From the New Jersey Standard. A HOME TO REST IN. BY HENRY MORFORD.

The world dear John, as the old folks told us Is a world of trouble and care; Many a cloud of grief will enfold us, And the sunshine of joy is but rare. But there's something yet to be bright and blest in No matter how humble the lot: The world still gives us a home to rest in Sweet home! dear home! on the northern heather On the sunniest southern plain: The Lapland hut in its wintry weather, The tent of the Indian main-Be it gorgeous wealth that our temple is drest in Be it poor and of little worth Oh home, our home—a home to rest in, Is the dearest thing on earth.

Its holiest, happiest spot.

But time, dear John, is using us badly, Our homes crumble day by day: And we're laying our dear ones, swiftly and sadly, In the dust of the valley away. There's a death-robe soon for us both to be drest A place for us under the sod: Be heaven at last the home we shall rest in, The rest of the people of God!

Rev. F. D. Huntington.

No young man who has a just sense of his own value, will sport with his own character. A watchful regard to his character in early youth will be of inconceivable value to him in all the remaining years of his life. When tempted to deviate from strict propriety of deportment, he should ask himself-Can I afford this? Can I endure he after to look upon this?

It is of amazing worth to a young man to have a pure mind; for this is the foundation of a pure character. The mind, in order to be kept pure, must be employed in topics of thought which are in themselves lovely. chastened and elevating. Thus the mind bath in its own power the selection of its themes of meditation. If youth only knew how durable and how dismal is the injury produced by the indulgence of degraded thoughts-if they only realized how frightful were the moral depravities of such a cherished habit of loose imagination produces on the soul—they would shun them as the bite of a serpent. The power of books to excite the imagination is a fearful element of moral death when employed in the service of vice. The cultivation of an amiable, elevated and glowing heart, alive to all the beauties of nature and the sublimities of truth, invigorates the intellect, gives to the will, independence of baser passions, and to the affections that power of adhesion to whatever is pure and good and grand, which is adopted to lead out he whole nature of man into those scenes of action and impression by which its energies may be most appropriately employed and by which its high destination may be most effectually reached.

The opportunities for exciting these faculties in benevolent and self-denying efforts for the welfare of our fellow men, are so many and great that it really is worth while to live. The heart which is truly evangelically benevolent, may luxuriate in an age like this. The promises of God are inexpressibly rich, the main tendency of things so manifestly in accordance with them, the extent of moral influence is so great, and the effects of its employment so visible, that whoever aspires after benevolent action, and reaches forth for things that remain for us, to the true dignity

AGRICULTURE.

THE WAY TO PRESERVE EGGS.

Take a pine barrel, (an old barrel well leaned out answers very well,) and put in the eggs when they are sound, fresh and clean; cover them with lime water, made like common whitewash; the lime settles around the eggs, and the water stands on the top of the lime, (the eggs all under lime.) Look at the barrel once in a while to see if four inches of water, a little more or less, covers the whole. If the water is all dried the lime gets hard, and they are difficult to take out when wanted, and you have to carry them somewhere else to wash off the lime; so always keep water on the top. The lime water must be made at least two weeks bofore you pour it on the eggs, or your eggs will be boiled hard enough to carry in your pocket.

When putting eggs away for future use use a pine pail to wet the lime, and stand it by the side of the barrel in the cellar until it is cold enough; then pour it on the eggs, and out all dirt, or the eggs will look a poor dingy color. Be careful about this in the lime and water, and you will have fine white eggs.

I cannot tell how long they will keep, as I ever were. I always preserve in this way and have done so for over thirty years with pering accounts, inquire of the voters "what's perfect success. I have seen people have eggs out?" all spoiled, and have heard them say they would never put any more in lime water .down and headed up. They do well for a voyage of two or three weeks, but for daily use at sea, for whaling or other long voyages, the first method is sure, and perhaps the best JOHN WETHERLY. method known. Geneva, N. ### WHAT WE SAW AT THE CIRCUS.

