For the West Jersey Pioneer. TIME'S WORKINGS.

BY A. J. SHAMPANORE.

I saw a rose one fine Spring morn Spreading its foliage to the air, It seemed so prefty to my view I tho't naught could its beauty mar. 1 looked again - the rose was gone, Upon the ground my favorite lay; 1 gazed in wonder as 1 thought,

It bloomed so sweet but yesterday. 1 saw an infant laugh and smile While dandled on its mother's knee Who often shed a tear of joy The image of herself to see. 1 looked again-a funeral train Moved slowly to the burying place; 1 watched the mother as she pass'd,

But ah! how chang'd that once bright face 1 saw the you has on the wing Of fancy's flight his spirit flew; He wandered o'er the world in tho't, No disappointment yet he knew. I looked again, the youth was man, The spirit of the boy had flown,

While on his brow were visible The marks the hand of care had strown I saw the young, the gay and fair Go forth at morn to pluck the rose; Time seemed adapted to their joys, Their life, tho't 1, how sweet it goes. I looked again, and saw a throng

Of hoary heads on every side; The young 1 saw so recently, Some had grown old, but more had died. I saw the man who for the sake

Of "filthy lucre" sweats and toils, Adopting as his motto that, "To him that wins belong the spoils." I looked again, the man of wealth

Was numbered with the silent dead: The labors of his life were used To rear an urn above his head. I saw the earth in beauty dress'd.

Dispencing fragrance thro' the air. The mountains bore the ever greens And blushing valleys bloomed so fair 1 looked again, that verdure sweet Had swiftly crumbled to decay; And as I looked, a something said, "This WORLD will also pass away!" Bridgeton, Nov., 1856.

A POETICAL DUN.

Some friend sent us, under a blank cover, a copy of the subjoined very clever and very practical jue d'esprit, addressed by the editor of the Methodist Protestant to his delinquent the amusement of our readers; for, as Mr. when the years have made me older, and the turned away and grouned in agony. Randolph used to say of his constituents, we have the best and noblest set of subscribers that ever honored and sustained a public joursuch ingenious hint; but should there be found here and there an exceptional case, he is at liberty to consider the Hiawathean appeal addressed to himself:

Should you ask us why this dunning Why these sad complaints and murmurs, Murmurs loud about delinquents Who have read the paper weekly, Read what they have never paid for, Read with pleasure and with profit, Read of church affairs and prospects, Read of news both home and foreign, Read the essays and the pocms, Full of wisdom and instruction; Read the table of the markets, Carefully corrected weekly-Should you ask us why this dunning, We should answer, we should tell you, From the printer, from the mailer, From the kind old paper maker. -From the landlord, from the carrier, From the man who taxes letters, With a STAMP from Uncle Samuel-Unole Sam, the rowdies call him: From them all there comes a message, Messago kind, but firmly spoken, "Please to pay us what you owe us." Sad it is to hear such message. When our funds are all exhausted. When the last bank note has left us. When the gold coin all has vanished,

Gone to pay the paper maker, Gone to pay the toiling printer, Gone to pay the landlord tribute ; Gone to pay the sable carrier, Gone to pay the faithful mailer, Gone to pay old Uncle Samuel-Uncle Sam the rowdies call him-Gone to pay the Western paper Three and twenty hundred dollars.

Sad it is to turn our ledger, Turn the leaves of this old ledger, Turn and see what sums are due us, Due for volumes long since ended, Due for years of pleasant reading, Due for years of toilsome labor, Due despite our patient waiting, Due despite our constant dunning,

Due in sums from two to twenty. Would you lift a burthen from us? Would you drive a spectre from you? Would you taste a pleasant slumber? Would you have a quiet conscience? Would you read a paper PAID FOR? Send us money-send us money, Send us money -send us money, Send the money that you owe us!

Nor did I rest satisfied until cares and months since a young man, a mechanic, well responsibilities accumulated upon my hands sufficiently to command all my time. Then it was that I felt as though I had something it was that I felt as though I had something to live for. Years have rolled past-tyears of toil, of effort, of anxiety. When one difficulty was encountered and overcome, when one object was accomplished, another was incomediately sought for; and thus the objects and aims of life always kept pace with the force and will for effort. The want of cares small some which the least degree of comwhich is not usefully employed, which has had led him to part from home were more a dark spot on life's disk.

