For the West Jersey Pionee A GEM.

"BY OPERA."

There is a gem of greater worth Than all the golden stores of earth-Than glitt'ring crown which princes wear, Or laurel wreaths which conquerors share: A precious gem of purer hue Than youder clear etherial blue; Worth more than all the splendid state That dwells in pallaces so great; . A gem so rich, its worth when tried Is more than all the world beside;

That gem-a faithful friend. When keen afflictions rack the frame, And scorch the flesh with lover's flame; When sleep, affrighted by disease, Can give no longer rest or case; When worldly comforts all have fled, How sweet to rest the aching head On the bosom of a dear and faithful friend.

In sorrow's sad foreboding hour. When surges roll and tempests lower: When sun and sky are hid from sight, And all seems dark at darkest night When life is but a tiresome round Of arial and of grief profound, How cheering to unload the mind. And sympathy and kindness find In a Jear faithful friend

When West with sweet prosperity, And all around smiles pleasingly; When flowrers gay the pathway strew, Of every bright and pleasing hue: When life's with peace and plenty crown'd, And health, and breath, and joy abound; When dangers lurk unseen and hid, (flow great the dangers!) much we need The counsel of a friend.

If earthly friendship is so dear, So rich a gem to mortals here, Of him whose footstool is the earth; Who holds all hearts in his own hand, Who all the universe commands, Whose riches are an endless store. And will endure forevermore; Whose power unrivalled and secure, Shall through eternity endure; He is a wise and faithful friend, Whose love and goodness knows no end; Then let us aim while here below In all we say and all we do, Firm to secure this potent friend, On whom we safely may depend. He can protect the tempter's power, And in affliction's darksome honr. In all our journey here below, This loving friend with us will go; And when our hearts and flesh shall fail, Will bear us safely through death's vale,-Will crown us his, in realms on high, With bliss and immortality. Dividing Creek, April 6th.

THE GLASS PICTURE. Translated from the German for the N. Y. Obs.

BY CHARLES ERNST FAHRESTOCK.

A pioue pilgrim, wan and sad, In woolen raiment darkly clad, With hat of shells and staff in hand, Had roamed about from land to land; Found Innocence oppressed and scorned, While star and fillet, Guilt adorned: To him the world's embarrassed throng, Passed like a game of chance along.

So through a dreary wilderness He wandered on in deep distress. A sombre cloud o'erspread the sky, It rained, it snowed—the storm was high; At length he saw with beaming eyes, An old and mossy chapel rise,-With holy zeal he enters there, Around him was the dismal air.

The pointed arch, the walls around, Devoid of ornament he found: The little altar made of stone, With leafy mould was overgrown; Above the altar-plate was seen An only window 'mid the green, A darkly-red, disfigured stain, Was smeared upon its every pane. Fy! cried the man in wild amaze. What here insults the pious gaze! A blind man in a fever-mood. Could paint as well with soot and blood; For naught appears but stain on stain, All gloomy; meaningless and vain; In this dark chaos seems to be,

A light his gloomy spirit cheers; Deep in his heart a voice he hears: "Thy course of life the picture shows, When truth in brightness o'er thee glows, That which is now by doubt concealed .. Shall in full glory be revealed. Therefore rejoice be penitent, What'er God does is excellent."

AGRICULTURE.

The Importance of Agriculture.

BY HON. EDWARD EVERETT.

There is a temptation, when men assemble on occasions of this kind, to exaggerate the importance of the pursuit in which they are engaged, in comparison with the other callings of life. When farmers, or merchants, or manufacturers, or teachers, or professional men, come together to celebrate an annivereary, or an important event, or to do honor to some distinguished individual, it is almost a matter of course that their particular occupation or profession should be represented by those on whom the duty of speaking for their associates devolves as the most important profession or calling. No great harm is done by these theterical exaggerations, which in the long run, must correct each other; and which, if they have the effect of making men more content with their own pursuit, are not very pernicious, even if they remain uncorverpathies of our being into a harmonious system, and form that noble and beautiful whole which we call civilized society. But without derogating from the importance of any of the other pursuits and occupations, we may safely, I think, claim for agriculture in some respects a certain precedence before them all. It has been said to be the great and final object of government to get twelve impartial and intelligent men meant that the administration of equal justice between man and man, is the primary object of civilized and social life. But the teacher, secular or spiritual, might plausibly urge that it is of prior importance that the community should have the elements, at least of mental and meral culture, and be taught the obligations of an oath, before any twelve of its members should take part in the adthan the trial by jury; and with greater reary, must break their fast before they meet in court; and, if the word of a witty poet can counter. be taken, certain very important consequences sometimes happen to culprits, in order that jurymen may get to their dinners. But, to speak in a more fitting and serious strain, I must confess that there has althe sublime in this view of agriculture, which (such is the effect of familiarity) does not produce an impression on our minds in that we live by a kind of mechanical necessity, and that our frames are like watches made, if such a thing were possible, to go without winding up, in virtue of some innate wills, which is indeed in other respects true. individuals or communities must be kept up by a daily supply of food, directly or indidays' supply of eight or ten articles, such as of principles, a keener perception and a more Indian corn, wheat, rye, putatoes, rice, mil- practical mind. let, the date, the bananna, and the breadour own frames—the stout limbs, the skill- educated man.