The celebrated Dan Rice and his circus was in town last Saturday, accompanied by the great American bear; a camel, the elephant and other sights, to make the "show" complete. Fortunately for the collapsed condition of our "wallet." we had a free ticket and went to the exhibition. Having seen the elephant and other curiosities of Dan's Circus at various times heretofore, we turned our attention more particularly to the different varieties of humanity who were witnessing the performances. We saw a man there with his wife and six children, who had come four or five miles through the mud to enjoy the sport. It cost him about two pollars for tickets and as much more for incidentals, but he is "too poor to take a paper," and only sends his children to school when the public money is used. It was something of a "show" to see how his boys and girls devoured gingerbread, discussed the merits of Dan's mules, and gazed with profound astonishmen at the elephant.

We saw a man there who had rode eight miles through the mud, put up at a hotel in attended by her husband, stepped from the smoked a cigar, and looked as large as if he had owned the concern. The fellow owes us ted by her great beauty, the young man gazfive dollars on subscription, and it was with ed upon her with a fixed stare. By chance redeem the animal life, and clothe all rude witnessed the way he "went it" on our unusual in it, made it a subject of remark to and uncomely things with its own leaf-bearing money. ever attended a public lecture, and could not under any circumstances be induced to contribute their money towards securing a course of lectures this winter, or for the purpose of sustaining a village literary society.

When we came out we found a delinquent who had been owing us these two years, engaged in pitching small rings at upright nails which were driven in a board at the rate of a shilling a game, in advance. He "ain't able to pay" for what papers he has had, or take any now; and his family is half-clad and poorly provided with the necessaries of life.

All these sights we saw, and a great many nore, and we came away fully impressed with the conviction that people are more willing to spend money for the gratification of their foolish propensities that for the comforts and necessities which would render them happy and intelligent. Any kind of a "show" will bring from 1500 to 2000 people to town, but a meeting to advance the interests of education or push forward some great and useful public enterprise could not possibly attract an judience of more than 200 persons. #### MISTAKES OF A NIGHT.

cribes the following ludicrous incident which occurred on board the night train from New York: Two married couples took their seats in the cars at New York, bound for Boston, in close proximity, and about eight o'clock they both indulged in balmy slumbers, the heads of the wives resting upon their husband's shoulders. When the cars reached Worcester the gentlemen stepped out, and the ladies, apparently exhausted, slept on. The delay was brief, and on re-entering the cars, the husband's whose eyes were scarcely op-oned, exchanged seats, and in a few moments resumed their natural position, and were soon in the land of dreams. At Framingham the cars stopped again, one of the ladies said:
"Will you have time to get me a drink of water here?" The affrighted gentleman, not recognizing the music of his wife's voice exclaimed: "By heavens, have I made a mistake? This isn't you Tilly?" "No," exclaimed the lady, "and you ain't my husband. "Perhaps we had better exchange scats, exclaimed the husband in the seat immediately in the rear, who had awoke, "for there's a slight mistake here." The second lady, too fatigued, did not awake, and as the temporary husband endeavored to shift his burden so as to move, she merely ejaculated, "Do keep still."—Buston Gazette.

A good joke is told at the expense of a number of our city girls, whose names we are under bonds to withhold. During the last week they took advantage of the beautiful Indian summer weather, to pay a visit to a country cousin, living a short distance from Wood's Mills. The party, some six in number, were out by the roadside, enjoying the hay, upon which they asked and obtained permission to ride. After considerable difficulty on paper are in every particular as good as the they all got on top of the load, and the man sunshine, when a man drove up with a load of they all got on top of the load, and the man drove off with his doubly precious cargo of hay and calico. The hay trembled with very ecstasy and all went merrily until they reached a large mud pond, which covers the road for about fifty square feet at the top of the hill this side of Wood's Mill, when the wagon upset, and landed the hay and girls together

AN EXACTING HUSBAND.