Says Pope in a letter to Addison, " passeth away as the remembrance of a guest that tarrieth but one day?" Who can dispute the truth of this sentiment? Who has failed to observe that the memory of a man is as the flashing of a gleam of light through the homes among which he moved? Man dies, and there, so far as the world is concerned, he of his deeds and his achievements, dies with the removal of the crape from his door; and though the few may bow at the path along which the funeral cortege sweeps toward the place of the dead—though they may speak for a day or two with saddened thought, even they forget him, as they forget their own res-ponsibilities, when they mingle in the crash-ings, the rivalries, and the tumults of the business world. A Webster dies, and for a moment the nation bows its head in awe; but the morning after his exit, the sun rises as bright as ever, the flowers smell as sweet, the birds sing as gaily, the world priceeds upon its course, its inmates laughing and rejoicing as heartily, marrying and giving in marriage with as much rapidity as they used to do. In this earth of ours, crowded with its jostling millions, each eagerly bent on his own pecu-liar ends, the falling of a single man no more disturbs the great aggregate of Humanity than the loss of one drop of water from the nighty volume every minute pouring from the hard lips of Niagara would disturb the tions of men. Therefore it is that all should seek to live right lives and perform useful labors, so that when the last leaf from their tree of life drifts to the ground, and they fall into the dust, if the respect of men shall fail them, they may have the light of a good influence to lead them along that path whose dark windings penetrate the borders of Eter-

Collecting Money.

This is a subject in which some of our readers appear to take but little interest .-We mean those who owe us-not those who we may chance to owe. For years past it has been customary for some one connected with this office, to call upon those living in this part of the state, who were indebted for subscription to the Pioneer or otherwise. For some months past we have had so much busibeen impossible to call upon many of our pa- the coasting trade. trous personally and receive our dues. Monday last was the last time we were out on a collecting trip, and it came so near being the collect some of the money due us in another, and more expeditious manner. Our visit the present week among the patrons of the Pioneer was as usual, characterized by all the B. Moore & Sons. friendship and generous hospitality which much of the "needful" as otherwise would have been collected. We have no reason to complain of those whom we called upon. In almost every instance where they were at home, we received the money due us; but how long do you think, reader, it would take to collect a hundred dollars in a section of country where the inhabitants are scattered about a mile apart, one half of whom are out in the field at work, and nine tenths of the remaining half either gone a visiting or away from "needful" received from those whom we call- a cloudy night. ed upon, could not compensate us for the loss to us, and would oblige us by "settling up," we shall be compelled to take the course that others are pursuing and urge the matter home from week to week upon the consciences of those who can be reached in no other way. We trust that no sensitive persons who have paid in advance for their pasay in the future; and those who have not enough sense to comprehend our meaning when we dun them, had better quit the Pioneer and try some paper where the editor will able position with which he is named. dun them in a plainer manner than we have or shall do. # An Upset.

On tuesday evening last, amidst the dark ness and rain that was then falling, we discovcred at the edge of the town, a carriage completely overturned in the road, and the driver holding on to the lines as if "life and death" depended on the strength of his grip. We soon learned that the unfortunate individual had been on a collecting tour through the lower townships, and was on his way home to Bridgeton, when, in an unlucky moment, he ran against a snag and capsized the rockaway, pitching him out into the mud "about a feet." It was rumored that he belonged at the Pioin tatters, we might have owned him, and recsuch a narrow escape without having any bones they could manage any better after the capsize, than some one else did, they are welcome to make the trial.

Runaway.

On Thursday morning last, as Mr. Chas. Eldridge of Stoe Creek Township, was coming down the hill, on the west side of the creek in this town, with a pair of horses atached to a carriage, the traces slipped and is horses commenced running and became momanageable, the carriage struck Mr. Clark's Cedarville stage, disabling it so that another had to be procured to convey the pas. sengers to the city. THE COAL BURNING ENUINE. The most noticeable feature of the excursion was the new coal burning locomotive paying much higher prices, later in the season. The potato trade in this county has having been used upon the road for some stances from the deek of an ordinary sailing of late years become quite an item, and months past as an experiment. The engine, which is in itself a fine specimen of machinelators, who generally make a good business ry, was built by Wm. Muson & Co., of Taunton, Massachusetts: Its peculiar merit, however, is in the novel construction of the boiler. 1t is Boardman's Patent. Mr. Vun Renssaluer, the old Superintendent of the road who appears to have tested its capacity in every possible way, states that it has thus far proved completely successful under the most trying circumstances, and a great inprovement over the wood burning engines both in convenience and economy. Assumaverage expense of running it at about 10 cts. | den City. per mile, or a saving of from 45 to 50 per cent. in fuel, over the wood burning engines -the running speed being at the rate of nearly 45 miles an hour. It runs from Jersey City to New Brunswick, (311 miles) in one hour and 5 to 10 minutes; including stops a most economical wood engine on the same road Mr. Van Renssalaer estimutes to be a fraction less than 14 cents per mile, which he considers below the average cost.

