THE MAIDEN'S RESOLUTION.

Oh! I'll tell you of a fellow. Of a fellow I have seen. Who is neither white or yellow, But is altogether green! Then his name it isn't charming, For it's only common "Bill;" And he wishes me to wed him. But I hardly think I will!

He has told me of a cottage. Of a cottage 'mong the trees, And don't you think the gaukey Tumbled down upon his knees! While the tears the fellow wasted Were enough to turn a mill, And he begged me to accept him, But I hardly think I will!

Oh, he whispered of devotion, Of devotion pure and deep. But it seemed so verry silly That I nearly fell asleep: And he thinks it would be pleasant, As we journey down the hill, To go hand and hand together. But I hardly think I will! He was here last night, to see me, And he made so long a stay, I began to think the blockhead Ne'er meant to go away. At first I learned to hate him, And I know I hate him still, Yet he urges me to have him,

But I hardly think I will! I am sure I wouldn't choose him, But the very duce is in it; For he says if I refuse him That he couldn't live a minute, And you know the blessed Bible Plainly says "we musn't kill" So I've thought the matter over, And I rather think I will.

MORAL IMPROVEMENT.

"They that cry down Moral Honesty, cry down that which is a great part of my Religion -my duty toward God, and my duty toward man. What care I to see a man run after a sermon, if he cozens and cheats as soon as he comes home. On the other side, Morality must not be without Religion; for if so, it may change, as I see convenience. Religion must govern it."

There are some old croakers to be found in every place who are continually complaining of modern innovation and who are deploring the moral retrogade of the world-Man- it had literally, and in many words condemned assertion. I am at a loss to account for this except it be explained by Pope:

"Vice is a monster of so frightful mien, As to be hated needs but to be seen: Yet seen too oft, familiar with its faco,

We first endure, then pity, then embrace." It is true that we may brood over a thing so long and intently, that we find ourselves firm believers in what we once detested as utterly false. This I trust is the case with that class of persons. I cannot think that a raceeding five folios in length, and which are tional man can calmly come to such a conclusion, after an honest reflection, that the world is not progressing in moral improve-

> Such persons will read you a long lecture. upon the follies and vices of the present day, and then sigh for the good old Puritan days.

With all due reverence to those venerable sires, and their worshipper, we would just say the days when a boy dare not whistle on Sunday; when the weekly return of that day was dreaded as we would fear the approach of some deadly contagion-days when a woman was tried for witchery, because the apple was found enclosed in the dough without any aperture for its entrance-days when all who did not worship God as they did, were banished from their country, their firesides, and everything that was held sacred. We believe our worthy ancestors were sincere, but that does not make a wrong, right. Has there been no moral improvement since those days?

Again, the present session of Congress is frequently compared with former sessions. and an inference drawn that it is decreasing in morals; weeks were consumed organizing, but what is the result? a Republican speaker. for once the friends of freedom have stood firm, thus evincing to the world their determination to present a bold front to the slave Aristocracy; for a long, long time our Congressional halls have not been graced with men possessing so much moral courage; men true as steel to the best interests of their country. I trust, and have reason to believe that we are on the eve of a great reformation, when men shall have the courage to say to the slavery extensionests, 'thus far shalt thou go, and no farther.' How anxiously did the friends of freedom await the result, and what wonder that guas were fired, houses illuminated, dinners given, toasts drank in favor of Which o'er each heart rolls its tumultuous wave; the champion of liberty; yes, the first session of the thirty-fourth Congress will ever be remembered with pride by true patriots.

> What, not improving morally? When Churches, Schools, Academis and Colleges, are everywhere detting our land? Every one must admit that we are intellectually improving; our Railroads, steamboats and Telegraphs are proofs of this, if ignorance is the parent of crime, on the other hand, education must obviate it; then intellectual and moral improvement can not be antagonistic, but must go If we are intellectually improving, we are morally improving. But mankind is undoubtedly religiously improving, perhaps there is not the excitement new that there was during the days of Wesley and Whitefield, but every one must admit there is a steady but sure increase in religion. "He that is a good man is three-quarters of his way toward the being a good christian, whereever he lives, or whatseever he is called."-"The head truly enlightened will presently lit was to be used, supplied its place. have a wonderful influence in purifying the heart; and the heart really affected with goodness, will much conduce to the directing of the head." I would not measure men by Sundays, without regarding what they do all the week after," but by their devotedness to their God, and to their fellow man. Then if we are religiously improving we are morally men stepped into the arena. improving. What, not morally progressing? while we have such men as J. B. Gough. Elihu Burrit, T. W. Brown, J. Codding, W. II. Seward, Hale, Giddings, Greely, and a host of others.