Wycherly, the comedian, married a girl of eighteen, when he was verging on eighty.-Shortly after, Providence was pleased, in its mercy to the young woman, to call the old man to another and a better world. But ere he took his final departure from this, he sumof the Missouri, and the oriforous particles of moned his young wife to his bedside and announced to her that he was dying; whereupon she wept bitterly. Wycherly lifted himself up in the bed, and gazing with tender emotion on his weeping wife said-

"My dearest love, I have a solemn promise to exact from you before I quit your side forever here below. Will you assure me my wishes will be attended to by you, however great the sacrifice you will be called on to make?" Horrid ideas of suttees, of poor Indian widows being called on to expire on funeral pyres with the bodies of their deceased lords and masters, flashed across the brain of the poor American liberty's flew, and sorn upon the woman. With convulsive effort and desper-

"My beloved wife, the parting request I have to make of you, is-that when I am gone, (here the poor woman sobbed and cried most vehemently,) when I am in my cold grave—(Mrs. Wycherly tore her hair,) when I am no longer a heavy burden and a tie on you-('Oh, for Heaven's sake!' howled Mrs. W., what am I to do?') I command you my dear young wife—('yes, y.e.s, love,' sobbed Mrs. W.) on pain of incurring my malediction-'y-e-s, dear,' groaned the horror-stricken wife, never to marry so old man again!"

Mrs. Wycherly dried her eyes, and in the most fervent manner, promised that she never would-and, the faithful woman kept her word for life.

FORTY ACRES OF BIBLES .- The last number of the Bible Record, the useful and sug-gestive little paper of the Bible Society, states the circulation for the past year to be eight hundred thousand Bibles and Testaments. These books, he estimates, if they were spread out on a plain surface and computed by square measure, would cover more than four acres.

If the same issue were computed by long measure, they would extend more than eighty miles. If by solid or cubic measure more than one hundred and fifty solid cords. And those cords, piled upon another, would reach higher than the spire of Trinity Church, New York, or the fulls of Ningara. The entire issues for thirty seven years of the Society's existence would cover more than forty acres with Bibles and Testaments or extend in long measure nearly a thousand miles, or make more than eighteen hundred and fifty solid cords.

A society has recently been formed for the purpose of collecting facts and statistics as to the results of the legal suppression of the liquor traffic. The Hon. Samuel Fessenden, of Maine, is President, and there are Vice Presidents in almost every State in the Union -among whom we notice the Rev. Lyman Beccner, D. D., Gov. Clark of New York, Gov. Bingham of Michigan, Gov. Dutton of Connecticut, Mayor Conrad of Philadelphia, and numerous other prominent supporters of the Maine Law movement. It already consists of about seven hundred members, many of whom have contributed facts and statistics of an important character to the records of the CURING SHEEP SKINS WITH WOOL ON. Take one teaspoonful of alum and two of saltpeter; pulverize and mix well together, then prinkle the powder on the flesh side of the kin, and lay the two flesh sides together leaving the wool outside. Then fold up the skins as tightly as you can and put them in a dry place. In two or three days as soon as hey are dry, scrape them with a blunt knife till clean and supple. This completes the process, and makes a most excellent saddle cover. Other skins which you desire to cure with fur on, may be treated in the same way.

Postage Stamps .- The Washington Union has been requested to state in answer to interrogatories, that the law makes no compensation to postmasters for the sale of postage stamps, or stamped envelopes, except by the illowance of commission on such as are used in the prepayment of postage on letters and packages sent from their offices. The commission allowed on mailable matter prepayed by stamps or stamped envelopes sent from an office is the same as if the prepayment had been effected in money.

THE CLOSING YEAR.

Ere we again go to press, the present year things that were. Every season has its peculiar and appropriate reflections. To this particularly should belong the graver and more serious considerations belonging to eternity.

