For the West Jersey Pioneer. "OUR FATHER"

BY A. FLOYD.

When triais do bedim the sky, And hope through fear begins to die, Then do we draw in anguish nigh

When cares and troubles 'round us cling And we get aid from Christ our King,

How joyfully those words we sing "Our Father." And as we all our voices raise To magnify his wondrous ways,

How do our hearts in triumph praise "Our Father." To spend our days, now flying fast, That we may reach our home at last,

We'll go to Him for aid to ask O then we'll be supremely blest

Till then, O! with thy guardian care,

To see Thee in Thy gloriousness,

Be ever with us, ever nigh, To Thee alone we'll raise our cry,

Religion of Revolutionary Men-

I know-I sigh when I think of it-that hitherto the French people have been the least religious of all the nations of Europe. Is it because the idea of God-which arises from all the evidences of Natura and from the depths of human reflection, being the profoundest and weightiest idea of which human intelligence is capable-and the French mind being the most rapid, but the most superficial, the lightest and most reflective of all European races—this mind has not the force and severity necessary to carry far and long the greatest conception of the human understand-

Is it because our governments have always taken upon themselves, to think for us, to believe for us and to pray for us? Is it because we are, and have been a military people, a soldier nation, led by kings, heroes, ambitious men, from battle-field to battle-field, making conquests and never keeping them, ravaging, duzzling, charming, and corrupting Europe; and bringing home her manners, vices, braveightness, and impiety of the camp to the fireside of the people?

I know not, but certain it is, that the nation has an immense progress to make in serious thought, if she wishes to remain free. If If we look at the characters compared as regards religious sentiment, of the great nations of Europe, America, even Asia, the advantage is not for us. The great men of other countries live and die looking at the spectator or at most at posterity.

NEAL DOW ON MAINE.

Neal dow has written the following letter, reply to the inquiries of the editor of The Prohibitionist, respecting the causes of the late reverse in Maine. We print it mainly to expose the falsehood of the story now circulating through the Free Liquor journals, importing that Mr. Dow, since the result of the election, has ceased enforcing the Liquor Law in Portland. It will be quite time enough for the friends of Prohibition to cease enforcing this law when their enemies muster the courage to repeal it:

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 25, 1855. Dear Sir-Your favor of the 21st is just eceived, asking for information in relation to the unexpected result of our late State election. We confidently expected that the vote would show a decided majority in our favor, because all our enemies were not united on any one question, and could not cast, as we thought, so large a vote as ours by 5,000 to 10,000.

We expected to obtain 50,000 votes, and did in fact cast 52,000, and, according to all our experience in elections, this should have given us the majority which we expected, but the returns showed the vote to be larger by about 13,000 than it ever was before, while we think the population of the State has not

A few Sabbaths since, at morning service, one of the most degraded syccimens of humanity that ever greeted my vision, came staggering into the chapel of the House of bruised and swollen, rendered him an object of disgust and terror. "Penniless we begged our way from Vermont to this great city. Here we hired a small cellar in a durk, dismal street, and sent our children out to beg. Many a weary day we spent in that dreary cellar, while our children were wandering in the streets, begging for their drunken parents. About forty days since my little girls went out to beg, and from that hour to this I have not seen them. Without food or fire I clung to my dismal abode, till hunger forced me out to search for my children. My degraded wife had been sent to Blackwell's Island as a vagrant, and Refuge, to the Tombs, and in despair I wandered to the Five Points, and for the last few days. I have lived in Cow Bay, among beggars and thieves. To day I saw two children who if they had not looked so clean and sung so sweetly, I would have called them mine. O! weuld to God they were!"

He reached out his arms; the little ones were timid at first, but they soon climbed up their father's knee,

"Kiss your poor drunken father, my children." But the face of the man was so black and filthy, not a place could be found. Soon they forgot the dirty face, and remembered their poor drunken father; and each entwined their little arms around his neck, and foudly kissed him, the eldest one said with a voice we have reason to think that money was re- that touched every heart: "Father, we are people were misled.

