t ed; "Where, How and When shall I Die?"

Where shall I die! Shall Death's cold hand Arrest my breath while dear ones stand In silent, watchful love to shed Their tears around my quiet bed? Or shall I meet my final doom Far from my country and my home? Lord to thy will I bend the knee, Thou evermore hast cared for me.

" How shall I die?" Shall Death's harsh voke Subdue me by a single stroke? Or shall my fainting frame sustain he tedious languishing of pain? Sinking in weariness away Slowly and sadly day by day? Lord I repose my cares on Thee Thou evermore hast cared for me.

" When shall I die?" Shall Death's stern call Soon come my spirit to appall? Or shall I live through circling years A pilgrim in this 'Vale of Tears'?' Surviving those I loved the best Who in the "Peaceful Church-yard rest?" Lord I await thy wise decree. Thou evermore hast cared for me. The last summer & an Assiatic malady made ad accessions to the church-yard of New Port. Aged "mothers in Israel" and the "young disciples of Jesus" were alike cut down by death's rude hand and bereaved orphans and the youthful widow and the disconsolate mother, were suddenly called upon part with those most dear to them, and pay to their mortal remains the last sad office of respect and affection. And though they sleep beneath the clods of the valley, they are not forgotten, for many a warm heart lingers around these charnel houses, and many tender mourners wend their way to the little hillocks which mark the resting places of their dear departed friends, to drop a tear, heave a sigh and breathe a prayer;

Ah! then their bosoms heave, their eyes o'erflow With all the widows' love, and all the widows'

I have farcied to myself that these are places, somewhat analogous to the one that inspired "Gray's celebrated Elegy in a Country churchyard," at any rate they are just such places as seem fit to lay our mortal bodies, after the turmoils of life, consummation of all things. The renowned of earth do not slumber here, yet many are the sainted dead who repose here, good and true men and women, who loved and served their God, and lived to more purpose than the wicked Pharaohs who now sleep beneath stupendous pyramids, or cruel conquerors who lie under spendid marble monuments, and whose names are heralded over this wide wide world. "Full many a flower is born to blush unseen and waste its sweetness on the desert air," so many a person is born and lives, almost unknowing and unknown and dies "unberalded, unbonored and unsung," and is buried and forgotten-but not quite forgotten, for in the eyes of the Lord the sainted poor one is "beyond all price," and he shall be " had in everlasting remembrance" by the Omnicient God. BRIDGETON WITHOUT A JUDGE.

The late proceedings of the Joint Meeting will leave Bridgeton and all the west side of Cohansey without a judge for the coming year; the only three judges in the county being Lewis Woodruff, between three and four miles from Pridgeton, and not in a business to be likely to keep him at home so as to be found with any certainty by persons requiring the services of a judge; Mr. Barrett at Fairton and Mr. Stratton at Port Elizabeth. The services of a judge will be frequently required during the year and in almost every instance in Bridgeton; if we mistake not in the settlement of every estate and in much of the business which calls people from distant parts of the county to Bridgeton, it is necessary to have the services of a judge. A man may come some twenty miles and may then find it necessary to go some four or five miles in search of a judge to do his business. We don't know that any of the members from our county assisted in bringing about this state of affairs, we trust they did not, it will be well enough however to inquire, and if it should appear that such was the fact it should be remembered. We have been pleased with the course of the members from our county during the session, and shall be sorry if any one of them has allowed himself to assist in throwing obstacles in the way of the appointment of a judge. We have not yet heard of the proceeding of the joint meeting on Thursday.

OUR LEGISLATURE.

We would have rejoiced if in these days of disgraceful legislative proceedings, our legislature had adjourned without having made itself conspicuous by an exhibition, such as that enacted by it on the occasion of the late joint

The joint meeting for the appointment of various officers throughout the state, has been kept off during the whole session by the power which an accidental circumstance has placed in the flands of a minority; this minority although professing to be democrats, have determined that the democratic principle-that a majority should rule-should be defeated, and that unless the appointments should be made to suit them, no joint meeting should be held; last week however it was agreed by the Senate that a joint meeting should be held.

