GERMAN POSTMAN'S SONG.

TRANSLATED FOR THE PIONEER BY L. KAISER. 'Mid cold and heat, through snow and rain, Your Post will fetch and carry; His constant duties still maintain. And never cease nor tarry.

Mark well the hour of his return, And listen to his cheerful horn. "It blow-ows, and blow-ows, trol-a-de, trol-i-da, The postman has come."

From East and West, from South and North I bring you information; From every quarter of the earth, From every land and nation. Then hail with joy my safe return; And welcome my old bugle horn.

It blows, &c. Come rich and poor, come old and young, Come all who wish to journey; I'll bear you pleasantly along, And kindly take your money. Ho! then awake at early morn, And hark to my sharp-sounding horn.

It blows, &c. Come great and small, come bond and free, And learn a moral lesson: You travel on Life's road like me. Though differing in profession. You start with hope in Life's young morn, But soon must blow your last old horn.

Now, while you travel this dull road, Be honest, prompt and faithful; In duties just to man and God, And to your country grateful. Then wait with patience for your turn To hear death blow for you his horn. It blows, &c.

It blows, &c.

Now in the twilight pale and grey, Hans sat chanting a thrilling lay; And from his face sorene and fair His voice rang over near and far, I'm down on the gals.

TOWN AND COUNTRY LIFE.

It would be absurd to deny the manifald importance of great commercial towns in our social system. They are not the mere result of calculation, they grow up by an irresistable necessity. The intenser life which springs from their stern competition undoubtedly performs a most important office in the progress of civilization. The faculties are sharpened by the direct contact and collision of kindred. The great accumulations of capital, which almost exclusively take place in commerce and the occupations connected with it, exercises an all powerful influence in the community, and are felt in all its enterprises. The social sympathics gather warmth ore: from the generous contagion of conupon each other to mutual advantage; when eral arts from crowded avenues and ringing many articles of luxury to his small estabpavements to the opon, healthful country, lishment. and connecting them with its substantial in-

I do not claim for agricultural life in modern times the Arcadian simplicity of the heroic ages; but it is capable, with the aid of popular education and the facilities of intercommunication, of being made a pursuit more favorable than city life to that average de-gree of virtue and happiness to which we may reasonably aspire in the present imper- tures." fect stage of being. Again, I have now under my employ several hands, from whom I will here select three who have been induced to save their earnings, and not to foolishly trifle either their time or their money for the unnecessaries of life. One man, now living on one of my properties, began a few years ago at 69 per month and found, he for three years laid by $100 per annum; he is now a thriving farmer worth $2,000, having a complete stock, and next spring will have a dairy of 30 cows, and other conveniences to correspond. About four years ago, I took a couple of boys at $12 per month, poor and almost destitute, one of them could hardly write his name. They are now worth nearly or quite $2,000 also, and this summer alone, notwithstanding the hard times and depression in business, have together cleared about $600 free and clear of everything, and now instead of losting about the store, idling away their time, and spending, what they have earned, are preparing to go into the interior of your State, two hundred miles, and drive team this winter. They are nothing but boys yet. I could give several cases quite as much to the point at the above named. Laborer, go thou and de likewise. But it is with perfect astonishment I have long seen these fatal days approaching. I have been a visitor to your city for some years past, and saw the corelessness among your laboring classes. I seek not to flatter them; for before they can become this, they will have to make they can become this, they will have to make earnest efforts of one or two kinds. There are some who depreciate their condition, and some who have a false pride in it, because the help of an economical wife, was always they demand more consideration than they merit. Town girls have the advantage of more highly polished manners and greater accom plishments; but country girls have infinitely more to recommend them as rivals of their fair city sisters. They have more truth, household knowledge and economy, health, and consequently beauty, simplicity, affection, and freshness of impulse and thought When they have cultivated minds, there are mere chances in their favor for good sense and real ability, because so much is not demanded by the frivolites of society. The added lister of foreign accomplishment could easily be caught by such a mind from a very little contact with the muses.