Like the last hours of human life, it is a fitting time to call up the memories of the past, and see how far the gay promises of its dawning hours have been realized. Thousands that entered it with bright hopes and joyous anticipations, have not been allowed to witness its earthly closing. Fond families, whose heart bound circle seemed too sacred for the tread of death, are sitting clothed in sackcloth, awaiting in vain the return of that loved voice, whose tones shall gladden it no more forever. Cities and towns have been desolated by the ruthless hand of man and the threes of convulsed nature, while the dread pestilence has stalked at midday, and made a nation mourn These are no pleasant memories; and yet, like the soft wailings of the midnight breeze, they steal over the saddened soul with a sweet and gentle influence, speaking only of deeds of goodness and awakening life's holiest sympathies. Oh! who, that has smoothed a dying gayest hour that thoughtless folly ever conceived. Who would exchange the gratifying recollections, though wearied by long endurance at the couch of the suffering, with its well earned and conscious reward of "well done good and faithful servant" whispered by the lips of angels, for the commingled gaities of a thousand worlds like this. Pleasure may becken onward with gilded wings, and allure to its gay haunts with glittering promises, and vet, with all its pomp and pageantry, it cannot leave the memory without a sting. As with men, so with nations. Ages of unclouded prosperity could not have awakened the the noblest achievements of science and artonly things, which will cause the year eightkindliest and holiest sympathics of humanity, like one single season of pestilence and death as at Norfolk and Portsmouth. Nor could the most splendid triumphs of civil or military skill, so well demonstrate the strength of the cord that binds in one union these States, nor so beautifully illustrated to the world, that noting as worthy of public commendation the in the active charities of life, the great American heart indeed knows no North no South, no East or no West. Fanatics may rage, and politicians coolly calculate the cost of a separation, the grand lesson of this past year, rising in sublime grandeur above their cobweb sophistry, has shown a moral strength content themselves with seeing only the worst in Union, which no argument can overthrow. no phiosophy weaken. But these are not the and carefully shut their eyes to any redeemeen hundred and fifty five to be looked back to as a season of deep interest. Throughout the entire length and breadth of the land the labors of the husbandman have been rewarded with an unexampled abundance. It seems as though a kind Providence in his boundless love to man, had decreed that the Western world should the more abundantly bring forth to replenish that which the hand of war has so wickedly and ruthlessly destroyed. The demand thus created for our surplus products, forms an important era in the commercial history of this nation. Upon our political horizon, clouds are hovering, and though but as the hand for size, who shall tell what another rolling year may bring forth. Internal commotions move in troubled waves against the ship of state, and for the first dare kindle up his border feuds against his part of the country at the shortest notice and brother, while upon our western frontier a sayage and bloody encounter has already commenced, to end ultimately in the utter extermination of the wild tribes of the forest. The fields of science and discovery have not Been neglected. A noble Son of the Union in the cause of science and humanity crowning his name with an immortal wreath, has h dared though barriers of the north, and revealed to our astonished world the amazing fact, that the unhospitable clime of the north is washed by an iceless sea, great in its extent. Such are the leading aspects of the past year and such the situation in which we are prepared to commence the New. Profiting by the lessons of the past, with its unfulfilled promises, shall we not pledge ourselves anew with the full confidence that an unswerving original articles apon a Bank with the full confidence that an unswerving other produce and stock markets; and a Bank determination and perseverance, will carry us onward to the full accomphishment of life's noblest duties. . BRIDGETON LYCEUM.

This much needed Association has at last | Will the European War Continue or not? been established in Bridgeton, and if sufficient encouragement is given by our citizens. it will undoubtedly prove a lasting benefit to the town. Our readers are aware that a preliminary meeting was held on the 18th inst., and a committee appointed to procure a speaker for Tuesday evening next, the 1st of Jan.

We are pleased to state that the speaker secured for that occasion, is our distinguished townsman, Hon. J. T. Nixon. The interest felt by him for all movements calculated to advance the interests of Bridgeton or promote the welfare and happiness of the public, will, we doubt not, prompt him as usual, to deliver a lecture that will amply compensate all who there will be a large audience present.

The lecture will commence at 7½ o'clock, in the Town Hall, Sheppard's building. All who wish to join the association are requested to meet with the members after the audience

We learn that the members of the M. E. Church at Cedarville and Fairton, as an evidence of their love and esteem for their Pastor, Rev. W. Walton, intend to make him a

We have often thought of recommending a similar bond of union to our Bridgeton and discretion. In the meantime let us see friends, but our bashfulness, you know, has pressed us in the wrong way.

