MY WIFE'S COUSIN.

A STORY WITH A MORAL.

Some time ago I called upon a ccusin of my wife, who resided in the city of Philadelphia. I had not seen him for a long time, but having understood that he was in affluent circumstances I was but little prepared for the condition in which I found him -Through information derived from a Philadelphia directory, I went to one of those alleys with which that city abounds, and found his name on a sign board, associated with that of another man, over a dark and dingy shop. tomed, and which has hence become to us secure the confidence of the community in prac- The sign purported that they were lock a second nature." smiths and bell-hangers; also that locks were repaired and kers fitted. As soon as it was completed he washed the dirt off from his hands, hung up his work apron, and putting on his hat and coat, re- entertained me with some music on the parmarked, in a cheer ul tone, "Come now, Cousin Aleck, let's go and see whether wife has

"Don't say a word about retirement," he replied; it nearly makes me sick to think of it. People talk of retirement from business while they are healthy and able to work; why, I tell you, Aleck, they don't know what it means. I didn't know what it meant until I tried it, but now retirement and misery sound to my cars like words of about the same meaning.

On taking my leave I realized that I had been taught a valuable lesson, that having as you would say, a compense I made up my mind to stor mark and ago, that having as you would say, a competency, I made up my mind to stop work and move into the country. So I sold out my share of the business to my partner, stopped a year or more in looking at two or three score of country places, and at last found one that wife and myslef were considerably pleas-

I was not long, though, in making the discovery that I had no genius, or taste either, for digging round roots or pulling up weeds; and as wife didn't wish the garden to run to waste, I employed a regular English gardener to carry the thing regularly through. "Well. I didn't mind the expense he put me to, but somehow I felt out of gearing in not having the right kind of employment. We select the following beautiful picture from a recently published address of Richard V. Cook, Esq., of Columbus, Texas, on the "Education and Influence of Woman." It will touch the heart of the reader. We seldom stumble upon so well-expressed an idea of woman's true mission: I fancy a young man just emerging from

The majesty of simple forms is resistless. We are charmed with Webster's manner of "popping the question;" it is so extempore, and the occasion so opportune, that were the accessity ours, we might devise something like it. Whether the story is authentic, or not, is of no consequence. Occasions as favorable occur to all; but—oh! but is in the way. So, the matter is defer-red; and the poor lover goes home ashamed

The hardest situation for a grumbler be in, is to feel like grumbling, and having nothing to grumble at.

The Duke of Wellington. "Is not gaining a great victory the most glorious thing in the world?" observed a lady, to the Duke of Wellington, at the time of the occupation of Paris by the allies. The Duke replied, "It is the greatest of all calamities, except a defeat."

"The neighbors also came out to see Christian run, and as he ran, some mocked others threatened, and some cried atter him to return, and, among those that did so, there were two that resolved to fetch him back by force, the name of the one was Obtinate, and the name of the other Pliable. Obstinate.-What are the things you seek, since you leave all the world to find them? Oh! rest quite sure, Christian, a hard thing, an unloving thing from God toward one of his own people is quite impossible. He is kind to you when he casts you into prison as when he takes you into a palace. He is as good when he sends famine into your house as when he fills your barns with plenty. The only question is, Art thou his child? If so, he hath rebuked thee in affection, and there is love in his chastisement.

In my thoughtful wanderings through the world, I have marked one folly, the pleasure of which I have been totally unable to discern. I see it every day, I hear it every hour, I meet it at every turn, yet cannot find for it a motive or an aim; neither a fitness to gratify any known feeling in the bosom of many who pursue it. I mean the love dress. And what will those who so much indulge in it think of the mistake, when, their years told out, and about to be no more. they look back and say, "Ten hours, eight hours, six, five of each one of my numbered days, have I expended in clothing and adorn ing my body, now about to perish, naked and loathsome, in the dust?"-Listener.

How to Punish those who injura Adin Ballou tells the following anecdote: A worthy old colored woman, in the city of New York, was one day walking along the street, quietly smoking her pips. A jovial sailor, rendered a little mischievous by liquor, came sawing down, and when opposite the old woman, saucily pushed her aside, and with a pass of his hand knocked the pips out of her mouth. He then halted to hear her fret at his trick, and to enjoy a laugh at her expense. But what was his astonishment when she mockly picked up the pieces of her broken pipe, without the least resentment in her manner, and giving him a digni-fied look of mingled sorrow, kindness and pity, said, "God forgive you, my son, as I do." It touched a tender chord in the heart of the per draw customers, pay notes, and make in up to your neck, dragging the affrighted creditors better natured? Were we to survey the chambers of sickness and distress, we should often find them peopled with the victims of intemperance and sensuality, and with the children of vicious indolence and sloth. Among the thousands who languish there, we should find the proportion of innocent sufferers to be small We should see faded youth, premature old age, and the prospect of an untimely grave to be the portion of multitudes, who, in one way or other, have brought those evils on themselves; while yet these martyrs of vice and folly, have the assurance to arraige the hard fate of man, and to "fret against the Lord."-Blair.

