From the Smyrna Times. THE TWO WORLDS.

Some say that this world is a Paradise With its myriad rills and flowers, With its birds of song and its azure skies, And its softening moonlight hours; And they say to the music of tinkling streams Our lives may pass in delicious dreams In this fairy world!

They tell of social ties that bind Warm hearts in a strong, pure link, Of flowers of feeling and thoughts that bloom On the stream of Affection's brink. And they d lure us too, to be charmed awhile, Ay the sunlight scences and the witching smile Of this lovely world!

But its tempting bowers and haunts of bliss. And flowers of brilliant dyes, Are types of a fairer world than this, Of a land beyond the skies-Where birds flit gaily on pinions brigh And all is glorious, for all is light

In that upper world!

Away, away from this charming world, From this land of waking dreams, Our hearts reach out toward that fairer realm. To its brighter shies and streams, To which the loveliest things that grow In this lower world are but paltry show, Oh, that heavenly world!

Vet it seems sometimes that the two worlds mos Or the sundering veil's so thin, That the spirit e'en in the lower world. May view the glories within That upper world of delight and song, And eatch the tones of that angel throng

In that blissful world! Tho', who would stay for a moment here, When the lord of that world says, Come! Who, who would cling to this lower sphere When called to that brighter home?

In that blissful home! Philadelphia, June, 1855.

Ah, many, many at that glad word.

Will haste with joy to obey their Lord

Man was made for action, and the love for improvement or rather the desire for progress is a motive inherent in our very nature, universal and deep seated and when legitimately pursued, "worketh no evil to our neighbor" -a motive nevertheless, which can be traced all along the various stages of earth's existence, causing the arts and sciences to flourish, and the light of Christianity to shine, though No advertisement of a folio or less will be in- brighter, until it has obtained the brilliant fervency of to day.

And as Education and Christianity are the ness? handmaids of Progress, it must follow, that wherever these are fostered and nourished, there does mankind progress and where knowledge and Religion are diffused through the hearts of men there are the ties of their common interests linked together and the incentives to strife are subdued by the love for peace, and mighty is the influence that these powers exert as a moulding influence upon a nation's civil institutions, and it is a fact corroborated by all the annals of the past that the tendencies of these attendants of Progression are strongly inclined to the advancement of Freedom-by demanding as the conditions of its existence the promulgation of these seeds of improvement and a general diffusion throughout the land.

AGRICULTURE.

From the Progressive Farmer. AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

If ever American agriculture reaches the degree of perfection to which its immense importance entitles it, and which all its true friends earnestly desire, it will be accomplished by other means than those which have prevailed generally. There is a spirit abroad amongst the yeomanry of our land, whose teachings tend to a decided reformation in precepts are utters in mere whispers yet, compared with the thunder tones in which they should and will eventually be proclaimed. of respectable and intelligent looking people.

DEACON SMITH'S BULL, MIKE FINK IN A TIGHT PLACE

A HUMOROUS STORY.

Mike Fink, a notorious Buckeye hunter, was contemporary with the celebrated Davy Crocket, and his equal in all things appertaining to human prowess. It was even said that the animals in his neighborhood knew the rrack of his rifle, and would take to their secret hiding places on the first intimation that Mike was about. Yet strange, though true, he was but little known beyound his immediate settlement. When we knew him he was an old man: the blasts of seventy winters hod silvered o'er his head and had taken the elasticity from his limbs, yet in the whole of his life Mike was never worsted, except on one occasion.-To use his own language he never 'gin in used up, to adything that travelled on two or four legs, but once.'

"That once, we want," said Bill Slasher. as some dozen of us sat in the bar room of the old tavern in the settlement.

"Gin it to us now Mike; you've promised long onough, and you're old now, and needn't care," continued Bill.

"Right, right, Bill," said Mike, "but we'll open with a liquor all around fust, it 'ill kind o' save my feelin's, I reckon." "Thar, that's good. Better than tother barrel if anything."

"Well, boys," commenced Mike, "you may talk of of your scrimmages tight places,

MARRIAGE AND GENIUS.

All women; no matter how schooled, or what their attainments, have a vearning desire to love and be loved again. The head can never be educated at the expense of the heart, consequently if they cannot obtain such as they could most venerate and respect they unite themselves to those who tender them the love they have need of; they dream of happiness, and awake to disappointment. They find themselves junappreciated, their tastes shocked, their sensibilities derided, and drag out lives of misery and wretchedness .-Not alone are women of genius thus unhappy, Men, too, are made miserable by uncongenial minds. Who can doubt that the life of Byron would have been a better and happier one, had his wife been one who could have sympathised with, and understood him. Milton's domestic afflictions set heavy on his heart .--Shelby,'s first marriage was fraught with consequences terrible to himself and others. Burns' verses met with no response from those gathered around his hearthstone; and many others equally great have had reason to curse in their hearts an ill-assorted marriage.

