RELIGION AND HOOPS. A revival is going on in one of the Methodist churches in the northwestern part of Baltimore, and the attendance upon the religious exercises has been quite crowded. -A few evenings since, a young lady in an unusual amplitude of crinoline entered the church. It was already full, and unable to obtain entrance to a pew, she took a seat upon a chair in the aisle—her extraordinary circumference blocking up the passage com-pletely. Just after she had become seated in her position, a "brother" wished to make are went to kneel when penetrated with religious convictions; but found not even the narrow way open for him. In brief, in his efforts to pass, he smashed her hoop. There was a grand collapse, and the fair one found herself with damaged crinoline, shorn of

I be bound, there wa'nt a single girl and perhaps bring destruction in some way of 'em could make a cramberry pie or a loaf of bread, and I don't intend my daughter Elizabeth shall be brought up that-a-way; I Elizabeth's school frocks, we must have a want her to be industrious, -so there."-And Mrs. Harris came down on the last words as though she considered them settlers, and wished it to be distinctly understood that Elizabeth was to learn to work. -The farmer and his wife were riding home from an exhibition given by Miss Hale, the preceptrees of a village seminary, which, from being a select, private school, had come eventually to receiving a few boarders from a distance who wished to avail themselves of its advantages. It was twelve miles from the farm of Nathan Harris, but he had heard one of his neighbors, who had a daughter there, speak of it, and he resolved to go and see the performance. He was well pleased and determined before half concluded, that Elizabeth should go to that self-same boarding school in the Fall; and he whispered this thought to his spouse. Mrs. Harris understanding but little of the "palaver," (as she termed it) was shocked at the idea. After the foregoing conversation, both were silent a few minutes, during which Flab, the girls who sew here, but I can direct you to a his thoughtfulness, did Nathan hold the lines. At length he foamed over again. -"Yes I'll do it, I will, work or not, Lib must have an education; she shall study old farmer broke down over the word, looking at Nancy as though he expected she would come to his relief. Not she-"You don't know what you'r talkin about Nathav; I tell you you'r meddlin with sharp edged tools, and you had better let 'em alone or you'll get your purse cut for nothing and worse than nothing. Elizabeth will be spilt, good for nothing and worthless. When she comes home she would be takin her mother up, saying I didn't talk right, or else wanting me to call her Lizzy or Lilly or some of them boarding school names. Then she'd be to delicate to lift a flatiron, and so high minded she couldn't stoop to milk a cow. Oh Nathan, Nathan, the bare thou ht" - and she applied the corner of her apron to moist eyes.

Nathan Harris was what the people called a well-to-do farmer. He was the cldest of five sons, all of whom had been brought up behind the nlow, and sent to school just long enough in winter to have something to forget the remaining nine month of the year. The result was, they learned to read talera. bly well and cypher through "vulgar fractions" by the time they arrived at twentyone years of age. They became theirty fartoers, and the three surviving brothers at the present time owned "good places."-Nathan had naturally an intelligent mind, and at one time he had thirsted to drink at the Pierian spring, but beyond the country newapaper, the Bible and Watts Hymn Book, his limited time forbade him to look. He was able, and he resolved, spite of 'Nancy's remonstrance, to educate both his children. Elizabeth the older, was now fourteen, and evinced a decided taste for study, having gone through a Geography, Grammar and a small Arithmatic. Neddy a boy of five, between whom and Elizabeth, two had died, should be sent to college, upon that, his father had settled with the first intelligence, "a man child is born."

Nancy however, was of the old school did not read herself and consequently was his way up to the railing which surrounds the pulpit, and around which the penitents the time wasted in learning of it. Alighting, he entered and approaching one of a cluster of ladies who were busy with their ncedles, inquired -

"Is Aun Bard in ?" "Yes sir, I am she !"

