MARSHALL Co. ILL. Nov. 8, '58. MR EDITOR :-- We are having a long

"spell of weather," just now. For more than two weeks we have not had one clear day. The sun has managed to shine a few hours, three or four times, but the envious clouds were sure to gain the victory, and chase the brightness from the sky. Not much rain has fallen, however, just sufficient to keep the sloughs in a semi-fluid state of mud. The prairie is dreary enough now, especially beneath such a sky. Not a single green thing enlivens the landscape, as far as the eye can see. Evergreens are not found here, except in some localities near the rivers. On the shores of Like Michigan, however, they are plentiful. They would give life and beauty to the landscope in winter, which is no trifling thing; and they would assist in breaking of the force of the strong fruit, than anything else. Some persons and from the cornfields, where they find a peaches have proved an entire failure, on ac wild ducks frequent the sloughs, so that tection from the violent winds, and proper care in setting, and after treatment, more than in soil or climate. It is here as everywhere else: not one person in fifty takes proper care in setting trees and alter they are stuck into the ground, they very often receive no more attention. Can anybody expect fruit trees to do well, when treated thus? As well may we expect to grow up virtuous from Chicago, which, by the way, is the and intelligent, with no training, or advantages of education. Emma was too happy to express her joy in words; but she expressed it nevertheless and in a manner too, not to be mistaken. The next evening was spent at home by both husband and wife, and it was a season of much enjoyment. In a short time George began to realize how much comfort was to be found in a quiet and peaceful home: and the longer he enjoyed this comfort the more plainly did he see and understand the simple truth, that it takes two to make a happy home, and that if the telling him gently of a fault. The paragraph which led to the present controversy, was not a defense of lotteries found in our editorial columns, but, on the contrary, it was an article in which we denounced horse racing, that called forth his frothy i.e, which received such a settler from us as to prevent his boiling over for about two months, when he again imagined he could find something to pick at, and, fiend tal life and happiness, and to every other like, sneaked around among our advertisements and commenced the craven cry of "illegal; Grand Jury," &c. For the West Jersey Pioneer. Items of Methodist History in N. J.

Methodism was formerly recognized in N. J., at the Conference held in Philadelwhole State was included in one charge, or circuit. For two years after this circuit was formed, success attended the arduous labors of the intrepid heralds of Christ. In 1773. 200 members were returned; in 1774, 257; iu 1775, 300. In 1776, the war breaking out. Dut a temporary suspension to the revival. In 1779, the Philadelphia circuit was connected with the N. J. circuit, and was traveled by Phillip Jox, Joshua Dudley and Daniel Ruff, three of the noble sixteen who responded affirmatively to the question proposed at the preceding conference, viz: Who of the preachers are willing to take the station this conference shall place them in, and continue till next conference? A response that showed no little heroism in days of incesent toil, exposure, hard fare and light pay. But they possessed the spirit of their Master, and like Him, many of them voluntarily became poor that they might enrich others. And the numbers now enrolled under the Methodist banner, or, as included in the two conferences, shows the found ation on which they built the walls of the Methodist temple in those troublous times.

In the year 1781, the revival was glorious. God appeared for the help of the Church.-Throughout the connection, the increase this year in this country was two thousand and thirty-fige; and in the N. The Bible Expelled from the Public schools. By the influence of Rome, the Bible is officially expelled from twelve of the public schools of this city, (New York) where formerly it held a place and portions of it were read daily to the children, many of whom, probably, heard it at no other time and nowhere else But its sacred instruction in relation to moral duties, the way to immormatter of interest to man, for the benefit of individuals, families, and communities, may not now be heard within their enclo suures. As to them its light is put out rightness and moral virtue are annihilated, its pure and beautiful language, authentic histories, impressive biographies, instruc-tive parables, and matchless poetry—the Decalogue, the Sermon on the Mount, the Lord's Prayer—in a word, the whole volume with all its blessed contents, is shut out from the schools, and the children may not reckon it among the sources of their knowledge, and thus learn to reverence and to

The shameful result is not however, to be imputed wholly to the fault of Romanists. Protestants are not guiltless. They have indulged a spirit of comparative indifference. They have seen the early and latter movements of the enemy, his gradual assumptions, and adventuring upon more reprehensible deeds, and still they have withheld their action, which might have nipped the evil in the bud, and have put an effectual end to it. They have allowed the subjects of the schools to be mixed up with politics-just the very thing which the Jesuits desired, and yet the very thing they should never have yielded for a moment.— For Americans can never afford to be sepated from the Bible if a republican government is to be sustained, nor to run the risks of its dependence for power to inculcate its sacred lessons upon the chances of political parties in the game for supremacy. We take the subject, therefore, entirely out of politics. We regard it as purely a question of morals. Its bearing is alike upon all citizens. It appeals alike to all alike for support. It brings its benefits alike to all. We speak, therefore, freely as the friends of morals and good order. and earnestly hope that the Protestant citizens of our country, without regard to po-litical landmarks, platforms, parties or associations, will rally around, rescue it from its present unfortunate and wrong position, and place it where it properly belongs among moral questions, which we are sure the overwhelming majority of our nation will respect, and will sustain, against the assaults of all enemies, whenever submitted to their decision .- American & Foreign Christian Union for November.

DR. HOOFLAND'S BALSAMIC CORDIAL,

FOR THE SPEEDY CURB OF Coughs, Colis, Influenza, Croup, Hoarseness, Bron-chitis, Pneumonia, Diseases of the Bowels arising from Cold, Incipient Consumption, and for the re-tief and (if at all possible) cure of Patients in advanced stages of the latter disease. This celebrated preparation, like the Bitters, may be confidentially relied on. It designed for a class of discousting the second and more that than any other to which the people of this country are subject—those springing from a 'slight cold." That emment authority, Dr. Bell, and a 'slight cold." from a "slight cold." That eminent authority, Dr. Bell, says:

"I will not say that Colds are to our inhalitants what the Piague and Yellow Fever are to those of other countries, but I can aver confidentially that they usher in disease of greater complicity and mortality than these latter. A further proof of the terriable fatality of diseases resulting from a "common cold" may be seen by a plance at the following statistics, taken from the records of the Board of Health of Philadelphia, confessedly one of the most healthy localities in the Union:—

most healthy localities in the Union:— 1852. Total deaths in Philadelphia, Died of Consumption, 1,912 10,201 Consumption, all other diseases (250 in num-1853, Total leaths, Died of Coasimption, " ail other disease 1854. Total deaths, 11,814 Died of Consumption,

From these figures, it will be seen that nearly one fourth of the total deaths in the country are caused by consumtion, to say onthing of the numerous other discusses springing from a "slight cold."

Do not trifle with your health; but if suffering from a cough, or cold on the lungs, buy a bottle of HOOFLAND'S BALSAMIC CORDIAL.

And you may count on a cure. Thousands have done so, and have certified to its wonderful effects.

Coughs sometimes proceed from a disordered or dyspeptic state of the stomach, in which case the German Bitters should be used. In cases of weakness, or general debility of the system, resulting from a protracted cough, the German Bitters will be found of great benefit to those who use it. to those who use it.
