BY COUSIN LUILA.

Go care-worn soldier to thy rest. Thine earthly race is run; In heaven thou art forever blest, With Christ, thy father's son.

For ninety nine long weary years. This sinstained earth thou'st trod; And watered well with many tears, The seed thou'st sowed for God. While young in years with manly seal, Thou trod the battle field;

For freedom's cause thy country's weal, Thou bore the sword or shield. 'Mid toils of war and scenes of strife, Undaunted still thou went : 'Tho all the morning of thy life,

In tumults sore were spent. Thou braved the terrors of disease, And held by angels power; Thou stood the storm of many a seige, Unhart in dangers hour.

The morning dawns, the victory's won, Of freedoms joyous band; Of happy sons, thou too art one, To hail dear freedom's land. Late in the morning of thy life. Warned by a Saviors voice;

Thou left the scenes of warlike strife, And made a heavenly choice. A minister of gospel grace, To bear the holy word; Started anew thine earthly race,

To labor for thy Lord. Watering with tears the precious seed, Rejoicing thou shalt come : Bearing on faith the well filled sheaves, Thy father greets the home.

Beloved in life and blessed in death, Thy works of faith and love; Shall point us from the scenes of earth, Thou'st reached the goal, the stream is passed.

Of Jordan's swelling flood ; In heaven thou'rt safely housed at last. To sweetly rest with God. Bridgeton May 13th 1858.

STREAMS OF SALVATION.

We are wandering from our Father's house, In a lone and barren land. And parched with thirst in the desert waste Amid its burning sand. O water, sweet water, pure water for the soul. Like springs in the wilderness and streams in the desert Let living currents roll. We are pining beneath the curse of sin, And weary of its load, With foes without and fears within, We trend the dreary road. O mercy, sweet mercy, pure mercy for the soul, Like springs in the wilderness, and streams in the desert, Let thy compassions roll.

We are wrapped in the gloom of nature's night Where mortal tempests howl, And beasts of prey with fieres delight, Around our footsteps prowl.

A VISIT TO MOUNT VERNON. What American is there who does not feel a sacred interest in that sweet place, on the shores of the quiet Potomac, once enobled by Washington's presence, and now hallow-ed by his ashes? It is the Mecca of the republic-a spot where her pilgrim-sons come, with reverential homage, to stand beneath the noble old trees whose shaddow once fell on the broad and godlike brow of Washington himself!

Our first visit to Mount Vernon, two years ago, was in the golden flush of autumn. I well remember the crimson and russet robes of the quiet woods that fringed the water side, and the rude, narrow bridge, built far out into the river, over which we were compelled to pass before we reached the through the scarcely trodden path, whose outlines were scarcely discernible through the bright drifts of brown and orange leaves a dated. He left the Pass on the 2d of which fluttered down through the warm, blue air-the russet ferns, the purple asters, the golden rods, whose fiery touches hung like lines of flame along the natural teraces, and the sweet wild mint, whose fragrance even now seems inseparable from that Outober day at Mount Vernon!

But this time it was a bright winter noon, when our party stood once more on the smooth thore-one of those days when the calendar tells us it is February, in obstinate contradiction to the radiant sky and warm in the morning the mercury stood at 18 deg, breezes that speak of May itself. The sunny slopes and steep banks wore a delicate inge of velvet green, and nature seemed as if preparing for the light feet of the coming spring-time !

Probably no private residence in the United States can boast a finer view than Mount Vernon. From the house a prospect is vissails gliding slowly over its sunny expanse, and miles on miles of wooded shores, rising with them had attached us all to them with up from the water side, and forming one of the finest natural panoramas imagina-

The library, the parlor, the dining room are all places of interest, but more particularly the former. Once it must have been a splendid room; the remains of its departed grandeur may still be traced in its faded frescoes, dim oil-paintings, and massive chairs. It is said that this is the same furniture that adorned this library when Washington sat by the hearth, or perused the quaint pages of the weekly rewspaper at the open window, His favorite arm chair stands just within the hall, and every visitor who enters the house must, of course take a seat in it, to prove i's identity!! Passing out at the back door, we enter the gardens, which are not so attractive at this season of the 'year, although' during the summer, they are kept in excellent order. But the bright edgings of box which surround every flower-bed, and the cheerful evergreens, have a pleasant effect, bathed, as they are, in the radiant sunshine; and the green houses at the left hand, though narrow and old-fashioned, are full of blushing roses,