"Do you ever go out making up frecks,out in the country?"

lake, where silent waters were gilded into the mellow light of the setting sun. It was one of natures own retreats, unadorned by the hand of art. All was quiet save the little warblers and the low rippling waves. His musing thoughts wandered back to his boyish days, to years that like a passing dream had fled, then on into the dim, strange, unknown future, and buoyant hope seemed to point to Fame with a laurel wreath held out to him. Lost in bright anticipations of the future, he noticed not that the bright shades had gathered, and that the sun had longago bid "goodnight" to earth and sunk to rest. The song of the woodland warblers was hushed save the lonely whip-poor will away in a distant forest. Far away over the distant hills the moon is rising, casting "her silvery mantle over the dark," gilding the surface of the placid lake, while the twinkling stars are mirrored in its depths. But his wandering thoughts are recalled, for the leved ones of that home are seeking him. With one last, lingering look, he leaves that sylvan retreat and hastens to join the waiting circle within. But the parting hour soon comes. Already the well packed value stands at the door, undisturer places within some new token of love .-He would fain linger, but time would not permit. He grasped his mother's handtear after tear coursed down her cheek. He turned away, he could not speak, but bade them all a silent "goodbye." Then steping in the carriage, the coachman cracked his whip, and they bore him swiftly away. He turned and gave a lingering look behind; there stood brother and sister, father and mother in the door. He waved his hat, then by the turn of the street, was lost to their

And when the storm rages and the wild winds moan around their home, then will their hearts linger around that absent loved one in a strange land.

Another year has fled, bearing with it the record of many a noble deed, on the same page with the greatest villainy and crime,—but too late to atone. The year, alas, has gone forever. It seemed too strong, too mighty to die. It laid its hand upon the breathing million and they sank beneath the green grass of their graves. The Pioneer has a LARGER Circulation than any weekly Paper in this State!

Only $1 00 per Year!

JAMES B. FERGUSON,-EDITOR.

THE PIONEER.

For several years, the course of our paper has been gradually enward and upward.-Our subscription list during the last twelve months has greatly increased, and still new names are being added almost every day .-We have found within the last few months that it would be impossible to do justice to our patrons, without adding to our working forces. With the many original articles fur nished, the new advertisements coming in, the job-work and the scribbling, we have a little too much to do. We take pleasure in announcing to our many friends, that henceforth, having increased our numbers, we expect to present a vastly improved sheet .-We hope to be able to give a large amount of editorial matter each week, and to furnish most, if not all of our first and second pages with original or edifying selected matter; including a "Religious Column," a "Chil-1 ... 'n Dagartmant " and an "Olio," for we

"A little nonsense now and then, Is relished by the best of men."

We trust then, in our efforts to please all, that if we come out in "Personal Adventure," he who does not admire that style, will consider that there are many in the rural districts who do, and wait patiently till the week following, when another description of our proposed variety will appear. If we speak at length in favor of education, literary associations or libraries, let them who do not favor such things (and we sincerely hope they are few) look for another issue when something concurrent with their aware Bay." And thus ends the first extastes may be published. And so may we sion. pass along; our energies being exerted for the edification and improvement of the public mind; our readers being ready to excuse occasional imperfections, in view of the conflicting tastes we have to suit, and the peculiarities of our perplexing duties.

Our motto is the same. "Neutral in Politics and Religion." We call every moral man friend, and every religious man brother; no matter what his party or to which branch of Christ's militant church his name is attached. We are glad to have observed during the last year's ubiquitous revival, the high walls of denominational prejudice, demolished; and to have seen christians of all protestant sects, shaking hands with each other in truly fraternal spirit! In the past sectional contention has effected more in building up Satan's ranks, than the greatest phalanx of infidels the world ever marshaled. Let men differ in their creeds, but let not these trivial differences make them enemies, and by their controversies, cast a shade of doubt into the minds of unconverted men, as to the genuineness of religion. No. no: but while each clings to his peculiar tenets with unrelaxed pertinacity; with an humble exemplary spirit, let each have respect for others' doctrines. Then will the example of the general church be wholesome; then will each christian possess the ability of making many happy; and happiness is a perfume which lad who was carried to Bridgeton, as an offone cannot shed over others, without drops set to our little girl which was accidently falling upon himself.