Look at that youthful soldier as he lies pillowed on the body of a comrade. He has and the heavy helmet that confined them lies beside him. A smile still lingers on his lip, as if unwilling to leave the thought that gave it birt. And what was that thought? On the other hand lies the hoary headed general, the hero of many a battle; his few white locks floating in the evening breeze, his uniform pierced with many a wound, and the fragment of his blade still remaining clenched in his hand. The body of many a foe, thickly strewed around him, bear witness that more than one bit the dust, before he met the fatal blow. But he has fought his last battle, his career of glory is ended. The rich, manly voice that cheered the tired soldier on the march is silent, the loud stirring tones that roused them to the charge are hushed in death, and the right arm that wielded the trenchant blade is paralyzed by the icy touch of the king of terrors. The war-worn veteran as he raises the body of his commander, involuntarily drops a tear; for perhaps they had played on the same village green; they had entered the army together, actuated by the same hopes, but the fortune of war had far seperated them; the one had risen, while the other remained the humble soldier. But his cup of glory was filled to the brim; the last flower had been woven in the wreath of victory, and his name will be inscribed in the annals of the nation.

Look at those two as they lie side by side. Their faces bear not the seal of neace, but are disfigured by the contortions of rage. Their hands are clenched in each other's garments, and death has but tightened the grip. Some old grudge has been fearfully settled, and the offering has been made on the altar of revenge.

But while we linger the shades of night have fallen thickly around us, and the hoarse scream of the vulture, the cry of the wolf, the flitting torches, and the groans of the dying; all lend horror to the scene.

Ambition—thou fell destrover of the human race, what crimes are heaped up in thy insatiate soul? The monarch, whose eager desire for more extended territory supersedes his affection for his subjects is prompted by thee, and thou summonest the demon of war to fulfil thy designs, and what ineffable horrors are the result of this direful conclave?-The sovereign ascends so his long coveted posessions through the blood of his subjects, he exults while others are cast down with griefs industry, nor to gather up the amusing inei- last, and grasped a roasted chicken by the ry, and passes the long night in revelling, while he takes the bread out of the mouth of starving families. #### TEACHERS INSTITUTE

On Monday next an effort is to be made to establish a Teachers' Institute in this County It is designed to hold two sessions daily thro' the week, and to have a lecture delivered each evening, upon some topic connected with School Instruction. Although the Instituto is intended particularly for teachers or such as expect to become teachers, all those who feel an interest in the cause of education, will find much to instruct them in its various to engage the attention of the people of a free country than the proper instruction of their youth. With an intelligent and energetic population, the principles of a free government are ever secure. Whilst with ignorance, depravity and voluptuousness; as the history of nearly six thousand years proves, republics can not long be sustained. More deeply then, than any other nation, are we interested in the proper training of our youth; and to securo that, properly qualified teachers are re-

In several sections of this county the subject of education has been agitated from time to time, and a considerable degree of interest manifested in it. The teachers are probably inferior to those of but few counties in the State, and we shall therefore look the more confidently to see the Institute properly susas varied modes, as there are teachers emdifferent branches of instruction. Each department of study is examined, and that form which experience has shown to be best adapted to the youthful understanding, recommended. During the performance of the exercises, the teacher himself takes the position of a pupil, and becomes for the time a learner .- in the subject we have carefully collected. a By this simple arrangement, he is enabled to few statistical items of the cost of using it appreciate much more thoroughly, the position in which his scholars are placed towards him. As the best proof of the esteem and popularity in which these Institutes are held, where they are known, we are assured that the teachers have everywhere resolved to sustain them.

Dr. C. C. Hoagland has been selected to conduct the exercises of the Institute. The Doctor will be found an extremely agreeable and interesting gentleman, with whom no teacher can associate a week without feeling | ed at the rate of five hundred cubic inches to himself improved and gratified with his ac. the hour, will give as much light and burn quaintance.

Let the teachers of the county all dismiss their schools, and attend in a body and show to the State that they appreciate that generous policy which furnishes to them gratuitous instruction in the duties of their arduous four dollars per thousand feet, would cost bu profession. They can then go back to their four cents and six mills; less than one-third ability to impart instruction, a ten-fold compensation for all loss their temporary absence and other data, we have satisfactorily ascerfrom their schools may have occasioned.