We are indebted to the kindness of Mr. Lewis Young, for the detailed list of deaths will have passed away, and the stirring scenes in town for the present year, which we toto which it has given birth, become among the day present to our readers. They have been collected with great care and may be relied upon as correct.

A Good Word for the Camden and Amboy Railroad Company.

We like, very much, says the editor of the Keyport N. J. Standard, to see the old axium "Give the devil his due," carried out .-And nothing pleases us better than to be able to say a good word for any person or body of sion to find serious fault. We have been obligpersons against whom we generally have occaed for conscience' sake, to say very many harsh things of the Railroad monopoly which has so long disgraced the State-both of its exclusiveness, and arrogance and of its managemet, and we rejoice to be able to say, that there is something to praise in them.

Nothing was heard from the Company, after the terrible disaster at Burlington, to indicate that any measures were to be adopted to prevent a recurrence of the calamity. It seemed to be urged by the Company, that its rules were good enough and comprehensive enough; and that there really was no blame attached, in that catastrophe, to any one else than the reckless Doctor who drove so caresuffering with a single drop of water, would lessly across the track. At least such was the Russians remains to be proved. The movepart with its sweet remembrances, for the conclusion drawn from the Report of the Com-

> But we are glad to learn that if any such idea really prevailed in the Corporation, they have thought better of the matter. By the rules prescribed in a new set of Regulations just now issued by the Company, the most careful arrangements are made to prevent any accident upon the line, especially in backing trains. In the event of such backing, it is ordered that only a very low rate of speed shall be attained, and that look-outs and signals shall be used with the utmost vigilance. And it is further ordered that a rate of speed beyond thirty miles the hourshall not be attained on the road at any time, whether for the making up of lost time, or otherwise.

With these precautions very much of the danger incident to the road will be obviated. Without a double track all will not be done that ought to be done; but we cannot forbear effort made, in this, to guard against accident so far as may be while only a single track is that a bloody and exhausting war is to be used upon the road. Will our New York contemporaries please to see some of the notices of these new arrangements, and to mention them when they do? Or will they, as usual, side of everything belonging to New Jersey, ing traits? We shall see.

CLOTHING. - We would invite attention to the advertisement in another column, of Mr. James D. Weldon. It is very seldom we recommend our readers to go to the city and purchase clothing or anything else that can be had of our townsmen on reasonable terms, yet as there are hundreds from this section who buy their clothing in Philadelphia, we would direct them where they can be accommodated with the best kind and on the most reasonable terms. Mr. Weldon is well known by many in Bridgeton as an excellent tailor and one who will sell goods right. If you cannot be suited from his extensive stock of superior ready-made clothing, he will take your measure, have them out out and made at his establishment, by some of the best workmen in the city and forward them to any pend on having them made up from no other goods than such as you direct, and certain to be cut according to order. Those who buy clothing at wholsale, to sell again, will do well to call at Mr. Weldon's wholesule and retail Clothing Store.

