KINDNESS.

Oh! speak the word of kindness,

When the heart is sad with care,

When the spirit sighs with bitterness,

Fashioned by almighty hand, See thy brother struggling now, See he sinks, save him, save him, Place thy hand upon his brow; Kindly words as dew drops falling, Nurse a bud that blooms above, All mankind thy brothers are, And thy God a God of Love. Millville, May 3, 05.

For the West Jersey Pioneer. THE CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

On yester' eve, while coming o'er, An ancient "Pionce.;"
I chanced to see my eyes before, A challenge long and clear. A challenge thrown from beauty's hand, To the whole race of man,

Which said, "I in the market stand, Come win me if you can." No steel-bound gauntlet down is thrown, Within the circling ring, No herald cries, ne trumpet blown,

The combat to begin; But beauty lures us to the flight, Now as in days of old, Still reads the ancient motto right, " I'me buttle's to the bold."

A war of words! I know that 'tis Thro' all the wide earth rung, A woman's deadliest weapon is, Her ever ready tongue.

I snow the risk each one doth run,

Who in this contest tries his might, but when the battle's won, Glacious will be the prize. This promise o'er, I'll nib my pen, My brain will set to working

At once, collect my thoughts, and then

For me will be no skirting. But now, my dear, before the fight In earnest is begun,
Tell me the theme on which to write,
By which you're to be won.

I cannot write of bearded chin, Or other manly graces, But I can talk of Crinoline, And speak of five point laces. But space forbils me to pursue.

The thread of this refrain, Until, once more, I hear from you, Fair Nancy Ann, again.

The river is from a quarter to three-quarters of a mile in width. Great care is taken to avoid the quicksands; the current is strong and cool, more so than a person would suppose at first sight. During the act of fording, the teams are doubled and trebled, and men are stationed, on horseback, from one bank to another with whips in their hands, with which to "persuade" the bewildered animals in passing through the swift current- Take it all in all, it is an exciting scene. Sometimes when the river is overrun by freshets, the passage is delaped for a day or so, and when the stream continues flooded, and delay is impracticable, they cross in their wagon beds which are rendered tight by being covered with skins. Behind is Fort Mann. Beyond the stream spreads the Jornado. Now commences the stretch of sixty miles without water, which is driven through in two nights and a day. As I sat near the window this meroing, musing upon human life, and in utter despair of being able to write what I purposed to do, my eye lighted on a fly outside the window, apparently enjoying himself in the rays of the morning sun. What is this, hought I; a fly in the middle of January, resting as composedly out of doors as if i had been in the middle of April; and he had come out of his hole for the season, to have a glorious buzz for six months to come?—

Did he mistake the time of year and venture. Jacob may be:out; or knowing that it is winter, did he come out for the fun of it, and that he may tell his children that on the 19th of January, 1858, he found good flying, and took a trip in the air just to say, as some of the older inhabitants do, that on such a day, in such a year, they performed some extraordinary feat? ### SKETCH OF LUTHER. BY CHARLYLE.

A course, rugged plebian face it was, with great crags of cheek bones—a wild amount passionate energy and appetite! But in his dark eyes were floods of sorrow; and deepest melancholy, sweetness and mystery, were all there. Often did there seem to meet in Luther the very opposite poles in man's character. He, for example, for whom Richter, had said that his words were half battles, he, when he first began to preach, suffered unheard agony. "Oh, Dr Staupitz. Dr. Staupitz," said he to the vicar general of his order, "I cannot do it, I shall die in three months. Indeed I cannot do it."

Dr. Stampitz, a wise and considerate man said upon this, "Well, Sir Martin, if you must die, you must; but remember that they need good heads up yonder too. So preach, man, preach, and then live or die as it happens." So Luther preached and lived, and he became, indeed, one great whirlwind of energy, to work without resting in this world, and also before hedied he wrotevery our attention was suddenly drawn to a scene many books-books in which the true man -for in the midst of all they denounced and acter. An Imposing Ceremony.