In the spring of 1853, while the public mind was filled with doubt and apprehension respecting the fate of Sir John Franklin, Dr. Kane with a party of volunteers fitted out by the private munificence of Mr. Henry Grinnell a private citizen of New York, generously offered to brave the dangers of the Polar Seas | the proper apparatus to save and purify it. to endeavor to discover some traces of the An invention to accomplish this would prove missing navigator. Lighting Buildings with Gas-the Cost, &c.

Not last among the many triumphs of modorn science, is the discovery and application of Gas to the illumination of towns and cities. Its value is so well known and appreciated. that at no very distant day, we shall expect to hear from it as the principal source of artificial light throughout all highly civilized countries. The immense beds of coal distributed over or accessible to all the principal nations of the earth, at once places its manufacture within the range of the active capital of the world, whilst its great superiority as an illuminator, recommends it to the capitalist as a safe investment for his money, and to the citizen as a desirable acquisition to the comforts of his fireside, or place of business. The inexhaustible supply of material for its manufacture, with the boundless demands for its consumption, so long as the constantly resittings. There is no more important subject | curring seasons shall roll onward in their ourse, imparts a stability to the business of manufacturing it, unfelt by the usually fluctuating kinds of ordinary pursuit. Until quite recently it has been considered a luxury beyond the reach of towns that could not boast a city's size. But the experience of several smaller towns than ours, both in N. Jersey and other states, has conclusively proved that it can be successfully and profitably introduced in country towns, and if in other places why not here? The expense of putting up suitable buildings and introducing it would probably not exceed thirty thousand dollars. Its superiority in brilliancy over other lights, its much greater safety from accident than fluid or camphene, and its much greater cleanliness than oil or caudles, combine to give it a claim upon the attention of all classes of householders, particularly of those who live tained. In the management and government upon their own property. Always safe, alof children, there are probably as many and | ways ready for the match, at any hour of the ployed. In large compact cities like Philadelphia where the consumers are numerous and close together it can of course be furnished at a less cost than among the straggling buildings of a country town. In that city the cost ranges, as we are informed from two to twoand-a-half mills per cubic foot. In country towns it is usually furnished at 4 mills per cubic ft. There is a tree on C. R. Alsop's farm in Middletown, Connecticut, which is three feet in diameter, and is one half maple and one half white oak! The body of the tree is round and smooth, and the junction of the two vari eties is marked by a slight ridge in the bark, which would hardly be noticed. Twelve feet from the ground the tree divides; one side in maple, the other oak. The maple throws out a branch that has become entirely surrounded by the oak, and offers on that side the singular appearance of a white oak tree throwing out a maple limb.

Valuable Farm

AT PUBLIC SALE!! VILL be soll at Public Sale, on THURSDAY, the 29th day of November, 1855, at 2 o'clock, P. M., at the residence of the subscriber, near Greenwich, the FARM on which he now lives, situate in Greenwich Township, Cumberland County, New Jersey, on the road from Greenwich to Bridgeton, about two miles from Green wich, one of the best grain and potato markets in the State, and five from Bridgeton, the County

THE SEE AS THE

Contains 154 acres, more or less, upland and banked meadow, about, 90 of which is tillable all of which is in a high state of cultivation. The and is a loan that is well adapted to trucking; but as each field has a spring of water on one side, the subscriber has paid more attention to grazing. There is 20 acres of meadow joining the Farm-land, the remainder is Woodland and Swamp. The Farm-land is divided into eight fields, by good eider fences and it is as clear of briers and all wild seeds as can be, as the subscriber has labored for 30 years to destroy them; the whole is enclosed first, by a hedge of black thorns, which extends over 1 of a mile along th road and with a small piece of fence, the romainder by a stream of water. The Improvements consist of a Double TWO STORY DWELLING.