A year of hard and almost unremitting labor feelings stronger, I think, than any one experiences for either the horse or dog. It is to be hoped that the government will continue the importation of this valuable animal, in ancient days, but also in modern warfare its excellence bee been displayed. Sir Thas. Napier attributed much of his success in his brilliant campaigns of Scinde to the efficienwith their provisions and arms to great disportice, extending through from door to tances, over what had been hitherto considment: "My plans are fixed to march as far as the des ert, or as far as water can be found; then encamp select five hundred of the strongest Europeans and natives, mount them on camels, and load all my other camels with water, except a few to carhalf rations. My camel battery also shall go, and as many irregular horses as it will be prudent to take, and slap Emaum Ghan in the heart of the desert. If it surrender, good; if not it shall have such a hammering as shall make the fire fly out of his eyes. * * * 'Twas a strange sigh; that midnight march, with the long strides of the that midnight march, with the long strides of the camels, with English soldiers mounted on them, calm, impassive, and reliant as they always are, the camels drawing the howitzers.

In refference to the preparations for the battle of Mecanec, the Scinde horse are on the left; behind are the baggage and the baggage guard; the camels are squatted in a circle, with their noses turned inwards, and the men lying between their necks. * * With them go the famous camel corps, the organization of which must not be omitted. Buch camel carried two men, one armed with a carbine and sword, the other with a musquetoon and bayonet. One man guided the musquetoon and beyonet. One man; guided the animal and fought from its back; the other was to act as an infantry soldier. On the camels were carried the men's packs, cooking utensils, and beds, the latter forming part of the saddle; and thus a body of soldiers, capable of acting as infantry when required, having no tents, baggage, or commissariat to embarrass them, could make marches of sixty miles in twenty-four hours, over a country which had hitherto been considered impassable. * This body gave to the solidity of English troops the mobility and rapidity

INDEPENDENCE. This word, no doubt, suggests to the minds of our readers, ideas of the glorious Fourth; connonading, speeches and toasts, &c., but we are not at present disposed to enlarge on this view of the word Independence, and if we were, we could say nothing which has not been said a hundred times already. We propose to say a few words about individual independence. We are all very much dependent upon each other, and this is wisely ordered by God, for our mu- by the "commencement of the next bathtual benefit and happiness. But in some things it is our duty to be independent .-In religion, for instance, we should not depend on any other person, but take our own conscience, and the Bible for our sole guides. The absence of independence in religion causes men ain in this world, than almost anything else. We follow each other to perdition, while we should be following Christ to Heaven. And in politics, also, we should be independent enough to think for ourselves, and not follow, blindly, any of South Jersoy, independent of the advanpolitical leader, without examining the ground over which he leads us. And in our social intercourse, we should be independent. We can speak our opinions fearlessly without giving offence, if we do it in the right spirit. Some persons to us that there can be no room for doubt. seem to think that independence consists in showing an utter contempt for all opinions except their own, and abusing every belief which conflicts with theirs. But this is a mistaken idea, for true independence allows all others the same liberty it claims for itself. It emphatically "minds its own business," but if needs be, speaks and acts boldly timates by Gen. Cook, that the road will pay and determinedly. The minister of the gospel should be independent in the largest sense. He should preach the gospel of the Son of God, as his Bible and his conscience direct, without reference to the position or opinion of this or that member of his congregation; preach as did the old prophets, whethere is no capital in the lower counties of ther the truth be palatable or not. If any Jersey, that many have been induced to becomplain because the minister preaches so much about their sins, and does not preach the gospel enough, but if they would practice what gospel he does preach, he would have less cause to preach about their sins. Next to the minister, the editor is, or should be, a teacher of good, and to accomplish the most good, he too must be independent .--He is looked upon as a servant of the public. and so, in a certain sense, he is; but it does not follow that he is to lose all his indewell as the minister, is very likely to know way, for a very devious way it is. The West Jersey Railroad. A short time since, we published an appeal on behalf of the West Jersey Railroad, which we copied from the Woodbury Constitution. Notwithstanding the stagnation of business and the general cry of hard times, there is at this moment more money in the country, the banks are in a sounder and healthier condition with a greater amount of specie in their vaults, than at any previous period. It is also true that grain is somewhat lower than it has been for some time past. But after giving these things their proper weight we think there is hardly a sufficient reason, why those so directly to be benefitted by the construction of the road, should not give more liberal subscriptions to the stock. From the tone of the article referred to, and the writer appears to speak by authority, it is evident that the Camden and Amboy Company, have no intention of building it further at present .-Nor is there any guarantee that they ever will, unless driven to it from fcar of some competing road. It is perfectly within the recollection of us all, that while a prospect existed for the passage of the Air Line bill, various kinds of inducements were held out to would be speedily completed. The Camden immediate construction of the road, and the small number of workmen placed on it between Camden and Woodbury were magnified into a force sufficient to finish the road ing season." That season has not yet arrived, and unless the people interested take a more general interest in the matter, we fear will remain for a long time looming up in the far distant future, a creature of the fancy. Without wishing to recall old issues or to discuss the charged front of the moappolyand its freids a soon as the Air Line was known to be effectually laid on the shelf, we propose to give some substantiul reasons based on ascertained facts, why the people tages gained by railroad connection would one doubt that the completion of the road would draw the remaining third. It appears If during the first year of its completion in the face of a great financial crisis, and with arrangements but imperfectly completed the road carries so great a number of passengers. may we not expect a much greater number each succeeding year. The experience of the road the past year fully justifies the esmore than six per cent to stockholders, in dividends. In addition to this, those living near the route and having teams could pay much of their subscriptions in labor, and in such a way as to feel it but little. It has become so much the fashion to say that great evils creep in among his people, like a lieve that such is the fact. People imagine wolf in sheep's clothing, it is his duty to that all the wealth is contained in the cities. warn them of the consequences, whether it Such views are not correct, and are not augives offence or not. People are very apt to thorized by existing facts. We feel warranted in saying that within the last ten years more than two hundred thousand dollars of surplus capital have gone from Cumberland and Salem Counties, for investment in the west. This estimate does not include capital taken by those who have gone there for purposes of settlement, but only such as has been sent to invest in land, on speculation or to be put out at a high rate of interest. This sum, if applied to building a railroad at $5,600 per mile (the estimated cost pendence of character in consulting, and try- of the West Jersey Road,) would build ing to please their taste and fancy. And this was called, from the place where it was levied, tarifa, and from this comes our word tariff.

