For the West Jersey Pioneer. BY WINNIE G. HOWARD.

LOOK UPWARD!

'Twas a tiny voice from a violet's cup; And though crushed and bleeding, it stil looked up,-

It had bloomed in peace in the quiet shade, Till torn by a reckless passer's tread; Yet a sweet perfume, though destroyed its bloom,

From its grassy tomb, went upward! Look upward!

'Twas a clear, sweet song from a little bird, And the leaves to the harmony gently stirred 'Twas a bird with an arrow in its breast, And it quickly drapped from its warm, soft

It must droop and die, hushed its melody, Yet its dimming eye glanced upward! Look upward!

My spirit had grovelled with earthly things, And had gathered dust on its folded wings, And had bowed itself in gloom and night, And had closed its eyes to the glorious light! There it sighed in vain, for its joys again,

Till it heard that strain-look upward! Look upward! My soul looked up with the bird and flower

And caught bright drops from a fresh'ning Which cleansed the dust from its pinions

Till they glistened pure in the clear sunlight, Then my soul amazed, with the light that blazed. With its pinions raised, soared upward!

Oh learn with me from the bird and flower, A lesson to cheer in thy dreariest hour,-Look up! look up from the gloom and night Of this weary world to a world of light;

Look upward! Philadelphia, May, 1855.

The editor of the Albany Register comments thus upon this simple word, so com-mon, and yet so full of solemn and tender meaning: "How many emotions cluster around that word! How full of sadness, and to us a consecrated word. We heard it once within the year, as we hope never to hear it again. It was in the chamber of death, at the still hour of night's noon. The curtains to the windows were all closed, the lights were all shaded, and we stood in the dim and solemn twilight, with others around the bed of the dving. The damps of death were on her pale young brow, and coldness was on her lips, as we kissed her the last time while living .-'Good bye, my daughter,' we whispered, and Good bye, father came faintly from her dying lips. We know not if she ever spoke more, but Good bye was the last we ever heard of her sweet voice. We hear that sorrowful word often and often, as we sit alone, busy with the memories of the past. We hear it in the silence of the night in the hours of nervous wakefulness, as we lie upon our bed thinking of the loved and lost to us. We hear it in our dreams, when her sweet face beauty. We hear it when we sit beside her grave in the cemetery where she sleeps alone, with no kindred as yet by her side. She was the hope of our life, the prop to lean on when age should come upon us, and life should be running to its dregs. The hope and the prop is gone, and we care not how soon we go down to sleep beside our darling, beneath the shad-

WITHOUT GOD. A soul without God is like the carth without the sun. Quench in the heavens the orb of day, how dark, how dumb, and dead would be the earth below! No flush of the morning's rising, no genial heat of high noon, no sunset glory. Darkly would the river flow, the brook complain, and the waves of ocean roll; hushed all the voices of the grave, shut and scentless the flowers, silence the sound of busy labor: chained every foot of man; and poor striken nature would lie cold and mute as a corpse, her great vital heart slowly ceasing to eat. As the sun is the life and light of the natural world, so is God of the spiritual. Where he is not there is no true life, nor real joy, no abiding peace. Without his presence and friendship, the soul is dark and dead. cold and comfortless. It must be visited by an ever recurring gloom, forboding of disaster; a sense of want and dread-afraid of God and his judgements. There may be the short lived intoxication of pleasure; momentary forgetfulness in the heat of some eager race for the world's prizes; the fitful shining of some delusive hope; but in the pause of sober thought-

The one will keep pace with the other-as every settler will add his mite to the surplus product of the soil to be sent to the eastern market, and create an additional demand for the "merchandise which is transported from afar." In addition, we have a large trade with Michigan and Indiana, which is to be taken into account; and as soon as our extensive system of direct importation his sermon, ask any of his congregation who from Europe goes into full operation, our wholesale merchants will be able to offer in-

The facilities for expansion which are being projected, and which will soon be constructed, to reach the outskirts and the suburbs of the city, with readiness will enable all the more to do business within, and in crease the demand, and consequently the price at all the desirable localities.

