From the Native Citizen. SONG-GOOD NIGHT.

BY NELLY WILDWOOD.

Eve's dusky mantle shades the sky, The sentry star shines out on high-Objects grow dim along the street, The light of day is passing fleet; Thus fadeth all our visions bright, We can but say-Good Night! Good Night!

The gush of childhood's glee is still, And hushed the wild-bird's joyons thrill; Now faintly sounds life's daily hum, Which on the busy night-winds come, And hall and cot is silent quite-The last sounds were-Good Night! Good Night!

To youth upon the downy bed, To laborer, 'neath his lowly shed, . To statesman, in his dreamy sleep, To those who for the lost-one's weep,-May angels waft the visions bright. And slumbers sweet-Good Night! Good Night!

Enchanting dreams to one and all. Life's dearest hours may they recall, May slumber on its gentle wing, Bring calm unto the sorrowing; May peace come with the morning light, And hope, and health-Good Night! Good Night!

TRUE VALUE OF A FARM.

There is something in the owning a piece of ground which affects me as do the old ru-ins of England. I am free to confess that the value of a farm is not chiefly in its crops of cereal grain, its orchards of fruit, and in its herbs, but in those larger and more easily reaped harvests of associations, fancies, and mine host was a fine old Virginia Gentleman ly following the fate of Jamestown, and some dreamy broodings which it begets. ### SMART CHILDREN

A writer in "Blackwood's Magazine" thus discourses on the practice of trying to stick "book larnin" in the heads of children while they are yet "babies:"

"How have I heard you, Eusebius, pity away thoughtfully, and saying, "Of such is the kingdom of tradel" A child of three years of age with a book in its infant hands is a fearful sight. It is too often the deathwarrant, such as the condemned stupidity looks at—fatal, yet beyond his comprehen-sion. What should a child three years old nav five or six years old—be taught? Strong means for weak digestions make not bodily strength. Let there be nursery tales and nursery rhymes. I would say to every parent, especially every mother, sing to your children; tell them pleasant stories; if in the country, be not too careful lest they get a little dirt upon their hands and clothes; earth is very much akin to us all, and, in children's out of door plays, soils them not inwardly.— There is in it a kind of consanguinity between all creatures; by it we touch upon the common sympathy of our first substance, and beget a kindness for our poor relations, the brutes .--Let children have a free, open air sport, and fear not though they make acquaintance with the pigs, the donkeys and the chickens—they may form worse friendships with wiser looking ones; encourage a familiarity with all that love to court them-dumb animals love children, and children love them. There is a language among them, which the worlds language obliterates in the elders. It is of more importance that you should make your children loving, than that you would make them wise. Above all things, make them loving; then they will be gentle and obedient; and then, also, parents, if you become old and poor, these will be better than friends that will never neglect you. Children brought up lovingly at your knees, will never shut their doors upon you, and point where they would have you go.'

LEGS AND LIMBS.

The editor of Life Illustrated tells the following incident: A little girl at school read thus: "The widow lived on a small limbacy left her by a relative." "What did you call that word?"

limbacy." "But, Miss Sohnson," said the little girl, " Pa says I must say limb, not leg." The little girl, says the Lancaster Inland Daily, was right. There are no legs now-adays-they are only limbs. By-and-by it bers," when this refined system of nomenclature reaches its climax. As for ourselves, we are so old fashioned that we like to hear things called by their proper names, and we shall stand up for legs as long as we have a leg to stand upon. We can see nothing vulgar in that word, but there is something decidedly so in the squeamishness which avoids its use and substitutes in its stead the awkward and indefinite word " limb."

WM. ELMER. D. B. THOMPSON. JNO. T. NIXON, Bridgeton, Sept. 28, 1855.

The Teacher's Institute in Cumberland. We hope, that all the Teachers of our Publie Schools, the Town Superintendents of the respective Townships, the friends of the Common Schools generally, will bear in mind this important meeting to be held at Bridgeton, on the 22d day of October, 1855. The design of the Institute, is to improve the methods of teaching in the Public Schools, and infuse new spirit amongst the Teachers. Our Schools will now compare favorably with those of other counties, but there is still room for improvement; and a hearty co-operation in the Institute, will impart vigor in the right direction.

Let the Trustees of our Public Schools act liberally in this matter, and say to all the teachers in their employ, "close your school, gentlemen, during the whole week, and go to Bridgeton, and learn all that you can about the best mode of teaching." Do not wait until the Teachers apply to you, as a favour, to let them go; but, consider that the time spent by them, in attending upon the excrcises of the Institute, to be well-spent time; fitting them for the better discharge of their responsible trust.

At her residence, in Bridgeton, September 28th, 1855, Mrs. NANCY STATHEM, in the 80th year of her age. For more than fifty years she has been a faithful follower of Jesus and connected with the Methodist E. For the past ten years she has fulfilled the admonition, "be ye also ready," having had main, for the present, in the hands of T. C. She has left a goodly circle of friends and a few relatives, who rejoice to know, that she has filled up her appointed days and as her earthly house is dissolved, she has gone to possess a mansion, not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens. We might write a volume in her praise; but,

S now constantly receiving and opening a full and complete assortment of new and desirable goods for Spring and Summer wear, to which he would respectfully solicit the citizens of Bridgeton and surrounding country. And though I may regret I have said it; I am going to sell for cash, barter or short approved credit. Thus insuring my customers that they may always depend on what goods they buy of me shall be of the very lowest prices, knowing that persons who give long long credits must necessarily get higher rices for their goods besides losing a great deal by bad debts. (and as all trades must pay or there could be no trade,) good paying customers must pay for the losses by bad ones. Or in other words, if Mr. A. fails to pay his bill, you must charge Mr. B. increased prices for the goods he buys; so you see, Mr. B. has to redouble his efforts to make up for the fraud of Mr. A., which are the evils of the long credit system. DRESS GOODS of every description and latest styles. Plain and Figured black silks, Figured striped and plain Fancy silks.

Manufacturer and Inventor of Safety Patent Squar Upright Wood Box Matches, No. 106 North Fourth St. (above Race), Philada. ATCHES having become an indispensable article in housekeeping, the subscriber, after a great sacrifice of time and money, is enabled to offer to the public an article at once combining Utility and Cheapness. The inventor knowing the danger apprehended on account of the flimsy manner in which Matches are generally packed in paper, has by the aid of new steam machinery of his own invention, succeeded in getting up a Safety Patent Square Upright Wood Box; this box is far preferrable, inasmuch that it occupies no more room than the old round wood box, and contains at least Two Hundred per cent more matches, which, to Shippers, is considerable advantage: It is entirely new, and secure against moisture and spontaneous combustion, and dispels all danger on transportation by means of railroad, steamboat or any other mode of conveyance.

These matches are packed so that one gross or more may be shipped to any part of the world with perfect safety. They are the most desirable ar- of fashionable ticle for home consumption, and the Southern and Western markets, that have ever been invented. Dealers and Shippers will do well to call and exmine for themselves. These Matches are WARRANTED to b superior to anything heretofore offered to the public.