Can we believe that we are not progressing; while we have such evidences as these and hosts of others that might be adduced were it necessary? Certainly not!

The farmer, grasping the family Bible and his gun, acknowledges his eternal indebtedness to his loving neighbors, who shout so joyously as to cause the horses to start up. And now, with tears and other demonstrations of most exquisite pleasure, this happy family departs its home, ardently hoping to figure as bravely at some future 'moving-time.

The vocation of the housewife is not merey to cook her busband's dinners, sew on his buttons, and keep his house in order. Her appellation has a higher and broader signifi-cation. The best description of a good housewife ever written, can be found in the last chapter of Proverbs. #### BRIDGETON STEAMBOAT

We have repeatedly called the attention of our citizens, particularly the agricultural portion of the community, to the importance of baying a regular steamboat connection with Philadelphia. Cumberland County in proportion to the area cultivated is beginning to be recognized as one of the most productive portions of the State. The soil is varied, and extremely susceptible of easy improvement and cultivation, and is particularly adapted to the growth of the various articles demanded for city consumption. Since the Cohansey discontinued running here, the preductive capacity of the County has very largely increased. Notwithstanding the disadvantages of getting the produce to market, a much larger amount of truck is raised now than then. The skill of our agriculturists has also much increased, so that our county exhibitions in vegetable and crehard produce are scarcely second to any in the State. As yet, attention has been called but little to the prodctionof strawberries, raspberries and other fruits of a similiar kind, because their perishable nature unfitted them for our extremely slow kind of locomotion to market. And yet, where any thing like the soil and skill possessed in this County for their cultivation, exists, they form the most profitable kind of cultivation. Every year ailds to the variety & productiveness of the County, The Farmer's club at Bowentown, whose doings we are proud to chronicle in cur paper, are exertit g á strong and beneficial influence upon the very acction most likely to contribute largely to the support of a boat, Besides all this, the population of this town has increased nearly a thousand, since the boat stopped: While Millville has probably doubled in population and the surrounding towns and villages also increased in numbers. It is generally conceded, that the Cohansy at first paid her way. Why then would not a boat properly managed, pay now? The travelling for the last few years has greatly increased, and must increase to an indefinite extent in the future. During the past season, five stage lines daily communicated with Philadelphia frem Bridgeten, besides which hundreds of passengers unable to be accommodated by the regular lines, were carried in extras. was but a short time since, while the market produce, needing a quick transportation to market has probably increased in a like ratio. The manufacturing industry has also increased drawn together a population from other places, who add largely and continuously to the amount of travel by visits to and from their friends. Largely as it has increased, it would according to the usual laws of travel continue to increase in proportion to the facilities afforded for certain and speedy transit. A boat fitted up with appropriate rooms, and starting in the afternoon could be arranged so as to afford ample accommodation to the business part of the community and at the same time interfere but little with any of the old established lines.

If she ran entirely as a night boat, the farmers would be enabled to get their produce in the city in as fresh a condition as those living near the city. By putting it on board in the evening, it would be in market early next morning in good condition.

To the man of business, an attraction nearly as great would be off red. By passing the night on the boat, he could take his usual rest, and have the entire day in the city for business or pleasure, and return home the next night ready in the morning for his accustomed pursuits. On many large rivers the boats run as much at night as in the day. and what to some may seem strange, appear quite as exempt from accident as those that ran only in the day. In fact, in any ordinary weather there would be but little more danger from collision than in the day. The regulations are so well known and understood by · all the craft on the river that a collision in the night on the Delaware by any boat on a regular line is of rare occurrence. And notwirhstanding the large number of excursions during the summer evenings, when the river is filled with ferry boats and sailing craft, accidents do not cour much, if any more freequently than during the day. Any regular line would be much less liable to damage, its track and hours would soon become so well known as to make it an easy task to avoid

