MORALS.

From the Syrian Times.

A Leaf from the Book of Memory.

It was a rude cottage, whose bare walls and unfurnished rooms bespoke the poverty of its inhabitants; that I stood by the couch of a dying friend. A violent fever had, in the space of one short week, wasted his blooming cheek and driven the glow of health from his eyes. But few, very few days had elapsed since I had seen her laughing and joyful, and buoyant in health and pleasure. But, alas, the young man died. The destroying angel had marked her for his victim, and she now lay prostrated by disease, and evidently soon to breathe her last. But death had not found her unprepared. The child of devoted and pious, though poverty stricken parents, she had been early taught the path of virtue, and her delight had been in the law of the Lord.

Horses and Men.

The same physiological law prevails in respect to all animals, including man. Every being endowed with muscle needs exercise in order to enjoy health. Every being which has lungs needs an abundance of pure air, as much as certainly as the possession of a stomach is proof positive of the necessity of food to supply it. The following remarks on horses, from the Veterinary Journal, will be accepted as truth by every body—even by the elite who must always ride, and in all ways ride, and in all other respects refer to from vigorous, health-inspiring exercises, but their horses, they are aware, ought to be exercised daily, even though they are sent out with the empty carriage. They are wiser for their horses than for themselves. It is well for the horses that it is so.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PLEASANT RESULT.

BY LIZZIE LINWOOD.

Years ago I had a sister—Eliza—a tall, graceful girl, whom death has since claimed. To my girlish fancy she was a fit object for admiration, and dearly did I love to sit and study the language of her pale face, though I could never tell which was the most beautiful—the pleasant smile upon her lips or the varied expression of her dark blue eyes. I only knew I loved her, and felt that she was something more than human. But with my childishness there was at times a quick-drawling about her which provoked a spirit of spite and of thoughts and smothering fears.

A CHARMED LIFE.

REMARKABLE ADVENTURE WITH INDIANS.

THE LAST WAR WITH THE CREEK INDIANS.

The last war with the Creek Indians in East Alabama had already broken off, and a company of Georgians were encamped on the bank of the Ocmulgee, in Stewart County, for the protection of the frontier. As the year of a plantation in some ten miles from the encampment accompanied by Mr. B., took a horse and repaired to the farm for the purpose of trying to save the crop. At noon they went to the overseer's to get dinner. It was a double log house, with a passage. After dinner, the two gentlemen were sitting in one of the rooms, when Mr. B., on going out into the passage, saw a man squat behind a fence only ten or twelve paces distant. It proved to be an Indian, who took deliberate aim and fired, the ball passing between his left arm and his body, and inflicting a severe flesh wound under the overcoat. He fell into the room, he endeavored to fall, but ready fled. He endeavored to fall, but ready fled. He endeavored to fall, but ready fled.

A STORY OF THE REVOLUTION.

In the early part of the war, a sergeant and twelve armed men undertook a journey through the wilderness, in the State of New Hampshire. Their route was remote from any settlements, and they were under the necessity of encamping overnight in the woods. Nothing material happened the first day of their excursion; but early in the afternoon of the second day, from an eminence, discovered a party of armed Indians and a company of them, whose number rather exceeded their own.

HOPE.

Punch says that "Hope is the best medicine," and it adds, "fortunately it is in the pocket of every doctor and dispenser." There are few who will deny this proposition of the great Satirist. Every one has at some time or other experienced the benefits arising from the use of this medicine of Hope. There is no other medicine like it for the healing of wounded hearts, for the soothing of ruffled intellect, when wrecked by disappointment or disaster. Hope is the sweetener of every cup, the torch lighting every path—the brightest and best of all the angels that grace our man's career. He that hath hope for his comfort, is never desolate, but that which is never happy. To him who hath it, it is a mooring, reminding of what but he is not—a shadow rather than a substance, but keeping all within its vicinage. My Hope always be as an elder sister to each reader of this paragraph.

HOPE.

Very few persons have sense enough to despise the praise of a fool.