For some time past not a few in our town have been on the look-out as to the time and place of a certain occurrence, which came off on Tuesday evening last. It having been eiven out the Sabbath previous, that Dr. J. H. Kennard, of Philadelphia, would preach a sermon in the new Baptist Church of this place, it was soon rumored by the "outsiders," that something extra was to come off on that occasion-in short, that the young and worthy pastor of that Church, Rev. J. S. Kennard, was about to leave the state of single - and enter what is known to the initiated, as the "State of the bless'd." The report needed no confirmation from those who had been let into the secret. "This and that" were put together as so appropriate, fitting, and probable, that everybody, his wife (and the children too,) were satisfied that "something was up," consequently at an early hour, despite the storm, which on ordinary occasions, would have kept many

At the close of the sermon, the speaker informed the congregation that if they tarried a short time, perhaps they would not regret it; the storm which was raging without, would probably subside in a few minutes, as it appeared to be passing over. He stated to the congregation that it was expected his son, the Pastor of that Church, would arrive about that time, and regretting that any unforseen circumstance should have prevented it. frightful massive of several white families by the Black-foot Indians, we were reminded of thrilling event which occurred in the "Wild West," a short time subsequent to the Revolution in which a highly accomplished young lady, the daughter of a distinguished officer of the Amer ican Army, played an important part. The story being of a most thrilling nature, and exhibiting in a striking manner the ' Perils of the Border," we have concluded to give an extract from it, as nawha, formed by its junction with the Ohio, is called Point Pleasant, and is a place of historical note. Here, on the 10th of October, 1774, during what is known as Lord Dunmore's War, was fought one of the fiercest and most desperate bat-tles that ever took place between the Virginians and their forest foes.

After the battle in question, in which the Indians were defeated with great loss, a fort was here erected by the victors, which became a post of great importance throughout the sanguinary scenes of strife which almost immediately followed, and which in this section of the country were continued for many years after that establishment of peace which acknowledged the United Co'onies of America a free and independent na

The lady in question, was apparently about twenty years of age, of a slender and graceful figure, and of that peculiar cast of feature, which, besides being beautiful in every lineament, rarely fails to affect the beholder with something like a charm. Her travelling costume-a fine brown habit, high in the neck, buttoned closely over the bosom and coming down to her small pretty feet, without trailing on the ground-was both neat and

As he finished speaking. Blanche proceeded to take an affectionate leave of all, receiving many a tender message for her parents from those who held them in love and veneration; and the boat ewing out, and began to float dewn with the our runt, now fairly entered upon the most dangerous portion of a long and perifous journey. The father of Blanche, Colonel Phillip Bertrand, was a native of Virginia, and a descendant of one of the Huguenot refugees, who fied from their native land after the revocation of the edict of Manta in 1665. He had been an officer of some note during the Revolution -- warm point ical and personal friend of the author of the Declaration of Independence—and a gentlement who had always stood high in the esteem of his Though at one time a man of wealth, Colonel

Bertrand had lost much, and suffered much, thro' British invasion; and when, shortly after the close of the war, he had met a few more serious reverses, he had been fain to accept a grant of land, near the Falls of the Ohio, now Louisville, tendered him py Virginia, which then held jurisliction over the entire territory now constituting the State of Kentucky.

The grant had decided the Colonel upon seeking his new possessions and building up a new home in the then Far Wost, and as his wife had insisted upon accompanying him on his first tour, he had assented to her desire, on condition that anche should be left among her friends, till such time as a place could be prepared which might in some degree be considered a fit abode for one o carefully and tenderly reared.

Blanche would gladly have gone with her pa-

When Colonel Bertrand removed to the West, Eugene Fairfax, us we have seen, accompanied him; and coming of age shortly after, he had accepted the liberal offer of his noble benefactor, to remain with him in the capacity of private secretary and confidential agent. On taking possession of his grant, the Colonel had almost immediately created a fort, and offered such inducements to settlers as to speedily collect around him quite a little communitá—of which, as a ound him quite a little communits—of which, as a matter of course, he became the head and chief; and to supply the wants of his own family and others, and acrease his gains in a legitimate way, he had opened store, and filled it with goods from the Eastern ets, which goods were transported by land over the countains to the Kanawha, and thence by water to mountains to the Kanawha, and thence by water to the Falls of the Ohio, whence their removal to Fort Bertrand became an easy matter. To purchase and ship these goods, and deliver a package of letters to friends in the Eest, Engene had been thrice dispached Thends in the Dess, Engone and occur three disposition—bis third commission also extending to the escorting of the beautiful heire s, with her servents, to her new home. This last commission had been so far executed at the time chosen for the opening of our story, as to bring the different parties to the mouth of the great oring the different parties to the mouth of the great Kanawha, whence the reader has seen them slowly floating off upon the still. glassy bosom of "the belle