Union Prayer Meeting.

For several weeks, the 5 o'clock meeting's sic and conversation, with copenhagen, jumphave not been so well attended as formerly. We wonder how any, having waited upon this medium of spiritual enjoyment, can lie in oed with the knowledge that they are still in existence. Their continuance now, depends upon the representation of our town-people on Wednesday morning. Let there be a general congregation. Although we cannot see why these meetings should be discontinued, if "two or three" only, attend-as their is a scriptural promise to the limited number-yet if more would come, they would be interesting to more, and more profitable, doubtless.

Looking at the thing abstractly, what is more delightful these oppressive mornings, than a walk in the open air when the birds are carroling their matios, and Nature is rejoicing with universal tongue? At such an bour we are reminded of "the hills being joyful together before the Lord." As the morning dew is useful in nourishing the plants, so is God's blessing at the prayer Tuesday afternoon last, at Beebe-Run, School meeting, to the growth in grace of the christian, and when the Sun of Righteonsness shines with greater brilliancy into the hearts | unfavorable one. of his people, with the Prophet, they are able to say from experience, "they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength."

Excursions.

We feel infinite gratification in announcing to the denisens of Bridgeton and surrounding localities, that an excursion of a superior character will be given by Captain Bright of the swift Steamer Logan, on Wednesday. July 28th. Starting in the cool of the morning, provided with one of the best brass bands Philadelphia can furnish. (Willard's.) and to cap the climax, with these magnifitrips ever presented to us.

Captain David Blew and Mr. OtisBellows will have charge of the boat on the occasion, and will spare no labor nor expense to add to the pleasure of those who accompany them. Both these gentlemen are well known, and their high reputation is sufficient to give character to the excursion.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL EXCURSIONS. On Tuesday, according to announcement, Captain Wills of the Steamer Express, took and will contain eight pages and will be of on board, the smaller half of the Sunday a size suitable for binding. School scholars, with teachers and friends. The freight was not off when the rain drove the waiting crowd from the brow of the hill to take refuge in the saloon. And in this metropolis of Kansas will be the terminus of the Bentonian mammoth dream. the Pacific Railway: until the curtain of our country's golden future shall uproll and reveal its far-extending line through barren wastes to the smiling borders of she Pacific. There will be such a town as has been indicated in Kansas; and wherever this Tad-mar throbs into life and architectural beauty, it will make the first dwellers there rich. It will, moreover, in all probability, be the capital of the eastern district of Kansas, Kansas, which will of itself constitute a State, in the lapse of a very few years.-Then, next to come into the confederacy shall be the Switzer State of Western Kansas. And last of the trio, and of lugubrious aspect, will be the Sahara of the central district: through which that railroad can not be built yet-without being paid for; though, if experience and Franklin whistles be not taken into one account, it may be begun (and relinquished) as Illinois rail roads were seventeen years ago. All this may not be language of prophecy but it is earnest opinion of one, who having lived upon the sublime prairie, loves to muse of its future, "as it lies revealed in the rays of experience reflected from the recent pass of the wide and woncrous West."

So says Max Greene, who certainly has had wide experience from which to these inferences, the above quotation deals mostly upon the future existence of an inland metropolis." but at the same time shows to the reader that the Santa Fe Trade is the cause which is ' conspiring to build it." The benefits arising from the future of this dissipated or destroyed that singular but deadtrade will affect the Territory generally, but will more particularly affect that portion which may be so fortunate as to be in the proper location. As our author says, "its poison. location must be entirely a question, first, of accessibility, and then, of natural resources," so that among the several towns aspiring after the probability of being in the proper locations, it will not be a difficult matter to select the proper place when the exigencies assuredly will be in Kansas; centralizing of the times shall demand the choice. Every one supposes of course that he is in the proper region, and from various reasons analagous to those of Max Greene, your correspondent considers himself "somewhere CUMBERLAND. thereabouts."