ADMONITION.

A DIMENTAL SHOT.

ALAGNETIELES or Electricians, should exercise the Magnetic Elattery. For the drones of the medical profession—the old Ladies in breeches are lining in wait with their curs trained to potnese upon you the moment an accident happens of any importance in the use of this instrument.

It would be ofno use to plead an accident, and the greatimportance of the instrument to the community for they would drown your voice in a moment with the voice of their hourds. umportance of the instrument or hig community for they would drown your voice in a mongeht with the voice of their hounds.

Again in nearly all of the cases of disease there are periods of repose which are invariably followed by periods of excitement, or they are more or jess complete.

Now these faces are well known to the medical profession, and physicians whose principles are as losse as a cinge. Let their a near for take advantage of that know edge. Let their a near for a new for a case never so prespects the monent their attaction happens to be directed to it in the period of excitement in the absence of the attending ply scain they never fail to condemn the treatment—to received that it is all wrong, or to advise a different transment, and they will always continue to practice such impositions upon the novice, the weak and the ignorant.

Alignetist is should therefore, never fail, to direct the attention of their patients to their changes is their sensations in the periods of excitement and repose to guard them against these impositions. All emment science practical, unbiased physicians know that no have can arise from electricity when properly or scientifically applied.

At Freehold Monmouth Co., N. J.

A CARD.—We desire to direct the attention of Parents to the claims of the Freehold Institute. The accuracy of scholarship insisted upon, the moral and religious influences exercised, and the gentlemanty deportment cultivated in this school, highly recommend it to the patronage of an enlightened public.

The institute offers very unusual advantages for the education of youth. The accommodations exceed anything with which we are acquainted. Besides dormitories which are comfortable and pleasant, the pupils have dressing rooms to which they have access at all times. The school and class rooms are most admirably adapted to the purposes for which they were intended. The main school room is flay feet long and thirty-five feet wide, with an eighteen feet celling, and is furnished in a neat and convenient manner, each pupil having a chair and separate deek. The recitation rooms are large and well ventilated and furnished with every convenience for conducting recitations. A competent instructor is at the best of each demartment and the leaching is done with well ventilated and furnished with every convenience for conducting recitations. A competent instructor is at the head of each department, and the teaching is done with great accuracy and thoroughdess.