The day, which was an auspicious one, passed without anything occurring worthy of note, until near four o'clock, when as Blanche was standing on the fore part of the deck gazing at the lovely scene which surrounded her, she saw a seemingly flying body suddenly leave a limb of a gigantic tree, (whose mighty branches extended far over the river, and near which the boat was then swayed by the action of the current), and alight with a crash upon the deck of the boat, not more than eight feet from her. One glance sufficed to show her what the object was, and to freeze the blood in her vains. voins. The glowing eyes of a huge panther met her gaze. The suddenness of the shock which this discovory gave her was overpowering. With a deafening shreik she fell upon her kness and chapet her hands before her breast. The panther crouched for his deadbersie ner oreast. And phantier crouded tor his deced-ty leap, but ere he sprang, the hunting knife of Eugene Fairfax (who, with the seersman, was the only person on deck besides Blanche). Was buired to the hilt in his ide, indicting a severe but fatal wound. The infuri-side, indicting a severe but fatal wound. The infuri-struggle ensued. But it was a short one. The polshed blade of the knife played back and forth lightning flashes, and at every plune it was buried to the hilt in the panther's body who soon fell to the deck, dragging the dauntless Eugene with him. On seeing her protector fall, Blanche uttered another shrick and rushed to his aid; but assistance from stouter arms was at hand, The boatmen gathered round, and the savage monster was literally backed in pieces with their knives and hatchets, and Eugene, covered with blood; was dragged from under his car-Supposing him to be dead or mortally ed. Blanche threw her arms around his neck and gave way to a passionate burst of grief. But he was not way to a passionate burst of gries. Due no that dead—he was not ever hurt, with the exception of a dead—he was not ever hurt, with the exception of a dead—he was slight scratches. The blood with which he was covered was the panther's, not his own. But Blandous transparent index che's embrace was his-a priceless treasure-an index of her heart's emotions and affections. It was to color his whole future life, as will be seen in the progress of W.

Slowly and silently, save the occasional creak, dip,
Old Corn,
New Corn, and plash of the steersman's oar, the boat of our vey-agers was borne along upon the bosom of the current, Rye, on the third night of the voyage. The hour was waxing late, and Eugene, the only one astir except the watch, was suddenly startled by a rough hand being placed upon his shoulder, accompanied by the worls. n the gruff voice of the boatman.

"I say Cap'n, here's trouble!" "What is it, Dick ?" Inquired Eugene, starting to

"Don't you see thar's a heavy fog rising, that'll soon kiver us up so thick that we won't be able to tel white man from a nigger?" replied the boatman.

Dick Winter by name.—a tall, bony, muscular, ath. letic specimen of his class. "Good heaven! so there is !" exclaimed Eugene looking off upon the already misty waters. " I ave gathered very suddenly, for all was clear a min nie ago. What is to be done now? This is somethin I was not prepared for, on such a night as this." "It looks troublous, Cap'n I'll allow," returned Dick;" but we're in for't, that's surtin, and I s'pose we'll have to make the best on's."

"But what is to be done?—what do you advise?"

asked Eugene, in a quick, excited tone, that indicated "Why, of you war'nt so skeered about the young lady, and it war'nt so dead agin the orders from head sarters, my plan would be a cl'ar and easy one-I'd just run over to the Kaintuck shore, and tie up. "No, no," said Eugene, positively; "that will nev-do! I would not think of such a thing for a moer do! I would not think of such a thing for a moment! We must keep in the current by all means!"
"Ef you can," rejoined the boatman; "but when it gits so dark as we can't tell one thing from t'other, it'll be powerful hard to do; and ef we don't run agin a bar or bank afore morning, in spite of the best o' us it'll be the luckiest go that ever I had a hand in. See Can a it's thisboning or first the second of the secon

Cap, n—it's thickening up fast; we can't see eyther bank at all, nor the water nyther; the stars is gettin dim. and it looks as if thar war a cloud all round us."
"I see! I see!" returned Eugene, excitedly, "Merciful Heaven! I hope no accident will befall us here—and yet my heart elements. and yet my heart almost ming ves me!—for this, I be-lieve, is the most dangerous part of our journey—the vicinity where most of our boats have been captured by the savaros." Saying this, Engine hastened below, where he found the other boatmen sleeping so soundly as to require considerable effort, on his part, to awaken them. At leat, getting them fairly roused, he is found them, almost in a whisper, for he did not care to disturb the others, that a heavy fog had suddenly arisen, and he wished t eir presence on deek, immediately.