What he has learned since the time of his attendance upon that country school, has been by himself, in preserving, laborious private study. He has always, as the above mentioned neighbor informed me, been an early riser. He has never been school-teacher. Nor has he been, as many have supposed, a lawyer. He was merely a country merchant, when elected by the people of his native state to preside as a chief magistrate over the ancient and honorable commonwealth of Massachusetts. His sign may store in Groton the town of his residence. A few years ago a teachers' instituto was held in that town, when, one morning, one of the instructor; stepped into the village store, and purchasing a sheet of paper and an envelope, asked if he could step to the desk and write a letter. "Certainly," says the storekeeper, "step this way; you will find a more covenient place here." ing this, he opened the door into a little back room, which proved to be a completely furnished library; the table covered with papers and the walls hidden by the well filled booksheves. The Great Electrical Remedy. The Great Electrical Remedy.

In the hands of Science, Magneto-Electricity is robbing death of its thousand stings, and the grave of its terrible victims. This sublime and mysterious agent is part and parcel of the same Almighty power that sets the physical-worlds in action, and gives vitality and vigor to every class of animal organism. Magneto-Electricity, when artificially applied to a constitution vitally impaired or broken down by disease, will speedily tend to those organs that possess the least of it, and by restoring the proper flow of the nervous fluid, or magnetic current through the nervous system, will speedily remove all morbid obstructions, and restore the organs to sound and vigorous health. Among the numerous diseases in which magneto-Electricity may be applied with beneficial results and certainty of cure, a few only of the more formidable ones are named. Asphyxia. Apoplexy, Asthma, Bronchitis, Billious complaints, Fever and Ague, Dropsy, Chorca, or St. Vitus's Dance, Catalepsy, Constipation, Cancers, Catarrh, Croup, Cholera, Consumption, general Debility, Delevium Trennens. PORSALE at the Bridgeton Iron Store. I. PEDRICK. 30 PER CENT. SAVING! TO FARMERS!!

HARE'S PATENT CONCENTRATED BLOOD MAand valuable fertilizer ever offered to the public. How long will Agriculturists submit to the guano monopoly, whilst they have the above more potent and more valuable fertilizer, at thirty per cent. less cost? Read the annexel certificates and then try it along side of the best l'eravian Guano, and let the result speak for itself.

CERTIFICATE OF DR. HAYES.

The specifications of Dr. Haye and J. Odam, having been submitted to me, I have found the composition of matter on which they are founded to be highly nitrogenous and formentable compound, containing the essentials of a ferthizer of the highest character, and also the food for sustaining crops to the time of their maturing. I regard this ent-prise of manufacturing a guano instead of importing it, a practical and important undertaking, favorably affecting the interests of our common country.

Respectfully, A. A. HAYES, M. D., Assayer to State of Massachusetts.

Upon examing the composition of the best Peruvian gnanos. I can perceive no ground for assuming it to be the best that can be made. On the contrary, there is always present more or less of superfluous matter, sometimes in arge quantity. The composition proposed by Odam & Harc's Patent, is, in my estimation, superior to that of the best gnanos, or to any other artificial manure of which I have heard, and I think myself the more entitled to give this positive opinion, from the unlowded for results of the action of sulphuric acid on animal matter, which I obtained in experiment, but which were anticipated by the Patentin question. Respectfully yours,

JAMES C. BOOTHI.

CERTIFICALE OF PROFESSOR FEAZER.

At the request of parties interested, I have no hesitation in stating my opinion, that the mode of preparing an artificial manure, by acting upon animal matters by sulphure acid, as dealled in Dr. Hare's Patent, and mixing the resulting substance with animal, charcoal and phosphate of lime, is correct in theory, and although I have had no opportunity of testing the manure thus formed practically. I have no doubt that a manure formed by the mixture of these ingredients in proper proportions, would be found at least to equal in its effects the best guano.

Magnetic Electricity, when properly applied, is found of great value, bringing back or restoring any diseased organ to its normal condition. I find it applicable in nearly every form of disease, particularly in cases of Paralysis, Rifenantism, Nervous affections, &c. I would therefore recommend my friend, Mr. Thomas P. Williams, who has a very superior Battery, as a scientific electrician, one who has made it his study for the last three years, and his research in that branch has surpassed my most 'sanguine expectations. You will also find Mr. Williams a perfect gentleman. Residence Commerce street, west of the bridge.