Cowper's Dwelling.

Speaking of the old dwelling at Olney, after they had left it, "Never," says he, "did I see so forlorn and wooful a spectacle. Doserted of its inhabitants, it seemed as if it could never be dwelt in forever. The coliness of it. the dreariness and the dirt, made me think it no unapt resemblance of a soul that God had forsaken. While He dwelt in it, and manifested Himself there, He could create his own accommodations, and give it occasionally the appearance of a palace; but Him all the furniture and embellishment of image of desolation. - Cheever's Cowper.

Suffering for Conscience sake. We concur, unquestionably, in customs, through the fear of being reputed singular, of which our hearts do not always approve; though nothing is more true than that a Christian is expected to be singular with respect to the corruptions of the world. What an immensity of good would be done, if cases of persons, choosing rather to suffer than to temporize, were so numerous as to attract the general notice of men! Would not every case of suffering operate as one of the most forcible lessons that could be given, to those who should see it! And how long would that infamous system have to live, which makes a distinction between political expediency and moral right.—Thomas Clarkson.

JAMES B. FERGUSON,-Breves.

By divine permission, Rev. Mr. Harris will preach at the Alms House on Sunday, the 30th inst., at 8 o'clock, The State Debt-How it Shall be Paid. By the official report, it appears that the State has incurred a debt of more than one hundred and fifty thousand dollars, in violation of the constitution which fixes one hundred thousand dollars as the limit permitted to involve the State in debt. But a few years ago, we boasted that our State was out of debt, and in possession of a full tressury. What especial mismanagement or extravagance has brought about this change, we will not pretend to say. The leading measure of the Normal School, the prosecution of the Geological Survey, unfortunately only partially unished, the distribution of Gazetteers and Dictionaries to the Schools, the enlargement and repair of the Prison and Asylum, and the appropriations to Schools, are all ey. But that these are not the necessary the annual message of the Governor. He and initiate a system of rigid economy in all amply sufficient to defray our current expenses." He proposes to throw the cost of prosecuting prisoners, and supporting Lunatics. an the different counties; to curtail the amount for public printing, and to give to all State officers fixed salaries; by which he thinks a saving of fifty-thousand dollars annually would be accomplished. In all cases where prisoners are convicted, and sent to Prison, we supposed the "cost" was paid out of their earnings. Prisoners in the county jails will continue to be a tax on the community, until some more efficient system, embracing a work-house, is adopted. With certain compelled to labor during the time, and earn their own living, the number would probably be very materially diminished. It is but reasonable that each county should support its own Lunatics. The expense of each seasion of the legislature is from fourteen to twenty thousand dollars a year. In some of the States it is the practice to have but one session in two years. It is a question whether such a policy would not be of advantage to this State. Our territory is small, and the interests of the different sections not so intervention. We see no reason why forty or after days legislation every alternate year. would not be amply sufficient for all our wants. If this could be accomplished, an annual saving of from ten to fifteen thousand dollars would be effected; and the members being elected for two years instead of one, could reap quite as much glory, and, if we are not mistaken, really as much pecuniary profit. It is galling to our State pride to be in debt, and we should rather put up with the inconvenience of biennial sessions of the legislature, and be out of debt, if that would accomplish it. Every dictate of sound policy would suggest that the current expenditures of each year ought not to be allowed to exceed the receipts, upless something in the future promised a certain remuneration for the outlay. Where such deficiencies arise, it is unquestionably much wiser policy to meet them by a direct tax, abnoxious as that is, than to allow these annually deficiencies to increase until a tax will be required to pay the interest. That the tendency of publie debt is to increase, needs no further illustration than is furnished by the census of New York and Philadelphia, where a heavy tax is required to meet the interest on the debt. So long as no debt is created, there is a feeling of reluctance against creating one; but after a debt is contracted, there seems to be but little scruple against increasing it more. We go for checking it before it gets any larger. Let the measures of reform recommended be carried out, and a tax of thirty thousand dollars be levied annually, until we again have a surplus in the treasury. This sum distributed as a capitation tax, would

Were we to give a receipt for rendering every neighborhood a comparative paradise. it would be "speak well of others." Short as it may appear and simple as it seems. if universally adopted, it would be found omnipotent for good and productive of untold happiness. But how often are we pained to find the opposite disposition indulged. In almost every neighborhood the vile slauderer may be found sowing the seeds of pain and sorrow. The hard-earned reputation of the gray-haired sire is frequently assailed, the brilliant prospects of the ambitious youth are darkened, and the fond hones of the virtuous maiden are often blasted by the withering remarks of the malicious caluminator. None, it is true, are entirely faultless, and we may, with as much truth, remark, there are none so bad but what they possess some good qualities, and, as charitable beinge, it is our duty to speak only of them, unless we do it privately to the erring one. For the West Jersey Pioncer. Report made before the Bowentown Farmers Club.