"A 10g, Cap'n?" exclaimed one, in a tone which in dicated that he comprehended the peril with the word.
"Hush!" returned Eugene; "there is no necessity for waking the others, and having a scene. Up! and fol-lew me, without a word!" He glided back to the deck, and was almost immedithe graded back to the deek, and was almost numeriately joined by the boatman, to whom he briefly made known his hopes and fears.

They thought like their companion, that the boat would be safest it made fast to an overhanging limb of the safest it made fast to an overhanging limb of the safest it made fast to an overhanging limb of the safest it.

A long silence followed—the vo the voyagers slowly drift ng down through a misty darkness impenstrable to the eye—when, suddenly, our young commander, who was standing near the bow, felt the extended branch of an verhanging limb silently brush his fice. He started with an exclamation of alarm, and at the same mo ent the boatman on the right called out: "Quick, here, boys! we're agin the shore, as sure

Then followed a scene of hurried and anxious con fusion, the voices of three boatman mingling together in loud, quick, excited tones.

"Push off the bow;" cried one. "Qick! altogether, now! over with her!" shouted an

"The de'il's in it! she's running aground here "The de'il's in it! she's running aground here on a muddy bottom!" almost yelled a third.

Meantime the laden boat was brushing along against projecting bushes and overreaching limbs, and every moment getting more entangled while; the long poles and sweeps of the boatmen, as they attempted to push her off, were often plung d, without touching bottem, into what appeared to be a soft, clayey mud, from which they were only extricated by such an outlay of strength as tended still more to draw the clumsy craft upon the bank they winded to avoid. At length, scarcely more than a minuta from the first alarm, there was a kind of settling togother, as it were, and the boat became fast settling togother, as it were, and the boat became fast The fact was announced by Dick Winter, in his characteristic manner—who added, with an eath, that it, was just what he expected. For a moment or two a dead silence followed as if each comprehended that the dead silence ionowed, as it each comprehensed that the matter was one to be viewed in a very serious light. "I'll get over the bow, and try to get the lay of the land with my feet," said Tom Harris; are forthwith he set about the not very pleasant undertaking." At this moment Bugone heard his name pround voice that seldom falled to excite a peculiar on a voice that seldom falled to excite a peculiar amotion in his breast, and thow sent a strange thrill fithrough every nerve; and hastaning below, he found Blanch'e, fally dressed, with a light in her hand, standing just outside of her cabin; in the regular passage which led langthwise through the center of the boat.

If I have hand something Engene, the said secretly to have hand something. Engene, the said secretly to have made with all accident, but not sufficient that we have made with all accident, but not sufficiently, abdulent hour large replied Engene.

"I trust we shall soon be affect sgain; though in any event, the darkness is sufficient to conceal us from the savages, even were they in the vicinity."

"I know little of the Indians," returned Blanche; "bat I have always understood that they are somewhat remarkable for their senteness of hearing; and if such is the case, there would be no necessity of their being very near; to be made acquainted with our locality, judging from the loud voices I heard a few minutes ago. "I fear we've been rather impredent," asid Eugene; in a deprecating tone; "but in the excitement..."

His words were suddenly cut short by several loud voices of alarm from without, followed by a quick and heavy trampling across the deck; and the next mot heavy trampling across the deek; and the next more ment Seth Harper and Dick Winter burst into the pas-ment seth marper and Diek winner burst into the passage, the former exclaiming:

"We've run plum into a red nigger's nest, Cap'n', and Tom Harris is already butchered and scalped!"

And even as he spoke, as if in confirmation of his draudful intelligence them are a satisfact of wild. dreadful intelligence, there arose a series of wild, pieroing, demoniscal yells, followed by a dead and om-ous salence.

So far we followed the lovely heroine and her friends this adventure; but foregoing is all that we can publish in our columns. The ballance of the narrative can only be found in the New York Ledger, the great family paper, which can be obtained at all the periodical stores where papers are sold. Remember to ask for the "Ledger," dated May 22nd, and in it you will get the continuation of the flarrative from where it leaves off here. If they are no book-stores or newsoffices convenient where you reside, the publisher of the Ledger will send you a copy by mail, if you will sendhim five cents in a letter. Address, Robert Bonner, Ledger Office, 44 Ann street, New York. This story is entitled, "Perils of the Border," and grows more and more interesting as it was an ore and more interesting as it goes on.

