TO A FASHIONABLE MARRIED LADY.

BY DAVID PAUL BROWN.

I knew thee when thy heart was young, Unfraught with care-untrain'd to pride-And oft my humble muse has sung The virtues of the Youthful Bride.

Years have rolled on, and still thou art Replete with every early grace, In form and feature-but thy heart Accords not with that dimpled face.

Fashion, and art, and empty show, Usurp the throne where nature reigned; Feign as thou wilt, thou ne'er caust know Those dear delights thou hast disdain'd.

'Tis outside all:-'tis mirth and glee, Bright as the orb beneath whose ray We bask in wonted revelry-But night succeeds the fairest day!

The sun that sheds his beams on all Shares neither in thee warmth nor light; The genial dews, on flowers that fall, Adorn not the dark brow of night!

Thy smiles may scatter transport round, And teach e'en marble hearts to glow; But neither light nor warmth is found To cheer thine own, or soothe its woe.

Flirts, fops and fools supply the place Where modest worth and wisdom shone, And native charms and listless grace Forever from the scene have flown.

The wandering glance-the studied smile That speak of conquests won-or sought, Can ne'er life's weary hours beguile,

Or fill the aching void of thought! Vapid and vain are all these lures

That day and night thine hours employ; This senseless round, the soul endures. But never-never can enjoy.

The simple rustic in her bower, Arrayed in innocence and health. Among the flowers—the sweetest flower May laugh to scorn thy pomp and wealth!

She smiles, whene'er she deigns to smile, In unsophisticated glee, On some brave youth, whose honest toil And honest open rivalry

Have won her love-and taught that breast, The seat of purity alone, The darling lesson to be blest By fondly resting on his own.

He resolved on being a farmer. After a lapse of thirty-five years, the two brothers met. It was at George's house. A bright, vigorous, alert man was George though though several years younger, was very in-firm. He had kept in his counting room out all through the same trough. long after the doctors had warned him to give up business, and now he found himself in health beyond repair. But that was not the worst. He was out of his element when not making money. George took him into the library and showed him a fine collection of books. Poor Henry had never cultivated a taste for reading. He looked upon the books with no more interest than he would have looked on so many bricks. George took him into his garden, but Henry began to cough and said he was afraid of the east wind. When George pointed out to him a beautiful elm tree, he only cried "Pshaw!" George took him into his greenhouse, and talked with enthusiasm of some rare flowers, which seemed to give the farmer great pleasure. Henry shrugged his shoulders and yawned, saying, 'Ah I don't care for these things." George asked him if he was fond of paintings and engravings. "No, no, don't trouble yourself," said Henry, "I can't tell one daub from another." "Well, you shall hear my daughter Edith play upon the piane; she is no ordinary performer, I assure you. "Now don't brother—don't if you love me," said Henry beseechingly; "I never could endure music." But what can I do to amuse you? will you take a ride?" "I am afraid of a horse. But village Bank, I will stop and have a chat with the President." Poor Henry! Money was the one thing uppermost in his mind -To it he had sacrificed every other good thing. WHAT CONSTITUTES RICHES.

"To be rich," said Mr. Marcy, our worthy Secretary of State, "requires only a satisfactory condition of the mind. One man may be rich with a hundred dollars, while another in the possession of millions may think himself poor; and as the necessities of life are en-"You are mine!" I exclaimed with rap- at the close of the war with Mexico, and upon the best satisfied with his possessions is the richer."

To illustrate this idea, Mr. Marcy related the following anecdote: "While I was Governor of the State of New York," said he, "I was called upon one morning at my office, by a rough specimen of a backwoodsman, who stalked in and commenced conversation by inquiring 'if this was Mr. Marcy?'

"I replied that that was my name. "Bill Marcy?" said he. I nodded assent. "Used to live in Southport, didn't ve?" "I answered in the affirmative, and began feel a little curious to know who my visi

Why you know me, didn't you Bill?'

"I didn't exactly like to ignore his acquaintance altogether, but for the life of me, I couldn't recollect ever having seen him before, and so I replied that he had a familiar countenance, but that I was not able to call him by name.

"My name is Jack Smith,' answered the backwoodsman, 'and we used to go to school together thirty years ago, in the little red chool house in old Southport. Well times has changed since then, and you have become a great man and got rich, I suppose?"
"I shook my head and was going to con-

The driver's cruel lash curled around, and cut the cheek of the little fellow on the step, and screaming with pain he dropped off, when the envious little wretch who had been the ineans of his fall, set up a derisive shout of laughter, and vanished round a corner.— Whereat, Jaques moralized. Behold, thought he, a perfect illustration of man's pretty games of life! See here an exemplification of his envious jealousy and selfish revenge. The boy who did not get a ride, might have been willing to share his ride with his mate, but he did not get the chance, and so, because he did not, and his comrade did, he straightway revenged himself on fortune by depriving his more fortunate fellow of his enjoyment.