Marine Hospital, Quarantine L. I., July 9 MR. EDITOR:-When last I wrote to you, I promised to give you farther particulars, should anything secur, but as everything passed off quietly, I did not feel like manufacturing without having the raw material to

It has been predicted by the papers and the weather wise generally, that this would be a sickly Summer. How these prophecies may turn out with regard to this part of the country, I cannot tell. One thing is true the vellow fever has never been known to make its appearance so early at Quaranting as it has this Summer. The first was the Steam Frigate Susquehannah, which put into this port in almost a helpless condition, as there was scarcely a sailor on board who had not been or already was down with the fever, in fact the only engineer who was able to perform duty, was your townsman, Mr. Fithian, a gentleman that was not only res pected by his fellow officers, but spoken well on board a Man-of-war.

All the sick that were brought on shore at this place, recovered but five. The ship still remains in the lower bay, and I think there she will stay until the frost king has ly poison which is so tenacious of life where warmth exists; in fact, frost is the only thing that has yet been known to destroy the After the Susquehannah we hoped that no more of yellow jack would make its appear ance, but soon, vessels from the West Indies began to report one, two, and sometimes more, who had died on the short passage. when the Health Officer of this port gave or ders to stop every vessel from any of those ports where the yellow fever was likely to exist, compelling them to unload here, but not allowing them to go to the city at all -Thus far the terrible scourge has approached the great Metropolis, no farther than here. Last week the Steam-tug Huntress, saw a barque off Fire Island, with colors half mast. apparently in a disabled condition. She bore down and found it was the Grotto from Lagua La Grand, bound for England, but as the Captain was sick with the yellow fever. and only two men able to work the ship, they were trying to get the ship to New York. Soon after she arrived here the Captain died with the black vomit, leaving his wife and two helpless children. The

New York papers stated that the Captain's wife was at the wheel steering the ship, but that was not so, as she denies the statement Had there a storm arose we never would have heard of the Grotto again. as all her sails were set but the royals, and there was not men enough to furl the topsails, or even clew them up. for all the strength they had was used in keeping her on her course with the wheel. Indeed it was a sad sight to see those weather beaten sailors following the Captain's wife up from the dock, hardly able to support themselves. The vessel was orbe unloaded the same afternoon.

The Ship Greenland came in port, with the Captain sick and the sailors disabled a drudge to be cast overboard; one man thought with the same disease. She was taken below by the same tug that brought her up, and before morning the Captain was dead. It seems the former Captain of the ship had Odd Fellow. lost his whole family in the West Indies, had been sick himself, and being unable to minutes; 3.12 m. order rescinded by the presi- take charge of his ship, had employed this dent; 3 25 m. cook a little queer; 3.40 m. fishing friend of his, who was mate of another ship, to take command of the Greenland, while he came home in the steamer. "My God!" said he, "what shall I tell Captain V--'s friends." But such is life on the ocean.

About one mouth ago a ship came in with terested in looking over the factor, and also in a number of passengers, among whom was a viewing a large place built for latting swine. The party must say they were surplised and pleased had died on the passage, leaving her withwith the land along the bay, being much better out one cent in the world, and just at a time

ATTENTION FARMERS! Manny's Improved PREMIUM COMBINED MOWER AND REAPER Built expressly for the State of New Jersey.

THE subscriber having assumed the Agency of Manny's Improved Mower and Reaper, is now prepared to receive orders for them, the coming season. The attention of Farmers is invited to the superiority of this Machine over all others, as it is of light draft, easily adjusted, and managed, has a reel, can be worked by either horses of exen, of great durability, free from side draft, no clogging of knives, and can be changed in one minute from Reaper to Mower.

It is supported on two wheels, which allows of its being moved from field to field, or town to town, with the case of a Cart. moyed from field to field, or town to town, with the east of a Cart.

Has a Lever at the side of the driver, by which with one hand the Knife Bar can be instantly raised in turing or backing, to clear the mown grass or to pass obstructions. This is a valuable feature, and would of itself give the "Manny" Machine the preference over all others. It is a safe Machine, the seat being back of the Knives, and not directly over them as in most Mowers. Works well on any ground free from stones or sumps, and in any kind of grass, course or fine, wet or dry. With the recent improvements it is the most perfect Machine ever constructed for Mowing and Reaping.

structed for Mowing and Reaping.

