Oh! Would That I'd Been Born a Girl BY WILL ROSEBUD.

In answer to " Oh! would that I'd been born a Boy,' by " Belle Thorne."

Oh, would that I'd been born a girl, How happy I would be; Especially if you'd been born, The boy you wished to be.

I'd wear a bonnet on my head, Not stuck behind "a feet;" While in the place of ringlets false, My own I'd make look neat.

My hoops I wouldn't have so big, That the men could not get near; To waltz, or polk, or promenade, Or whisper in my ear.

When Laura Keene I'd wish to see, I wouldn't have to pay; For to some beau I'd give a hint, And think you he'd say nay?

I'd always show a small neat foot When in company I'd sit, And when the men would say " how succet' I wouldn't care a bit.

not tell you when you left home that if you

Look, my erring son, at the words I wrote on the first page of the Bible presented you on leaving home. Alas! how true the sentiments they express.

You received introductions to respectable merchants, to one of the Chicago clergymen, (the Rev. W. A. Smallwood,) and with what entreaties did your mother and myself urge you to connect yourself with a church and and Sunday school! We have just read your first letter, promising to make for yourself a honorable name, and associate with respectable person; and can it be possible that even at that period you were associated with this man Bigg?

As I write, I reflect what a home have you lost, and where are you? In a goal, and for stealing! The first, too, of your family, of which I have any record, who for hundreds of years have borne a family escutcheon with out a stain! What can I do for you? Your mother, almost broken hearted, caunot be left and what could I do were I to come to Chicago? From Captain Connett's letter it seems that the proof against you is positive. The laws of your country must be vindicated; I see no way but to let justice take its course. But in your extremity what can I recomend better than that you should tell the whole truth, and cast yourself on the mercy of the one consolation is left, and that is, repentance and prayer to God. He only can help you, by forgiving you your sins, and bringing you ticles of clothing, and on your arrival at age, next April, a sum of money; but our fond hopes are all vanished, and until I receive advices from you or Captain Connett, we know not how we can help you.

Swanton, Vt., Aug. 11, 1856. MR. EDITOR:-In my last communication took your readers to Detroit, I must now turn around a little with them and proceed to Western Canada again. One seems quite out of the way in pushing into the United States to get from Lorda to Sarnia; this is owing to the unfinished state of the great Western Railway, when that is completed a hundred miles will be saved at one strokeand thus the extreme West of Canada will be opened up to the advancing spirit of Hamilton, Toronto and London.

There are two steamers leaving Detroit for Lake Huron every day, visiting the towns now rising in such profusion on the banks of that magnificent lake. I took one of these steamers at 9 o'clock, A. M., and had a beautiful trip over Lake St. Clair up the arterylike river that bears its name to the mouth of the first mentioned lake, and landed at Port Sarnia. his game and thus afforded a temporary advantage, you might see droves of them hawking wild pigeons on poles through the streets still dressed in their native costume with the expression of blank amazement in their faces at the sterm shovel dashing through their once secluded domain, little dreaming that the inroad had been made which was destined to take from them the last remnant of the possessions of their forefathers. But so it is, even under the British sway where the Indian territorics are mapped out and well defined, when what are considered the necessities of civilization press upon the hunting grounds of the red man they must be superseded by the superior claims of the dominant race.

MISCELLANEOUS SCENE IN A LADY'S BED CHAMBER.

On Thursday night, which will be remem-bered as one of the warmest of the scason, a young lady at the "West End" was excessively frightened at a little circumstance which transpired about the hour of midnight. The young lady whose beauty is only equalled by her modesty, and whose eye's dark charm' has caused more than one waistcoat to palpi-tate, had retired to her chamber, where, after laying aside the greater portion of her wearing apparel, she committed herself to the tender embrace of Morpheus, whose soothing influences were aided by the cooling breath of Zephyr, who came in at the open window and fanned her cheeks with his feathery wings. In a word, she was snoozing finely -or, to use the language of a modern bard-

It was, as we said, about midnight when the young lady was aroused from her delicious slumber by hearing a noise at the wind-ow. Half unclosing her eyes, she was star-tled by the sight of a corpulent form, apparently struggling to gain admission to her chamber through the open window. It struck her at once that the intruder had been caught by the rear of his unmentiousbles, by seemed to be struggling with a firm determination to enter.

Her first thought was to faint-her second to give the fellow a push-her third, to jump out of the window as soon as he jumped inher fourth, to scream, which was immediately carried into effect.

My DEAR JAMES-The painful news of your imprisonment was received yesterday; and it has filled the minds of your mother and myself with profound grief, that you who have had opportunities that but few could possess, even to the selection of an honorable station, provided you would fit yourself for it, with a home to be welcomed to, with every comfort to be desired, should at the entrance to manhood have degraded yourself and disgraced your family. SICKNESS.

