For the West Jersey Pioneer. LITTLE SALLIE.

BY S. S. SOCWELL.

Little Sallie, thou art sleeping Quietly within the tomb, And the hearts that dearly loved thee, Now are filled with grief and gloom.

In thy home no voice of gladness Rings out in its childish glee; Those who cherished thee are childless, Since they looked their last on thee.

Bitter tears have fallen o'er thee, From the heart's full fountain shed; But in vain is grief or weeping

Since thou 'rt numbered with the dead. Sad and lonely is thy mother, Bowed with mounfulness and care, [thee

Since death's chilling hand hath touched Little blossom, pure and fair. She will miss the, little Sallie,

In the rosy morning hours, And when dew rests on the flowers. In the stilly hours of midnight, She will start from troubled sleep,

And as thoughts of thee came o'er her, She will bow her head and weep. But we feel that God in mercy. Hath removed thee from thy home,

To a land of light and splendor, Where no blight can ever come. Though the clouds may lower darkly, They are lined with silvery light;

And we feel in our deep sorrow, That God doeth all things right.

For the West Jersey Pioneer.

CAMDEN March 6, 1855. MESSRS. EDITORS: - Death, the enemy of the human family is not in the least backward in its fearful work, it cares not for the cry of unprepared subject, it takes delight in seeing the look of despair that marks the countenance of the dying sinner, the agonizing groans are sweet music to its ear. Death comes along as a thief in the night, he feels for the heart strings of the poor sinner, while Satan-stands in the back ground on the verge of the sinners grave and trembles as he hears through fifty languages, even if I could learn his expected victim cry "God be merciful to as many." me a sinner," he waits patiently, his grim visage is lighted up with horid satisfaction mingled with fear, lest that sinner should be of the Almighty.

Death seeks and finds an entrance into Christian families, but here he is met differently, smiles light up the face of the departing Christian, he fears not, he puts his trust in him who "gained the victory over death," he fears not to enter into eternity, he knows that, " for him to die is gain" and as he takes his last long farewell of those that are bound to him by the strong cords of love and friendship he wonders if he will meet and recognize them in that "house not made with hands eternal in the heavens" and will he recognize them there. I answer yes, and the bible will bear be up in my allegation .-Christ said to the dying thief on the Cross "To day shalt thou be with me in Paradise" asserting thereby, not only to insure the penitent thief a place in Paradise, but assured him that he, Christ," would meet and recognize him there.

The Christian family which is disturbed from its quietness on earth by death, will be re-united in heaven there to dwell through endless ages in each other's society, amid the glorious scenes of the heavenly kingdom .-Christian brothers and sisters will greet each other with glad rejoicing, the wife will welcome home, him, who was once her husband the mother will clasp her child in her arms with heavenly affection, and the whole Christian family will gather with the myriads of the "redeemed of the Lord" around the form of "Him who sitteth upon the throne" with one united song of praise.

Franklin opened it not without considerable agitation, and read as follows:-

"G. Burnet's compliments await young Mr. Franklin, and should be glad of half an hour's chat with him."

"G. Burnet," said Ben, "who can that be?" see him, with some letters I brought for him from Boston. And when I told him what a world of books you have, he expressed curiosity to see you, and begged I would return with you to his palace."

Ben instantly set off with the captain, but not without a sigh as he cast a look at the door of poor Collins' bed room, to think what an honor that wretched young man had lost for the sake of two or three drinks of filth

The Governor's looks at the approach of Ben, plainly showed a disappointment. He had, it seems, expected considerable entertainment from Ben's conversation. But his fresh and ruddy countenance showed him so than ordinary scholars would find in him after than ordinary scholars would find the scholars would find much younger than he had expected, that he forty years' study of the Greek. At this, the governor, regarding him with a look of surprise, said—

What, not Latin nor Greek?" "No, sir, not a word of either."

"Why, sir, it was my misfortune never to be at a college, or even a grammar school, except nine months, when I was a child." Here the governor sprang from his seat, and staring at Ben, cried out:

"Never at a college! Well, and wherewhere did you get your education, pray?"
"At home, sir, in a tallow-chandler's shop." "In a tallow-chandler's shop!" screame the governor.

For the West Jersey Pioneer. LETTER FROM A COUNTRY BOY. APE MAY COURT House, March 1, '55.