Mr. President and Gentlemen:-At your request I make the following statement, giving my experience in the manufacture of Mo lasses from the Chinese Sugar Cane. In 18 57, I made forty gallons of poor molasses, which cost me 35 cts. per gallon. I boiled it in iron pots, and the rust from the iron had a tendency to make the Molasses bitter. Notwithstanding, I thought this very good and defermined to try it on a larger scale the following year. I accordingly purchased a second hand horse power and crushing mill, for sixty dollars; two flat bottom tin pans, three ft. long by two ft. wide, and ten inches deep, for three dollars each. Then built a cheap brick furnace to suit, costing three dollars more, making in all, sixty-nine dollars. On the 11th of October 1858, I commenced operations with a boy and a horse to crush the cane. I manufactured twentyfive gallons of Molasses per day, burning one eigth of a cord of pine wood. In this way I have made during the past season, nine hundred gallons of good Molasses. A large portion has been made for my neighbors, at

In 1857, the manufacturers charged 40 cts per gallon for making the Molasses; in '58, two years experience and improvement in ai customary. machinery, the coming season will show rapid progress in perfecting and also in reducing the cost of manufacturing home made Molarses.

Inexperienced persons who intend grow ing cans the coming sesson, should be in formed that small stalks are deficient both in quantity and quality of juice; therefore it is best to manure well, and raise large stalks The rows should be four feet one way, and two and a half to three feet the other, and not more than three or four stalks to the hill. In this way, two gallons of Molasses to the square rod can be made, or three hundred to three hundred and fifty per acre. The cane stalks are very heavy; therefore arrange ments should be made to have the cane grown as near the mill as possible, to save the expense of hauling. Good cane, when crushed, produces half its weight in juice, and four to five gallons make one gallon of molasses. The cane should be thoroughly ripe, and if not then manufactured, should be cut and set up in stacks, before the frost comes, and in this way will keep until cold winter weather. The seed is worth about as much as oats to mix with corn for feed.

I would reccommend farmers to plant half an acre each, to supply themselves and hired helo with sweetening; thus, in the aggregate, saving a vast amount of money to our country, that would otherwise be sent abroad.

Fall and Winter Clothing!!

J. BATES, feels it due to his numerous patrons, to renthe past year. Notwithstanding the extraordinary regulsions in the monetary affairs of warranting all we sell to prove as represented, and faely extensing garments that do not suit, has secured to uswethink, the large patronage we hape received. We shall endeave to confine our business as hear to Cash as jossible, at the same time we are willing to grant to those of our customers who have heretofore paid us promptly, the usual credit at Cash prices. Fall and Winter Clothing!!

CUSTOMER DEPARTMENT. We have now on hand a very large and complete assorting the Cooks, suitable for Overcoats, also fine goods for Finder Coats, Bissiness Coats, &c. Also, a complete stock of Black and Fancy Cassimeros with our usual large assortment of fancy and plain vestings, the very choicest goods the market affords. Garments will at all times be made at the shortest notice, and warranted to please.

Ready Made Clothing. Our Stock this Fail will be found to contain an unusually largeand superior assortment of fine goods. We have been enabled to take advantage of the depressed state of the market and secure a full and complete asortment at greatly reduced prices, we now think no house in the trade can offer greater inducements than we can to those who desire to purchase good and well made goods. For there is no economy in purchasing an inferior quality of Roady Made Clothing.

We keep a full assortment of Boys' Clothing, and we think our styles of Boys' Garments cannet fail to please. We can at all times fit Boys from six to sixteen years old. Our assortment of all the various styles of shirts, collars undershirts, drawers suspenders, gloves, handkerchiefs, stocks, ties, sashes, &c., is most complete. We shall be happy at all times to show our goods, considering it no trouble; all ought to look before purchasing, and we are willing to help post them. FURNISHING DEPARTMENT.

HAT AND CAP DEPARTMENT. We have a full and complete assortinent of all the different styles and shades of soft hats and cups for men's and boys' wear.

Deficiency of Porspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and and Fres. Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, &c., Sudden Flushes of Reat, Bursing in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil and Great Depression of Spirits.

The proprietors, in calling the attention of the public to this preparation, do so with a feeling of the utmost confidence in its virtues and adaptation to the diseases for which it is recommended.