At this season of the year it is customary to hear reports from all parts of the country, that sickness is more provalent than usual, of action and speech constitutionally guaranand many are being hurried away to their "long home" by the had of disease and the unrelenting monster death. Scarcely a year has passed away since the intelligence from Norfolk and Portsmouth was of the most heart-rending nature. Hundreds were being swept away by the fearful epidemic raging in those cities, and the whole country was alarmed as to the course the disease would pursue. the heat of debate, when the feelings are During the present year, and especially a deeply enlisted, an unguarded expression esthis season we hear of but little sickness and disease prevailing either at home or abroad. Our own and adjoining towns are comparatively free from any epidemic, and throughout the three lower counties of this State, heads, and coats of tar and feathers to be rethere is but little sickness at present.

By observing the laws that govern our physical being, and living in accordance with the proper teachings of those laws, we may avoid many of " the ills that flesh is heir to" and live to a "good old age" in the enjoyment of health and consequently, happiness, not that happiness consequent upon obeying the moral laws, but a bappiness which an obeyance of the latter does not always impart. The old adage-that "it is casier to preach than to practice," is applicable to many of us. It has not been more than two weeks since dition, so as to be able to neither use his hands we gave our readers an article on the subject of "eating," and a few weeks previous to that, informed them what kind of food was most wholesome at this season of the year, but we must confess that we have since violated the rules by which we would have others govern their health. and have consequently suffered the penalty. During our late tour through the lower counties, we have taken some pains to in_ form ourselves of the condition of the crops. As far as we can learn, the dry weather has not materially affected the growing crops.---The farmers have been enabled to harvest their grain and hay in fine order. The hay crop has seldom, if ever, been got in, in better condition. Corn and potatoes certainly look well. The late rains have brought forward the late planting so rapidly, that with any thing like a scasonable fall, the corn crop will be a fair average. We have been shown fields that are expected to yield from fifty to one hundred bushels per acre.

Teachers' Institute.

THE Teachers' Institute for Cumberland Co., will be held in Bridgeton at the Court House, commencing on Monday the 25th inst., at 2 o' clock P M. The exercises are to be conducted by the State Agent, John B. Thompson, Esq., assisted by other distinguished teachers Public Lectures are to be delivered on each evening during the week. All the Teachers of Cumberland County particularly, are earnestly requested to attend and participate in the exerci-Teachers from other counties are respectful ly invited to attend and assist in the proceedings. Bridgeton, Aug. 16, 1856.

To the Teachers of Cumberland County.

TOU are invited to attend the Teachers' Institute, to be held at Bridgeton, in the County of Cumberland, during the week, commencing August 25th of the present year.

A Teachers' Institute is an assemblage of Teachteach, and in the principles by which they are to turns. govern. Its chief design is to teach Teachers how to toach. This is done by precept and by example. Under accomplished instructors. Teachers are formed into classes, drilled in the studies they are expected to teach, and taught the best metiods of imparting knowledge.

Whenever and wherever Teachers meet and interchange views respecting their business, compare methods, suggest illustrations, discuss plans, relate incidents, and talk over the thousand and one the thing you want. I have the new style of Iliapetty, but important details of their duties, the effect must be good. But when we add to all this that a Teachers' Institute is, besides, a model school, in which the rules of punctuality, order, diligence, attention and promptness are applied to Teachers themselves; in which all the points connected with the government, discipline, and classification of schools are examined; in which the rules and principles laid down in the text books are fully explained, and the best methods of impressing these upon the minds of children are inted out, and from which Teachers return to their schools with an increased fund of knowledge, with errors corrected, aims elevated, and understandings enlighted-the importance of such Institutes can hardly be over-estimated. Nothing can be further from the fact than the idea entertained by some, that the Teachers' Institute is the place for the exposition of faults, and yet it is to be feared that this idea has kept away from such meetings many who most needed the advantages to be obtained only there.

The duty of preparing for whatever we under-take; the rapidly advancing standard of educa-tion; the increased vigilance of Trustees in seeking out Teachers of high talents and attainments; the readiness of districts to pay higher salaries to good Teachers, the obligation to the government which provides such opportunities for improvement-Teacher to avail himself of this opportunity for improving himself and others. The momentous interests, public, and private, which depend upon the advancement of popular education among us, appeal to every patriot, phi-lanthropist and Christiau, to lend all his influence to a measure which has proved so eminently successful in improving the character of our schools, and awakening the interest of parents. Every Teacher and School-officer in the county chould attend this Institute. It is provided for all. The citizens of the vicinity usually entertain the members of the Institute, and consider themselves sufficiently remunerated therefor by the good they derive from the exercises of the week. The evenings will be devoted to popular lectures on subjects connected with education.

The expenses of Teachers will be so small, and the advantages so great, that it is earnestly hoped that you will do yourself and your profession the justice to attend. Hoping to meet you at the time and place appointed, I remain, yours, in our common cause. JOHN B. THOMPSON,

State Agent of N. J., Teachers' Association. New Brunswick, N. J.