The Springfield Republican to the story of the man, who, when told by his landlord he could not leave the house uutil he paid his bill, replied, "Good, just put that in writing -make a regular agreement of it; I'll stay with you as long as I live!" adds the follow-

THE FOURTH.

The seventy-ninth anniversary of American Independence was ushered in with the usual ceremony—the discharge of ordnance the shrill notes of the fife and the spirit stir ring roll of the drum. The streets were soon thronged with persons of every age, who engaged heartily in the festivities of the day .-The former custom of decorating the buildings and side walks with laurels, evergreens &c., was not overdone, yet there was sufficient to satisfy those who had come to see the 4th of July, that it was here in Bridgeton as well as elsewhere.

A few lurid clouds hung over the town in a rather suspicious manner during the morning. Between nine and ten o'clockthe ringing of bells, roar of artillery, martial music, and the appearance of the military company, announced that the hour for assembling had arrived. In compliance with former mismanagement two distinct celebrations were formed, (which, in our opinion, should not have been the case in a town such as Bridgeton.) As we were not endowed with omnipresence, we chose to go and listen to the oration of our distinguished townsman, John T. Nixon, Esq. The subject was an appropriate one, "The origin and value of the American Union." Seldom have we listened to a more chaste, eloquent and patriotic Fourth of July Oration. The exercises were held in the Pearl Street Baptist Church. The house was comfortably filled with a respectable and attentive audience.

The Oration in the grove, on the west side of the Creek, by Rev. Benjamin L. Thomas, was said to be very good, notwithstanding the disadvantages under which he labored.

At two o'clock in the afternoon, a large concourse assembled in the grove, to listen to an Address on "The points of difference between the Government and Institutions of the United States and Great Britain," by Rev. W. H. Bakewell. Before the speaker commenced his discourse, the threatening clouds began to discharge their contents, to the dismay of the assembled host. With several hundred others, we left the grove, dreading a shower bath at that time. Thus being deprived of hearing an interesting and instructive Address, delivered to those who remained in the grove.

The Military Company were parading the streets and firing most of the day.

About six o'clock in the afternoon the ar tillery of Heaven commenced flashing and rumbling, the streets were soon made desolate by a shower of rain which continued during the evening. Rev. Jonas Chew, who was to have delivered a Temperance Lecture in the Trinity M. E. Church, in the evening, did not arrive, whereupon Rev. W. H. Bakewell entertained the audience with an address of the most interesting character. We purposed giving an extract from his address, but as a correspondent in another column has referred to it, we will merely add, that those who listened to him were satisfied that within his bosom throbs a true American heart.

· We learn from those who were present, that the celebrations in our neighboring villages passed off gloriously. The Oration at Millville, by the Rev. N. Vansant of this place is said to have been delivered in the most eloquent and patriotic manner. He has ception of what it was.

We would be pleased to receive from others, at least an extract of their Orations on Sun Struck.—We would apprise our readers of the danger of standing or sitting in any one place for any great length of time in the burning sun during this excessive hot weather. A gentleman residing in Cedarville. while engaged in painting the side of a vessel near the above named place a few days ago, came very nearly loosing his life from the effects of the sun shining upon his head. We are happy however, to announce that he is recovering, after having suffered extremely.

The Excursion from this place to Cape Island on the 26th inst., will undoubtedly be a grand affair. We will refer to it at some future period. See advertisement.

an article on this subject appeared in the Pioneer, with the promise of giving a history of Nonnis, Practi al Paper Manufacturers.

The article was written by our assistant editor, who visited the establishment and collected many interesting facts relative thereto, and would have prepared the history before now, had he not been seriously indisposed ever since; unfitting him for writing on any subhis professional calling.

Time after time as he has been passing our invigorating breezes from off the salt water for the recovery of his health, we have looked with anxious eye upon his feeble, manly form and locks silvered o'er by the hand of time, diminished by a transport to a better land, yet consoled with the kowledge that if our fears should be realized, few men living in this community have done more for the advancement of Moral Reforms and the cause of Truth and Soberness, and at the same time command the respect of all honest oppo-

the benefit of our readers:

price of the raw material-cotton ragseven the common qualities of printing paper have not yet been made of straw alone. It further improved. During the last fall, G. W. Beardslee, of Albany, N. Y., exhibited to us some pulp and small samples of paper made from wood, and he stated, that from the experiments which he had already made, he was satisfied he could make as good paper fic American, printed on Bass wood paper, likewise some writing and other samples of paper sent for our use, to test their qualities. We have also examined various kinds of paper from different kinds of wood, by Mr. Beardslee-from wrapping to fine drawing paper, all of a very superior character. The the question is one of economy—the production of cheaper paper than that made from rags. Jacob Christian Scaffers, a German theologian, printed a book in 1772 on sixty specimens of paper, made from as many substances, such as straw, wood of various kinds -willow, beach, &c .- and a number of grasses. In fact, it has long been known, that paper can be made out of every vegetable material of a fibrous character, but cotton rags have hitherto been furnished so cheap, as to defy competition from any other. This has been the case especially since the discovery of bleaching by chlorine, by which the blackest and dirtiest calico rags, which before that time were used for making wrapping paper, can now be bleached as white as snow.

