THE EAST END. Gentlemen and Ladies' Boot & Shoe Store BENJAMIN THOMPSON.

WOULD inform the citizens of Bridgeton and the surrounding contarty that he is still at the trade that he commenced learning in this place the day after Bridgeton was illuminated for peace, (1815), and has taken of Mr. Samuel Reeves his old established Boot & Shoe Stand, next door to Daniel Fithian's store. Being furthest east on Commerge street of any in the trade. I name it the Least End Boot and Shoe Store, and as the sun rises in the east to enlighten and advance the day, so will I endeavor to enlighten my fellow-ditions where they can buy the cheapest and best Boots & Shoes, such as I made for many of you 27 years ago, while some of you were children, who are now heads of familis & strangers to mee and feeling an interest in year welfare. I respectfully invite you to call and see me, that we may reto wour acquaintance, and if you are in want of either Boots or Shoes, I would like to sell you, if I have Boots or Shoes, I would like to sell you, if I have the article on hand that will suit you, if not, I can measure and make to suit your fancy, at the shortest notice. My stock on hand consists of men's fine calf skin Boots, good quality, and 20 per cent, cheaper than I could make for the money now; fine kip of the same stamp, and others ata less price, but not so cheap; men's French calf, patent leather, and drab cloth top Gaiters, and a general assertment of men and boy's pat-ent leather and calf skin gaiters. A CONTENTED MIND.

The following poem was written in the sixteenth century, and is ascribed to Sir Edward Dyer. We think it was published in the Pioneer some time since, but as it is worth reading more than once, we again copy it, believing that all of our readers will be glad to possess so rich a poetical gem:

My mind to me a kingdom is; Such perfect joy therein I find, As far exceeds all earthly bliss, That God or nature hath assign'd; Though much I want that most would have, Yet still my mind forbids to carve.

Content I live, this is my stay; I seek no more than may suffice; I press to bear no haughty sway; Lock what I lack, my mind supplies; Lo! thus I triumph like a king, Content with that my mind doth bring.

I see how plenty surfeits oft, And hasty climbers soonest fall; I see that such as sit aloft Mishap doth threaten most of all; These get with toil, and keep with fear: Such cares my mind could never bear. No princely pomp nor wealthy store,

No force to win a victory; No wily wit to salve a sore, No shape to win a lover's eye; To none of these I yield as thrall: For why? my mind despiseth all.

Some have too much, yet still they crave, I little have, yet seek no more; They are but poor, though much they have, And I am rich with little store. They poor, I rich; they beg, I give; They lack, Hend; they pine, I live. I laugh not at another's loss,

I grudge not at another's gain; No weeklip wave my mind can toss, I brook that is another's bane; I fear no foe, nor fawn on friend-I louthe not life, nor dread mine end.

My wealth is health and perfect case, My conscience clear my chief defense; I never seek by bribes to please, Nor by desert to give offense. Thus do I live, thus will I die-Would all do so as well as I.

I do not joy in earthly bliss, I weigh not Crosus' wealth a straw; For eare, I care not what it is-I fear not fortune's fatal law; My mind is such as may not move For beauty bright, or force of love.

I wish but what I have at will. I wander not to seek for more; I like the plain, I climb no hill; In greatest storms I sit on shore. And laugh at them that foil in vain To get what must be lost again,

I kiss not where I wish to kill, I feign not love where most I hate; I break no sleep to win my will, I wait not at the mighty's gate; I scorn no poor, I fear no rich-I fear no want, nor have too much. Some weigh their pleasure by their lust, Their visdom by their rage of will;

Their treasure is their only trust, A cloaked craft their store of skill: But all the pleasure that I find, Is to maintain a quiet mind.

CATTLE ON HIGHWAYS. Mr. EDITOR:-Permit me through the columns of your paper to put forth my views all goodness emptied out of him, and yet not in regard to turning stock in the public highways, such as cows, sheep, hogs, &c., and if wrong I wish to be righted.

