BY LOUISE LIFFORD.

When shall I die? Will it be when The happiest hour of my life has come? Will it be in youth's bright, sunniest hour, When earth seems an Eden, each neck a bower Will it be when standing by the loved one's side, And no thought of the morrow my bosem betide; And friends gather round me and tell of their leve, In soft cooing sounds like the turtle dove? Or will it be after long years have fled, When my barque is sheltered, my light hopes

And the friends of my youth have grown heart less and cold, nd my eyes have grown dim, and grown old?

Where shall I die? Will loved ones stand, To cheer me on to the "better land"? Will I sink to rest 'neath some sylvan glade, Where the birds sing sweetest, and the flowers ne'er fade ?

Will it be 'neath the sky of a summer's sun, When my pilgrimage's ended and another begun? Or will the cold winter winds sweep my hearth, Far away from the home of my childhood's mirth? And strangers look on my inanimate clay, As they bury me deep forever, and aye; And they look on my grave with a careless eye, And shed no tears as they pass me by?

How shall I die? Will my mind be at rest, And no doubt of the future pervade my breast? Will my heart o'erflow with bitter tears, And the pent-up feelings of earlier years? Will the deeds I have done, with piercing dark Afflict my conscience, and wound my heart? Will I shrink from a knowledge of the world unknown.

And tremble to meet my Maker's frown; . And my soul he steeped in dark dispair; Then die, and go, alas!-none knows where? God grant that my life may not go out Midst trembling fear and fl I would I might calmly sink to rest,

Like a babe at eve on its mother's breast; That the friends I have trusted, the friends I May rejoice to know that in faith I have died:

That the poor bless my name for the alms I have And my barque safely moored in the portals of Heaven.

PHILADELPHIA BARD IN LUCK. HIS EXPERIENCE, AS RELATED BY HIMSELF.

Last Saturday night, at eight o'cleck, Down Chestnut street I drifted, Until before me stood the store. Of Evans, George the Gift-ed.

I had left home with little funds. Not dreaming of adventure, But reading "Gift Book Enterprise," Thought for a prize I'd enter.

'Twas fine without, and bright within-The stars and gas-lights burning-Outside, the leaves were falling off; Inside, the leaves were turning.

I am not one who, trusting fate, In luck and chance believes ; Yet thought, of course, some flowers must bloom Amidst so many leaves.

I had a bill from yankee land, The land of human natur-The "Nutmeg State," of which 'tis asked, "Where shall we find a gr(e)ater?"

What should I buy? "NightThoughts," perhaps Or else the works of Bacon; I pondered o'er "The Hidden Path."

But that road was not taken. I knew that Bunyan's works were read In every land and clime:

And thought his Pilgrim's Progress was The book fer coming time. For coming time-ah, lucky thought!

The all important feature: For coming time might come to me. And be a gold repeater.

I bought the book, my dollar paid, The clerk steps back and hollars: "The Pilgrim's Progress !" "Lady's watch!" "Full jeweled !" "Fifty dollars !"

I cannot tell how well I felt. In this my song or ditty; Much like the Pilgrim at the gate Of the "Celestial City."

"Immertal Bunyan!" I exclaimed. "Bend from the realms of glory: Watch o'er me while I take the time. And read the Pilgrim's story."

I hurried home, my smiling wife A pleasant air was humming; She said, "I've laid my work aside, That I might watch your coming."

She had been watching. I, of course, Her work of love applauded; Gave her the book, and with the wetch Her watching I rewarded.

Said she: "If every Pilgrim makes The Progress made by you; Gold watches soon will be as thick As drops of morning dew."

"Yes," I replied, "for Evans gives Gold watches, day by day; And every men that he may watch, For his success will pray."

Then herry up to Evans' Store, And the will lift the gartain; To may not got (laber research DIRECTION.

Then from whence was this knowledge derived? Why was it written? Let me answer, and say that I fear it is too much like the woman with the cold brick, it is only imagination.

Mr. Editor, did you ever hear the ladies say ought against him, or his team? did you ever hear them complain of the slowness of the gait or the !imping of the horses? I think not, but you have (or could if you would associate with them as an unmarried Editor should) heard those same ladies, however imaginary they are, give to Frank and his horses, the fame which he by his honesty and bounding the Cumberland line. It is destipublic is willing to confide, from them we get | mantic sketch, to wit: Landscape, lake, mill, | paper of the kind, in the world. the truth, from them a true character of him and his horses is derived.

Now look here, Mr. Editor, it seems to me that when we talk about three legged | bless 'em) encased in crineline and hoopshorses, the people take it for granted that the girls -as far above, we repeat, such charthose horses have one less than is needed, or at least one less than four, now when we know a man that has had the pleasure of a seat in those comfertable and well arranged coaches, drawn by as good horses as any other stageman has, and he imagining that those coaches are drawn by horses with only three and yallarer ones; and more subscribers to legs each, we are inclined to believe that he is like the weman with the cold brick, effected by imagination. It must be it, because we all know that an Editor will not get so tight that he cannot count four. Then imagination must do it. Do not for the world believe that the people generally think that it alone done the work, but let me advise you, lest you at some time should imagine that you, even you, are warming by that hot brick, which you say is nothing more than a cold stone with no small quantity of ice on it. Be careful I say lest you should imagine yourself warm when you are nearly frozen; be careful that imagination does not make you believe that your state (not of single blessedness) but loneliness, is as it should be, until it be teo late to ward off such ideas un til they take such a hold on you and prove a reality, and then those ladies will not say, as " M. L." did of my friend, that you are one of us, and an exception to the class alluded to," and you can only say, "the day is past and I am not saved!" Then be careful of this monster, imagination. It ought not to have any lodgement around or about you; do not let it cause you to say that Frank's horses have got but three legs; but for fear it will, let your d-l count for you.