With this combination of advantages, thus briefly sketched, we may not predict the future of Chicago anything short of the destiny ascribed to her by an intelligent Bostonian, in a public address, last week:--" The second city of the Union." Of course, this point will not be reached in ten years, nor twenty, but from present indications the century will close upon her next in rank to the "Great Metropolis"-now the second commercial City of the world.

The aggregate cash value of our farms, as therein stated. is $120,237,511; the population being 489,-555, each individual's share of the land, if equally distributed, would therefore be $201. Let us take the lead also, in agricultural improvements. It may be that nature has been more bountiful to us sanding in the census may be attributed to enlightened farming, that this is otherwise. We must narrowly watch the costly experiments of others, if not willing to risk expense ourselves, and adopt all that have the stamp of utility, and have stood the test of trial.

YANKEE FACTORY GIRLS.

In one of the factories of Maine, recently the proprietors reduced the wages, whereupon there was a general determination to strike. and as they were obliged to give a month's notice before quiting work, they have meanwhile issued a circular to the world at large, in which is the following interesting paragraph:—

"We are now working out our notice, and shall be without employment; can turn our hands to 'most anything; don't like to be idle. but determined not to work for nothing where folks can afford to pay. Who wants help? We can make bonnets, dresses, puddings, pies and cakes: patch, darn, knit, roast, stew and fry; make butter and cheese, milk cows, feed chickens and hoe corn; sweep out the kitchen, put the parlor to rights, make beds, split wood, kindle fires, wash and iron, besides be-ing remarkably fond of babies; in fact, can do anything the most accomplished housewife is capable of—not forgeting the scoldings on Mondays and Saturdays. For specimens of spirit, will refer you to our overseer. Speak quick.—Black eyes, fair foreheads, clustering locks, beautiful as Hebe, can sing like a scraph, and smile most bewitchingly; an elderly gentleman in want of a good housekeeper, or a nice young man in want of a wifewilling to sustain either character; in fact, we are in the market. Who bids! Going-going -gone! Who's the lucky man?"

A TRIP TO THE CITY.

As many of the readers of the Pioncer do not often have an opportunity to visit Philadelphia, we will give an outline of our recent trip, and relate a few things we saw and heard. Having left our address with the proprietor of the Stage, Mr. L. H. Dowdney, with a equest to be wakened up in the morning in time to get ready for the early stage, we retired, resting assured that we would not over sleep ourself. The first thing we heard in the morning, about half-past three o'clock. was the rapping of the stageman at the door; and the next thing we saw was the stage, hav-'Bridgeton Chronicle" falsely conveying the ing given us apparently, a very short halfhour's grace. We cannot too strongly impress upon our peach growing friends in the country, the absolute necessity of an extensive and thorough thinning out of the fruit at this season. The affect the crop, and the consequence will be that the trees left to themselves will be destroyed by the weight of their fruit, long before the period of ripening. Nor is this the only evil—the fruit will be smaller in size and tasteless in flavor.

The product of a tree thinned down to four bushels will sell in market for twice as much money as ten bushels raised on the same tree would bring. There is but one way to do the work, and that is by hand. To thrash the fruit off with clubs injures the trees, destroys the best and leaves the worst fruit, and does not produce a regular thinning.

The number of peach to be left on limb should be regulated by the usual size of the fruit when ripe, and the age and thriftiness New York and other markets with an amount of the tree. Even the smallest sized peaches should have at least four inches space for each fruit, while the Heath, Old Minor cling for sale at the lowest prices by,

The labor required for this purpose may as first sight startle some of our old-fashioned fruit growers, but a little calculation will soon convince them of its profit, as well as ne-

The average cost of thinning a tree will not exceed 40 cents, while the increased value of the fruit will be from $2 to $5. We will venture the prediction that notwithstanding the immense crop of fruit now on the trees, there will be fewer really fine peaches in market this season than there were in the summer of 1853, and that they will, consequently command higher prices.