With shade trees around it, a large Barn Wagon-house and Granary and other Out-buildings, with two never-failing wells of water at the house and bara; Also, a young and good apple orchard of choice fruit, with a variety of peaches, pears, plums and cherries. It is within one mile of Baptist, Presbyterian and Hix Friends Churches, and within 3 miles of an Orthodox Church, and 21 miles of Readstown, where is one Baptist and one Methodist Church, a good mill within a mile and sever al schools within a short distance.

Taking in view its beautiful and healthy location, its productiveness and access to market, renders it worthy the attention of any person wishing to follow the farming business or has money to invest.

A large proportion of the purchase money can remain on the property, if desired. Five per ceut. will be required on signing the conditions.

JAMES FLANAGIN. Greenwich, Oct. 20, 1855.

Dr. Morgridge's Family Medicines

THE success of the subscriber in the treatment of Discuses of the Bowels, on botanic princi-ples, during the last twenty years, and especially in that of Cholera at Millville in 1849, where more than thirty cases were cured under his direction without a failure, has induced him to prepare a set of medicines from innocent vegetable substances; for the cure of this class of diseases.

These medicines have become exceedingly popular in every section of country where they have theen introduced. Within the last two years they have been placed in the hands of hundreds of families for the purpose of having them thoroughly tested; and the result has been most satisfactory. I have called personally on hundreds of those families to ascertain the success of my medicines, and have found that wherever they have been fairly tried they have given catire satisfaction. They seem to act as a specific in Dysentery as well us in all the family of Bowel Complaints. In my travels during the last two Summers, for the urpose of introducing and testing my medicines,

I prescribed them in numerous cases of Dysentery with great success; many were cared, and I have not heard of a single failure where my medicines alone were used and persevered in according to directions. The articles principally relied on in the cure of Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhea, Dysentary, Bowel Consumption, Cholera Infantum, and the Summer Complaints of Children, are Dr. Mos-GRIDGE'S Anti-Dyspeptic Mixture, Cholera Syrup, Cholera Pills and Anti-Bilious Pills for adults, and Lis Bowel Corrector. Childrens Cordial and Aperient for Children. These will be sufficient in all ordinary cases, but there are some violent attacks of disease, and some critical cases in which each set of the medicines.

For the cure of sundry other forms of disease are the following compounds, viz:—

TS now constantly receiving and opening a full and complete assortment of new and desirable goods for Spring and Summer wear, to which he would respectfully solicit the citizens of Bridgeton and surrounding country. And though I may regret I have said it; I am going to sell for cash, barter or short approved credit. Thus insuring my customers that they may always depend on what goods they buy of me shall be of the very lowest prices, knowing that persons who give long long credits must necessarily get higher prices for their goods besides losing a great deal by bad debts. (and as all trades must pay or there could be no trade,) good paying oustomers must pay for the losses by bad ones. Or in other words, if Mr. A. fails to pay his bill, you must charge Mr. B. increased prices for the goods he buys; so you see, Mr. B. has to redouble his efforts to make up for the fraud of Mr. A., which are the evils of the long credit system.

MATCHES! MATCHES! JOHN DONNELLY.

Manufacturer and Inventor of Safety Patent Square
Upright Wood Box Matches,
No. 106 North Fourth St. (above Race), Philada. MATCHES having become an indispensable article in housekeeping, the subscriber, after a great sacrifice of time and money, is enabled to offer to the public an article at once combining Utility and Cheapness. The inventor knowing the danger apprehended on account of the flimsy manner in which Matches are generally packed in paper, has by the aid of new steam machinery of his own invention, succeeded in getting up a Safety Patent Square Upright Wood Box; this box is far preferrable, inasmuch that it occupies no more room than the old round wood box, and contains at least Two Hundred per cent more matches, which, to Shippers, is considerable advantage. It is entirely new, and secure against moisture and spontaneous combustion, and dispels all danger on transportation by means of railroad, steamboat or any other mode of conveyance.

These matches are packed so that one gross or more may be shipped to any part of the world with perfect safety. They are the most desirable article for home consumption, and the Southern and Western markets, that have ever been invented. Dealers and Shippers will do well to call and examine for themselves.

**These Matches are WARRANTED to be superior to anything heretofore offered to the public.