Now, says Jacques, when I see a young man whose idleness and inactivity, or lack of perseverance and application, have made him uusuccessful in life, decrying the merits of others, doubting their efficiency, and endeav-oring to prejudice the minds of others against them, and because they are so successful, I straight bethink me of the boy who called out

-"Cut, cut behind!" When I see an unsuccessful candidate for public office maligning, or, at best, speaking coldly of the character and qualifications of his rival-impuguing his motives, and artfully endeavoring to poison the minds of the people who uphold him; when I see such a man covertly working to secure the ultimate downfall of his late antagonist, on merely political grounds, I am irresistibly reminded of the well-known cry-"Cut, cut behind!" When I see vulgar and illiterate persons trying to drag back to their own level such of their past associates as may have been fortunate enough to rise to a more elevated sphere of life; when I see such endeavoring to blast the characters of their more ambitious and high-minded brethren, or discourage

When I see an editor who has got the worst ing to cry down the deserving features of his thought and the weight of the injury he had inflicted, he could scarcely keep on his opinion, but told him that political life did joalousy, and smarting with defeat, he tries to compensate for victory by traducing and slandering his competitor, I think at once, that he is crying in another form of speech—"Cut, cut behind!"

In short, whenever I see honest endeavors retarded and discouraged; when I see patient merit made to falter and faint, by reason of the bare opposition of envy and detraction, I seem to hear again ringing in my ears the breathless cry of-"Cut, cut behind!"

"Breastworks and knees?" said Mrs. Partington impresssively, with a face that had a whole moral moral code written upon it, "and how do you know that?" "I saw 'em returned he, and put my hand on 'em." "Well," said she; raising her fingers like a guide-post, "you must not let me hear such a thing from you again. Such shameless conduct is without a parable in one so young, and I am almost ready to believe in all they say of the moral turpentine of youth." She looked anxiously at Ike, who was sitting on his legs and rocking to and fro. "It was the new ship I was taking about." said he, grinning at the mistake she had made. "Oh!" said she, "was that all? well the lesson may be laid away in your mind till you need it." THE EXCURSION-THE EXPRESS.

Many of our citizens undoubtedly felt some disappointment, at the non-appearance of the Express on Thursday to make the excursion to Cape Island. This was caused by the breakage of the shaft of the Reybold, as she was making her trip on Saturday. In order to keep up the regular line to Philadelphia, the owners of the Express were compelled to use her in place of the Reybold, and postpone the excursion to Cape May, which we are assured will positively take place on Wednesday the our citizens much better than to have gone on Thursday when so many other excursions seemed to have a claim upon their attention. Besides this, the pleasant weather will enable | tempt the farmers to get through with their oats harvest in time to enjoy with their wives and little ones this delightful excursion. The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of I. O. of O. F., is to be held on the Island on Wednesday, and by means of this excursion the delegates from this and Salem County will be enabled to attend the meeting, and the other members of the Order have a fine opportunity to mingle with their brethren from other parts of the State, and return the same day. The boat is to leave Salem for Bridgeton, at half-past one on Tuesday afternoon, allowing passengers an opportunity to get on board at Salem at that time or at Bridgeton, or Fairton, or Greenwich the following morning .-By leaving Salem at that hour on Tuesday she will be at Bridgeton by six o'clock on the same evening, so that our citizens will be enabled to see that no second disappointment