Mr. somebody or bobody, and you attract the at tention of the masses to the celebrated indiridual. For this purpose we have taken the liberty to daub on the title of Prof. to one who has never sought to obtain the honor and emolument of such a title, though his familiarity with numerous sciences, would entitle him to more than one dignified appellation, if he were green enough to pay the required sum and "come out" with a diploma. Now that we have attracted your attention and excited your bump of enriesity by such a high sounding title, you may expect to hear of some wenderful discovery, or announcement made by Prof. Robinson. The announcement is that he has discovered one of the best firms in the county and proclaims that he has left the renowned city of Bridgeton and engaged in the Boot & Shoe busines with Messrs, Swing and Tomlinson of Fairton, where they are prepared to accommodate all who may favor them with their custom. The adaptability of Prof. Robinson for accommodating and pleasing his customers, particularly the fairer portion of them, will add largely to the well conducted and popular establishment of Mes-

The following interesting letter is from the pen of our old friend, R. C. Holmes, Esq. for many years past, agent for the Philadel phia and New York Insurance Companies. It was addressed to a member of the New Jersey Legislature, and speaks volumes in vindication of that noble class, so often reviled and falsified by our New York cotemporaries. Not only property to the value of Millions, but eight hundred human lives have been rescued from a watery grave by those selfsacrificing wreckers. Facts like these, ema nating as they do, from such a reliable source, are incontrovertible and have done much toward elevating that class who were formerly so much derided by those who were least ac quainted with them. We commend this letter to the consideration of our readers, not merely because we are intimately acquainted with the author and know whatever he affirms to be correct, but because we have some per sonal acquaintance with many of those who inhabit our coast, and know them to be whole hearted philanthropists, rather than pirates. as many would ignorantly and unjustly af

PROSTITUTION OF INTELLECT.

We have been favored with a perusal of he manuscript of Mr. Geo. E. Tomlinson's Lecture, before the Bridgeton Lyceum, on Tuesday evening the 11th inst. A few extracts will give a faint idea of the Lecture. It is difficult to select disconnected portions from such a rich vein of thought and present a correct view of the whole. The following extracts are principally from the latter portion of the Lecture.

To see a man possessing an immortal soul binding himself to earth, fettering the restless spirit that longs to rise, and is struggling to burst the shackles that bind it to objects unworthy its bavenly origin, is indeed a nitiable spectacle. The Engle, the companion of the mountain storm, nurtured in such hardihood as to bid defines to the blasts that play around the mountain's summit, or to gaze upon the noonday sun with unflinching eye, will stretch its un-enfeebled wings and proudly bear company to the Storm-King careering chainless through the sky; but when fettered to the earth will there droop, will pine away and die. So the mind, that on tireless pinions would rove in the boundless fields of knowledge and gather garlands from many a secluded bower and fadeless gems from many ty energies on trivial objects, there to be defiled by the pollutions of sin, and rendered and the vices of man.

When we see a man occupying a high position in society, one who by his brilliant talsuccess, and won the affections of the people; when we see a man using his influence against the cause of referm, against the cause of humanity, using his towering intellect to rise by human weaknesses, and apologizing for, and upholding systems of wrong, of monstrosity that keep men down, we are constrained to believe that it would have been better for the world and better for that man, if less talent had been committed to him, and consequently less required at his hands. We must denounce such a one, and appeal to your sense thrills your hearts, to denounce such a man.

We call upon you for the sake of all that your hearts hold dear, for the sake of the rising generation, for the sake of our Native Land, our American home, in behalf of the blood-bought boon of Freedom, bequeathed us by our fathers, that is as dear as life to every one in whose bosom beats a true American heart, to denounce a Press that will sell | did they await the news from those of their itself for gold, that will eringe to the wishes of crafty politisians or intriguing demagogues, that will scatter the productions of prostituted minds broadcast over our land, there to sow the seeds of indolence, of physical and intellectual debility, of misery and crime. Some unforscen circumstance may prove the torch to the magazine. A stream that is constantly receiving accessions from numerous rills, if its outlet be dammed up, will surely overflow Mr. Crispin, and force its widening way. And as sure as cause produces effect, the final course of truth will be onward, though prostituted mind may

GREAT LOSS OF LIFE.

The most appalling calamity that ever of ourred in our waters took place upon the Del ware on Saturday, night-spreading a fearful doom over many hearts in this city and Camlen, and causing an intense excitement among all classes of citizens. We have been at some pains to ascertain the correct particulars of this terrible affair, and below we present the result of our labors to our readers.