DEAR WILLIE. - I promised I would write you of the Cow Bunting. This little fellow has not much beauty, is of a dusky brown color, and is found in the summer constantly amongst the cattle, as they feed in the meadows and fields. The cows seem to like to have them about their feet, while they are picking the flies from off their legs.

He is a bird without much character, and probably is the laziest of all in our country; ie builds no nest, has no mate, no song, and appears to have no love for anything except omething good to eat. In the spring, when the other little birds nests. We have others that are sometimes too lazy to build nests of their own, the Cuceggs, therefore I have thought she must in some way prevent the eggs which are with egg should have the entire care of the bird which is to nurse it. The eggs in the nests with hers do not appear to be injured externally, but when I have broken them to find than their mother. I should have told you that I never saw more than one egg of the Cow Bunting in a nest, which is deposited be the lonely way in which she has been brought up, for we are taught education will they are hatched, in fact they generally remain as long as the nest will hold them, where you will see them huddled together until they can almost fly. I have sometimes lifted them out when they were so big that it was impossible to get them back into the hest, nor do I believe the hands of man could pack them again as they were found.

There are some kinds of birds that will quit the nest before the eggshells are hardly er? off their backs, of these the Kill-deer is the most remarkable; they make their nests on the ground and do not seem to want anything softer than the clam shells or pebbles to line them with. I have known the young to quit the nest the very day they were hatched, and on the following day it would have taken a smart boy to have caught them. Sometimes that I will say to myself, well now, I do wonder if this bird is not wounded, then I will chase her till she thinks I am far enough from the nest and little ones, when she will fly as well as any bird, and I will smile at my want of sense. If you should notice one protending, you may look out for the nest or young ones close to you, but you might pass a young Kill-deer a good many times and not notice him, for the mothers will keep them out of the green grass and where the ground is just the color of them. Thus they are protected from the Orows and Hawks, while

It is not every bird that will hatch the Cow Bunting's eggs, for I have found them on the ground beneath the nest, from which kind of a bird's nest to put her eggs in; she must know this to judge how her young are to be fed, and what kind of food they are to be fed upon, for all birds do not feed their young alike or use the same kind of food, some will put it into their mouths whole, others will swallow and then disgorge it, and then again there are others which will fly over the nest and drop the feed into it for all to help them: selves, some feed upon seeds some worms and insects, others fish, mice-eggs and birds .-The Crow feeds her young upon eggs, and you may see her carrying them upon the point of her bill for miles over the fields and meadows for this purpose. The Bunting ests flies only, and I suppose her little ones would starve if they should be hatched by some bird that did not know what to give them, or if he should be nursed by a Fish-hawk, he would be sure to have only a fish for his dinner, or if he should have had the misfortune of being placed in the nest of an Owl or Hen Hawk. he would have only a meadow mouse or a chicken with its feathers on. The Cow Bunting is considered first cousin to the red wing-ed Black bird, but I do not believe he is of the same proud, independent, and brave family. The Red Wing is full of courage, and never did a mean thing, he is faithful to his mate, his nest, his little ones, and believes it best to be honest and true, while with his love and song "He smooths not another's rugged path alone,

But scatters roses to adorn his own."

I will close, regretting to have been compelled to say so much against this little quiet oird, which lives without love and friendship; especially am I sorry to utter so much of aparent unkindness at a season when we should express only good feeling towards all. It is Christmas, and one of the most beautiful days
I ever beheld, the Blue-birds are out, and I hear them chanting their sweet notes, while t is as warm as April and calm as June.

Wishing you every happiness and every blessing, I am, dear Willie, affectionately Yours, &c., HARRY HOLMES.