Ever since the commencement of hostilities betwixt Russia and the Allied Powers, we have heard of the rumors of peace, but an impartial judge must be compelled to demur in taking all circumstances connected with the quarrel into consideration before he comes to the conclusion that a pacific adjustment will be speedily arrived at. As with individuals, so with nations, it is easier to get into a dispute than to get out of it-and when blows are substituted for words, it must be flict-except some successful arbitrator be found. But is there a nation that can medimay be present on that occason. We trust ate between the proud nations of the West and the arrogant empire of the North? Austria has been mentioned and tried over and over again, but her Emperor by his recent undignified submission to the Pope has proved himself to be altogether unequal to the task of negotiating in an affair of such vast importance. Prussia and the Germanic confederation may be placed in the same category. The umpirage of the United States would be scorned by the "crowned heads," but perhaps the time may come when this mighty of the world. How essential then that our position at this time should be one of dignity > how the belligerents are getting on. A dispatch published by the English government tells us that Kinburn is to be kept during the winter by the French troops only. The English who were engaged in its capture are to be sent back to the Crimean camp; we learn that the Prussian Emperor has returned from Nicholaieff to St. Petersburg, without making the expected visit to the Polish capital of Warsaw. The general position of matters in the Crimea may be thus summed up. The anticipated retreat, destruction or possible capture of Prince Gortschakoff and his hundred and twenty thousand men before the setting in of winter has not been realized .-The bad state of the roads is the ostensible cause of this failure on the part of the Allies but the strong central position of the Russians must be honestly acknowledged as the sole serious objection to such success. The advance of Pelissier beyond the Bellbeck, has proved to be but a reconnoissance in force, and the advance from Eupatoria as nothing more. From this we may infer that the Allied army is not sufficiently powerful to be enabled to advance in safety upon so many points at once, and by the latest Russian dispatches we learn that Pelissier had fallen back to the valley of Baldar, and General D'Allonville had returned to Eupatoria.-From every appearance, the campaign, as far > as the Allies are concerned, appears to be over. Whether it is to be so on the part of the zie Height, the burning the furze, the clearing the roads, and the constant reports from the spics that a serious attack upon Tchernaya camp was meditated indicates some intention of the sort on the part of the Russians.

The Journals that speak in the name of Russia, deny that any new propositions have been sent from St. Petersburg, and allege that it is the Emperor of France who is sending round the olive branch; we should rather say the sword.

Several meetings have been held in London lately in favor of endeavoring to bring the war to a close, but they have not been successful. Amendments declaring the war just and righteous, and asserting the propriety of its prosecution, were carried by large majorities. In Glasgow and other Scottis towns, meetings have also been held to test the public feeling on the point, and with similar result. Thus, then we may conclude carried on by three empires and two kingdoms to the disgrace of the world and the degradation of our common human nature for an indefinite period of time.

Under such circumstances it is the duty of all true philanthropists to pray that the gospel may hasten its triumph and establish the reign of grace, that men as well as angels may meet to sing, "Glory to God in the highest. on earth peace, good will toward men."

Singling out his victim, a huge bull, he "let slip the dogs of war." The buffalo, badly wounded, halted to recover his breath. John Bull halted also. After a short pause, and a deliberate survey of his antagonist, the enraged buffalo charged upon the horse and his noble rider, making no distinction between noble and ignoble blood. Down came horse and When John Bull rose to his feet, he saw his charger going on at full speed, a little in advance of the herd, and the wounded bull ready to renew the dreadful assault .withal a nobleman, John Bull was too firm to retreat. Deeds, documents, &c., have been freely circulated, but an American Buffalo. - Among the various the first exhibition of the Society; has been emphatically the feature of their operations. No one visited the fair at Camden having the least interest in our present condition or future advancement, but was impressed with its importance and triumphant results. It was the first effort, and made amid discouraging circumstances, but it was successful.-The people of New Jersey were brought together: new implements, seeds and processes were placed under personal inspection; opinions were advanced, sentiments exchanged and the basis for more extensive useful ness securely laid.

Thus much has been accomplished, but it of the Society. It is intended to establish mink skins are made up into a "set of furs' correspondence and exchanges with the societies of other States and countries, and to glean from them the fullest possible information which shall tend to the advancement of Agricultural interests; the same to be freely and widely disseminated. County organizations and Farmers' Clubs should be established and those means be employed which best promote the interchange of ideas, and the circulation of practical and profitable knowledge. In this work the influence and co-operation of all is requested. The payment of one dollar constitutes one a member for the current year, entitling a person to all its advan-tages, admission to Fair &c. Will not the reader become a member, or if already such endeavor to excite an interest in his vicinity in behalf of this useful Society? Jerseymen must respect such a cause!