At length a tall Indian was discovered through the glimmering of the fire, cautiously glancing towards them, making no noise, and apparently using every device in his power to conceal himself from anyone about the camp. For a time these notions showed him to be suspicious, that a guard might be stationed to watch any unusual appearance, who would give the alarm in case of danger; but all appeared quiet, he ventured forward more boldly, raised upon his toes, and was distinctly seen to move his fingers as he rubbed the top of his head, or what he supposed to be a human being, entirely enjoying repose. To satisfy himself more fully as to the matter, he counted them over a second time, and cautiously retired. He was succeeded by another Indian who, through the same movements, had retired in the same manner. Soon after the whole party, sixteen in number, were discovered approaching and greedily eyeing their supposed victims. The feeling of the sergeant's men can be better imagined than described, when they saw the base and cruel purpose of their enemies, who were now no longer, that they could scarcely be restrained from firing upon them. The plan, however, of the sergeant was to have his men remain silent in their places of concealment, till the muskets of the savages were discharged, that their own fire might be more effective, and opposition less formidable.

HOPE.

Their suspense was not of long duration. The Indians, as a body, cautiously approached, and all with deliberate aim, discharged their pieces, upon the sergeant's men, gave the frightful war-whoop, and instantly rushed forward, to dispatch the living, and obtain the scalps of the dead. As soon as they had collected in close order, more effectively to execute their horrid intentions, the party of the sergeant, with unerring aim, discharged their pieces, and a fog of wood-bark perforations, pierced upon some ten miles from the scene of the massacre, and escaped destruction by the snare into which their cowardly and bloodthirsty disposition had led them.—Rem.

For the West Jersey Pioneer. THE BRIDGETON LIBRARY.

Where is the Library project? Has it sunk forever into oblivion, and shall we hear of it no more? Perhaps it is quietly sleeping, and its managers likewise.

COLLISION AT SEA. The most appalling disaster at sea since that of the loss of the Collins steamer Arctic, is reported by the bark Elize, which arrived at New York last evening from Hamburg.

Loss of the Ship Lady Franklin.—The Capt. Leavitt, of the bark Volante, which arrived at Boston on Sunday, from Marselles, reports that on the 22d inst. he spoke, in lat. 41. 45, N.; lon 46, W., the schooner Maria Jewett, Cooper from New York, bound for Naples, having on board the captain and crew of the Lady Franklin, from New York, bound for Trieste, abandoned at sea two days previously in a sinking condition.

Consider this, and act when called upon, with more sound sense and judgement. Every now and then, our attention is called to articles in the Editorial columns of the Pioneer and Chronicle, headed "Lewyism in Bridgeton," wherein the Editors endeavor to impress upon parents their duty of noticing and checking this growing evil in the bud.

It is evident—and to say—that our town, instead of increasing in its morality—is rapidly increasing in vice and immorality.

We are assured if we succeed in rising and supporting a good circulating library in Bridgeton, and if it accomplishes those ends for which it is designed, our town will be greatly benefited as a town, and our citizens as a community.

When a Public meeting is held for the further consideration of this subject, let all who are interested attend. As I am an attendance as a discouragement. More money is necessary to be raised. Let all who have not, come forward and contribute for the progression of this good work.

I purpose not to impress upon you the many advantages derived from a good substantial circulating library—as every man, woman and child knows full well.—For the good of our town, then, and for our great and lasting good, let this work go on. Go on unto perfection. ONE INTERESTED.

New Jersey Election.—Official. We give below the full official returns, published by the Trenton True American, as returned to the office of the Secretary of State.

Security of Fuel in Cincinnati.—The Cincinnati Gazette says there is an unusual scarcity of fuel in that market, with little likelihood of a different state of affairs with the river continuing low.

Another cargo of six hundred slaves, from Africa has lately landed in Cuba by an American bark, Gen. Concha, it is said, received three ounces—$51—for permitting each of these six hundred to be landed, and the deputies one and a half ounce ($25.50) for each negro so landed.

The steamer Superior was lost in a storm on Lake Superior, on the 29th ult., near Grand Island. Her rudder was carried away, and she became unmanageable.

John Whitely, an old and respectable citizen of Londonville, Ohio, was knocked down and robbed of some fifty dollars, on Tuesday night week, within forty rods of his house.

The St. Louis Intelligencer says: "It is almost incredible, the amount of gold that has been poured into Kansas from all parts of the country, in view of the sale of the Delaware lands. We are sure that not less than $1,000,000 have been sent to Leavenworth by St. Louis brokers alone.

Immigration to Virginia.—A party of 36 German and French emigrants passed through Lynchburg on Monday week, en route for Wayne County, Va., where they intend settling. The Richmond Dispatch says they are the pioneers of a colony to be founded in Southwest Virginia by capitalists of France, who have already made purchases of land in that region.