One word to adventurers in the periodical press. To start a newspaper, or a monthly, is the dream of a crowd of wordly adventurers in politics, literature, law and gospel; but the art of sustaining life in them, is only known by a few, and the secret nobody will receive; each one must learn for himself. But the traveller who passes over the sands of the desert to some favored Mecca, would do well to cast an eye on the whitened bones of the camel, or the half devoured body of the recent victim, and pause. TO OUR READERS. · The Assistant Editor of the Pioneer after having been prevented from visiting familiarly at their fireside, through its columns, the patrons of that paper, now again greets them with his good wishes. He cannot say truly that Richard's himself again, for he still feels too sensibly the effects of prostration purposely until it became necessary to hasten ance and intemperance—from a literal Sucker and pain to attempt much in the way of interesting, instructing or amusing his readers .-Since he has been absent from his post, several things have occurred which he proposes cursorily to notice, and first, the editorial difficulty with our neighbor the Chronicle. We are heartily glad to have been relieved from the necessity of meddling with that business .-Mr. Ferguson chooses to manage the senseless attacks of the Chronicle in his own way-we believe that the uniform and consistent course of the Pioncer in excluding from its columns everything calculated to cast odium, obliquy or ridicule on religious or moral subjects, the tively called for, how it is to be brought about peculiar care exercised by the Editor in his we do not know, but we believe that the man selections, the articles accepted from corres- who will originate and carry through a reform pondents, and in the Editorial, to secure a which will secure the nation from the effects healthy moral character for his paper, would of hasty legislation will deserve the lasting But I am making a long story of a short one. have warranted him in treating the attacks of gratitude of his country. the Chronicle with contemptuous silence. Our State Legislature is still in session. Our readers are aware that the Senate by a vote of 11to 9 rejected the Prohibitory Liquor bill which had passed the Assembly by a large majority. The members of the Assembly, fresh from the ranks of the people, elected very generally with reference directly or indirectly to this subject, are very reasonably supposed to represent the true wishes of the people and their vote when so decided should have influenced the Senate in its action .-They however, were evidently governed by other influences; the known wishes of the voters of several of the counties whose Senators voted against the law would have secured the been prepared to conform to the wishes of had been an intimate of his family, when he grouped by the hearthstone to tell " of those their constituents or listen to the teachings of dereliction of duty. It is supposed that the weight. bill in its original shape may yet find its way it is the continued increase of the temperance grains of morality. influence, and the consequent certainty of a fect immediately, in that no time will be lost by the adverse action of Senators this winter. We would suggest to those Senators who profess to want an expression of the people upon this question previous to legislating on it, to resign and throw themselves again before their constituents as candidates for re-election opposed to Prohibition, when probably those who, like the Senator from Salem, have no taste for public life, might have an opportuni-to stay at home. There are other subjects connected with our Legislative proceedings which we intended to have noticed but find that we cannot yet bring ourself to any systematic effort-we cannot understand the action of the Legislature upon the Bank question-why a section of the State which has enjoyed the privileges and advantages of Banks with which they are satisfied and wish to have continued cannot be gratified we do not understand; if any particular portion of the State prefer the general Banking system, let them enjoy it -if we are more old fashioned and prefer a system which has worked well for forty years and which we are willing still to continue, we ought to have our wishes gratified.

CONGRESS. Since we have been shut out from the active business of the day, the session of Congress of the nation has ended its labors and terminated its existence. As usual a vast amount of business was left unfinished until them through with whatever additions or amendments shrewd managing politicians could get tricked to them in the haste and lowance for the Ocean Steamers was forced through even after having been once vetoed by the President. It is very generally believed that this appropriation was procured by bare-faced bribery and corruption. MESSRS. EDITORS:-The time was, and it instead of lightning. But, e'er this reaches you, the Telegraph will have told what my concerning the result of our recent municipal election. It was held but yesterday, and our citizens have somehow elected a full Know Nothing Ticket. Of course everybody is surprised. The previous excitement, fanned almost into a flame by that portion of the press whose only business seems to have been to breed discord and confusion, at the expense of peace, spread like contagion in the early morning, and many looked for an outbreak to occur before the closing of the polls at six P. M. Flaming handbills denouncing the candidates of either party were posted conspicuously, and cursings came from the mouths of whiskey-odor'd groups by every corner and before each second class Saloon. Two or three of the dailies having sprung a leakage, spread the news of "Sam's" whereabouts and the last day of the Session. One thing alone perhaps availed as much as could be to keep the blustering million from an outbreak. This was the closing of all the German Lager Beer saloons in town. Early in the morning a card at each of their doors told that they were closed, for one day at least. And all this was said in one little word-" Shut." The sun shines sweetly, mildly and meltingly to clear our streets of a six weeks' snow. Yet we have still to look for the bleak and blustry winds of March. Our Springs are usually "backward." We rarely have settled weather before May. The river is still frozen, and navigation icebound. A few more days will, it is thought, probably set our vessels afloat, and then for a busy season. The tide of travel is already immense. Every hotel and boarding-house crammed already, and no room for the thousand-and-one strangers arriving almost hourly by the regular trains. ### Greenwich, March 10, 1855,-3m. BARBER'S New Jersey Combined Mowing and Reading MACHINE.