The annual meeting will be held at Trenton, on the 3d Tuesday of January, 1856 (15th) Col. B. P. Johnson, of the N. Y. State Agricultural Society, will deliver an address on the occasion. All are respectfully invited

From the Sandusky (Ohio) Vindicator. Death of a Miser-$50,000 aching for irculation .- The well known miser, John lerryman, a citizen of this place, died very uddenly on Friday night of last week. The deceased was a German, who by some means had amassed a handsome fortune, which we have heard variously estimated at from twenty-five to fifty thousand dollars, but unfortunately for the public as well as himself, he belonged to the lowest grades of misers. In fact, the most avaricious and loathsome character of that class ever painted by the master hand of Dickons, to use a cant phrase, " was not a patching to him."

Of his history, place of nativity, or friends nothing is known, and any allusion to these matters, even by his most intimate friends, al-vays exasperated him. He leaves, so far as at present is known, no one to inherit his estate, which will in all probability escheat to the State. No will has been discovered, and it is not likely he left any. The manner of life and parsimonious habits of the deceased are almost incredible. For the last sixteen years he has constantly worn the same blue, linsy woolsey wamus and pantaloons, carefully run or darned al over with strong thread, so as to prevent the possibility of wearing out, except on some important occasions, such as land sales or something of that nature, when they gave way to a suit of black velvet that he often boasted had served him faithfully for forty vears He contracted the disease of which he died by walking over the bad roads during the most inclement weather of the season, all the way to Butnam and Henry counties, to pay his taxes on the land he owned there, sas. without sufficient clething to protect him from the cold. In fact, we are informed that he scarcely ever wore a shirt or under gar ment, and that the one he had ou when he died had not been changed for over three months. It is related of him that, but a short time since, notwithstanding the pile of gold and silver he had hoarded away, he actually carried an old horse shoe he had picked up some place, about the shops, and he succeeded in selling it for half a dime.

From the Minnesota (St. Paul) Daily Times Further Particulars of the Fate of Sir John Franklin.—Considerable excitement was created among many of our citizens on Monday evening and yesterday morning, by the arrival at the American House of an Eng lishman by the name of James B. Stuart, and some four or five half-breeds direct from the Arctic ocean. Mr. Stuart left on the expe to the present time. We could not glean much from him as his tongue seemed to be lowing from one of his guides.

The discovery of the point, where Sir John Franklin and his party perished has been made

Mr. Stuart describes the region as dreary in the extreme-not a blade of grass nor a stick of timber met the eye. No game of any kind could be found.

The Esquimaux, from whom their information was obtained by signs, pressed their fin-gers into their cheeks, and placing their hands on their stomaths, endeavoring to indicate the manner of their horrible death. They were charged with killing them, but merely answered with their sighs.

It was a very expeditious trip, it being only thit teem months since the party left the led River settlements. ted River settlements.

> Furs, Hoops, &c - We are grateful that we are not a woman—a woman of fashion we mean-because we are not fond of being made a laughing stock of. The despotic Goddess who presides 'over the "toggery" of the fair sex, has, for centuries been designated as the queen of fools," and at no time has she deserved the epithet more than at present .-Fashion is a fool; but we are sorry to say that she is as potent a fool now as she was four centuries ago, and that her loyal subjects are as plentiful, if not more so. Fashion has ruined many a business man, and will ruin many more before the millenium knocks milliners, dressmakers and furriers in the head. Furs are "highly fashionable" now, and many a thriving tradesman is bankrupted by s desired to still further increase the benefits mink, sable and other skins. In New York, and three, five and seven hundred dollars are paid for the " sett" which prodably cost twenv dollars at the utmost. Mink sable is made of the common mink skins, many of which we have shot and sold for ten cents cach, and for which the manufactures do not pay more than fifteen rents each. It requires, say ten skins to make a sable sett, the cost of which -the material we mean—is about one dollar and a half, the work upon the sett' costs probably four or five dollars, giving the furrier a profit of four hundred and ninety odd dollars on a five hundred dollar sett.