Soon afterward when the surmounted every obstacle, and won complete seamer was oposite Arch street when all of board were aroused by the appalling cry of "Fire!" The flames were seen issuing from the middle of the boat, near the smoke stack. Amidst a fearful excitement, attempts were made to extinguish the flames; but the fire spread with a rapidity that defied all efforts, and the pilot then headed the boat for a pier above Arch street. Before the steamer approached the wharf, the fire had driven many of the passengers to the extreme forward part of the deck. The pilot was compelled to abandon his post, and as the boat came within a few feet of the pier, he, with several others. gained the shore. Others in attempting to do so were drowned. The boat drifted up of honor, appeal to the love for your race that stream, and finally arrived at the foot of Cooper street Camden, where she was burned to the water's edge.

years later, 100,000 were swallowed up. On the 15th ult., a shock of an earthquake was felt throughout California. At San was experienced from it. The people were aroused from their sleep, and hundreds rushed frantically into the streets in their night clothes. The shock lasted some twenty-five seconds, and was preceded by a runbling ured tread of soldiers, and a 'Company' of sound like distant thunder. No material Continentals, in the renowned costume of '76 damage was done to property. The fire wall fell from one brick store, the plastering was more or less cracked in a good many buildings. and, in some instances, slight fissures at over their fathers, when led by the immortal created in brick walls. A great many timid people were terribly frightened for a time, but they were soon led to believe that there birthday of our country's Father? And was no danger. It was the most severe shock of which we have any account in San

KING CRABS.

Dr. Kitchell's Report of the New Jersey also known by the names of Hersefoot and Sea Spider, is very common on all the Sea Coast of the State, and particularly along the lower part of Delaware Ray. In early Summer, when they come to the shore to deposit their eggs in the sand, the beach is nearly covered with them for the length of nearly 40 miles. Each erab weighs about 4 lbs., and in one season a million of crabs could be gathered on a mile of boach. Their eggs are shoveled up in wagon loads and used for feeding chickens, while the crabs are used for feeding logs. When employed as usinure for soil they produce remarkable effects, and a Factory is now preparing them for the purpose. The Factory alladed to is situated at Goshen, on the Delaware Bay, and belongs to Jonathan Ingham, Esq., of this town. During the past year he manufactured a great many tons, the greatest amount of which has been tested by the farmers of this County with the best success. It is pronounced equal if not su; e ior, to any fertilizer now in use. Mr. Ingham purposes making some very important additions to his Factory at an early day, which will enable him to keep pace with the increasing demand for this invaluable manure. Salem Standard.

The members of the House of Assembly have in the opinion of the people at large disdisgraced themselves and the State by their attempt to steal some $700 worth of gold pencils. It is beneath contempt that men hold ing a position which is deemed honorable should descend to such petry meanness. We care nothing about who was concerned in the matter, and have never taken the trouble to look at their names, but it is certainly eminently disgraceful that there should be a scramble after such petty spoils. We hope for the honor of the State never to see it repoated .- Newark Mercury.

Prize Fight -A prize fight, says the Woodbury Constitution, between two young bullies, belonging to rival rowdy gangs of Philadelphia-the "Buffers" and " Privateers"-came off on Saturday forenoon on or near the ground of John Cloud, near Woodbury. They fought, it is said, 15 rounds. when victory was declared in favor of the Buffer." A large party attended the combatants to the ground -Information of the facts having reached Sheriff Paulin at Woodbury, he, with Constable Clark and a posse started after the party and arrested 25 of them, and brought them to Woodbury Jail, where they were left, after an examination before Justice Wentz, till yesterday morning. The principals succeeded in getting off .-This is greatly to be regretted, as the infliction of a little Jersey Justice would have the effect at least to prevent these lawless fellows from choosing our soil for the exhibition of their brutal pugilistic sports. Their aiders and abettors, will feel very uncomfortable till they get clear, Sale of the Miantonomi .- A large concourse of persons assembled at the wharf of the Miantonomi on Saturday afternoon last. to witness her sale. She was put up by Sheriff Ballinger, and was knocked off to Minor Harvey for the "Salem County Steamboat Co." for $6,000, subject to claims to the amount of 14,000. A new charter has just been granted the Miantonomi Co. by the Legislature, changing the title from the "N. J Delaware and Penusylvania Steamboat Co.' to that of the "Salem County Steamboat Co."-Standard.

DIED.

