SELECT BOARDING SCHOOL

FOR YOUNG LADIES.

Haddonfield Female Seminary. THIS Institution is located in the beautiful village of Haddenfield, N. J., six mites south east of the city of Camden. The Camden and Atlantic Rail Road passes through the village, by means of which communication may be had with Philadelphia several times daily.

THE COURSE OF INSTRUCTION is therough, calculated to prepare young ladies for the puties of life, rather than to give them a superficial education.

The institution will be opened for the reception of boarders on the first of April next. The expenses for board and tuition in the Common and higher English Brunches, will not exeeed $40 per quarter. Brawing, painting, the languages—ancient and modern—and music on piano and guitar will be extra.

RAIL ROADS.

We learn by the Salem papers that energetic efforts are now making to secure the construction of a railroad from Salem to meet, and connect with the West Jersey road The law authorizing a company to build such a road was procured last winter, but until quite recently, the matter seems to have attracted but little attention. Our neighbors have become so accustomed to their semidaily intercourse with the city during the Deerfield to vote by ballot, passed the Senate. Lord." business season of the year, that the embargo In the House, Mr. Denman gave notice of a placed upon their trade and travel during the bill to regulate courtship. In Joint Meeting John, infantson of Rev. E. W. and Martha A Heiswinter, seems to set rather heavily upon them | Hon. John R. Thomson was re-elected U.S. | ley. and some little show of spirit seems actually to be manifested by our venerable fogy sister Whether the present movement will accomplish anything more than a large amount of newspaper gas, is by no means a certainty.-The county may be, and undoubtedly is, able enough, as the papers claim, to build the read without any outside help. But, even if so, the wealth and ability seem to be almost hopelessly concentrated in venerable hands before it have—nothing done. There are who look with distrust upon modern improvements and whose grip to be relaxed, must be proximo, which would be about the best thing positively certain of at least six per cent on the investment in good hard rhino. The collateral advantages, such as rise in the value of property and cheapness of getting produce to market at all seasons of the year, at a reduced cost, there, as here, are too much lost who would be most benefitted by its construct bids giving in full some of the richest of the tion. But if our neighbors want a railroad, they are perfectly welcome /to it, that is, if a half hours distant from Philadelphia, and rect conclusion, by nearly one half. with its present facilities for daily intercourse, needs a railroad, surely we have a much greater need of one. By water, their steamboats have to go daily but about fifty miles, rence, a young man in Greenwich, met with while here they would have to go a hundred quite a scrious accident on Thursday of last But notwithstanding this, we believe a boat week. The West Jersey Railroad is completeted to Woodbury, and possibly may be continued to Glassboro. But the idea of its being built any further by the Monopoly will be realized about the time the moon is shown to be made of green cheese; and greener than the greenest cheese is the individual who still expects the Monopoly to build the road after having so readily accomplished their own measures, namely: the extension of their monopoly privileges and the defeat of the Air Line. So that like the farmer with his wheat, if we want a railroad, we must depend upon ourselves to build it. Can we do it? Unquestionably we can, whenever the landholders and capitalists say they will do it. But until they do, we shall have to trudge along the old fashioned way, unless the unlooked for full value, payable in the new 3 ct. picces. sympathy of somebody else, should kindly commiserate our situation.