IMPROVEIMENTS.

The Improvements for 1858 are, a Castor Whoel under the tongue, by which means all the weight is taken from the horses neeks when the cutters are raised from the ground, which materially lessous the draft of the Machine—a new and simple mode of throwing out of gear, which can be done by the driver without stopping the Machine or getting from his seat.—Strengthening the Guard Fingers and also the eye of the Seythe or Cutter, rendering it impossible to break them.—a more efficient track clearer—new mode of tightening the belt without stopping the motion of the Machine.

Farmers intending to parchase a Mowing Machine the coming Season, will bear in mind that Manpy's is the standard Machine. It success, both as Mower and Reaper, in all sections of the United States, is, without precedent. It has been subject to more severe tesis in all kinds and conditions of Grass and Crain, and has been awarded more First Premiums than any other in use, including the grand first class Silver Medal for Reaper and Mower, at World's Fair, Paris, 1855, and Gold Medal, for best Mower, Paris, 1855. The First Premium of a Gold Medal at the great tril of Reaping and Mowing, had by the United States Agricultural Society at Syracuse, N. Y., in July 1357; and all the First Premiums offered by the New Jersey State Agricultural Society, at their State Fair hald at New Brunswick in 1851, viz. for best Reaper, Combined Reaper and Mower, and Mower.

Warranted to cut Grass or Grain at the rate of one acre per hour, as well as its done with Seythe or Cradle.

Price of Mower and Reaper, $135. Single Mower, $120. All orders forwarded to me, will meet with prompt actention. Order early to insure a Machine. These Machines can be seen at any time, by calling upon the subscriber, who is sole Agent for Cumberland County:

Through the solicitation of numerous friends. I am induced and have made arrangements in combination with my own manufactured work to keep on hand Philidelphia, New York and Eastern manufactured Boots & Shoes, such as Ladies', Misses and Children. Also, Gentlemen, Boys and Youth's Boots & Shoes of all grades, and at prices so low that no one will find fault with. As I am a practical boot and shoe maker, I have the advantage ever a great many in selecting good work that will give attisfaction to all. I shall sell all of my city made work at a very limited small profit, so that it will be an inducement for the public to call and buy.

Ladies city made boots and shoes with seels or without, of all description, cheaper than can be bought elsewhere for the same money; Misses and Children's Boots and Shoes at very low prices. A : I have commenced keeping Eastern made work ... connection with my own manufactory, I shall sell cheaper than any other store in Brugeton, according to quality of work. Farmers, mechanics and working men in general will do well to call on the subscriber, as I intend to keep on hand fine and coarse Boots and Shoes of all kinds. Bo they can be suited without much trouble.

From Prof. McCLOSKEY, ormerly Professor of Theory and Practice of Medicine in the Fernale Medical College of Pennsylvania, and late Professor of Surgery in the American College of Medicine, &c.

Philadelphia, Nov. 27th, 1857.

Mr. Joseph E. Hoves:—A trial of your LiQuID HAIR DYE will convince the most skeptical that it is a safe; elegant, and efficacious preparation. Unlike many others, it has in several instances proved serviceable in the cure of some cutaneous cruptions on the head, and I have no hesitation in commending it to those requiring such an application.

The Hindoo Ointment Is recommended as effectual for the removal of SPAVIN, RING-BONE, Curb, Windgalls, Thoroughpins and Callous, most of which complaints horsemen have here generally given up as incurable, except by blistering or burning, which are cruel and troublesome operations, and blemish the horse for life.

This ointment will cause a discharge of matter a few hours, and will remove even bony deposites in a short time, without breaking the skin or bringing off the hair. No horseowner should be without it, as, used according to directions, no one need despair of effecting a permanent cure. directions, no one need despan of enecting a personnel cure.

See James H. Flanigan's communication in the Pioneer of January sthe describing a surprising cure, effected by it upon a valuable horse of his.
