CHOICE POETRY.

The Spring-The Morning of Life.

Sweet is the time of Spring, When Nature's charms appear; The birds with censeless pleasure sing

And hail the opening year. But sweeter far the spring Of wisdom and of grace,

Who loves the youthful race. Sweet is the dawn of day, When light just streaks the sky; When shades and darkness pass away,

And morning's beams are nigh:

When children bless and praise their King.

But sweeter far the dawn ()f piety and you:i; When doubt and darkness are withdrawn,

B fore the light of Truth. Sweet is the early dew

Which gilds the mountain's tops. And decks each plant and flower we view, With pearly glittering grops;

But sweeter far the scene On Zion's holy hill; When there the dew of youth is seen, Its freshness to distil.

Sweet is the opening flower Which just begins to bloom. Which every day and every hour Fresh beauties will assume:

But sweeter that young heart, When faith and love, and peace, Blossom and bloom in every part . With sweet and varried grace.

Oh, may life's carly spring And morning, ere they flee, Youth's dew, and its fair blossoming, Be given, my God, to thec.

When she had reached the spirit shop, its intelligent boy of thirteen, stood behind the counter, playing with his little sister. Mary asked for the rum with a faltering voice, and as she offered the jug, our young tradesman, looking upon her with mingled contempt and pity, said, "What does your mother drink rum for?" Mary felt ashamed, and looked so sad, that the boy was sorry for what he had said. He gave her the liquor, and tied up the scanty allowance of meal; and Mary, with a heavy heart, and hasty step, proceeded on her way. Though once a strong and active man, so degraded had he become, that few persons were willing to employ him; and he resorted to picking cranberries as the only means left him, of obtaining what his ppetite so imperiously demanded.

On entering the room, and seeing the state his wife was in, he uttered a loud curse, and at the same time bade Mary leave the crying child, that his entrance had awakened, put on her bonnet, and hasten to the village to, sell the crauberries, and on her return call at the yellow shop.

As to the profit of farmers' raising their own sweetening, with so small amount of labor have the seeds of pride and vanity been sown and expense as is required, there can be no in the artless minds of children, by the conand expense as is required, there can be no dispute whatever. I do believe that the Chinese Sugar Cane can be raised and manufactured into molassos, for fifteen or twenty cts. per gailon, and the refuse stalks make expellent fodder or manure. In this section of country, I think it ought to be planted by the first of May, on as light a soil as possible --Poudrette in the hill before planting, is very | dress, than all their efforts can eradicate for good for starting it. Care should be taken years. We grow up with a desire for admiin gotting pure seed, and not plant near Broomcorn. It has a rapid growth, and where the soil is good, and will sucker very much, the suckers must be pulled off, and thinned out to three or four stalks in the hill. The larger the stalks, and the earlier it ripens, the more sweetening it contains. If every farmer would raise a half acre, or such a matter of good Cane, it would supply bim with sweetening for a year or more. -Try it, farmers! Having taken considerable pains to inform myself in regard to the most improved plans for the construction of sugar Mills, and having tried and seen several different kinds, I have come to the conclusion that Henry Meyer's patent, with the improvement he bas lately attached to it, will far surpass any thing of the kind; it works like a charm; it answers for so many different purposes, and comes so cheap, that any farmer can purchase one of them, and can manufacture his own sweetening, with a great deal more profit, and less trouble, than he can raise his pork. The boiling of the juice to Molasses is very simple and cheap, and I am certain that there can be as good Molasses made from the Chinese Sugar Cine, as any (or the best) New Orleans Molasses.

Duty of Christian Women in Regard to Dress. It has been often said that dress is an index of the mind, and that by it, we can in some degree, determine the character .-Whether this remark be true or not, or not necessary now to determine. That dress has a great influence on the mind, that it goes far in the formation of character, is a fact too evident to be coubted. How often duct of their injudicious mothers and friends, in dressing up their children like dolls, admiring their beautiful clothes, and at the same time telling them not to be too proud. Such mothers little think of the injury they are doing their children; that they are laying up food for repentance at a future day; that they are doing more to encourage the feelings of pride, the love of ration, and we are trained to think that much depends upon our personal appearance. Hence the constant effort to outvie each other in the costliness of our dress.-Hence our love for the never-ending changes of fashion. This desire for admiration grows with our growth, and strengthen with our strength; and even when the mind has become subjected to the influence of picty, such is the strength of early impressions, it still haves upon us, like a dead weight, drawing us continually into the vortex of folly and fashion. Strange inconsistency, that Christian females, professedly following the example of our self denying, suffering Savier, should ever allow themselves to put on the livery and trappings of the ungodly! I would direct the attention of Christian women to the preposterous fashions of the present day, and ask them if they think it consistent with their profession, to adopt them as their own? Have we not proof that these fashions are the offspring of poliuted, degraded minds? It is fact well known, that we are indebted to the poor abandoned milliners, and mantuamakers of Paris, for most of these absurd and unnatural tashions. I would venture to assert that the present indelicate mode of lress, will go far to swell the tide of licentiousness now rolling over our land. I say this with more confidence, because I see Christian women, professedly friends of moral reform, adopting it, and showing by their example, that they approve of it. I call upon them to examine this subject, and see if by such a course, they are not leading The following is an incident in the life still farther from the paths of peace, the guilty and abandoned, whom they would wish to reclaim. I call upon mothers to warch over their daughters in this respect, dress, which an enlightened christian conscience cannot approve. Let us remember that we are living for other scenes; that soon the trifles and follies of life which now seem so important, will appear lighter than bilities are tremendous; even a word or a look may tell on cternity, on the destruc-tion of some immortal soul. How important then, that our practice does not give the lie to our profession! Let us take the direction of an inspired apostle for our guide. "Whose adorning, let it not be that out-ward adorning of plaiting the hair, of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel, but let it be that inward adorning of the heart, the ornament of a meck, and quiet spirit, which in the sight of God, is of great price.