This is something of a profit for a business man to pay, and soon enriches the furriers while it depletes the pockets of the customer. The fashionable wowen do not, or will not think of this thing; they will not reflect that they compel their husbands to pay a thousand times more than the actual value of their hirsute ornament, and will not believe, what is the actual fact, that the majority of them are wearing the skins of cats, rabbits, muskrats, minks, skunks and dogs, and imagining them the finest of furs—because they were high priced. We happen to know something about this matter, and know that many a suit of furs that cost the maker not more than ten dollars has been sold to fashionable ladies for nearly as many hundreds.

Do any of our lady readers wear hoops?we hope not, for we believe no sensible woman would be so stupidly silly. Men are not such fools that they cannot see the effort made by anseriferous females to "stick out" and many a hearty laugh do t'ey have over the unnatural circumference achieved by coopererized women. Masculines know well that the locomotive extremities of the opposite sex are not four or five feet thick, and that their fashionable diameter is the result of hickory and whalebone. If a behooped woman would take the trouble to look about her, she would notice that sho is a source of intense merriment to all the sensible men and women near her. Do the wearers know that hoops were tirst invented by an unmarried woman who had lost her virtue and who resorted to hoops to hide her shame? Do they know too, that it is a well known fact; and that a hooped dress suggests the idea that some such circumstance has caused its adoption? Men know it, and are naturally suspicious of the wearer of a hooped skirt. We would a thousand times rather see a Bloomer dress, much as we detest it. When will our females think and act for themselves, despite the dictates of Fashion? Will they discard the ridiculous barrelism when they learn that the revival of this foolish fashion is owing to the "interesting" situation of the Empress of France? Jersey City Telegraph.

phia, I have purchased a large and beautiful assortment of goods of all the latest styles and pat-terns, and I will just say to the young men if they want to shine among the ladies as they go through the Jersey sand, just come along with their dough to the cheap hat store and purchase one of my Shanghai hats and they will put you right thro' —a few more left of the same sort—and I will also say to my Bridgeton friends, that the turnpike is nearly done and if they will just gear up some of those 2-40 nags that they have there and come down to our place we will sell you hats that will do you good as long as you wear them. I have silk hats from $1 25 to $4 00; caps from 12 cts., to $1 50; wool hats 62 cts. to $1 37; fur hats from $1 12; to $2 75; childrens' fancy hats from $1 12 to $2 50; also all other kinds of hats according to the state of the ordingly cheap, together with a good assortment good in very stormy weather. N. B. Hats of my own manufacture, repaired

WILLIAM B. STATTON, Prosperity Row, Millville, N. J. Sept. 8. A PRETTY FOOT.

"There's magic in a pretty foot, And well the Ladies know it, And she who has a pretty one

Is very apt to show it. ES! all the Ladies might have a pretty foot if they would call on the subscriber. Owing to the constant changes and the Great variety of designs now in vogue, the present season calls for a more critical and nicer discrimination than any that has preceded it. The subscriber would respectfully call the attention of the Ladies to his Spring and Summer style of Gaiters, which will surpass any thing of the kind heretofore offered to the public. Ladies in want of a splendid gaiter will do well to call at The Ladies Boot & Shoe Store. Where they will be suited in a style that will give credit to the wearer as well as the seller.

Misses and childrens Boots & Shoes always on and. All of my work is made under my own inspection, so the public may rely on getting the worth of their money.

SAMUEL L. FITHIAN, AVING purchased the right of making, using and selling, Cyrus Buler's patent paint mixture; would hereby offer it for sale to the citizens of Bridgeton and vicinity, having used and experimented with the mixture, I feel perfectly tage of any person having painting done to use it.

The mixture being a new article to the Public, I do not expect or ask them to use it at their own risk; but am willing in every instance (where it is used according to direction) to warrent it; and if at the end of two years after the paint is put on, the person using it is not satisfied. I will repaint at my own expense, with either Pure Lead or the best Zinc, at their own option. Now the advantages, to a person using it are as follows, viz:—First, they save 33 per cent on the first cost. Second, the paint mixture gives the paint a very beautiful gloss, consequently, they have a much handsomer job of work done by using it.—
Third, it will last from two to three years longer than pointing done in the old way of mixing.— orthly and last they run very little or no risk.