We have before spoken of the Express as a sea-boat, every word of which was sustained and her qualities so thoroughly tested by the storm on the evening of the 4th of July, when with a pleasure party on board she bravely rode the waves like a thing of life; added to this, she has the inspectors' certificate licensing her to run anywhere in the Bay or even round to New York, an evidence of the ve ry highest kind, when it is recollected that there are fewer accidents to steamboats on the Delaware than any other river in the Union, with half its steam commerce, an evidence proving fully that their duties are faithfully performed. In the inspection of a steamboat it must be borne in mind that the examination is not confined to the boiler of a boat.-The hull also must be examined and if no found trustworthy no license can be granted. The Express, both boiler and hull, has passed these examinations, and as before stated beer licensed to run even to New York. While upon the subject, we will say a word or two of her history as learned from a reliable source. She was originally designed to be forty feet longer than she is and heavily timbered accordingly; but after she was set up it was found that the length was too great for the purpose designed, and she was ordered to be finished her present length. In conse quence of being so heavily built she is slower than is required in these days of fast travel where there is strong competition, and for this cause was withdrawn from the Salem line. While upon that line we learn that she run for several years without losing a single trip. She is therefore emphatically a lucky boat, assertions that cannot be truthfully made of other boats; competent judges assert that her hull will now outlast that of nearly any boat of her class that runs down from Philadelphia. Her bottom has during the past winter been newly planked, and otherwise thoroughly overhauled and repaired .-From her previous character for safety she is more worthy of public confidence than any other boat on the river for standing a rough sea. We can see no cause for apprehension whatever on the score of safety to deter any person from going on the excursion. Tickets for the excursion can be procured of Frank.

that many from Bridgeton and the surrounding country had already visited Fortescue during the present season, and that on the 4th of July inst., about five hundred guests dined with them. We also learned that their vegetable garden is one of the largest and most productive in the County, and we know from experience, that the vegetables produced there are not only abundant in variety and quantity, but the quality, when prepared by their experienced cooks, is unsurpassable.

After taking a dip in the salt water, and swimming awhile against the rolling billows, we returned to the Hotel with our appetites sharpened and did ample justice to the excellent dinner prepared for us. The fish and oysters served up by them, are always fresh caught, and the men employed by them for that business are always on hand ready for action. In the afternoon, part of our company more fond of water than the rest, took another dip in the briny deep while the surf dashed high in the air. We amused ourselves in various ways until the clouds again became threatening; and as we received quite as much of a shower bath on our way from Bridgeton impression, that its Circulation is larger than down as we desired, we preferred going home before the storm commenced again. We ar rived home just in time to avoid another sprinkling, pleased with our visit and the dies. hospitality shown us by the gentlemanly conductors of the establishment.

A Wonderful Interposition of Providence

Cedarville, July 23d, 1855. Messrs. Editors: - A part of the village of Cedarville was thrown into great confusion, on the evening of Friday last, 20th inst., in consequence of the visitation of an awful thunder-storm. For about one hour the lightning was very vivid, when near 12 o'clock one awful, deafening peul, as if about to rend the earth, struck the house of Mr. Eleazar S. Bateman, entering at the upper part of the south gable end through the garret window, bursting the weather boards and window frame, passing through the bed upon which lay the son of Mr. Bateman, who escaped unhurt. Passing into the room below, shattering the windows, wood-work, furniture and setting the room on fire; in this room lay his eldest daughter, who was awakened from her slumbers to behold it enveloped in flame, but escaped without injury. Passing through into the parlor below, it burst the weatherboards off the front, broke and scattered the furniture of the room in every direction. Here it appeared to divide itself into three parts, one entering the earth at the south end, another, after plowing the front yard passed into the street, the third passing through the wall into the entry, setting it on fire, attachng itself to the bell wire it passed through the sitting room, attracted by an iron bolt it passed through a wall, was here divided, one part passing into the cellar, the other into the sned setting it on fire. What was worthy of admiration, was the calm and collected manner of Mr. Bateman in the whole affair, by which neans he was enabled to control the fiery elements before his neighbors could render him any assistance, while nothing was heard but expressions of gratitude to a kind Providence for the preservation of their family. Early the next morning a large number of citizens gathered together to behold the dreadful destruction this subtle agent had made, and wonder at the Providence that guided it harmless to human life.

Five Persons Drowned .- A dreadful affair occurred on Saturday in the Tuckahoe river, near Egg Harbor, which resulted in the loss of five lives, and which has thrown a gloom over the people of Beasley's Point, Sumers' Point, and Tuckahoe, and over the visitors to those places.
It seems that Mr. Gilbert Fuller and Mr.

T. A. Young started early on Saturday morning for Somer's Point, in a skiff belonging to Mr. Somers, which they took, without permission, from the wharf, and although the wind was blowing almost a gale from the northeast, and neither of them knew how to manage a sailboat, they arrived safe at Teasley's Point about 81 oclock, A. M.

Meeting there with Mr. Charles Watson, of Camden, N. J., they invited him, with his wife, child, and sister-in-law, and a niece of Mr. Fitzgerald, the keeper of the house at this place, to take a sail with them, and they all repaired to the boat lying at the pier, and started out on the Bay. Mr. Fitzgerald, hearing the facts and knowing the incapacity of the gentlemen to manage the boat, immediately followed in a row-boat, but could not overtake them, as the wind was by this time blowing a gale, and the tide was making up. He returned, and procuring a sailboat, started after them; but they were out of sight. He proceeded some distance up Tuckahoe River, and was informed by some fishermen there that no boat had passed up that river.