Dr. Morgridge's Family Medicines.

HE success of the subscriber in the treatment of Diseases of the Bowels, on botanic princiduring the last twenty years, and especially n that of Cholera at Millville in 1849, where more than thirty cases were cured under his direction without a failure, has induced him to prepare a set of medicines from innocent vegetable substance for the cure of this class of diseases. 🤜 These medicines have become exceedingly popular in every section of country where they have een introduced. Within the last two years they have been placed in the hands of hundreds of amilies for the purpose of having them thoroughly tested; and the result has been most satisfacte I have called personally on hundreds of those amilies to ascertain the success of my medicines, and have found that wherever they have been fairly tried they have given entire satisfaction. They seem to act as a specific in Dysentery as well as in all the family of Bowel Complaints. In my travels during the last two Summers, for the purpose of introducing and testing my medicines.

escribed them in numerous cases of Dysentery with great success; many were cured, and I have not heard of a single failure where my medicines done were used and persevered in according to

The articles principally relied on in the cure of Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhoa, Dysentery, Bowel Consumption, Cholera Infantum, and the Summer Complaints of Children, are Dr. Monoringe's Anti-Dyspeptic Mixture, Cholera Syrup, Cholera Pills and Anti-Bilious Pills for adult and his Bowel Corrector, Childrens Cordial and Aperient for Children. These will be sufficient in ul ordinary cases, but there are some violent attacks of disease, and some critical cases in which Dr. Mongringe's Emetic Syrup and Carminatio Tincture are employed. For further particulars on this subject see bill of directions accompanying each set of the medicines.

For the cure of sundry other forms of disease re the following compounds, viz:-Dr. Mergridge's Cough Syrup and Pectoral Elizir, for Coughs, and all affections of the throat, breast and lungs.

BARDER'S New Jersey Combined Mowing and Reaping MACHINE

MYHIS Machine is simple, of light draught and not liable to get out of order and will cut all hinds of Grain and Grass equally as well as any other Combined machine ever in this region. It is so constructed, that all side draught, (which is so grons in most Machines as to equira three, and some machines four horses to do the work of two) is entirely overcome and seldem, if ever requiring but two horses in any kind of grain or grass. An Extra Platform is so constructed, that the gavels can be laid at the eide, eatirely clear, when the Machine comes around and obviates the necessity of binding after it. This Machine has been tested the last harvest by a number of practical Farmers and quite sufficient to prove its complete adaptation to Mowing as well as Reaping. It is so constructed, that it can be changed in twenty minutes into a Mowing Machine, and then again altered back for Reaping, in the same time. It leaves the stubble from twelve to fourteen inches high.

With this Machine you can mow an acre per hour, the whole day, though with but two horses, and with the same case for the team, as ploughing; is warranted to cut Salt Grass equally as well as Fresh, and work as well in the Salt Marsh as on upland.

JOHN DONNELLY, Manufacturer and Inventor of Safety Patent Squar Upright Wood Box Matches, No. 106 North Fourth St. (above Race), Philada. ATCHES having become an indispensable article in housekeeping, the subscriber, after a great sacrifice of time and money, is enabled to offer to the public an article at once combining Utility and Cheapness. The inventor knowing the danger apprehended on account of the flimsy manner in which Matches are generally packed in particular that the state of the s per, has by the aid of new steam machinery of his own invention, succeeded in getting up a Safety Patent Square Upright Wood Box; this box is far preferrable, inasmuch that it occupies no more com than the old round wood box, and contains at least Two Hundred per cent more matches, which to Shippers, is considerable advantage. It is entirely new, and secure against moisture and spontaneous combustion, and dispels all danger on transportation by means of railroad, steamboat or any other mode of conveyance.

These matches are packed so that one gross of more may be shipped to any part of the world with perfect safety. They are the most desirable article for home consumption, and the Southern and Western markets, that have ever been invented. Dealers and Shippers will do well to call and examine for themselv