THIS Machine is simple, of light draught and not liable to get out of order and will cut all kinds or Grain and Grass equally as well as any other Combined machine ever in this region. It is so constructed, that all side draught, (which is so great in most Machines as to require three, and ome machines four horses to do the work of two) is cutirely overcome and seldom, if ever requiring but two horses in any kind of grain or grass.

An Extra Platform is so constructed, that the avels can be laid at the side, entirely clear, when the Machine comes around and chviates the ne-essity of binding after it. This Machine has been tested the last harvest by a number of practical Farmers and quite sufficient to prove its complete adaptation to Mowing as well as Reaping. It is so constructed, that it can be changed in twenty minutes into a Mowing Machine, and then again altered back for Resp ing, in the same time. It leaves the stubble from twelve to fourteen inches high. With this Machine you can mow an acre per hour, the whole day, though with but two herses, and with the same case for the team, as ploughing; is warranted to cut Salt Grass equally as well as Fresh, and work as well in the Salt Marsh as These Machines are Manufactured at Bridgeton, by the subscriber, where all Repairs can be done at Short Notice. An extra knife, with each Bed Persons wishing to purchase, can appl to the subscriber, at Bridgeton, personally or ROBERT BARBER.

A Week Later from California

The steamer Illinois arrived at New York last evening, from Aspinwall, with San Francisco dates to the 17th ult., and $1,161,248

57 in gold. The rains had not fallen in sufficient quantities to help the miners much, but a revival in trade is reported. It is evident, however. that business was very much depressed, and money commands from 3 to 5 per cent. per month. The business houses, with a few exceptions, are said not to be paying current expenses, and many who were considered wealthy, are deprived of large parts of their in- cut in wearing. Store-keepers supplied with comes by the general depression. Stores, dweilings, &c., are let in great numbers.

The proposition to fund $1,500,000 of the city debt at ten per cent. for 20 years, meets with strong opposition from the tax-payers. It has passed the Board of Assist-ants, but will undoubtedly be lost in the Board of Aldermen. It is thought that 8 per cent. is a sufficiently high rate of in-

The Senatorial question is yet undecided. The 50th ballot had been taken, and resulted in no choice. The vote stood as follows: Gwin 41. Edwards 36, Broderick 12, Roman 15, scattering 5.

Several important bills have been introduced into the Legislature. One of them is to exclude from the mines all persons who are not eligible to citizenship.

A new political party is talked of. The avowed object of this new party seems to be to obtain a larger delegation from the Pacific States to Congress. Oregon and Washington must be organized into States at once; California must be divided and two States made out of her territory: the Sandwich Islands must be annexed, and so must Sonora and as The Treasurer of Alameda County has been robbed of $12,000. The office was ennot yet fastened on the thief.

The reported discovery of gold on Kera river has produced some excitement at San Francisco. In other parts of the State there is a general complaint of the lack of water, and yet many big strikes are recorded. The workmen have broke ground on the Sacramento Valley Railroad; 100 laborers are now at work, and 400 more are to be put on immediately. The Isthmus .- The health of the Isthmus is remarkably good. The cars now pass over the railroad from ocean to ocean regularly in four hours. The Panama Star and Herold, Feb. 27th, says that the passenger tax has been at length disowned by the General Government, and the Attorney-General has pronounced the whole ordinance relative thereto illegal.

A Week Later from Europe.

The steamer Pacific at New York, brings dates to the 27th ult. She arrived at Liverpool on the 23d ult., too late to prepare for sailing on the 24th, her regular day. Her departure was therefore deferred until Tuesday, Feb. 27th.

The Pacific saw a steamship off the Skerries at one o'clock P. M. on the 27th, supposed to be the Africa. The Union arrived off Cowes on the afternoon of the 20th. nd Messrs, Gladstone, Herbert and Graham have resigned from the English Cabinet, no pains will be spared for to give every one en-which has been reconstructed. No important changes were, however, made, except that and see for yourselves. Dont forget to enquire for English's Brick Vard. JAMES ENGLISH. Lord John Russell has been made Colonial Secretary. Joseph Hume is dead. Mr. Roebuck's motion was carried for a ment of the war. This occasioned the retirements from the Cabinet.