He then returned, hoping that they had got safely into Tuckahoe or some other port. Mr. R. Somers went up to the Great Egg Harbor River, and the search was continued until afternoon, but no tidings whatever could be heard of the missing party. Still the hope hoe, but when the mail arrived at that place, that hope was dissipated, as the driver stated that the party was not there.

The certainty that some accident had oc curred became every moment more evident, and the most intense anxiety prevailed. Mr Fitzgerald, Capt. Horner, Mr. R. Stites, and one of Mr. Fitzgerald's boarders started for Tuckahoe about 6 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and spent the evening and night in the scarch, when about 5 o'clock Sunday morning the skiff was found capsized at the first beach below Cedar Swamp Creek, Tuckahoe River, and two of the ladies, Mrs. Watson's sister and Mr. Fitzgerald's niece, were discovered linging to the boat.

The rest of the party, Mr. Watson, wife, and child, Mr. Fuller and Mr. Young, were all drowned. The ladies had been clinging to the boat, without a morsel of refreshment a period of 23 hours, with the waves constanty making a complete breach over them.

Hydrophobia .- It is said that in every instance where a person is bitten by a mad dog, small pustules make their appearance soone or later on the under side of the tongue; but generally in from six to nine days. These pustules must be opened with a sharp pointed instrument, as they are too tough to break of thomselves; and the matter must be discharged and spit out, or it will be re-absorbed which re-absorption is said to cause the par oxysms termed hydrophobia. The above is the substance of a communication which appeared in the New Orleans Tropia some years since from the pen of a Southern physician, who says: In 1832 I was called to visit a ne gro woman who had been bitten by a mad log, and by pursuing the treatment here laid down I was successful in curing her. This surse is the same that was recommended by Prof. Macochitti of Moscow, 1820, and proved effectual, and my first intimation of this mode was from an English magazine published forty years ago, containing a communication from a gentlemen recently returned from Tartary, where mad dogs are common and this method of treatment usual and successful.

Two Persons Drowned,-Shocking Occarrence at a Mormon Baptism.-About half-past five o'clock yesterday morning, a party of Mormons, numbering probably about hity, under the direction of Elder H. Greenboly, crossed the river by Captain Air's ferry middle of the same the several courses thereof un for the purpose of administering baptism to til it intersects the line of lands (Thursday of Thos. for the purpose of administering baptism to some eight or ten converts. They proceeded up the river bank to the foot of East row, and females, were prepared for baptism .- 1853, which deed is recorded in the Clerk's office This preparation was indecent to say the least. Both men and women were required 411, &c. rowd, and upon the river bank. The elder led an old man, aged about fifty years, by others, defeneants, and taken in execution at he the name of Alexander Williams, who resided near the corner of western row and Front street, into the water, and baptised him according to the ceremonies of the faith. After this the old man who was a good swimmer struck out into the river, for the purpose, it is said, of taking a swim. It is supposed that his draway alice of the troying his motion, caused him to sink. His son, also named Alexander, aged about 23 years, and who was stripped for haptism, seeing his father sinking, plunged in after him. He could not swim at all, getting into deep water, immediately sank, and drowned before his father. Drugging hooks were obtained as soon as possible, and in about an hour's time both bodies were recovered. Coronor Foster, of Campbell county, held an inquest over the bodies, and the jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning. The bodies were delivered over to a son and brother, who were present at the holding of the inquest. Cincinnati Times.

The Sussex Herald states that on Tuesday last, while three females were engaged in picking cherries from a tree about three miles and a half below Johnsonburg, in Warren county, the tree was struck by lightning, and one of the females, Ellen Gray, aged about 18 years, was instantly killed. Two young cattle standing under the tree were instantly killed. We also understand that a daughter of Mr. Charles Wintermute, aged about 20 years, of Hardwick, in Warren, was struck by the lightning while going to a spring for water. She will probably recover. It appears that a great many trees were struck in for a more critical and nicer discrimination than Barnum, the great showman, has issued a programme of over $5,000, which he proposes to present in premiums " to the handsomest ladies in America." There is to be one premium of $1,000; one of $300; one of $250; one of $200; one of $150; six of $100; ninety of $20; and one hundred of $10. They will only be exhibited by means of daguerreotypes, and the premiums will be awarded according to the ballots of visitors. Eeach lady securing one of the ten highest premiums, will be desired to sit to the best artist in the city nearest her residence, who will paint her portrait from life, at the expense of Mr. Barnum, to be engraved and published in the French "World's Book of Beauty."

