For the West Jersey Pioneer. LITTLE CHARLEY.

Little Charley, nevermore Can we see thy happy face. Never mark with eager love Every winning childish grace. Little Charley nevermore Can we hear thy joyous glee, Or thy laughter ringing out Like clear music, glad and free. Never, pattering o'er the floor Can we hear thy little feet, Or the lisping, half-formed words,

To thy mother's ear so sweet. She can lay thee nevermore In thy little bed to rest. Or, when wearied with thy play, Hush the gently on her breast. Little Charley, burning tears Fall like rain upon thy brow-

Thou art with the angels now. Little Charley, aching hearts Bear thee sadly to the tomb, Sorrow darkly veils our souls With a pall of cheerless gloom. Little Charley, we are sad,

And our hearts with grief are riven; But through darkness gleams a light Erightly from the glorious heaven. For the holy Saviour said .. Little children come to me;

And we feel 'mid grief and terrs, He lath kindly taken ther. Now upon thy spirit pure Earthly stain can never rest, Sin and sorrow, pain and tears, Enter not the Land of Rest.

Mourning mother, lift thine eyes To the High and Holy One, Who hath taken thy child to dwell In the shadow of his throne.

WINTER AND SPRING

Winter is passing rapidly from us. In a little while March will be upon us, with the tears if not the smiles of Spring. Winter has not been as cheerful as has been its wont In the olden time, it brought merry re-unions cheerful firesides, "glorious sleigh-rides,' and marriages innumerable as the result thereof. But it has been different in 1854-.5. The cry of "Hard Times" has rung like a dirge through the land, and the shadows of great calamities have lain upon the nation. Houses that all summer long, even when the pestilence walked abroad, were bright and happy, have become suddenly dark; and even where plenty has spread its feast, there has been less of hearty joy than formerly. Still, Winter has not been entirely dark, nor wholly profitless. It has taught us many great and sober lessons—lessons that will make us Seek wisdom, strength and virtue on a farm." better for the future-stronger and more patient in our daily duties than we would have men in and about New York city expecting skipping on the hills."

It illustrates almost the idolutrous devotion with which the great statesman was regarded by many of the people of Massachusetts. Mr. W. bought a portion of his Marshfield estate from a Mr. Thomas, a plain farmer and fisherman, but shrewd and well informed. They afterwards became very intimate, and Thomas subscribed for the Intelligencer to read the speeches of his friend. One day along came Col. Hayne's speech on Foote's resolution. Thomas read it by his fireside one winter's afternoon, and when he got through, folded the paper up and said, "Boys pull off my boots, I am going to bed; Daniel has been used up; he will never come home; and I had about as lief die as not: pull off my boots." The old man was as good as his word, he kept his chamber for days in the deepest dejection, for his ideal man-his human idol-was, as he supposed, prostrated forever. Days passed on, when one day the Intelligencer arrived, bringing Mr. Webster's reply; the oldest boy, then a young man of twenty, now himself grey-headed, read the speech in reply, before taking it up to his father, after which he carried it up stairs. "Take it away," said the old man, "I can't read it, and I won't; take it away!" The boy placed the paper on the table and left. The old man crawled towards it after a last word was read, when a loud call was turned not til every fireside within a circuit

Wo don't believe a word of it! The objections which some ladies pretend to have to whiskers all arise from envy. They don't have any. They would if they could, but the fact is the continual motion of the lower jaw is fatal to their growth. The ladies-God bless them!-adopt our fashion as far as they can. Look at the depredations the dear creatures have committed on our wardrobe. during the last few years. They have appropriated our shirt bosoms, gold studds and all. They have encircled their soft, bewitching necks in our standing collars and cravats -driving us men to flatties and turn-downs. Their innecent little hearts have been palpitating in the inside of our waistcoats, instead of thumping against the outside, as was naturally intended.

They have thrust their pretty feet and ancles through our unmentionables-unwhisperables-unthink-a-boutables-in short, as Micawber would say, breeches. And they are skipping along the streets in our heeled boots. Do you hear, gentlemen? we say boots!

It will be our constant aim, to make the Pioneer a welcome visiter in the family circle, and a retailer of the general local mattors of this and Cape May Counties, as well as a condenser of the general topics agitating our country and the old world.

Having a number of excellent contributors and other facilities of a desirable character, we feel well assured, that the Pioneer will continue to expand in its influence on the R. D. Bateman's Store 21, Single 25, making general welfare of the community.

We have thus briefly talked the matter over and shall now proceed to action.

CHANGE.