TRAVEL TO PHILADELPHIA. In making use of the above caption, we do not wish to be understood as advising all the inhabitants of Bridgeton, approximating 5000 to travel to Philadelphia, much less to advise all the readers of the Pioneer (who number far more than all the inhabitants of this place) to travel to the city of Brotherly invested in the enterprise, will purchase the Love; but as there are scores and hundreds in this section of the State, who frequently visit the city, to make purchases, we would recommend them to such establishments as they will find to their advantage to patronize.

The question need no longer be asked, less than five stages leaving here daily, and sceptical. five returning every day, capable of carrying more than 50 passengers each way.

The first thing after arriving in the city, is to find a convenient and desirable hotel.-We would recommend the Ridgeway House, foot of Market St., kept by Mr. M. Williams, or the Arch St. House, foot of Arch St., by Mr. Chas. Locke. Both of these Hotels will be found desirable quarters for Jerseymen, the proprietors being gentlemen highly worthy the liberal patronage they receive.

If our friends who visit the city be mer chants, and desire to lay in a good supply of Groceries, there is no better place in Philadelphia than the wholesale Grocery and Tea Store of Vanderveer & Archer, No. 3 Market St., adjoining the Ridgeway Hotel .-Having an acquaintance with the proprietors, we can recommend them to the country merchants, assuring all who patronize them, that they will be treated in a gentlemanly manner, and find their goods unsurpasseed in the city, for quality and price.

Those of our fair readers who purchase their millinery in the city, are reminded that the Misses Farrow, No. 12 South Second st., are prepared to accommodate all who may favor them with a call. Their stock of millinery is extensive, varied, and of the best and most desirable quality. We advise all the fair ones to call and purchase "a love of a bonnet" done up in the most beautiful and approved style.

Those who purchase Jewelry in the city, will find a number of establishments advertablished and reliable. Messrs. James E. the Gift enterprise, advertised in the Pioneer for the past eighteen months. We were not aware, until a short time since, that Mr. Broomall had given up the enterprise, and was refunding the money to all who preferred it to Jewelry, from his store. The question had frequently been asked us, by our readers, if we believed the enterprise was a fair one, and the originator an honest man, they not being acquainted with him. We would now inform those who invested money by purchasing shares in the enterprise, that they can obtain it every cent, by a simple request; we hope, however, all who may have amount in Gold or Silver ware, at his store, which is one of the best in Philadelphia. The Dining Saloon, and Bakery, of Messrs. Brooks, in Second St., below Chestnut, is also an excellent place to procure good meals, at all hours of the day. Canadian Correspondence. MR. EDITOR:-Seeing you had letters from Kansas, from the cities, from Europe, and from various others, as well as from writers at home, to fill your excellent paper with news and sentiments, I have endeavored to forbear for a time. Perhaps this, coming so soon, may take you by surprise, since none may be anxious for its continuance. I need not then make the apology that friends usually do for procrastination.

Having left Toronto, I am literally "going down East." towards Kingston. The province of Canada, so spacious and lengthy, is here so narrow that the inhabited part seems scarce sufficient, as it were, to hold the eastern and western portions of it together .-The land here is full of "short hills" and barren ridges; the people in many places destitute of the spirit and elements of improvement. Three or four years ago wheat was plenty and of high price; then money was plenty in every rustic's pockt; now, only the opulent have it at all. We cannot live as we like, (scarce wed as we like) nor die as we like. Dr. C. M. Jackson. Dear Sir.—Having received great benefit from the use of Hoofland's German Bitters, I think it my duty as a friend of manking, to let them know it. I had for years been afflicted with Dyspepsia, arising from an affection of the Liver and derangement of the stomach. I was under the care of the Physicians of this vicinity, but obtained no relief. I was induced through the advice of a friend, to commence the use of your Bitters, and took faithfully according to directions, three bottles, which entirely cured me, and I now find myself mas good health as I have ever epicyed. Respectfully yours.

A disease called "Breaking Out," is now afflicting thousands. It first appears upon the arms or legs, and if not arrestee spreads over the whole body. It is none other than the Seven Yrans Iron. The experience of the past four years proves that the only sure cure for it is Dr. BARNES TICH OINTMENT. Many persons have an erroneous idea that fifth produces the tech. A person may bathe every morning for a year, and during the time daily change their clothing, after the expiration of the year come in contact with the disease and contract it.—