DR. T. H. RIDGELY'S SUMMER TONIC A most Delightful and Invigorating Drink Warm Weathers & Climates. PREPARED FROM A Highly Concentrated Essence of Jamaica Ginger.

COMBINED WITH VEGETABLE ACIDS & AROMATICS. VEGETABLE ACIDS & AROMATICS.

JAMAICA GINGER has, of late years, justly attained a high celebrity as a carminative tome, and is extensive ity used as a preventive to, or a cure in, the various diseases of our summer season. Its moderate use tones up the system, enabling it to resist the relaxing influence of high temperatures, gives energy to the stomach and bowels, and is healthy action to the various secretions. But at the same time it is possessed of pungent and aerimonious properties (due to a volatile oil and resin, which renders its use destrimental, by producing an over-stimulation or heating of the very organs it at first benefitted. But in the Summer Tonic, the combination of aromatics and vegetable acids (prepared from our summer fruits, which contain them in abundance; and are designed by Nature to be liberally caten during that season) neutralize the injurious tendencies of the Ginger, heighten its remedial qualities, render it more palatable and acceptable to the stomach and exert their own specul action in a manner peculiar to themselves.

These various ingrediants, compounded upon scientific principles from the bost material, and in the nost careful manner by a regular physician and experienced chemist and pharmacien, present an elegant, reliable and efficient preparation, which it is advocated.

TO ALLAY THIRST,

TO ALLAY THIRST, 1 or 2 teospoonfuls in a tumbler of sweetened water (feed if convenient) forms a most grateful and refreshing drink toning up the system, cooling the blood, increasing the activity and energy of the brain, and guarding the inented stomach against the dangerous shock of large draughts of cold water. In Fevers, Inflamations, Hemorrhages, &c.,

In Fevers, Inflamations, Hemorrhages, &c., While it forms a pleasant and most acceptable beverage it allays the preternatural heat, reduces the force of the circulation, relieves pain in the head, astringes the small bloodvessels, diminishes the irritubility of the skin, and promotes the healthy action of the kidneys, bladder and secreting organs generally.

To the stomach and bowels it gives strength to withstand the debilitating effects of hot weather, promotes digestion, maintains a proper action of the liver, checks a two copious flow of hie, relieves diarrhea, and imparts regularity to the Whole intestinal canal.

In Nausea or Sickness of the Stomach, Excessive Vomiting, Flatulence, Cholicy Pains, Spasm or Cramp of the Bowels, Griping, Cholera, Scurry, &c., much benefit will be derived by using it in liberal quantities, often repeated until the symptoms subside. In such cases the does wruld be 2 or three transpontuls in a teacup of warm sweetened water or herb tea, repeated at intervals, regulated according to circumstances.

In Actility of the Stomach, Heartburn, &c.,

In Acidity of the Stomach, Heartburn, &c. take a half traspoinful of cake sola (bicarbenate soda) sur it well-into a tumbler of sweetened water, and then add from one to two teaspoonfuls of the Tonic,—repeat until releif is obtained.

The Summer Tonic will also be found highly useful as a Gargle (diluted with water if too Strong.) in Sore Throats, especially of the ulcerative and malignant varieties.

Throats, especially of the meetre and the Summer cities.

The Public may have full assurance that the Summer Tonic is carefully compounded upon scientific principles and from the best material, by one who is thoroughly acquainted with the medicinal and chemical action of each and all the ingradients; either singly or in combination. It is advanced simply for what it purports to be—a cooling tonic—and not as a panacea, or cure for all the diseases to which flesh is heir; but if used according to the given directions, the subscriber is assured it will give entire satisfaction, and be ire satisfaction, and be Universally acknowledged as the best article for Summer use now extant.

For sale by all the principal stores throughout the try, at 25 cents per bottle.

To the trade a liberal discount will be allowed. To the trade a liberal discount with the addressed All orders, communications, &c., should be addressed T. HOWARD RIDGELY, M. D.,

Opposite Davis' Hotel ATTENTION FARMERS! Manny's Improved

PREMIUM COMBINED MOWER AND REAPER, Built expressly for the State of New Jersey. Duat expressly for the Matte of New Jersey.

