during the present extremely inclement winter, which has rendered it necessary that immediate assistance must be had to prevent greater sufferings.

There is poverty and suffering in our town -there are poor widows, wives and children in destitute circumstances, some upon sic beds, and perhaps not very far from your door gentle reader, whose supply of provisions and the necessaries of life are scarcely sufficient to last from day to day, with no means of replenishing their store, except from the charities of the public, who had it not been for the kindness of the benevolent, administered, either personally, or through the agency of that noble institution, the Female Benevolent Society, there sufferings would now be intense, but by the aid received from this society, sad hearts have been made glad, and shivering widows and wives and children have been made comfortable. I would appeal to those of our happy citi zens in the enjoyment of comfortable homes. bright fires, warm clothing, comfortable lodgings, and tables spread with abundance, to remember the poor. Search out and visit a few of these destitute families, and poor widows, and contribute a little of your abundance -or if you prefer it, you may safely confide your charities in the hands of those kind hearted Ladies of the Female Benevolent Society, who have for years been the unostentatious almoners of the few of our charitable citizens who have chosen this medium of benevolence.

When persons are actually in want, and must be assisted, it is not the time to inquire, us is are they suffering. Can we help them!

It was organized by a number of Ladies belonging to the Presbyterian church of this town, in Oct. 1828, to aid the sick and suffering poor, and has continued its operations up to the present time. It now embraces members from all the different religious societies, and extends its charities among all denominations, as circumstances require. During the last 8 years they have distributed various articles of food, clothing, and fuel to the amount of $398 47. The present winter 30 families have been assisted by the distributors of fuel, food and tribute money. There are but few matters before our Leg islature at the present of special interest to this section of the State, and they have not progressed far enough, to allow any decisive report upon them.

Mr. Harris has given notice in the House, of a bill for the protection of mechanics and laborers, the object of which is to give a preference to the claims of employees, over those of all other creditors.

Ritter's Compound Syrup of Tar & Wild Cherry. I S the safest, cheapest, and best of all Cough Medicines now in use. Of this fact a single trial will convince the most skeptical. It contains no mineral or narcotic ingredients, and causes no inconvenience during its administration; is very palatable, will be taken freely by the youngest children, and will afford instant relief in croup and whooping cough, if given according to the directions. A few doses will allay the irritation of the bronchial tube, incident to cough and sore threat, and by removing the cause will in a short time produce the effect desired-a permanent cure.-One bottle, the price of which is 25 cents, will in nearly every instance cure a cough, however in eterate and of however long standing.