Start not kind reader at the above caption, it is not our intention at this time to make an appeal to you for a portion of that desirable commodity, which in these hard times is so scarce an article, but merely to announce that a change has taken place, not in the course of to you is, that the PIONEER, or at least one half of it, has "changed hands," or in fact, been sold, and will hereafter be published by F. & J. B. Ferguson. Although we may munity is infected with some loathsome charoccasionally try our hand in the editorial de- acter, who justly merits the odious name of partment, yet there are other duties and re- | slanderer, and our cotemporary justly desponsibilities connected with the publishing to occupy our time otherwise. While we are engaged with the mechanical part of the work the editorial department will not be neglected. The services of our Assistant Editor, whose ability and experience amply qualify him for the arduous duties devolving upon him, we are pleased to say, will be continued as heretofore, and all subjects either of State or National policy, together with such information as will be interesting to Jerseymen, (and Jersey Ladies too) and especially those of the lower counties, will be attended to by him. The change above alluded to will make no alteration in the character of the PIONEER, yet we hope it may add to its value. We will endeavor, if possible, to improve the typographical appearance of the paper, which already sustains the reputation of being one of the best in the State.

Our list of exchange papers is such as to enable us to select articles of the most useful and entertaining character, and as the principal part of this duty will devolve upon us, we will endeavor so to discharge it, as to suit the various tastes of our numerous readers, avoiding anything of an immoral tendency, calculated to corrupt the minds of youthful readers. We will not pander to the depraved appetite of any one at so great a sacrifice.

A continuation of the contributions of our correspondents is earnestly solicited, and we should be pleased to hear from them more frequently. Any items of local news, interesting to our readers, will be thankfully received, whether written grammatically or ungrammatically. Send along the facts and we'll grammatise them to suit our fancy.

In conclusion, we would say, the Pioneer will continue to be an independent family journal, devoted to the diffusion of Morality, Education, Agriculture, Temperance, Foreign and Domestic Intelligence, and the interests of Cumberland and Cape May Counties in particular. Hoping the above announcement may be satisfactory to the patrons of the Pioneer, we subscribe ourself

Do You give it Up?

At times we have been inclined to allow the "Chronicle" to pursue its characterisdetermination that, the producers of such ague and insinuating compounds, should be held in their proper light, in a community so noted for its moral tone, as ours.

This is not the first assault which has been nade upon us, when fulfilling our duty, fearlessly, to force us, by low insinuating epithets, from that duty.

We have, at times, yielded to what we considered the better judgment of a calm lookeron; but, the series which has been in progress for the last few months, remind us of the fater another fastened upon him, and ere he was aware, they had him tied too firmly for extrication. We have taken warning and do not intend to be thus passive, allowing our opponents to close our mouth and tie our hands:-therefore, we thus snap the cords that would bind us: We have read the history of "Annanias and Saphira;" yet, that will Has a Circulation of at least 300 more than any not apply, in truth, to the "Sabbath School money."

That we did remove the "Chronicles" from the spot on which they laid, at the Hotel, and placed them carefully back again, (in the presence of a witness,) we do not denyand what was the result? Why we found, for Lower Greenwich 10 papers, Upper Greenwich 9, Roadstown 9, Shiloh 17, Millville 18, rence 4, Dr. B. R. Bateman 6, Gale's Store all-174. At the Post Office we could only reputation by shouting 'infidel' at guess at the number, by the bulk, which was rather small, save in the Philadelphia Mail. In contrast the "Pioneer" has at Lower Greenwich 38, Upper Greenwich 26, Roadstown 33, Shiloh 52, Millville 64, Port Elizabeth 28, Mauricetown, 28, Bricksboro' 3, Dorehester 5, Leesburg 4, Dennis Creek 14, Court House 20 and Cold Springs 7; Swing and Tomlinson's, Fairton 56, W. Danzenbaker 4, Dr. B. R. Bateman 9, Gales Store 32, in all-469. At other places of deposit, we another removal may reveal. Thus we put to blush this libelious scandal! The anonymous extract of a letter published in the last "Chronicle," we pronounce false, and charge it so upon the author, if tor allows the above, and other similar rethere be one, and class him, for the present, | marks, to pass without taking the least excep with the other spiders.

We certainly expect to part company with both Editor and Proprietor of the Chronicle, that he cordially endorses them. He may, nature; for, as you are aware, she is a fickle and their accomplices, unless they take heed dame, always changing, "changeable as the to the warnings of their Bible, and fall in wind." The announcement we would make with offered mercy:-they may there see, that

"While the lamp holds out to burn, The vilest sinner may return."

Yes! Mr. Chronicle, "Nearly every comserves the name. Shame is so deeply rooted business, sufficient in number and importance, and seated in his conscience, that a blush is a stranger to his hardened cheek."

If the Editor and the Proprietor of the "Chronicle" are to be the authors of the promised "Biography," assisted by their associated lady friend in this category, we suggest, (as it will not be in time for the first edition,) to furnish a stray letter or 2 as the authors' preface-which, if we are not mistaken, will call forth a blush from the prostituted, though they may be on Ireland's Terrv-firma.

We will close, for the present, hoping that we shall be spared any further exposition of this hydra fiend.

For the West Jersey Pioneer. Whom the gods wish to destroy they first make mad.