It is no new and untried article, but one that has stood the test of a ten year's trial before the American peeple, and its reputation and sale are unrivalled by any similar preparation extant. The testimony in its favor given by prominent and well known Physicians and individuals in all parts of the country is immense, and a careful perusal all parts of the country is immense, and a careful perusal styte of the Almanac, published annually by the proprietor, and to be had gratts of any of his Agents, cannot but satisfy the most skeptical that this remedy is really deserving the great celebrity it has obtained.

Coughs, Colls, Influenza, Croup, Hoarseness, Bron chilis, Pneumania, Diseases of the Bowels arising from Cold, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief and (if at all possible) cure of Patients in advanced stages of the latter disease. This celebrated preparation, like the Bitters, may be confidentially relied on. It is designed for a class of diseases more general and more fatal than any other to which the people of this country are subject—those springing from a "slight cold." That eminent authority, Dr. Bell, 8118; "I will not say that Colds are to our inhabitants what the Plague and Yellow Fever are to those of other coun-tries; but I can aver confidentially that they usher in dis-ease of greater complicity and mortality than these latter. Do not trifle with your health; but if suffering from a cough, or cold on the lungs, buy a bottle of HOOFLAND'S BALSAMIC CORDIAL, And you may count on a cure. Theusands have done so, and have certified to its wonderful effects.

Coughs sometimes proceed from a disordered or dyspeptic state of the stomach, in which case the German Bitters should be used. In cases of weakness, or general debility of the system, resulting from a protracted cough, the German Bitters will be found of great benefit to those who use it. to those who use it.

Pronouncing Gazetteer OF THE WORLD: On GEOGRAPHICAL DICTIONARY. Comprises nearly 2200 Royal Octavo Pages, and gives a Deserpiton of Nearly One Hundred Thousand Places, with the Correct Pronunciation of their names, both in their Native and Foreign I anguages, a feature never attempted in any other work, together with the Classical Names of all ancient places, so far as they can be accurately ascertained from the best Authorities. Edite 1 by J. THOMPSCN, M. D., and T. BALDWIN.

TESTIMONIALS. From the Hon. EDWARD EVERETT. I have no doubt your Gazetteer will be found an extremely useful work, well calculated to supply a want which must have been severly felt by almost every class of roaders." of readers."

On the subject of geographical orthography and orthoepy, the is not the best, but the only systematic work with which I am acquainted. The principles propounded in the "Introduction" are founded on a thorough and extensive knowledge of the subject, so far as I am capable of judging. Their application in the body of the work appears to me judicious and successful. In examining this portion of the work, I have received an indirect and incidental, but very strong impression of its Great Superiority in Fulness and Accuracy to any dictionary of geography with which I am acquainted."

The B. Great Projection of Brown University From Dr, B. Sears, President of Brown University

From Dr. D. Sears, resident of from conversely tour work must prove an invaluable guide to the student of geography, and if generally adopted could not fail to remove that discrapancy and confusion which now so generally previl in regard to the pronunciation of geographical names." ographical names."

From C. E. Stowe, Professor of Sacred Literature in Andover Theological Seminary.

This is a great work, and executed with immense labor and consumate ability. It would be difficult to find another volume in the English language which contains in the same space, an equal amount of important, well-digested, and clearly expressed information. The Pronunciation and the Etymological Vocabulary are new features in a work of this kind, and the first is as convenient and useful as the last is learned and curious. In these days of stirring events and newspaper circulation, I see not how the office or the counting room, the family or the school, can anywhere afford to do without this book."

From Prof. David N. BUCKEYE POTATOES. 11,514 Planted in Monmouth County, in the Spring of 1869 This new variety of Potatoes was first introduced and planted in Monmouth County, n the Spring of 1857, the success which attended their first planting, was so remarkable that nearly the whole product of that year was acuth and planted by farmers in different sections of the County the following year, and the demand so great that an additional supply was necessary, and large quantities were again brought from other localities, to supply that demand. The puality of the Potato is such that it has aiready taken its place among the Standard varieties, and must eventually supercede all other older varieties, and must eventually supercede all other older varieties, on account of their productiveness and good quality—They are an early variety, ripening sufficiently early to enable the farmer to dig them in time to propare his ground in time to sow wheat and other grain. Another feature in favor of these potatoes is, they have never been known to be affected by the rot or blight, and where other varieties have been affected by the rot and fallen far short of an average crop, they have uot only escaped, but abundantly rewarded the farmer for his labor, and the demand is still on the increase. They seem adapted to all kinds of soil where it is proper to grow potatoes, but their yield will vary according to the quality of the seil, and on the same ground where the Mercer have yielded but 50 tushels per acre, these have yielded 150 to 276 bushels per acre, with the same attention, and in some instances to bushels have been produced.

The "Buckeyes" took the first premium at the Monmouth County Agricultural Fair, and at the State Fair 4.

NOTICE.

FARMERS wanting Buckeye Potatoes for seed, will please procure them by the 20th of December of Dec. 18 tf.