At Tuckahoe, March 17, 1856, Rev. JAMES II. PRIMROSE, of the New Jersey Conference, aged 23 years. The subject of this memoir, was a victim of that fell destroyer, Pulmonary Consumption. Having contracted a severe cold about the latter part of October last, in a few weeks after. the premonitory symptoms of disease of the lungs began to manifest themselves. He continued gradually sinking from that time until his death, During his illness he was hopeful, expecting a physical change for the better, as soon as the weather became mild and pleasant. Notwithstanding this, he was invariably submissive to the will of the Disposer of human events, and expressed continually his willingness to leave his all in the hands of God. As a Christian, our dear departed brother had, perhaps, no superior, his piety shone in all the relations of life, religious, social and domestic. As a minister, he was abundant in labors. believing it was good to be zealously affected always in a good thing. He was pre-eminent as a revivalist. Possessing vocal powers of a high order, the stirring songs of Zion as they fell from his lips frequently caused the tear to fall from the eye, and conviction to fasten upon the conscience of the impenitent. Many will rise up in the all-disclosing day of Eternity and hail him "blessed!" During his affliction he suffered little bodily pain, and like the sun sinking in the unclouded west, leaving behind him, even after his departure, rays of beauty and glory. So passed our brother into the spirit land.

"Sure the last end Of the good man is peace. How calm his exit! Night dews fall not more calmly on the ground, Nor weary worn out winds expire so soft."

On Saturday last, the Rev.Dr. Jones of Bridgeton, called upon him and offered a prayer in his behalf, before "Our Father's Throne," About one o'clock on Monday morning it was painfully evident that his end was rapidly approaching .-His wife, relatives and friends came around his couch to look upon him they so much loved, in the "dark valley." Seeing them standing near his bed; he inquired, "Do you think me dying?" Some one answered 'yes!' then said he, "Bless the Lord! Amen!" He then requested all in the house, as well as the neighbors living near, to be called in, and taking each by the hand, he desired them to bid him good night with a farewell kiss. Then calling his wife he said to her "I leave a good night' for all my friends." "Now, said he. ct us lie down and sleep." Thus resting upon the bosom of the Saviour of men, he passed thro' the gates of Paradise.

" My brother! how fondly shall thy memory Be shrined within the chamber of my heart! Thy virtuous worth was so well known to me,

And I can feel how hard it is to part Farewell sweet spirit! thou shalt ever be A star to guide me up to Heaven and thee."

He has left a young widew to mourn her irrepaher, and all the bereaved friends. March 6th, at Sugar Hill Reidge, Highland Co.,

Ohio, Mr. DAVID M. Coucu, formerly of Bridgeton, N. J. The deceased leaves a wife and three small children, together with a large circle of relatives, to mourn his loss. He was a valuable member of the M. E. Church in the place of his residence. The circumstances of his death were very painful, he having been run over by a four horse team heavily loaded, but his end was peaceful and even triumphant. About half an hour before he breathed his last, he clapped his hands and shouted exultingly " glory, glory, hallelujah, praise to the Lamb;" and his last word was "glory!" "Let me die the death of the righteous, and let my last end be like his."

(Salem papers please copy.) At Tuckahoe, on the 12th inst., HERBERT, son of Simon S. and Eilen M. Westcott, aged 2 mo's.

For like the leaves in Autumn? He's withered away and died; But will bloom again in beaven, By our Redeemer's side.

But while we for his loss are grieved. One consolution's given: He's from a world of wee relieved, And rests with God in Heaven.

FARMERS LOOK HERE! Scott's Little Giant: CORN AND COB MILL.

HIHIS MILL has doubtless attained a more sudden celebrity for doing its work with rapidity and ease, than any other article of Labor Saving Machinery over presented to the Agricultural For portability, simplicity of construction and convenience of use, the LITTLE GIANT has no equal. It weighs from three to five hundred pounds, according to size, can be adjusted and used with convenience by any body.

These MILLS are guaranteed against breakage or derangement, and warranted to grind feed from car corn, and grits or fine hominy from shelled corn, with a degree of ease and convenience to farmers, perhaps never attained before.

LITTLE GIANT No. 2, is offered complete ready for attaching the team and warranted to grind 10 bushels of feed per hour, with one horse. No. 3, will grind from 10 to 15 bushels per hour, with two horses. Mills may be seen in operation. Bridgeton, Dec. 1, 1855.-tf.