I would not speak as though our farmers' daughters were deficient in education. Many brilliant scholars and talented women may be found among them. In New England this is especially so; but I would seek to awaken the ambition of all to become that admired and favored class which they ought MYSTERIOUS REVELATIONS. On Tuesday night last, about 7 o'clock, a man applied for lodging at the hotel of Mr. Adams of this town. About an hour afterwards, anether (who was evidently an old crony of the former) made his appearance. One was a thick set, muscular man, supposed discovered on their clothing, they were susother was sleeping and questioned him, receiving evasive answers and but little satisfaction. Upon examination it was found that his head was cut or bruised, and the blood thickly matted in his hair, having dried in and run down over his forehead. He stated that it was done with a hatchet, by the captain of the vessel, with whom they had been quarreling, he also stated that the vessel was an oyster boat, a sloop, and that they had sailed from Wilmington, Delaware. Their statements differing so materially, they could not be depended upon. Being told by the 'Squire that they were falsifying, one of them promised to tell the truth if they would leave bim do so in the presence of the other. This was not considered worth while, as they were somewhat under the influence of liquor it was thought best not to commit them to prison. The younger one gave his name as Wm. Laight, the elder, Wm. Cook. One of them said the name of the Captain of the vessel was William Joslin, the other stated that it was Thomas Joslin.

They remained over night at the hotel, and in the morning left on foot and were seen beyon Roadstown about nine o'clock, heading for Salem.

Different suppositions are entertained as to to be on the right side. the character of these men, some supposing that they have been guilty of murder some- ures, would adopt the plan of the honest old where below here, others think they have Presbyterian, they would have fewer mistakes made their escape in a small boat, after sent to answer for after passing through time inthing the vessel on which they were muti- to eternity. neers, while it is hoped that nothing more serious than a spree among some boatmen and themselves, resulted in the scars and blood which was upon them.

The company is composed principally of men who have too much good sense and business calculation, to charge a much higher rate for gas than what other artificial light can be produced for, provided they can make a per centage on capital invested. Those who are disposed to complain of the disadvantages of burning gas, are advised to have patience, and they will undoubtedly see advantages in it which are not yet developed. The appearance and convenience of gas lights are without doubt preferable to any other, while the cost will be much less than it now is to consumers.

Gas Explosion and Narrow Escape.

The above caption may seem to some like the early report of what may be expected to follow as a frequent occurrence from the use of gas in this town; but such should remember that "accidents are liable to happen in the best regulated families," and a like octo be, if they will but unite refined culture currence may not take place here for many Mr. J. Bowen & Phillips, gas fitters of this town, were in the act of making the connection from the meter in the cellar of Mark Sheppard's grocery store. The gas having been turned on and escaping freely into the cellar, was turned off some ten or fifteen minutes previous to entering with a light to make the connection. The young man had just sent the boy up stairs, and was raising his torch up to the place of connection, when he discovered a streak of fire flashing from his light to the gas which had escaped above. In an instant he fell to the floor, when the explosion took place, shattering everything within several feet of it; the floor above was raised, and the thick wall of the brick building was relieved of the plaster, some of the bricks being forced completely out. The young man happily escaped with having his eye brows and hair somewhat singed. Mr. Sheppard was out on the pavement at the time, where a pile of baskets, &c., were scattered over him in surprising confusion. A person inside, near the counter, jumped so high that it was doubtful for a while whether he would ever come down again.

Our readers, however, who wish to know where to purchase good and cheap groceries, are hereby informed that Mr. Sheppard is still on hand, (notwithstanding the explosion) ready to wait on all customers in a po

What is good for a Cold. We have been lately so much annoyed with the above, and so many times had to prescribe for this malady, with which the people seem to be universaly afflicted, that we have concluded to give the public, in this public manner, a recipe which has ben proved by many years experience, in the case of thousands, infallable. When you wish anything good for a cold, either walk, run, or labor until in a profuse perspiration, throw off your outward clothing, and either stand in a draft of cold air, or throw yourself upon the cold ground. Try it.

Quite an extensive revival of religion is now going on in the Friendship Methodist Protestant Church, at Newport. The house is crowded, and the altar is thronged nightly with penitonts. Quite a number have professed religion, already, and the meeting seems only to be beginning.