Another advantage claimed for this boiler is, that by a novel arrangement of the tubes, and the introduction of the atmospheric air into the fire box, a more perfect combustion is secured, the gas and smoke being also partially consumed. The tubes are also placed vertically, and not exposed directly to the most intense heat of the fire. The rising value of wood, the large place required for the danger to which it is exposed from fire, and the necessity for frequently replenishing the fuel, all render coal far preferable, and Mr. W. is an enterprising business man, indicate that it must become a necessity at no distant day. Many attempts have been made of them, we understand, could only be used for freighting purposes, as they were not ca-pable of the high rate of speed required for passenger trains. Persons best acquainted with the capacities of this engine are confident that it realizes the object so much desired; that it will eventually supersede the wood burning engines, and effect a saving of thousauds of dollars in the running expenses of the companies using them. Such an improvement is of course interesting to the travelling public, who must ultimately receive the benefic in reduced rates of travel, in proportion to the reduced expenses of the compa-

A Man Meeting His Own Funeral .- A singular incident occurred in New York last Friday. A man killed by a railroad accident at Tarrytown was reported to be Patrick Burke, of New York, and his wife at once proceeded to the spot. On arriving there she saw the body, and having her mind made up for the worse, without noticing deceased's face, concluded that he was her husband, and forthwith made arrangements for the funeral. The supposed Prtrick was brought to the city in a neat mahogony coffin, the expenses and luxury of an old fashioned wake were incurthare hav bn a numbr of cols convarted i do red, five carriagef were hired, and as the funeral was about to cross over the Williamsburg ferry on Thanksgiving Day, the real genuine Patrick Burke met his bereaved friends, and in full health-as Mrs. Burke, in her testimony, expressed it, to their utter "dismay." Three Men Killed and Two Dangerously Injured .- New York, Nov. 23 ,- A sad casuality occurred on Saturday, in the city of Hudson, N. J., at shaft No. 2, on the tunnel which is being constructed for the New York and Eric Railroad. The shaft is a hole about seventy-five feet deep, sunk in the rock to the bottom of the tunnel. The hole is about twenty feet in width. There is a hoisting apparatus used, of which the motive power is a steam engine, for hoisting the fragments of rock, by means of a tub, which is raised and lowered by a rope. In this tub the men em ployed in the shaft go up and down.

At noon on Saturday, as five men were coming out of the shaft in this tub, the rope surface, and they were precipitated to the bottom. Three of them were killed, and two were badly injured.

JAMES D. WELDON. Philadelphia, Dec. 22, 1855,-y. The State Savings Fund, OFFICE-Next Door to the Post Office

No. 83, Dock St., Philadelphia, 1854.

INTEREST FIVE PER CENT. All sums of money returned on demand. THE State Savings Fund, No. 83 Dock Street next door to Third Street, and adjoining the cost Office, receives money on deposit daily, from in the morning until 3 in the afternoon; also Monday evenings, from 7 to 9 o'clock. Interest is allowed on depesits at the rate of five per cent. per annum. Deposits will be returned in whole or in part on demand, without notice. The popularity of this office with all classes of the community, both in town and country, and its consequent success, may be ascribed, in part, to the following substantial reasons: 1st. It offers a convenient, responsible, and profitable Depository to executors, administrators, assignees, collectors, agents and all public offices, o attorneys, trustees, societies and associations, whether incorporated or otherwise, to married or ingle ladies, to students, merchants, clerks and business men generally, to mechanics, farmers, minors of either sex, and all who have funds, much or little, to deposit, where they may be had at any time with five per cent. interest added. , 2d. Depositors receive books with an abstract the intervention of executors or administrators. Any one or more persons may deposit in his, her, or their name, or you any other nerson or nersons ture and councils of the city. 4th, The officers are sworn before they enter pon their duties, in addition to giving bonds with sureties. 5th. The State Savings Fund is a REAL Savings Fund-Not an Insurance and Trust Company. Our large list of Depositors and the Philade public have been careful to observe that the charer avoids the business and risk of insurance. 6th. In order to afford every reasonable facility to depositors who reside at a distance from the office, their deposits are permitted to be withdrawn by checks, after the manner customary with the Banks. Check books will be furnished to depositors without charge.

The popular patronpge bestowed upon this office by a proverbial, cautious and discriminfiting community, and where the character of the institution is best known, is a gratifying fact to which the Trustees desire to call attention.