This Subscriber having assumed the Agency of Manny's Improved Mower and Reaper, is now prepared to receive orders for them, the coming season. The attention of Farmers is invited to the superiority of this Machine over all others, as it is of light draft, easily adjusted, and managed, has a reel, can be worked by either horses or exen. of great durability, free from side draft, no elogging of knives, and can be changed in one minute from Reaper to Mower.

It is supported on two wheels, which allows of its being ging of knives, and can be changed in one influte from Reaper to Mower.

It is supported on two wheels, which allows of its being moved from field to field, or town to town, with the case of a Cart.

Has a Lever at the side of the driver, by which with one hand the Knife Bar can be instantly raised in tur ing or backing, to clear the mown grass or to pass obstructions. This is a valuable feature, and would of itself give the "Manny" Machine the preference over all others. It is a safe Machine, the scat being back of the Knives, and not directly over them as in most Mowers. Works well on any ground free from stones or stumps, and in any kind of grass, course or fine, wet or dry. With the recent improvements it is the most perfect Machine ever constructed for Mowing and Reaping.

IMPROVEMENTS.

TREER OVER DIVES.

The Improvements for 1888 are a Castor Wheel under the tongule, by which means all the weight is taken from the horses' necks when the cutters are raised from the ground, which misterially lessons the draft of the Machine — a new and simple mode of throwing out of gear, which can be done by the driver without stopping the Machine or getting from his seat.—Strengthening the Guard Fingers and also the eye of the Boythe or Cutter, rendering it impossible to break them,—a more efficient track clear of the motion of the Machine.

Farmers intending to purchase a Mowing Machine the coming Beason, will bear in mind that Manny's is the standard Machine. Its success, both as Mower and Reaper, in all sections of the United States, is without precedent. This bear subject to more severe tests in all kinds and conditions of Grass and Crain, and has been awarded more First Premiums than any other in use, including the grand first class Sliver Medal for Resper and Mower, at World's Fair, Pairs, 1886, and Gold Medal. for best with the great tril of Reaping and Mowing, had by the United States Agricultural Society as Tyracuse, N. The Great Electrical Remedy In the hands of Science, Magneto-Electricity is robbin leath of its thousand stings, and the grave of its terrib In the hands of Science, Magneto-Electricity is robbing death of its thousand stings, and the grave of its terrible victims. This sublime and mysterious agent is part and parcel of the same Almight power that sets the physical worlds in action, and gives vitality and vigor to every class of animal organism. Magneto-Electricity, when artificially applied to a constitution vitally impaired or broken down by disease, will speedily tend to those organs that possess the least of it, and by restoring the proper flow of the nervous fluid, or magnetic current through the nervous system, will speedily remove all morbid obstructions, and restore the organs to sound and vigorous health. Among the numerous diseases in which magneto-Electricity may be applied with beneficial results and certainty of cure, a few only of the more formidable ones are named. Asphyxia, Apoplexy, Asthma, Bronchitts, Billious complaints. Fever and Ague, Dropsy, Chorea, or St. Vitus's Dance, Catalepsy, Constipation, Cancers, Catarrh, Croup, Cholera, Consumption, general Debility, Delerium Tremens, Dyspepsin, Erysephas, Epeleptic Fits, Hemorrhage from the Lungs, Scrofula, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Rheumatism, Spinal complaints, Sprins, Ulcers, Tumors, Syphillis, all diseases of the Urinary and Sexual organs, and all other violations of Nature, whatever the name of the disease, or how contracted and long standing.

THROUGH the solicitation of numerous friends, I am induced and have made arrangements in combination with my own manufactured work to keep on hand Philladelphia. New York and Eastern manufactured Boots & Shoes, such as Ladies', Misses and Children. Also, Gentlemen, Boys and Youth's Boots & Shoes of all grades, and at prices so low that no one will find fault with. As I am a practical boot and shoe maker, I have the advantage over a great many in selecting good work that will give satisfaction to all. I shall sel all of my city made work at a very limited small profit, so that is will be an inducement for the public to call and buy.

Ladies city made boots and shoes with heels or without, of all description cheaper than earthe bought elsewhere for the same money; Misses and Childran's Boots and Shoes, at very low prices. As I have commenced keeping Eastern made work a connection with my own manufactory, I shall sell cheaper than any other sione in Brilgston, according to quality of work. Farmers, mechanics and working men in general will do well to sail on the subscriber, as I intond to keep on hand fine and course Boots and Shoes of all kinds Bo they can be suited without much trouble.