It has long been the habitual practice o some to turn all their stock in the road, horses excepted, and I doubt not but they would put them there too, could they be spared from the plough, and of course it would be in all the pride of his mantling temptation. just as legal. I would like to hear of one | pearance. "O, if a wish could transport me back to person at least who has not suffered wrong. or been very much annoyed by these highway rangers. with a price is no more desirable than the hypocritical kiss of Judas.

Even those who are in the habit of turuike to cattle, sheep, hogs, &c., continually ing all their stock in the public highways, they become offended at a neighbor who refuses to bear the same wrong.

The principle of turning stock in the highways, in a Christian land, and at this enlightened period, is a wrong too griovous to be tolerated.

This, Mr. Editor, is my opinion, and always will be until one argument at least is advanced to prove my error.

ODESSA, Delaware, June 15, 1857. MR. EDITOR-I propose giving you a few items of general information from this part of the State of Delaware.

It is very common for persons in discribing any place, or in writing a descriptive article for publication, to give only the excellent qualities of the place described, and make things appear only on the bright side; but I will attempt to give an impartial account as far as my information extends of the place I describe.

Odessa, the place where I am at present located, is named after that celebrated grain depot situated on the Black sea. It was formerly called Cantwell's Bridge, from an influential man who lived here, but has since been changed to Odessa, because of the large amount of wheat exported annually from this place. The town is situated on Appoquinamink Creek, about 12 miles from its mouth, and contains about four hundred inhabitants. The most important business carried on is buying and exporting grain. Lust year there were known to have been sent out of the shels, and it is very probable it greatly ex-

The town of Odessa is neatly laid out with streets crossing at right angles. Broad street, the principal street, is a pleasant avenue, and contrasts favorably with many of the close and narrow streets of some of our country towns. There are several splendid residences in the town-but it is principally composed of plain and substantial dwellings, and entirely free from old and worn-out buildings. The suburbs of the town are inhabited by the colored population—as is universally the case in Delaware—and their houses being covered with a fashionable (?) coat of lime gives them, in the distance, a pleasing ap are lying idle for want of a young man; a pen

It is an axiom in natural Philosophy, that whatever is gained in time is lost in power. Now, this principle will also apply to this case, and it explains the reason why our schools are not entirely what they should be. Beside the public schools, there are two select ones, both of which are well patronized, and although I have an interest in one of them, it is my belief that a well organized, and well supervised public school will effect more in a community.

We have several stores here, all of which appear to be doing a fair business. Some of them have quite a city like appearance, and nearly all deal in fish, Comly's spelling books, ladies' hooped skirts, &c., &s. Besides these, we have two large and fine hotels, the gentlemanly proprietors of which are always ready to give rest to the weary, and food to the hungry. The Delaware & Chesapeake Canal crosses the State from this place; from 60 to 100 vessels pass through it duily. Some are steamers, and are propelled by their own power; others are towed through by steam tow-boats, and others again are drawn through by teams of mules, which walk along the banks. It is quite an interesting spectacle to see a noble steamer moving majestically, from or to the canal, with perhaps 30 boats heavily laden. They sometimes bring as many as 36

'Tis well; be above it, only do not repine that you are not rich.

RICH AND POOR.

It is a matter of shame, that any journal or anybody, claiming intelligence and respectability, should in this country attempt to create distinctions of classes and pit the rich against the poor, or the poor against the rich. Yet there are such, whose labors are as contemptible as they are wicked. In this country there are no material distinctions of classes. Every man who earns a comfortable honest living, and is intelligent and virtuous, is independently rich, and may command respect and esteem, and aspire to all the honors and dignities incident to sovereign citizennational or individual. The false position ship. We have no titles here, nor entails, money has been permitted to assume as a nor hereditary estates, and all wealth merely supplier of the necessities and luxurious in money and goods, in the average of cases, however accumulated to day, will return to its original sources in two or three generations. It seldom needs more than the children to scatter the father's estate—earned by enterprise and industry. It is all nonsense to talk about aristocracy here. Every honest industrious man is an aristocrat in his trade and calling, or ought to be. By this we mean that every honest calling is of superlative dignity in itself; that its professor can make it just as respectable, if not profitable, as he pleases. Let even the chimney sweeper stand on the dignity of his trade, and he can be as independent and haughty, if need be, as the Wall-street shaver with his bonds and coupons. The comparatively few men-and-women-apes of exremes in fashious and refinements, are not properly a class among Republican peoplethey are drones and butterflies, whose gaudy plumage and disdainful airs is all they can boast, and whom to envy, ridicule or decry,