The joint meeting was accordingly convened, the president of the Senate presiding, and then commenced a scene of factious opposition to the consummation of the business of the meeting which would disgrace an organization of blackguards; the morning was consumed in motions and counter motions, in suggesting difficulties, attempts to adjourn, postpone the nominations and in every effort which could be devised to prevent the business of the meeting from being accomplished. In the afternoon session the same thing was attempted; the inspectors of the State prison and the Directors of the Railroad and Canal Co. were appointed & a judge for Atlantic, but all further appointments were prevented. Mr. Howell. from this county urged the absolute necessity of the appointment of a Judge in this county in vain, and the meeting was adjourned until Thursday of this week.

It is not however all darkness, this very evil will work its good, the friends of temperance in New Jersey are sufficiently numerous if they can be roused into action to put down the evil, and if anything will arouse them it will be the disgrace of having our state made the rendezvous for rum drinkers and rumsel-

POTATOES.—We were one day this week while on a visit to Greenwich, shown by the great Potatoe dealer and producer, SAMUEL C. FITHIAN, a lot of about three thousand bushels of handsome potatoes, not yet sent off to the market; we had no idea that there was that number of potatoes still remaining in the county. When we reflect that potatoes have been commanding a dollar or more a bushel ever since last fall and lately have reached even a dollar and a half, we wonder that the county has not been cleared of every potatoe which could be spared .-Raising potatoes has become a great business in our county, and although it cannot be expected, or desired that prices should continue as they have been, still the business will no doubt continue to be a good and profitable cible destruction of the ballot boxes of two one, and a permanent source of income to our farmers. We are almost afraid that the high | agine. prices obtained for the potatoe at this time will tempt our farmers to sell off their crop so close as to limit them too much in the amount reserved for seed. We presume the proportion of small sized potatoes planted this season will be much greater than usual, and that more attention will be paid to cutting up the potatoe and seperating the eyes-this we think will be a good thing, for we are satisfied that the balance of testimony derived from the numerous experiments of producers is largely in favor of planting small, well formed and perfect potatoes and of judicious cutting ers, prepare your ground well, plant well, and especially manure well; it is of more consequence than may imagine that your ground for a crop of potatoes, should be well broken up and well prepared, it is not enough as many seem to suppose that the ground should be turned over and the potatoe covered; your

RIOTS IN CINCINNATI.—The municipal elections in Cincinnati have been attended with serious riots. The immense foreign population of that city, principally German, has given to the great question now agitating the community, "Shall Americans rule A merica?" a more than ordinary importance. In some of the wards the foreigners are very numerous and can control the elections. In one of these wards it is said that an American. Dr. Bum was so badly beaten by the Germans that he died from the injuries received, it was also said, that illegal voting by the foreigners was largely permitted; the American party organized, took pessession of the polls and burned the ballot boxes and tickets, the German and Irish rioters procured a cannon which the Americans took from them-the military were called out, the Germans regained the possession of their cannon, but it was again demanded by the American party, and given up without the wheels, the wheels were taken possession of by the military, and at the last accounts peace and order it was expected would be restored. What will be the result or the consequences of these riots and the forwards by the American party we cannot im-

MACHINE. TIIIS Machine is simple, of light draught and not liable to get out of order and will cut all sinds of Grain and Grass equally as well as any other Combined muchine ever in this region. It is so constructed, that all side draught, (which is so great in most Machines as to require three, and some machines four horses to do the work of two) is entirely overcome and seldom, if ever requiring but two horses in any kind of grain or grass. An Extra Platform is so constructed, that the gavels can be laid at the side, entirely clear, when the Machine comes around and obviates the necessity of binding after it. This Machine has been tested the last harvest, armers and quite sufficient to prove its complete adaptation to Mowing as well as Reaping. It is so constructed, that it can be changed in twenty minutes into a Mowing Machine, and then again altered back for Reaping, in the same time. It leaves the stubble from twelve to fourteen inches high.

With this Machine you can mow an acre per hour, the whole day, though with but two horses and with the same case for the team, as ploughing; is warranted to cut Salt Grass equally as well as Fresh, and work as well in the Sait Marsh a These Machines are Manufactured at Bridge-