The other friend of mine (the store keeper) is, if the public rely upon the assertion of yeurself and " M. L." pretty well used up. She has heaped upon his shoulders the whole blame; she says the "coel trick" is his, and his only, and you sir, intimate the same.

New sir, am I to believe it? is the public to believe it? I ask these questions, not disputing the opinion of our fair one or yourself, by a positive contradiction, but I will bet you ferty red apples that she is mistaken, tion. and forty more that she is not a married weman, and that she is a friend, and would not ebject to be a protector to one besides my friend. What else sould have prompted her to say that my friend (the store keeper) was the ene and only one? What else caused her to say that he is the mean men, and the oth. er so undommenly sedate, but to put herself into the good graces of you both?

Fire at Willow Grove.

About two o'clock on Thursday morning last, a large frame building at Willew Grove was discovered to be on fire, and in a short time wrapped in flames. It contained six er seven tons of sumas, which tegether with the building, was the property of Mr. F. E. Bateman. The property was not insured, consequently the less falls heavily upon Mr. B., who is a most estimable young man, and worthy the esteem which he enjoys of all who are acquainted with him. All in the neighborhood, men wemen and children, turned out and lent a belping hand to extinguish the flames. The wind being mederate and from the north-east, but little damage was sustained by the adjoining buildings, except the destruction of the water wheel of the lath mill. Fortunately, however, a large quantity of sumac had just been removed from the building. It cannot be believed that any one in that neighborhood is so depraved as to destroy the preperty and endanger the lives of any, especially those who had never injured them in any manner. The fire probably originated from the sparks of a candle which was used in the building in the evening by some workmen.

DROWNED.

We are again called upon to record another melancholy accident, which occurred here on last Saturday evening. Benjamin James, a colored man well known to the citizens of a will:-Bridgeton, went on board the steamer . Express at the upper wharf in this town, rode down in her to the lower wharf, with the intention of going ashore and going home.-On account of the low tide, the boat could not approach the shore, but was obliged to anchor out in the stream.

Mr. James ate his supper on board the boat, and remained there part of the evening. It is supposed that some time during the night, perhaps 10 or 11 o'clock, as the boat neared the wharf, he got up and went to the deck, thinking he could jump ashore with safety, but the Fates had decreed otherwise. He made a misstep and fell, and no one knowing anything about the occurrence, he was drowned. His body was found on Sunday afternoon, and on Monday was interred in the Baptist burial ground in Bridgeten .-Life how uncertain in the midst of it we ervation of life and property on the coast of are in death.

On the contrary, there is always present more or less of superfusis matter, sometimes in large quantity. The composition proposed by 'Qdam' a Hare's Patent, is, in my estimation, superior to that of the best guance, or, to my other artificial manure of which have heard, and I think myself the mure entitled to give this positive opision, from the unlooked for results of the action of sulphuric acid on animal matter, which I obtained in expanment, but which were anticipated by the Patent in question.

BRIDGETON, N. J. The annual meeting of the members of the Cumber land Mutual Fire Insurance Company was held at the Hotel of E. Davis & Son, in Bridgeton, on Monday, the Staday of March. 1838.

The Directors reported a continued a session of mem

The interest moner having put I all of the expenses of the Company, and $10.50 more, Assuming as heretofore, an annual payment of the 5 per cent, on origin tim notes to be made to a stock company, the saying to the members is now at the rate of $29.504 per year-so long as no a seasment has to be made.

The true plan of a mutual Company offering perfect security to the insured at just what it may cost to pay losses and expenses, they believe to be accomplished, and while they cannot say that no assessment upon the premium notes will be needed, they can show to every member that the per centage will not be large.

Consumptive's graves.

Truly the quiver of death has no arrow so fatal as Consumption. In all ages it has been the great enemy of life, for it spares neither age nor sex, but sweeps off all to the brave, the beautiful, the graceful, and the gifted. By the left of the Sr preme Being, from whom conject every good and perfect gift, I am enabled to effect to the afficted a permanent and speedy curs in Consumption. The first cause of tubercles is from impure blood, and the immediate effect, produced by their deposition in the turing, is to prevent the free admission of air into the air cells, which causes a weakened vitality through the entire system. Then surely it is more rational to expect greater good from medicines entering the cavities, of the lungs than from those administered through the stomach; the patient will always find the lungs free and the breathing easy after inhaling remedies. True, inhalation is a local remedy, nevertheless it acts constitutionally, and with more power and certainty than remodies administered by the stemah. To prove the powerful and direct influence of this mode of administration, chloroform inhaled will entirely destroy sensibility as a few minutes, paralyzing the entire nervous system, so that a limb may be amputated without the slightest pain inhaling the ordinary burning gas will destroy life in a few hours.

The inhalation of a ammonia will rouse the system when inhaling the ordinary burning gas will destroy life in a few hours.

The inhalation of a ammonia will rouse the system when fainting or apparently dead. The odor of many of the medicines is perceptible in the skir a few minutes after being; inhaled, and may be immediately detected in the blood. A convincing proof of the constitutional effects of inhalation, is the fact that sickness is always produced by breathing foul air. Is not this positive evidence that proper remedies, carefully prepared and judiciously administered through the lungs, should produce the most happy results? Darring eighteen years practice, many thousands, suffering from diseases of the lungs and throat, have been under my care, and I have effected many remarkable cures, even after the sufferers had been pronounced in the last stages, which fully satisfies me that consumption is no longer a fatal disease. My treatment of consumption is organal, and founded on long experience and thorough investigation. My perfect acquaintance with the nature of tubercles &c. onables me to distinguish, readily, the various forms of disease that simulate consumption, and apply the proper