In the same article, under the caption of "The Pioneer and its Hounds," we are falsely accused better appreciated new than they were a few years ago." The same gentleman is also charged in connection with us, with manufacturing a letter purporting to come from Millville, and from a member of the Society of Friends," he also contemptibly charged us with "forging and breaking open a letter." These base and slanderous the editor of the Chronicle branded as a base and unscrupulous liar. The assertion of the scribbler in that infamous sheet, that the talents of Mr. Miller, who a few years since was associate editor brain of the editor of that sheet. Being engaged for swindling and blackguarding Jerseymen, as he has done and is still doing. We can unhesitatingly say, that at no former period did the Pioneer flourish so well and the subscription list increase so rapidly, to the discomforture of those who were pecuniarly interested in the Chronicle, especially when he, time and again, used up and cowed down the scribbling blackguards who wrote in that infamous sheet. They even now admit that the name of the Pioneer (with one exception) never appeared in the Chronicle. One reason was, because they dare not molest it.

We have before proved to the satisfaction of all unprejudiced minds, by referring them to the articles and dates, that the present controversy originated in the Chronicle, and that our first archaracter of its publisher. Because we thus proved that we were acting on the defensive, the scribback out of our position.

All the charges we have brought against the made against us in that infamous sheet, by the editor or his hired emissaries, are lies of the basest stamp, manufactured from the rough in their hase and imbecile minds, without the least foundation whatever. The balance of their charges are slanderous and libelous insinuations and misrepresentations, such as they dare not make as direct assertions for fear the justice of the law would land them where they would have been long ago, had they met their just deserts for the crimes against them.

After endeavoring to create a false impression by stating that the present controversy originated in the Pioneer, and lying about us in a manner which is discredited even by their own adherents, and known to be false by all who are acquainted with us, they give as our motives for what they falsely call making the attack on them, that previous to their taking possession of the Chronicle it was owned by a liquor dealer, who took strong grounds against the passage of the Maine Law, that the temperance question as a political one was dead and buried before they came to Bridgeton, that their subscription list has been rapidly gaining, and a number stopping our paper and subscribing to theirs. He then attempts to display his wit by copying what was said of his long eared brother, and after lying about Mr. Miller, and attempting to back out of the charges which he made against Mr. M., by asserting that his name was not mentioned in that paper, he gives another specimen of his peculiar logic by saying that our article was merely a rehash of the stale bilingsgate we had been using toward him throughout, and that it (the rehash of stale bilingsgate) was stolen from the Chronicle! What an awful crime! To be charged with stealing STALE BILINGS-GATE from such a respectable sheet. The assertion that we left Bridgeton before light, or at any other time, for the purpose of consulting with any one whatever as to what means had better be employed to hush up the Chronicle, is a falsehood base falsehoods and contemptible insinuations such as eminates in the luxuriant brain of the eu-