As this is a question of economy entirely, Mr. Beardslee has informed us that he can make paper from wood as cheap as that made of cotton rags, even if the latter cost nothing. We wish success to the discoverer of every improvement in the manufacture of cheap paper, for it is the grand vehicle for spreading knowledge amonng men.

Singular Disposition of Children .- On saturday moining, in the Court of Quarter bessions, Judge Kelley called the attention of Mr. Barclay, the Solicitor of the House of Refuge, to the case of two children in the Intitution. In his offici. I visit, on Friday, to the Institution, his attention was attracted by the unusual appearance of two children recently committed. Upon examination, he found the eldest, a girl nine years of age, a very intelligent, and to all appearance, a good and interesting child; the other, a boy seven years of age, equally interesting. Certainly neither of them had any appearance of any of the vice for which children are usually committed to the House of Refuge. Upon nspection of the commitment which was issucd by Alderman Michael W. Ash Hopkins, and committed upon his complaint. It was stated to him that the children were brought there by their father in a carriage, and that he had gone with his wife and younger child into the country. The Judge farther stated that it was very evivent that the House of Refuge was not a proper place for such children, and he hoped soon as possible make application to the Orphans' Court to have a Guardian appointed. at any rate, that they should not be delivered into the custody of their father unless under the proper action of the Managers of the court. He did not know how true it was, but it was stated that the father was influenced in thus disposing of his children by anything but proper motives. It appears that they are children by a former wife. Mr. Barclay states that their case was hefore the proper committee, who had deferred final action upon it until it came under the attention of the Visiting Judge in the usual way. That now having taken place, the Managers would take such action upon the matter as he had no doubt would meet the views of his Honor.

The State Lunatic Asylum .- The True American says, the new wings of the Asylum are now completed, and add very greatly to the accommodations of the establishment .-The rooms are ready for the furniture, and will be made ready for patients without delay. There are now 218 patients in the asylum, and all are apparently doing well. The grounds are cultivated, part of the Asylum property look very fine, and are in a high state of forwardness. Vegetation of the poriers and manufacturers, and if no ill betides best kind is raised in abundance. One hour's ramble through the property gives us a very favorable opinion of the management of the farm as well as the interior of the building.

An Earthquake. - On Wednesday night last, after 12 o'clock, the people of this sec-W. 28 perches and 18 links to a large stone, thence tion of the country were startled from their slumbers by a violent shock, accompanied by a report. It was of such violence as to shake the doors and windows, and dishes on the shelves in houses. In about fifteen minutes another rumbling noise was heard like distant thunder. At first people supposed it to be thunder, but the moon was shining, while some hazy clouds stretched off to the North and West. The general impression next was that the shock was caused by the explosion of a powder mill or magazine, but we have heard from the mills in this vicinity, and nothing happened there. It was also heard as far north as Hereford, and how much greater distance we do not know. It was most probaeast corner (of his plantation) the same being a bly an earthquake, which is something of an unusual occurrence in this part of the world. Towsontown Advocate.

May 19, 1855.-3m. MEXICAN GUANO.

TRIE attention of Farmers is requested to the following Analysis and statements of this caluable manure. It is the richest Mexican Guano that has been brought to this country in Phosphates. Phosphoric Acid is the valuable element of all manures, and this Guano contains nearly 34 per cent., being much stronger than the Peruvian Guano. The peculiarities of this Guano, are: It is not injured by the sun, and is not washed out of the soil by the rains, in less than 30 years. It will double the crop of Corn, if Phosphoric Acid is deficient in the soil. It cheaper, more permanent, and more certain than Peruvian Guano. On land already surfeited by too frequent applications of ammonia in Peruvian Guano, the Mexican Guano, by its great abundance of Phosphates, will restore health and vigor. For sale by J. B.A. & S. ALLEN, or. For sale by J. B. A. & S. ALLEN, No. 7 & 8 South Wharves, below Market Street. Philadelphia, June 9, 1855.—3m.—c.

Is now constantly receiving and opening a full and complete assortment of new and desirable goods for Spring and Summer wear, to which he would respectfully solicit the citizens of Bridgeton and surrounding country. And though I may regret I have said it; I am going to sell for cash, barter or short approved credit. Thus insuring my customers that they may always de-pend on what goods they buy of me shall be of the very lowest prices, knowing that persons who give long long credits must necessarily got higher prices for their goods besides losing a great deal by bad debts. (and as all trades must pay or there could be no trade,) good 'paying customers must pay for the losses by bad ones. Or in other words, if Mr. A. fails to pay his bill, you must charge Mr. B. increased prices for the goods he buys; so you see, Mr. B. has to redouble his efforts to make up for the fraud of Mr. A., which are the evils of the long credit-system,