MR. EDITOR:-A short time since, Bishop Potter of New York, attended a Church Anniversary at Montreal, and in a public address, took occasion to express in very decided terms, his sympathy with the allied armies now engaged in the Eastern War. In expressing that sympathy, he denied that the newspapers of this country were the true reflectors of the public sentiment in regard to the war, and affirmed, that if the people of Canada wished to understand what the public sentiment of this country was touching that question, they must not search for it in the newspapers, but must go to the educated men-the Clergy of the Church, and to those who studied Shakespeare, Milton, and Hooker. Now to all this the press greatly demured; it elicited comment and dissent from nearly all the journals in the land, and by this time, no doubt, the public mind has settled down in the belief that Bishop Potter was mistaken, and that the newspapers of the only in regard to the Eastern War, but respecting matters in general, moral as well as

For the West Jersey Pioneer.

Mr. Editor:- In the last number of the Pioneer I noticed a communication from "Phi lomath" suggesting the propriety of our tak ing a stand along side of our " sister counties," voutly, it is, that the intolerance and bigotry on the subject of education and the means necessary for its proper growth.

Ever since the subject has been agitated round us I have wondered within myself; where is Old "Cumberland?" Why has not some effort been made by her worthy citizens to give us a "Teachers Institute?" She can have her 'Agricultural meetings,' Fairs,' and 'Farmers' Clubs,' yet on the subject which relates to the proper training of the young, and the training of those, who have taken upon themselves the responsibility of "teaching the young Idea how to shoot,"

Why is this? does not the mind-immortal mind need as much cultivating as the soil? Is it not necessary that the cultivators should meet together, consult and devise means, to obtain the greatest amount of mental advantage, afrom the smallest efforts? or in other words is it not necessary for teachers to meet together, consult and adopt such plans by which the greatest good can be obtained by

An Institute we need-a place where teachindeed, justify their publication in his col- ers can meet together, take each other by the umns, in the same way in which a certain hand, and bid one another "Good speed" in the noble work of teaching.

I for one acknowledge that I "have not arrived at that point of excellence which can not be exceeded." But what is to be done? I can't do anything--who can? Fellow Teachers! Friends of Education throughout our noble county, will you not take hold of this work? and assist us in procuring what we pressingly need! Let the necessary steps be and right, they must see that in pursuing the taken to give us a "Teachers' Institute," and course adopted by them, they are inflicting a that "right soon." What say our Cape May moral wrong upon the community which it friends?

It is not worth while for me to speak of the advantage of fostering education in preserving our free Institutions; enough is said by abler pens to prove this to all. But as an humble teacher I am anxious in every possible way to advance the cause of Education, and I believe an "Institute" would be an effectual means. In conclusion let me add the words of the Father of our country," at the sound of whose name the blood in our veins ought to flow with new impulse.

"Promote, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge. In proportion as the structure of government gives place to public opinion, it should be enlightened."

Debate on the Prohibitory Law.

In the Senate of New Jersey, Thursday, Feb. 22, '55. The "Act for the Suppression of Intemperance," being taken up on its final passage, Senator Howell of Cumberland, took the floor and spoke as follows:-

Mr. President:-This sir, is a question of the Senate since I have been honored with a tor here has ever had before him a question of such vital importance to the inhabitants of our State as that which now devolves upon -for the House of Assembly having passed this bill, it remains for us to say whether it shall finally become a law. And I in this we stand? Why, sir, we shall be the great place distinctly avow that, with me, this great question is to receive my vote, on its own merits disconnected from any other question whatever. I believe, sir, that every Senator him. May we sir, fearlessly discharge our duty to our country, our consciences and our

We believe the people ask the passage of this law. The petitioners, three years ago, amounted to near sixty thousand. Of these, more than twenty thousand were male voters of our State-the balance were females and muors. Such a number of petitioners is unheard of in the annals of our State. Some contend that a large portion were women and of public sentiment. But, sir, have they no an enemy that dares attack us either openly and dearest interests at stake-because they perance, and who, individually, and as men, are sufferers, helpless and innocent sufferers, are in favor of this law, but who, as Senators, from this fatal and fearful evil. Their hushusbands, leaving them to wear themselves say to them that this is a great moral evilaway with labor, care and toil, in supporting that it is in-leed an evil and only evil and that and are, constantly brought to a state of privation, misery and starvation through this within its grasp every county of our State. they are at all times exposed to this danger, come here and humbly petition the Legislature to put this enemy to their peace out of the way of those they love. I ask you, Senaters, if these the mothers, sons and daughters of New Jersey are not worthy to be heard? Should not the prayers of these petitioners have been responded to these, whose usefulness, whose happiness was at stake? and yet, sir, the Legislature to whom this petition was presented-this extraordinary and unheard of petition-I say, sir, that Legislature spurned it, and, if report says true, disgraced themselves and the state of New Jersey by breaking up in a disorderly manner, on account of having imbibed too large an amount of that baneful beverage they had been petitioned to prohibit.