Having almost exhausted his stock of petty personalities and base falsehoods which he has been perpetrating against us, and finding that the public are becoming more acquainted with his dishonest manner of doing business, and losing confidence in him as a citizen, he manufactures and misrepresents cases in a manner which is so evidently false, that even those who were deceived ticle was nothing more than a reply to charges | President of the Bowentown Farmer's Club, and made in that paper against the Pioneer and the the printing for the Agricultural Society, are misrepresentations and falsehoods of the meanest kind, such as no man with a particle of honor berries, say we. blers in that sheet charge us with attempting to would be guilty of. Now we will explain some of his charges, and give a true statement of the case. He says, "but a short time since, we made Chronicle, its editor or paid writer, have been arrangements to publish the speech of the Presi substantiated, while three fourths of the charges | dent of the Bowentown Farmers' Club. The manuscript was sent to us, by the Secretary, plainly diffected, but the person mistook the office, and gave it to the editor of the Pioneer, who kent it and refused to give it up after we had demanded it." The speech referred to was delivered before the Bowentown Farmers' Club, and a resolution passed that it be published in the county papers. We had an understanding with the President who delivered the address, that it was to be published in the Pioneer, as well as the Chronicle; some which they are guilty of and which can be proved time afterward the speech was handed to us by an individual who stated that the Secretary of the society, had sent it to our office; on seeing the name of the editor of the Chronicle on the manusoriet, we called the individual back and asked the question of him particularly, whether the secretary sent it to the Pioneer office, he replied in the affirmative. Having had an understanding with the author of the speech, that we were to publish it, and knowing that the society ordered it printed in the Pioneer, we had it put in type ready for publication. The editor of the Chronicle sent to our office for the manuscript, and the person whom he sent, was told without hesitation that they could have the manuscript, or the use of our type with the speech already set up for them; they concluded to take the type which saved the editor of that paper half a days labor, leave for the staggering editor or his sober hired and all the thanks we got for it, was to be falsely

Finding that their threats did not intimidate with whom he originally commenced, but as am again compelled to notice his article.

> After a hyprocitical profession of mock sympathy with the editor of the Pioneer, and a Paul Pry description of his leaving Bridgeton, accompanied with one of his able and entertaining flings at his personal ability as an editor, he says the object of his going was to "consult with his coadjutor, as to what means had better be employed to hush up the Chronicle. Could their long eared brother that Balaam rode have looked in upon them, he in the Pioneer of to day." Although apparently fancying himself a perfect Goliah with his pen, and studiously endeavoring to impress upon his readers the omniscience of his knowledge, in the vain hope that the extremely thin covering of his misrepresentations will trays a remarkable sensitiveness, lest some friendly hand should aid the editor of the Pioneer in repelling the abuse he is maliciously bestowing upon him. And lest he be too badaforesaid consultation no "means" were adopted to "hush up the Chronicle." His imagination is slightly in fault, a defect which could probably be most effectually cured by adhering more rigidly to pure water as a beverage. The studied but feeble attempt of our "long eared brother" to induce his readers to believe that a "Mr. Joseph A. that a limb may be amputated without the slightest pain; inhaling the ordinary burning gas will destroy life in a few hours.

The inhalation of a ammonia will rouse the system when fainting or apparently dead. The odor of many of the medicines is perceptible in the skin a. few minutes after being inhaled, and may be immediately detected in the blood. A convincing proof of the constitutional effects of inhalation, is the fact that sickness is always produced by breathing foul air. Is not this positive evidence that proper remedies, carefully prepared and judiciously administered through the lungs, should produce the most happy results? During eighteen years practice, many thousands, suffering from diseases of the lungs and throat, have been under my care, and I have effected many remarkable cures, even after the sufferers had been pronounced in the last stages, which fully satisfies me that consumtion is no longer a fatal disease. My treatment of consumption is original, and founded on long experience and through investigation. My perfect acquaintance with the nature of tubercles &c., enables me to distinguish, readily, the various forms of disease that simulate consumption, and apply the proper remedies rarely being mistaken even in a single case.—This familiarity in connection with certain pathological and microscopic discoveries, enables me to relieve the lungs from the effects of contracted chests; to enlarge the chest, purifythe blood, impart to it renewed, vitality, giving energy and tone to the entire system. Still in the Field. At Reeves & Davis' is the place Where shoes are got with ease;

They're made to button or to lace, And warranted to please. We have the largest stock in town; We're not afraid to tell it; Come friends and neighbors, all around, For we are bound to sell it.