A Fearful Ride. - We learn from the Indiannapolis Journal, that a locomotive descending the inclined plane at Madison, Indiana, on Monday of last week, owing to the wet track, got beyond control of the brakes and went down the plane with fearful velocity. When within a hundred yards of a freight Bizetta, took a desperate leap for life from the flying engine. Mr. Idler was dashed against a switch signal and instantly killed. Mr. Bizette struck the ground and instantly expired. Mr. E. J. Robinson, a clerk of the Co., who was also on the engine, clung to it and by the collision with the freight train, was shockingly mangled, though yet living.

The Hon. John H. Wheeler, United States Ambassador to Nicaragua, while on board the New York steamer at Walnut street wharf, in Philadelphia, on Wednesday, while on his way to New York, had three of his slaves seized and taken from him by a mob of negroes on the ground that, having been voluntarily brought to Philadelphia, they were entitled to their freedom. Passmore Williamson, a well-known member of the Pennsylvania Anti-Slavery Society, was charged in the United States District Court with heading the mob, and Judge Kane issued a writ, requiring him to produce the slaves. Five of the negroes engaged in the affair have been arrested and committed to prison.

In my travels during the last two Summers, for the purpose of introducing and testing my medicines, I prescribed them in numerous cases of Dysentery with great success; many were cured, and I have not heard of a single failure where my medicines

The articles principally relied on in the cure of Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhæa, Dysentery, Bowel Consumption, Cholera Infantum, Summer Complaints of Children, are Dr. Mon-GRIDGE'S Anti-Dyspeptic Mixture, Cholera Syrup. Cholera Pills and Anti-Bilious Pills for adults, and Lis Bowel Corrector, Childrens Cordial and Aperient for Children. These will be sufficient in all ordinary cases, but there are some violent attacks of disease, and some critical cases in which Dr. Morgaide's Emetic Surup and Carminative Tincture are employed. Fr further particulars on this subject see bill of cirections accompanying each set of the medicines.

For the cure of sundry other forms of disease are the following compounds, viz:—

Dr. M. rgridge's Cough Syrup and Pectoral Elizir, for Coughs, and all affections of the throat, breast and lungs. Dr. Morgrilge's Liniment and Elizir, for Rhumatism, Sprains, Tumors, &c. Dr. Morgridge's Alterative Pills and Elizir, for affections of the heart, liver, kidneys, &c. Dr. Morgridge's Anti-Dyspeptic Mixture and Pills for Dyspepsia with all its distressing symptoms. Dr. Morgridge's Hyve Sgrup, for Croup, Asthma, Hooping-cough, &c., in children.

Dr. Morgridge's Carminative Tincture. This expels wind, cures pains, Colics, Cramps. &c. Dr. Morgridge's Anti-Spasmodic or Emetic Syrup, for all violent attacks and critical cases of disease. These as well as my Lowel Medicines have been tested for years, and have won for themselves a reputation which will not easily be effaced. For sale, wholesale and retail, at my office in Commerce Street, next door east of the Cumberland Bank, Bridgeton N. J.

Price 25 cents per bottle or box.

A liberal discount will be given to wholesale dealers. Merchants would do well to lay in a steel of My Bonel Medicines carly in the season, as individuals are already sending for their family supply for the Sammer, from every direction ere a knowledge of them has gone. No. 106 North Fourth St. (above Race), Philada. ATCHES having become an indispensable article in housekeeping, the subscriber, after a great sacrifice of time and money, is enabled to offer to the public an article at once combining Utility and Cheapness. The inventor knowing the danger apprehended on account of the flimsy manner in which Matches are generally packed in paper, has by the aid of new steam machinery of his own invention, succeeded in getting up a Safety Patent Square Upright Wood Box; this box is far preferrable, inasmuch that it occupies no more room than the old round wood box, and contains at least Two Hundred per cent more matches, which, to Shippers, is considerable advantage. It is entirely new, and secure against moisture and spontaneous combustion, and dispels all danger on transportation by means of railroad, steamboat or any other mode of conveyance. These matches are packed so that one gross or more may be shipped to any part of the world with perfect safety. They are the most desirable article for home consumption, and the Southern and Western markets, that have ever been invented. Dealers and Shippers will do well to call and ex-