MR. EDITOR:—We hear the people com-

BEECHER ON THANKSGIVING. The REV. HENRY WARD BEACHER preached on Thanksgiving day from the following: Romans, V: 3d, 4th, 5th: " And not only so but we glory in tribulations also; knowing that tribulation worketh patience, and patience experience, and experience hope; and hope maketh not ashamed."

This test, said the speaker is better tha the philosopher's stone, whatever that touched it turned into gold, whatever this touches it turns into manhood. We take much pains to be happy, but we fall short of it, for disaster overtakes us, death steps into our midst Men do not know how to reconcile contentment-with-entorprise, they do not know how to be happy as they go along. Joy is irregular in its orbit. The short and intense excitement which it brings is often followed by paroxisms. The whole land is now in a state of surprise and excitement, on account of the crisis, and yet to day its inhabitants are call ed upon to render thanksgivings. A short time since, all was light; now all is darkness. If we exumine this matter, however, we may find some reasons for giving thanks. Even were we animals, we should have reasons to be thankful. We have food to eat, stalls where we may stand up or lie down at our leisure. But if we are men we ought to be thoughtful if manhood is left. We can glory in our tribulation, knowing that it worketh

Germany and Great Britain began in a barberous state, and from that they have marched on to their present state of civilization. Their growth has been slow and consequently have been subject to no great convulsion. Our country had no infancy except in history. In the beginning society was developed with its wants unsupplied; great industry and exertion were required to meet the demands of a growing population. It is no wonder therefore, that our impelling power was in excess. The life of our people was in the future. The predominating element cause to be ashamed once in ten years.

The North has life in itself, and can exist by its own inherent vitality. The South has death in itself, and cannot exist independent of external assistance. New York and Philadelphia, as well as all our northern cities, are beginning to realize that it is for their interests to patronize the free States, for the latter bring in twenty dollars into the pockets of business men, where the slave States do one. To such an extent is this partiality mainfested that it has tended greatly to depreciate the value of slave property. Many are already hesitating to invest their capital in slaves. If the North once gets the start of the South, it will be as difficult for the latter to overtake her as for a man to overtake an express train when fairly in motion. The North will get ahead of the South sooner or later, and the commercial crisis is doing much to bring about this result.

I would particularly, call attention to this celebrated Stove for Parlors, Halls, Dining Rooms, Chambers, Stoves, office, ac. The heating quanties of this excellent Stove are so well known, that it is useless to make further comments. But the great objection to the old pattern is that the holes where the air on'er; the cylinder to ignite, the gas borning qualities of the move accident over the state place, the gas borning qualities of the move accident over a cheeping the stove apart, and frequently the cylinder has the renewed. To prevent this objection, I have placed as the pleasure; with this improvement, the gas burning qualities of this stove cannot be fingened by over-filling for falling into the hands of these inaccustomed to the principle of this stove, as there is no difficulty in keeping these openings free from ashes or cinders.

April 18, '57-11 LAWRENCE WOODRUFF. BLACKSMITHING. THE subscriber having purchased the entire interest of Joseph B. Wood in the Blacksmith shop in Laurel street, Bridgeton; and being a practical work-man of long experience, and having the best workmen in my employ, not only for horse shoe-ing, but for everything else in this line of business, I am prepared to execute all kinds of work at short notice, and in a workman-like manner.

Having everything in order for doing the best of work, I feel confident of my ability to give general satisfaction. I therefore solicit from farmers and the public in general the same liberal share of custom. Carriages ironed in the neatest and most improved styles, surpassed by nothing in West Jersey, either in neatness or durability. Heavy wagons, either wood or iron arm, ironed in the best manner; also, ploughs, harrows, and everything belonging to the blacksmith business.

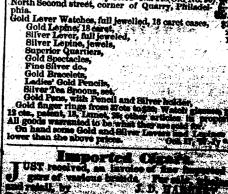

Particular attention paid to the important branch of horseshoeing. Those wishing work done, are respectfully re-