Now, gentlemen in want of shoes, Of gaiters or of boots; We send to you the cheering news, We have them just to suit! The ladies, too. have heard the news, They look so very sweet,
Then rush to Reeves & Davis' where

They make their fits so neat. Old people, too, with tender feet, They rush to Mr. Reeves, Because they know he can't be beat In making shoes for ease. For forty years he's kept the course,

'Tending to people's feet; By some he's called the great war horse That never can be beat! Come, rich and poor, come young and old; Come every one that can; We're bound not to be under-sold

Bridgeton, April 18, '57. More Goods! Better Goods, and CHEAPER GOODS

Having procured the services of a first, rate set of hands, and made arrangements for manufacturing the most of the ready made clothing that I sell, I have now on hand a large and splendid stock of clothing, manufactured under my own supervision, of the most durable materials by the best workmen made equal to customer work, and warranted to give satisfaction to all that try them, and at the same time are enabled to sell cheaper than any other house in Bridgeton, as there is but one small profit on my goods, whilst those goods that are manufactured in the city must have two profits; the manufacturer must have a profit, and the retailer must have his so it must be obvious to all that I have the advantage over those who sell city-made work.—All I ask is a call before you purchase elsewhere, and if you are not satisfied that my goods are better made, and cheaper than you can buy elsewhere. I do not ask you to buy, nor do I consider it any trouble to show you my goods.

Cheap Spring Clothing! Clothing, clothing for all, At the United States Clothing Emporium Hall! Come, then, men and boys, And you can have your choice. There was once a stranger calling at my hall, And he will tell you what happened to him all. He was getting such a nice suit that nobody knew him; Friends politely passed and spoke not;

He kissed the smiling matron. She repulsed him, and informed him, If such liberties were taken, She should surely tell her husband. One more look and all was settled; In the gay, genteel intruder, She beheld her own dear husband, So completely changed by clothing That at first she did not know him. Then the wife asked questions: Tell me, dear, where the suit was purchased, Tell me where they got that style of making, Where, and when, and how they got you Arrayed in such a handsome fashion? Tell me, tell me, all about it, Tell me, tell me, tell me all. Did he answer? No, sir-ee, Bob, As the questions thus did fall; But he murmured at BAMBERGER'S.

And arriving at his dwelling,

NEW JERSEY COMBINED MOWING AND REAPING MACHINES For the Harvest of 1857.

ARBER'S Machine has taken the premium is placed in competition with some of the most celebrated. It is simple, of light draught, less complicated, and not hable to get out of order, and will cut all kinds of Grain or Grass, squally as well as any Combined Machine ever offered the

It is so constructed that all side draught (which is so great in most machines as to require three, and some four horses to do the work of two been entirely overcome, and seldom, if ever, requiring but two horses in any kind of grain of grass.

You can mow an acre per hour the whole day through with but two horses, and with the same ease for the team as plowing, and at a slower gait than any other Machine ever in this region.

No Real is required in mowing any kind of grass. It has been fairly tested by a number of procedured formers and quite sufficient to prove its practical farmers, and quite sufficient to prove its practical farmers, and quite sufficient to prove its complete adaptation to moving as well as reaping. I have received many certificrtes from practical farmers and competent judges, establishing its merits over any other machine ever used in

The following is the award of the Committee of the Agricultural So. at the Reaping and Mowing Machine, at Bowentown, July 9, 1856, at which time and place were entered one of McCormick's with four horses, three of Manny's with two horses each, two Ketchum's with two horses each, and one of mine with two small Mules: "Your committee have came to the conclusion, after taking all the circumstances into consider-ation, the clearness of the cut, and least clogging to the knife, that Rarber's Machine, worked by Samuel M. Sheppard, did the best work."

The above machine will be made to cut any desired length of swath, from 4,41 to 5 feet, as may be ordered. An extra knife accompanies each machine. They are manufactured and for sale by the subscriber at Bridgeton.