The unemployed workmen at Liverpool and London have been engaged in riots, but the weather having changed, and the shipping arriving in great numbers, removed all danger of further trouble.

The distress in England from the severe winter has been very great.

It is officially announced by the allies that in the 19th of February, Gen. Liprardi, with 40,000 Russians and 70 guns, attacked the Turks at Eupatoria, commanded by Omar Pasha. The battle lasted four bours, when the Russians retired with a loss of 500. No change has occurred at Sebastopol. Lord Raglan is reported to have resigned. Lord Bacan has been recalled.

The Vienna Conference will be opened in a few days, and all parties are said to profess anxiety for peace.

Opening of Canal Navigation .- Water will be let into the Pennsylvania canal on Thursday next, March 15th; the New York Canals will not be open until the 20th April or 1st of May. This shows the great advantage our State enjoys in competing for the Western trade, and the carriage of the tonnage of the Lakes. When the Suubury and Erie railroad shall be completed, we shall have all at our command. The Great West has now. a commerce within its own limits, nearly as valuable as that which floats between the United States and Europe. Leaving the Western rivers out of consideration, and confining ourselves merely to the Lakes, we find a tonnage enrolled and licensed at the several American ports, embracing 110 steamers, 97 ing to supply themselves with a good Over Coat or propellers, 33 barques, 101 brigs, 639 schr's. and 216 sloops and scows, making an aggregate of 237,820 tons, valued at $10,185,000. In 1845 the tonnage was only 76,000, valued at $4,600,000. The history of man does not exhibit a spectacle of rapid advancement in population, wealth and industry-such energy persverance and public spirit as is manifested in the progress of the Western people. The application of steam power to the purposes of navigation, forms the brightest era in the history of our country. It is that which has contributed more than any other cause, to the rapid growth of our population, and the almost miraculous developement of our resources. The summary of marine disasters and loss of property on the Lakes from 1848 to 1854 inclusive, shows an aggregate of one thousand five hundred and fifty disasters, and the enormous loss of six millions fifty-four thousand two hundred and twenty-five dollars. Over two millions of the loss occurred in 1854, the long to be remembered year of casualties and catastrophes on land and water.

The President of the N. Y. State Temperance Society has issued a call to the friends of that cause throughout the state, announeing that the liquor law is in danger, and calling upon them to rally at the capital, or if they cannot go, to forward resolutions to their representatives immediately. The bill is lost, he says, unless they rally to its support. - Newark Daily.

Three buildings belonging to Garetshe's Powder establishment, at Wilmington, Del., were blown up on Saturday afternoon last, instantly killing two men and fatally injuring Princeton College Destroyed.—On Saturday night, about 8 o'clock the college building known as "Nassau Hall" was entirely destroyed by fire, the Students losing all their furniture, clothes, &c. Cause unknown .--Loss $50,000; insurance $16,000.

Manufacturer and Inventor of Safety Patent Square Upright Wood Box Matches, No. 106 North Fourth St. (above Race), Philada. MATCHES having become an indispensable article in housekeeping, the subscriber, atter a great sacrifice of time and money, is enabled to offer to the public an article at once combining Utility and Cheapness. The inventor knowing the danger apprehended on account of the flimsy manner in which Matches are generally packed in paper, has by the aid of new steam machinery of his own invention, succeeded in getting up a Safety Patent Square Upright Wood Box; this box is far preferrable, inasmuch that it occupies no more room than the old round wood box, and contains at least Two Hundred per cent more matches, which, to Shippers, is considerable advantage. It is entirely new, and secure against moisture and spon-SUITABLE for the season, which he is enabled taneous combustion, and dispels all danger on transportation by means of railroad, steamboat or any other mode of conveyance. These matches are packed so that one gress or more may be shipped to any part of the world with perfect safety. They are the most desirable article for home consumption, and the Southern and Western markets, that have ever been invented. Dealers and Shippers will do well to call and examine for themselves. These Matches are WARRANTED to be superior to anything heretofore affered to the public.