The whole establishment is warmed by Andrew's & Dixon's warning apparatus, and lighted with gas.

We invite parents with wish to place their sons in school to examine the claims of this institution before they de-cide.

VEGETABLE ACIDS & AROMATICS.

JAMAICA GINGER has, of late years, justly attained a high celebrity as a carminative tone, and is extensively used as a preventive to, or a cure in, the various diseases of our-summer season. Its moderate use tones up the system, enabling it to resist the relaxing influence of high temperatures, gives energy to the stomach and howels, and a healthy action to the various secretions. But at the same time it is possessed of pungent and aerimonious properties (due to a volatile oil and resin, which renders its use detrimental, by producing an over-stimulation or ineating of the very organs it at first benefitted. But in the Summer Tonic, the combination of aromatics and vogetable acids (prepared from our summer fruits, which contain them in abundance; and are designed by Nature to be liberally eaten during that season) neutralize the injurious tendencies of the Gunger, heighten its remedial qualities, render it more palatable and acceptable to the stomach and exert their own spocual action in a manner peculiar to themselves.

These various ingredinnts, compounded upon scientific principles from the bost material, and in the most careful manner by a regular physician and experienced chemist and plaarmacion, present an elegant, reliable and efficient preparation, which, while at all times perfectly harmless, wijl be found to exert a powerful remedial agency in all cases in which it is advocable. ATTENTION FARMERS! Manny's Improved PREMIUM COMBINED MOWER AND REAPER, Built expressly for the State of New Jersey.

THE Subscriber having assumed the Agency of Manny's Improved Mower and Reaper, is now prepared to receive orders for them, the coming season. The attention of Farmers is invited to the superiority of this Machine over all others, as it is of light draft, easily adjusted, and managed, has a reel, can be worked by either horses or exen, of great durability, free from side draft, no clogging of knives, and can be changed in one minute from Reaper to Mower.

It is supported in two wheels, which allows of its being moved from field to field, or town to town, with the ease of a Cart. Has a Lever at the side of the driver, by which with one hand the Khife Bar can be instantly raised in turing or backing, to clear the mown grass or to pass obstructions. This is a valuable feature, and would of itself give the "Manny" Machine the proference over all others. It is a safe Machine, the seat being back of the Knives, and not directly over them as in must Mowers. Works well on any ground free from stones or stumps, and in any kind of grass course or fine, wet or dry. With the recent improvements it is the most perfect Machine ever constructed for Mowing and Resping. IMPROVEMENTS.

The Improvement for 1883 are a Castor Wheel under the tonget by Athen the case all the weight is taken from the horses nebt, when the cuttern are raised, from the ground, which materially lessons the draft of the Machine—a new and simile mode of throwing out of gear, which can be done by the driver without stopping the Machine or getting from his seat.—Strangthening the Guard Fingers and also the sys of the Soythe of Cutter, rendering it impossible to break thorn—a more efficient trace clearer—a new mode of thinkening the best without stopping the motion of the Machine.

Farmers intending to purchase a Mowing Machine the coming Season, will bear in mind that Machine the standard Machine. The Great Electrical Remedy.

In the hands of Science, Magneto-Electricity is robbing death of its thousand stings and the grave of its terrible victims. This sublime and mysterious agent is part and parcel of the same Almighty power that sets the physical worlds in action, and gives vitality and vigor to every class of minial organism. Magneto-Electricity, when artificially applied to a constitution vitally impaired or broken down by disease, will speedily tend to those organithat possess the least of it, and by restoring the proper flow of the nervous system, will speedily remove all morbid obstructions, and restore the organs to sound and vigorous health. Among the numerous diseases in which magneto-Electricity may be applied with beneficial results and certainty of cure, a few only of the more formidable ones are named. Asphyxia, Apoplexy, Asthma, Bronchuis, Billions complaints Fever and Ague, Dropsy, Chorca, or St Vitas's Dance, Catalepsy, Constipation, Cancers, Catarth Croup, Cholera, Consumption, general Debility, Delerium Tremens, Dyspepsa, Erysephas, Epeleptic Fits, Hemorthage from the Lungs Scrofula, Neursligia, Paralysis, Rhemmatism, Spinal complaints, Sprins, Ulcers, Tumors, Syphillis, all diseases of the Urinary and Sexual organs and all other violations of Nature, whatever the mane of the disease, or how contracted and long-standing.
